Fine Fall Weather Speeds Harvesting

So far this fall the weather man has co-operated beautifully with the farmers by providing almost perfect weather for harvest. One farmer of many year's experience has said he can't remember a fall when weather conditions were any better during the harvest.

Farmers have been taking advantage of the fine weather to get the crops combined as rapidly as possible and the list of those who are finished is growing each day.

First reports of farmers who had finished started coming in last week and each day this week will see many more winding up. This is what all the work during the past months has been timed at, getting the grain into storage where it will not be damaged by some quirk in the weather

For more than a month now the sun has shone almost every day, and there has been very little precipitation. The words have become quote forceful at times and some crop damage, especially rape, has been reported, caused by winds moving the swaths and shelling the grain. Very little of this damage has occurred to wheat, which is the main crop in this area.

Many farmers have been pleasantly surprised by the amount of wheat which they are getting, as many had expected to harvest a below-average crop. Yields have run above 40 bushels per acre in some cases and it is thought that the wheat crop locally will be at least as good as the average of the past years.

It appears that quite a few farmers underestimated the size of their crops, as there has been a rush to buy granaries, and some dealers have said that they are unable to meet the demand for both metal & wooden bins.

100 Years of Music To Show at Viking

One hundre years of Musical Comedy is just that, a sparkling, lilting, humorous survey of the musical stage hits of the past 100 years.

This is what fans will be treated to at Viking on September 19th, in the school auditorium at 8:00 p.m.

Beginning with the Victorian era and the triumphs of Gilbert and Sullivan, it includes works by Victor Herbert, Gershwin, Rodgers and Hart, Irving Berlin, all the great comedy song writers of a century

Light Opera, Rose Marie, Showboat and others, and today's stage hits like Hello Dolly, are all included in the performance.

The cast is a galaxy of outstanding Canadian artists — Harry Mansfield, Karl Norman, Shirley Millicer, Betty Phillips, Rose Laidley and Pearl Mansfield.

It's an exciting, stimulating and entertaining performance for any who love the songs and humour of musical comedy. It's really the best of musical comedy. Don't miss it.

Agriculture's Role!

We hear so much these days about the importance of petroleum, industry and manufacturing to the economic well-being of Canada that many of us have lost sight of the vital importance of agriculture. It was refreshing therefore to hear the voice of Dean Bentley of the Faculty of Agriculture at the University of Alberta say that agriculture in the past 100 years has played a greater role in the establishment and development of Canada than any other major sector of the economy. It has, he says, increased production per worker ten times, and this is almost twice the productivity increase of the rest of the economy as a whole.

Canadian agriculture's productivity per worker between years 1949 and 1966 increased 175 percent, and is more than agricultural productivity increase of any of the 18 countries in the Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development, which only had an average productivity increase of 145 percent. In spite of this the Canadian economy as a whole grew the slowest of any of the eighteen countries studied. During the same period, productivity for all Canadian wokers rose only 118 percent, compared to 139 for the other eighteen countries. It's obvious therefore that a large part of Canada's increased productivity per worker during the ten year period resulted from the outstanding performance of agriculture.

An interesting measure of the increased productivity of Canadian farmers is that in the 20 years between 1946 and 1966 the number of farm workers in the labor force declined from 26 to 7.6 percent, caused most possibly because of increased efficiency on farms. The stages in this development have been, mechanization, use of chemicals and fertilizers, improvements in plants and animals through genetics and nutrition, business management and new methods of processing and preserving foods.

Likewise there are developments which likely will revolutionize agriculture in the next 20 to 30 years. Some of these are the elimination of "boom and bust" agricultural cycles through more even production and marketing; weather modification and more reliable forecasting; non-lodging grain varieties yielding 50 percent more than current varieties; more effective and specific weed and pest control without residue hazards; grains markedly more nutritious as feeds and foods. All these are on the drawing board and promise a bright future for agriculture.

An Average Crop!

Many farmers are winding up harvest operations this week of what is now considered an average or better crop. Reports indicate that many wheat fields are running at 40 and better bushels per acre. This is certainly true, if the building of new grain bins is any indication. There are more bins being hastily built at present than in some years. This can only mean that there is lots of grain to be put in storage pending the capability of the market to accept it.

While the storage problem is one which must be met, reports have been given by District Agriculturists that there is a danger here, and that there are rules which should be followed. One of these is that children should never be allowed in bins which are being filled with grain, and when being emptied. Three farm youngsters have died of suffocation in grain bins this fall in separate accidents. They were dragged down into the cone that is formed when grain augers are used to empty a bin. Grain unloads from the top first, falling into the cone above the auger intake. Even a full grown man would not have strength enough to get out of this situation without help. Any person could be dragged right into the auger. The answer is to stay out of grain bins when being filled or emptied.

What's Wrong With Us?

It has long been an established fact that this area of the Province, that is, that portion ranging from Stettler to Viking and Camrose to Provost, is one of the most stable and consistent parts of Alberta so far as agriculture, stock raising and local economy is concerned. It also has never had to take a back seat to any other provincial section in the sports field & in cultural activities and economic stability. Yet in spite of this, it has seemed to us for some time that the area is neglected, not only by government, but more particularly by roving reporters and writers on economics, etc. in the daily newspapers. It is the policy of daily papers, more especially the Edmonton Journal to send reporters into various sections of Northern Alberta to keep tab on proceedings and to "play up" the various assets of any chosen part of the province. The only time this area is mentioned is when there is the possibility of scandal or controversy of some nature; something dailies can grab hold of, build up and publicize as something sensational.

When the grain hauling situation erupted locally, the dailies were on the job at once, not so much to help the situation, as to find something wrong and play it up, seeking to find someone to put the finger on. There are many things in this area which are good, fine, and deserving of publicity, and we invite our reporters from the dailies to take a positive look at us once in a while and not expend all their activities on sections of Alberta no more progressive than this.

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

by A.C.E.

Often when governments try to regulate the end result turns out to be somewhat different than intended. A good example of this is the minimum wage laws. An increase, on the surface, would appear to be to the benefit of those people in the lower income areas, but this is not necessarily true. A business can only afford to pay out so much for labor and then something must give. An increase in the minimum wage often forces an increase for all employees right up the line and then management starts looking for ways to cut down on the size of its labor force, and who gets cut? Naturally the most expendable people and these are the ones at the bottom of the totem pole: the ones being paid the minimum wage So instead of relieving an inequity it seems as the government intended; they find themselves with no income. Recently in the U.S.A. the minimum wage was raised and six months later when the government did a survey on the results it found that many businesses (especially small ones) had been forced to lay off the very people that were supposed to benefit; the unskilled, the untrained, the handicaped, etc. who couldn't produce enough to earn the high new minimum wage.

It is said that Wallace is becoming a wee p' illie for many people. Did you hear about the lady who phoned the Fire Department and asked for a new crib for her baby. "What is the baby doing with the crib?" asked the man. "The box my color TV came in" was the answer.

MARKED FOR LIFE

A troubling aspect of our system of justice is that once a person has committed a fairly serious crime, society never really forgets, even though he has served his sentence & gone straight.

Two recent cases have shown how unfair this can be. There have been demands that the system be changed and it seems likely the federal government will act in the near future.

The first case involved Murray Tait, a newly-elected councillor in New Waterford, N.S., who discovered because it was discovered he had been fined $200 for stealing a car in Toronto ten years ago.

The latest involved Frank Howard, the respected member of Parliament for the British Columbia riding of Skeena, who was charged by a blackmail threat to disclose that he had served a term in prison for armed robbery 25 years ago.

Mr. Howard will not be forced to give up his seat in the House of Commons since there is no rule that prevents a person from becoming an MP after completing his term in prison.

Mr. Tait was disqualified from serving on council under a provincial law that prevents anyone ever so convicted from holding office.

To many Canadians it seems barbaric that a man should continue to be punished for years for a mistake he made when he was a youngster — both Mr. Howard and Mr. Tait were in their teens.

It's also illogical. For if our penal system is supposed to be devoted to rehabilitation as well as punishment, then once a man or a time when a person can be considered rehabilitated.

The details can be worked out by government authorities but the principle should be generally supported — that a person who has stayed out of trouble for a certain number of years paying his debt to society should be pardoned.

Mr. Howard is a living example of the reason for such change. He admits he was something of a juvenile delinquent as a child, and adds that he is not proud of his armed robbery conviction.

But he describes his prison term as "the best lesson I ever learned." And that has been proved by his useful service to the country, first as a woodworkers union official and later as a member of the B.C. Legislature and the Commons. —Wainwright Star-Chronicle.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Ontario Is Important

OTTAWA — Ontario, as residents of most other provinces are aware, is never unduly modest about the impact of its actions on the rest of Canada.

When Premier Roberts recently announced the government's intention to establish a French language high school system in Ontario, he characteristically viewed his decision in a nationwide context:

"The cause today is no less than ensuring the survival of our young and dynamic country," said Mr. Robarts. And he emphasized 'the commitment by the government of Ontario to ensure the continued existence of Canada and that it be the national house and the single voice of every Canadian citizen."

No matter how galling this pasture of pre-eminence may be to some, it can hardly be disputed that in this instance Mr. Roberts was not overstating his case.

What Ontario does IS important to the rest of Canada. And what it does in the area of French - English relations is of particular importance. No matter how diligently the Federal Government seeks to promote the French and English he many, constitutional limitations have always prevented it from acting in key areas such as education.

In the early years of Confederation, hostile action by Ontario towards French instruction in the province did as much as anything to sow the seeds of distrust and create the inequities that still exist.

If Mr. Roberts now sees himself as the Saviour of Confederation, he shouldn't be surprised if he gets the reaction, "It's about time". But having said that, most Canadians should then offer him whatever support and goodwill they can.

Certainly the Ontario Premier has backed up his words with action. Besides the pledge to provide French language high schools, he has managed also to organize a Confederation for Tomorrow Conference.

Both these actions have won him high prizes in Quebec. The French language newspapers jubilantly acclaimed Ontario's decision to establish French schools within the public secondary school system in Ontario.

He was similarly acclaimed for his initiative in the constitutional field. Faced with the reluctance of the Federal Government to engage in any formal discussions about constitutional change, Mr. Robarts called his own conference. He has invited provincial premiers to come to Toronto in November to discuss the future of Canada.

But Ontario's action in the field of education, a fundamental area in national as well as provincial life, is most significant, and perhaps one of the most important recent actions of any government.

This move should give the French minority in Ontario the same educational rights & privileges as the English minority in Quebec. New Brunswick, where 40 percent of the population is French speaking, has already adopted French schooling thro' the secondary level. Manitoba has also acted recently to provide bilingual education at the primary level, and other provinces with substantial French speaking populations may follow suit.

All of this points up the fact that provincial governments have a great deal of scope indeed for promoting national unity. It points up also that in the past provincial governments have tended to fail in these responsibilities, leaving the burden of action on the Federal government.

Mr. Robarts and Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin have made public confession of past provincial sins. Mr. Roblin described Manitoba regulations outlawing French as a language of instruction as "a mistake" which his government aims to rectify.

Mr. Robarts, in a speech in the Canadian Assn. of French language Educators in Ottawa, said the use of French in Ontario schools could be traced to the early French settlements.

"Because there was no little difficulty surrounding the use of language for instruction in the schools, the Fathers of Confederation did not specifically deal with the matter in drafting the British North America Act," Mr. Roberts said.

He then recalled increasing controversy over the use of the French language in Ontario from about 1890, culminating in 1913, with Regulation 17 which forbade the use of French as a language of instruction except in elementary education.

These hostile measures in Ontario and Manitoba were deeply resented in French Canada and are still frequently cited in Quebec as evidence of bad faith and prejudice on the part of English Canada.

In past years in Ontario the law has been bent at least semi-officially. Many French language elementary schools mainly under the operation of Separate school boards, are in operation. Even some high schools in centres of large French speaking Canadian population such as Eastview and Hawkesbury, have been able to teach many courses in French.

The French elementary school system is now more or less satisfactory, and there are two bilingual universities in Ontario, the University of Ottawa, and Laurentian University, Sudbury.

But there is still a serious gap in the high school level, and this is what Mr. Roberts now proposes to fill.

It will be a complicated and irritating job, but hopefully less so than in the past. Separate school boards have not given up hope that they will get grants for high schools. Mr. Roberts has made it clear however, that the French language high schools will be a part of the public school system.

Most French Canadians agree with this approach. In the past, the cause of French education has been hindered as much as helped by English speaking Catholics on separate school boards. Irish Catholics in particular have been formidable opponents of French instruction.

Mr. Robarts' new program will not lose sight of the need to give every Ontario resident a good knowledge of English as well. But it will also give French speaking Ontarians equal education rights.

It may be some years before a French speaking youngster in Ontario can pursue his secondary studies in his own language. But an important move has been made.

AGT forwarded copies of the "as built" plans of burried cable and wire in the Heisler area.

By-Law No. 398 was passed authorizing the Assessor to adopt the assessment of the current year as assessment for 1968.

The Building Committee advised that it met with Mr. Stan Kubis on Aug. 16th to review the plans and came to the conclusion that the plans of the main floor of the M.D. of Foothills building with a few changes would fit in in what we require.

The plans for the basement floor require a complete change to privy office space for the Dept. of Agriculture, Health Nurse, Field Supervisor, furnace room & ample storage facilities. The location of storage facilities in the centre of the basement floor was not satisfactory and the committee suggested that the storage room should be along the outside wall. Office space on the basement floor should also be planned along the outside walls. This then would require the change in the location of furnace, incinerator, and telephone switch board areas to the centre of the basement floor.

The recommendation of the Committee that the Consulting Engineers Maxwell and Campbell be employed to assist the council in the planning and supervision of the new Municipal Administration Building and that the said committee be authorized to carry out the negotiations was approved.

Mr. Ed Djos had requested permission to fence and pasture the road diversion through SE 9-44-12 running East along the CPR track. A committee of Cr. Lien and Matthews investigated and reported that before any decision could be reached, plans of the other diversions should be obtained. Secretary was asked to send for these plans.

COVE CUTIE. To Jane there's no place like a sandy beach on a deserted cove. She doesn't go for crowds and noise, so when she wants to swim and sun herself she finds a lonely spot to reap her enjoyment. In fact, solitude is her cup of tea.—TNS Photo

Hardisty Ladies Groups Make Street Signs For Joint Centennial Project

Members of the CWL. UCW and ACW met on Thursday evening for a final report on their joint Centennial Project. The women have now made and sold 101 house signs, and made 42 street signs which were presented to the town. Block letters burned into wide boards, with a small centennial sign on each, and finished with a plastic varnish have made very attractive signs. Many folks have shown great imagination in hanging their also. After all expenses are paid the balance is to be given to St. Anne's Hospital for purchase of a gift for the Children's Ward. The ladies are justly proud of this project, entailing as it did a good deal of personal effort.

Leonard Wissiger has returned home after spending the summer with his uncle Mr Seitz of Lumsland, Saskatchewan.

Mrs Betty Mills visited with Mr and Mrs F. Budzyna at Wilkie for a few days last week.

Mr and Mrs Wayne Nordstrom of Edmonton spent the long weekend with Mr and Mrs Geo. Matthews.

A Partridge "dropped in" at the Les McClements home one day last week. Mrs McClements and her mother Mrs Orma Thorp were busy in the kitchen when the bird crashed through a double window behind them, shattering glass and startling the women. It was found to have a broken neck.

Visitors last weekend at the Cliff Neckboy home were Mr and Mrs Ray Pulquin (Eileen) of La Fleche Sask. Mr and Mrs Nels Peterson (Marlene) and Mr and Mrs James Neckboy of Edmonton, and Lance and Jens Peterson of Sedgewick.

Mrs Dreyer Sr. of New Westminster, B. C. has been visiting with her sons Cyril and Dick and their families.

Mr and Mrs Allan Alderdyce and daughter of Medicine Hat spent the long weekend with relatives in the district.

Those wishing to make memorial donations to the Cancer Fund, are asked to contact Mrs Joyce Johnsrud in future. Thank you.

The Legion Auxiliary met in the Hut on Monday night for the first meeting of the new season. Arrangements were made for catering to a buffet supper and a dinner in the near future. The new tables arrived during the summer and are a great improvement. A number of names were brought forward for membership, and a social was planned for early October for prospective and past members.

WESTERNERS OBJECT TO RULE CHANGES

Provincial Assn. comprising the Western Canada Five Pin Bowling Assn. will not renew their affiliations with the Canadian Bowling Congress this fall.

This decision was reached at a meeting of Four Western Provincial Presidents held in Saskatoon

Whitbread from the governing bodyof 5 Pin Bowling in Canada stems from the ruling made last spring by the Congress to abolish the counterpin. Approximately 125 thousand bowlers in Western Canada will be affected by this decision.

No changes are contemplated in Western Canada Play or Championships.

Other decisions made at the meeting included formation of Uniform rules for the High School Championships together with discussion on a new junior bowling program.

Affiliated members of local bowling associations (includes Sedgewick) should advise all bowlers interested in Junior and High School that the Western Canada Bowlers will use the Counter Pin for scoring.

THE Homemaker

By Miss Irene Eby, Your District Home Economist

School bells are ringing again. The children will be up bright and early all ready for school, at least for the first few days. And mothers will be up bright and early trying to decide what should go into the lunch box today.

What could do with Jennie's likes and dislikes versus the nutritionist's statement that a school lunch should include milk, bread with a serving of meat, fish, poultry, eggs or cheese and a portion of fruit and vegetable? Sounds like quite a tall order to fill on five days of the week for ten months of the year!

Let's look at a few suggestions for school lunches — maybe they will help you! First we will deal with organization. Set up a lunch box routine in your kitchen. Keep all supplies needed in that area. Set up an assembly line to prepare sandwiches especially if there are several children in the family or plan to freeze sandwiches. If you have a freezer, make sweet's supply at a time. Place FROZEN SANDWICHES in the lunch box and by noon the sandwiches will be ready to eat and will have kept the rest of the lunch cool and crisp.

Wrapping is also important because dry stale food will often be refused by your children. Small plastic or metal dishes with covers are handy for salads, puddings or fruit. Be sure vegetable finger food is crisp and fresh, wrap tightly and place jar lunch from sandwiches. Pack jars, which fruit and heavy food at the bottom of the lunch box. Place sandwiches on top, tuck surprises around the packages of sandwiches. Before closing the box be sure a paper napkin has been included.

Now some ideas for the lunch itself. Since some schools now provide milk, a thermos can be filled with soup, stew or hot drinks if your child rebels against drinking milk, use milk in soups, or milk puddings and send along fruit juice as a beverage. Sandwiches, are the main staple in a school lunch. A variety of fillings including such favourites as eggs, peanut butter, cheese and meat in different combinations will add zest to your childs lunch. Vary the bread used; try using biscuits, rolls, nut breads, and surprises. An idea if you have a hot dog fan in the family is to place a steaming hot dog in the soup contained in the thermos. Attach a string with instructions to "Pull me out" and include relish and mustard. Quite a surprise for dinner. Don't forget fruit and raw vegetables. If in a good idea to peel or section an orange especially for the younger child.

These booklets available from my office "Lunch Boxes and Hot School Lunches"; "Lunch Box Briefs", and "What's Between and Between", contain tips which should help add new ideas for the lunch box. A little extra thought and planning for these noon time meals will result in better appetites, better nutrition and better health.

BAPTIST CHURCH NEWS

The activities of the church are somewhat limited this time of year because of the busy harvest season. But in spite of this, a number of the young people got together at the Gordon Ireland home on Friday evening for a hayride and wiener roast.

This week will see at least three of our young people leave for further education. Miss Betty Gordon will be leaving to attend Canadian Bible College in Regina, and Barry Munro and Lillian Carlen will be going to Prairie Bible Institute at Three Hills to further education.

Next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock the church is planning an induction service for the new Pastor. At the same time there will be a Dedication Service for the new Parsonage.

Thought For The Week:
"The Bible should do more than interest us; it should transform us".

Gas Service Now Official At Harditsy

The Town of Hardisty took another step forward on Tuesday, the 12th of September when the new Natural Gas System was officially

A large crowd of local citizens was on hand for the program held on main street, with officials of the Town, North West Utilities and the Provincial Government taking part.

The fact that it was a cool evening that required the wearing of a coat, only served to emphasize the value of this new service to the Town.

Mayor Ben Rempel got the program under way with a welcome to everyone present and a brief address which covered the work of the Council in bringing Natural Gas to Hardisty, and the excellent co-operation received from the Gas Company during negotiations and construction of the system. He spoke of his great pleasure in seeing Natural Gas finally available to the citizens of Hardisty.

Mr Paterson of the Provincial Department of Industry and Development was present to represent the Hon. R. Patrick, and to bring greetings and congratulations from the Alberta

Mr Collier, General Manager of North Western Utilities explained the workings of the system and pointed out what services were available from his company, and how local users could obtain these when needed. He also informed the people that Hardisty was the 98th community to be serviced by North Western and that there were now approximately 125,000 customers using Natural Gas supplied by the company. Mr. Garnet Neilson will be the local representative of the company & he is in charge of both Hardisty and Provost.

At 8.00 p.m. Mrs. Mildred Redman, councilor in Hardisty, officially opened the new gas system by turning on the valve and lighting the natural gas flare. Heat from the flare could be felt for a considerable distance and was welcome on a cool evening.

After the opening a buffet supper and social evening was held in the Legion Hall which was attended by Town and Company officials along with many local citizens.

Fire Destroys Barn and Feed

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a large high-roofed barn on the North Moser farm on Monday.

The fire was quite far advanced by the time it was discovered, and the building and its contents of stored hay was completely destroyed.

Efforts of the Killam Fire Department and the M. D. Flagstaff fire truck from Sedgewick, prevented the fire from spreading to other buildings and causing further damage.

Farewell Held For Mrs. Patterson

Last Monday afternoon a few ladies of Hardisty and district gathered at the home of Mrs. M. Vandervurt to bid farewell to a long time resident of this town and district. Mrs. Patterson is leaving this week to make her home in Edmonton.

After two hours of visiting and reminiscing on old times, Mrs. Vandervurt, with the assistance of her daughter, Eileen Patterson of Lougheed, served a dainty and most delicious lunch.

Mrs. Marie Anderson then presented Mrs. Paterson with a beautiful cup and saucer, a gift from the ladies, to which Mrs. Patterson suitably responded.

One of the guests was Mrs. Drever, Sr. from Bunaby, a one-time Hardisytte, who is visiting friends and relatives in Hardisty.

Mrs. Patterson came to this district in the year of 1922, living on the farm south of town until 1960, when they retired and moved into town. Mrs. Patterson's pleasant ways and cheerful smile will be missed by her many friends who all wish her many years of happiness in her new home.

Sid Walker Enjoys First Visit From His Sister Since 1910

Mr Sid Walker drove to the International Airport at Nisku to meet his sister, Mrs. Anna Black, whom he hadn't seen since he left England in the spring of 1910. Mrs. Black and her daughter, Mrs. Ivy Waters, are from Lichfan in Norfolk, England, and will be visiting with Sid for about three weeks. Mr. Walker left England in March 1913, and would have been on the Titanic on its fateful voyage except that he was unable to obtain a ticket. He had to take another boat. After arriving he read that the Titanic had sunk. Many lives were lost, but by a fortunate incident Sid is still going strong.

Records Fall Again At CHS Graduation

SEDGEWICK—New records were set for Central High School here, when fifty graduands received their diplomas from Principal H. Suave, after having set a new high standard of efficiency for the high school. The 1966 graduating class had set a record for the school, and with this for a goal, the 1967 class established a new high in marks and general proficiency.

It was estimated that over two hundred students and parents along with invited guests sat down to the banquet held in the school gym with William Schweitzer as M. C.

Grace was asked by Rev. Morton, following which the band table was introduced. Toast to the School Board was offered by Deborada Munro and replied to by Trustee Russell Grant. Gwen Gascoyne, in her toast to the teaching staff, paid the members a glowing tribute for their patience, understanding, and occasional prod during the term. Mr. William Johnson, Shop Teacher replied. Martin Eastly thanked the parents of the graduands for their help and understanding, and received thanks from Mr. Yorsson. Gilbert Hiller replied for the parents.

Principal Harvey Stave paid high tribute to the class when he recalled the record set by the previous year's class and his year-opening appeal to the present class to meet and even surpass this record. He was very pleased to inform all those present that they had done just that.

In the evening the Slide-rama were held at the Recreation Centre when some three hundred people watched the fifty graduands receive their pins and diplomas. The High School Choral Group pleasingly interspersed the program with selected musical numbers.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. J. W. Chalmers, former school Superintendent of Rural Division and now serving in a like capacity at St. Albert. Mr. Chalmers took as his subject the first settlers in Alberta who were known as Fort Chipeyans, in an address "Alberta In This Centennial Year". He cleverly traced the progress of this community and its people, portraying the pertinent facts of their lives to that of the graduands. The speaker impressed on them that they are on their lives and what they become, was strictly up to them. In this endeavor he wished them all the best in the future.

The Honor Student, Ronald Routledge, was presented with the Reeve or Pin by Bill Stave, and with a cheque from the Highway 13 School. Miss Pam Lee received the prize for the highest marks in grade 12 Matriculation course, June Departmentals. Royal Commission on Metropolitan Development of Edmonton and Calgary; member of the Hotterite Investigation Com.; president and the chairman of the Board of the Alberta Mun. Finance Corp., president of Battle River Co-op Livestock Assn; Alberta representative to the Federation of Agriculture, director Canadian Livestock Co-op Ltd.; director of Alberta Ag. Centennial Com.; member of Board of Agricultural Education.

Mr. Hayes was received by the Premier, and presented with an Inscribed Scroll by Lt. Gov. Grant McEwan.

Immediately following the Premier unveiled a Plaque in the Hall of Fame room, where Mr. Hayes picture adorned the wall. In the office of the Minister of Agriculture, the friends of Mr. Hayes were invited to tender congratulations.

Just What Is News?

We have often been asked by critics of the press why editors seem to always sensationalize the news. They ask why newspapers appear to always accentuate the negative rather than the positive aspects of local, national, and global events. Well, really there are no positive answers to these questions, but it is quite likely that the main reason is that the public, that is the average reader, has a very good news sense, and he does not buy a newspaper just to learn how much oil will be produced in the next month, or how much grain the western provinces reaped this year and how he is faring in our economics. He buys his newspaper to find out where the action is. The more action there is to read about, the oftener he buys his favorite newspaper. So basically the reason for sensationalism in reporting is that this is exactly what the average reader wants and has come to expect.

It is one of the big fallacies of our time to think that editors deliberately seek out "bad" news, for, unfortunately, good news seldom appeals to the reader. Statistically we could prove that more newspapers are sold when there are mapor events of importance, and the large black headlines that do stress bad or negative news have an economic value. In our free society, newspapers, particularly important city dailies, must sell their product to survive, and the editor who buries back in the back page, news about Viet Nam, a bloody uprising in some African State, or a riot in the U.S., or a challenge by Quebec to the rest of Canada, could find himself without a job. Even though he may believe personally that he has a duty to accentuate only good news, say about rising educational levels in Canada, greater output of food, and better roads, his publisher or owner of the paper demands that his product be acceptable to the buyer. And this idealistic editor finds that his competitor does not share his unusual views.

Therefore it would appear that the only newspaper that can afford the luxury of ignoring bad news is the controlled press. Communist and military dictators can order their editors what to print on the front pages and who wants that?

After all we are to blame for this situation, and until we reach the stage of human enlightment where we controlled the fact that bad news should be happening at all as a failure on our part, editors are going to continue to headline negative events. When the crash and the buyer of newspapers demand that more good news be printed, then changes may occur.

Who's Fooling Who?

With the passing of time and following each succeeding outbreak of violence somewhere in the world, it becomes more evident that small minorities are attempting to fool the world. It is a known fact that the mad rush to stage riots, looting escapades, and arson in the U.S. and other lands is being engineered by a minority, who often do inestimatable damage to the very people they are supposed to be championing.

One of the most surprising aspects of the rioting in Hong Kong has been the degree of support for British rule. Communist extremists have seriously miscalculated the backing their efforts would receive from the Chinese people. Usually reliable news sources tell us that communist stores in Hong Kong are deserted, parents are taking their children out of communist-run schools and communist made goods imported into the city are being boycotted by the local people.

There has always been in these Asiatic countries a certain amount of sympathy for the general communist goal of giving impoverished millions a better way of life. But the insistance of Chinese leaders that only violent struggle will bring results had led to a great deal of disenchantment among the masses, and active opposition from the middle classes. The unwillingness of four million people in Hong Kong, mostly Chinese, to side with the communists, is the most dramatic proof that even the poor abhor planned violence. The need to live a normal life has doused the fires of revolution in Hong Kong, and this was achieved not with British machine guns or the wholesale slaughter of communists, but by the most obvious lack of enthusiasm for communist tactics by the people themselves. This, in the end, is what will defeat communism around the world.

How To Hurt Your Country!

Canada is a great country and as far as we are concerned there are none better when viewed from all angles. But Canada can and is being destroyed, or at the very least severely weakened by some of the people who live in it. There are people who want to buy things and can't. They have the money but because of numerous strikes goods are not being delivered. It used to be that strikes hurt the strikers. People were stirred to compassion by writers who told of the hardships among strikers and their families. Today strikers don't suffer by and large. They have money. They go to Expo in the meantime. Downtown the pickets' biggest problem is to find a parking place at a reasonable price. In the depression years buildings stood unfinished because of a lack of money, while in this booming Centennial year we see building after building a pretentious skeleton, a hopeful dream, because a union boss in Canada or elsewhere decided to close an operation & keep it closed until a new deal had been made that would save a union leader's face, and add to costs and prices.

by A.C.E.

On the 14th of September Mr. Charles P. Hayes of Stroome was inducted into the Agricultural Hall of Fame by Premier Manning and Lt. Gov. McCrae, at the Legislative Buildings in Edmonton. I drove up with our Editor for the occasion and to take pictures, and can now honestly say that I sat in the Alberta Legislative Room. Not with the usual meaning of course but then why split hairs over a simple statement like that. It being several years since I have been there, I took the opportunity to do a bit of sight-seeing Especially liked the Provincial Library since reading is a favorite pastime. A fellow could spend the rest of his life in there and not get everything read. They also have copies of every newspaper (Community Press included), magazine, etc. published in Alberta, and a good many from outside the province. The guides are courteous and everything is very clean and well cared for. Only one thing I found wrong. It being a warm day there came a point where a drink of water was needed, but there wasn't any well by the drinking fountains, and I tried them all. Now this was no doubt due to some miner difficulty but I couldn't help remembering the article in the "Journal" which quoted the Premier as saying that there would have to be cuts in Provincial spending next year. The thought occurred that perhaps this was the first step in the austerity program.

A guide quickly solved the problem by leading me right into the Members' Cloak Room, where there was an ample supply of cool, clear water (but no members). I had the place to myself.

One place I wanted to visit but didn't have time was the visitors' and press gallery. I did do this some time when the Legislature is in session, and wave my pinky at ser M. L. Mr. Hillman.

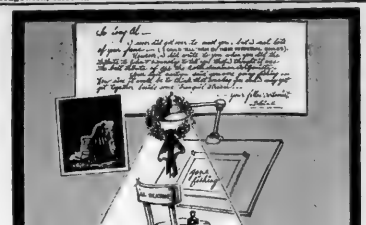
LEARNING ON THE JOB

More than a hundred students the other week found themselves out of their summer jobs because a strike against the company employing them had interrupted production and played hob with costs. At least the summer may be said to have provided for the students an object lesson in economics.

In the United States an increase in the minimum wage rates that became effective some months ago has caused many small businesses to make staff cuts. Those who are suffering are the teenagers, people with serious physical handicaps, the mentally retarded and the unskilled. This has a familiar ring for Canadians. Employers cannot be expected to pay unrealistic wages more than they are worth.

When road blocks interfere with normal operation, business delays around them eventually, often at a cost to the consumer that is unreasonable. The most affluent employees take them more or less in stride and those who find them insurmountable are the employees in the lower categories, the temporarily or most recently hired, and those who produce at a slow rate. — St. Paul Journal.



★ MACDUFF REPORT

Changed Face!

OTTAWA — John Diefenbaker will not be in his seat when the House of Commons resumes on Monday. He will be fishing. That is an eminently sensible occupation for anyone who has been through the strenuous days in Toronto at the age of 72. But it raises the question of how often Parliament is going to see him in session.

He is still the member for Prince Albert. As this report is being written he is still Leader of Her Majesty's Official Opposition. It would be logical to expect an almost immediate resignation from that office and the choice of an interim Opposition Leader until Robert Stanfield can enter into the House of Commons. But logic has not been the primary guideline that Mr. Diefenbaker has been following these days. Even if he retains his seat in the Commons the figure that has dominated the House as the Prime Minister or Opposition Leader since 1957 will be gone.

In his place before the end of the year will be the 53-year-old son of a prominent Nova Scotian industrial family who has been Premier of the Province since 1956. In background, character and personality Mr. Stanfield is a contrast to Mr. Diefenbaker. There will be no prairie shanty to be plugged as a national landmark when he leaves office. There will be no evangelism in the House or on the hustings during his tenure. There will be no accusatory finger pointed across the aisle, no stubborn obstruction of business over issues of secondary importance.

Mr Stanfield in his own way is as tough a fighter when he needs to be as his predecessor. He has a little of the late Angus Macdonald in his make-up. He is also a down-to-earth political realist of the first order. Fresh from his first few weeks as Premier of Nova Scotia he was chosen in December 1956 as the keynote speaker at the Conservative convention which elected Mr. Diefenbaker as leader. On that occasion he warned:

"There is no greater tragedy to public life than a politician who becomes convinced by his own propaganda".

He will be quick to recognize the Government's political mistakes, quick to shape his Party's strategy accordingly. But he will also be quick to co-operate with Government where no advantage is to be gained by doing otherwise. This is important in a Parliament with a legislative budget of 153 bills.

It may be decided to wind up this second session before Christmas in which case Mr. Stanfield will scarcely have time to try out the political waters in Ottawa. Whatever happens, a revived Conservative caucus, rid of the jealousies, rivalries and divisions that have plagued it for the last few years will be busy remaking the image of the Conservative Party and building the image of a leader who before long is too old may be called on to show the Canadian people that he can form a better Government than that in power.

In spite of this election probability there will be fewer political issues than usual arising in the coming months. The die was cast in the Government's legislative promises, most of which are relatively non-controversial and affecting the economy of the country rather than the future of governments and parties if the two can be separated.

Mr. Pearson has divided his legislation into two classes, bills where the issue is so moral that should be decided by individual consciences rather than on party lines with the fate of Government at stake. These include capital punishment, divorce, criminal laws dealing with divorce. In the other category will be the Patents and Trade Marks laws to be amended in general accord on drug prices and the legislation setting up a new Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs. The first two of these should arouse no issues in the House. The drug industry is something politicians of all parties like to get their teeth into. The Consumer Department may be a horse of another color. It has already been described as a fifth wheel to the coach and if the legislation reveals any attempt to interfere to control legitimate business enterprise Mr. Stanfield could use it as his first battle ground.

Establishment of a Canada Development Corporation need not in itself create a political issue, but if it should be presented, as the Hon. Walter Gordon has presented it in the past, as a medium to put the brake on American control of Canadian industry, it will be another controversial issue. The bill is on the priority list.

Also on the priority list which Mr. Pearson wants to get passed before Christmas is revision of the Broadcasting Act which will inevitably spark a fight. It will provide for a reactivated Board of Broadcast Governors, very different from that created by the [illegible]

Between 1945 and 1956 the Conservative Party was led by two former provincial premiers, the late Hon. [illegible] and the Hon. George Drew. In this period federal - provincial issues were never far from the surface. It was these issues that spawned the phrase 'Co-operative federalism'. Now a third provincial premier is coming to the Ottawa stage, a man with something of the provincial rights fire of Angus Macdonald.

While there is no immediate legislative fuse to set them off federal - provincial issues are ready again to explode into the open before long. And at course, adding explosive fuel, is the status of Quebec. The man who twisted "dexx nation" to give it a meaning never intended by the Conservative convention resolution in an unsuccessful attempt to create an issue may be gone. The Party that passed the resolution and its new leader will be challenged to explain what they did mean and explain it they must.

Farm Union Wants Wheat Discussion

The Vice Presidents of the Farmers' Union said today his organization has asked Trade Minister Winters to meet with N.F.U. officials to discuss concerns of action to be taken in the current Canadian Wheat crisis.

"Canadian Wheat prices have dropped 21 cents per bushel in recent weeks and sales have virtually come to sales", said Paul Babey of Edmonton, "due, no doubt, to "low sales" of the bigger than average U. S. wheat crop.

SUGAR AND SPICE
by Bill Smiley

WINNER NUMBER ONE

Well, the inevitable has happened! Smiley couldn't make up his mind about his own contest so so many of the contributing columns fell into the "excellent" category. So, Smiley declared a draw, allowing two winners. Each winner will receive $25. Here is the first column, to be followed by the other winner next week.

By Ellen Armstrong
Stouffville, Ontario

Maybe the comments of a middle-aged Canadian female don't constitute a column but there is only one way to find out, so here goes — I AM SICK AND TIRED OF . . .

The assumption that Canadians are inhibited and inarticulate. The celebrations in Ottawa and in every little and big town and city in this our year of jubilee shed a resounding "NO" to this idea. Oh, sure, we have to have a good reason for letting our hair down. A good reason may only present itself once in 100 years, but when it does, brother, we can holler with the best, and better.

. . . The claim that Canadians have an inferiority complex. Down here in the great roots where I and 99.9 percent of my fellow Canadians crawl around we are proud of Canada and of being Canadians. We are ashamed only of the would-be intellectuals who claim they are inferior because they are Canadian. They are inferior, all right, but for other reasons. Unfortunately they seem to have the ear of "ye editors" and so get their views aired in the papers with nauseating frequency.

The bland statement that "The Church has failed." Failed to do what, may I ask? I may answer, too, in fact I will. Failed to do what ever the spunker of the moment thinks she should have done. I suggest we find out what is the true mission of the Church, then try to assess success or failure. "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel," said Christ. This is the Church's mission; in this she has succeeded and is succeeding. And once truism must admit she has not failed in another sense. She has endured and survived! Name one other nineteen hundred and sixty-seven year old institution!

. . . Translator rather in public. Here I feel like busting into poetry which I have entitled

Lines on Trying to Name a Plastic or a Roadside Table on the Basis of a (Once) Peaceful Lake

Where once the song of birds was heard,
And wind in trees above,
A crass translator radio
Emits a crasser wailing low
His cheap synthetic love.
The gentle murmur of the waves
Is drowned in noisy chatter.
"Buy whiskey, soap and cigarettes,
Buy pills and soup without regrets"
Submission don't matter!
Some day we're long we'll conquer space,
A somewhat thought and bitter,
Idol stare that sang creation's birth
The crude cacophony of Earth,
Man's pestilential twitter".

. . . The use and abuse of the word "image." There seem to be fads in words as in all else; this is the "faddy" word of the moment. Every man, woman, organization is concerned about his, her or its' "image." May I suggest, (in fact try to stop me) that, if we are concerned with integrity, decency and honor in personal, social and political life, our public image will take care of itself. It will be a favorable one too.

. . . The availability of filthy literature, particularly for the youth of our country. Some excuse this, insisting young people must learn the facts of life. Manure is a fact of life too, but if we use our children eating it we restrain them, forcibly if necessary.

. . . Trying to write a column — My admiration for you, Mr. Smiley, has leaped into the stratosphere. How do you do it, week after week after week . . . ?

Greetings from the area churches were brought by Rev. James Pierce of Killam Presbyterian. The act of dedication itself included the charge to the Pastor by Rev. Farewell Picnic For Wayne Rinke

On Sunday last some nineteen friends and co-workers of the Canimperial Bank of Commerce in Hardisty gathered at the Lonise Tharp cabin at Hardisty Lake to bid farewell to a former employee, Wayne Rinke, who has been transferred to Gleichen

A few hours of pleasant visiting was spent after which the ladies of the group spread a table out under the trees with an abundance of delicious viands, including barbecued hamburgers, all served cafeteria style

When everyone had done justice to the sumptuous repast, Wayne was called forward to receive a gift. A beautifully wrapped box was presented to him, accompanied by a few well chosen words, by the Bank Manager, Mr. S. Gaunce.

It became quite hilarious as Wayne began to un-wrap the gift Empty wrapped box followed one after the other until Wayne finally got down to a small gift-wrapped box in which was a lovely cigarette lighter.

Wayne thanked his friends in his usual pleasant manner, after which a most enjoyable afternoon was brought to a close.

Have you been receiving unordered credit cards lately? What do you do with them? Store them? Throw them away? Use them?

According to the Better Business Bureau all such cards should be cut up into small pieces and thrown away, unless you intend to use them. Why cut them up? You are liable by law to pay for all purchases made in your name, so the consequences are obvious if your card should fall into the hands of a disreputable person.

If you intend to make use of the card, have you investigated the company?

One Charge Service Company has been issuing unordered and unsolicited credit cards with the householder's name embossed on the card, to a number of people in this area. Many of these people have destroyed their cards as they should do.

But there's a catch. Some months later this Company sends out a bill for $5.00. When a letter was sent to this Charge Service Courtesy Company asking why the request for $5.00, their reply was to this effect:

"Due to the fact that (Company) is financing relatively small accounts and because of the cost of money and of processing we find that we must, at this time, limit our card companies in the U. S., charge a yearly fee to our card holders."

The mailing address of this Company is Canadian, yet they are copying U. S. tactics.

The Better Business Bureau has requested that in the interest of Public Confidence they stop this practice. So if you have been receiving bills for unauthorized, unordered and unused credit cards, forget them.

GREEN ACRES
SOIL SAMPLING TIME AGAIN!
Harvest is just about completed and already it is time to start thinking of next years crop. Soil samples should be taken from fields that will be seeded next spring, any time after the 1st of October and before freeze up. Recommendations should then be received in time to allow the farmer to take advantage of the price discounts by early fertilizer purchases.
Proper sampling of the field is important Small areas of different or unusual soil such as waterways, straw pile bottoms, fence rows, low areas or knolls should be avoided. Take at least 15 to 20 individual samples or cores over a field of uniform characteristics. This field can vary from 20 to 70 acres. If it is larger take more care samples. The cores should be thoroughly mixed in the clean pail and the sample for analysis removed. The sample of soil should be air dried immediately. Do not use artificial heat
The plastic bags, cartons and information sheets can be obtained from all Extension Offices & local distributors of fertilizer. Soil sampling tools are also available to help speed up the sampling process.
The cost of the soil sample analysis will be $2.00 per sample this year. This is still only a token charge and does not begin to cover the actual costs. The benefits from soil analysis in helping the farmer plan for fertilizer requirements of his fields is proving very beneficial. The cost of the analysis is insignificant compared to the returns.

FARM UNION WANTS WHEAT TALKS

farmers' Union of Alberta, predict ed that this trend is not diverted, would result in a loss of at least $33 million to Alberta's economy. He based his prediction on estimate 180 million bushels as total Alberta production in the current crop year.

The N.F.U. Vice-President has made a similar prediction in June of this year when he discontinued reports by the news media that Canadian wheat prices were raised by 22 cents per bushel following the Geneva Conference as "over optimistic", and "not factual".

"These reports", he said, "lulled Canadian public into believing that markets for our wheat, at higher prices, were assured."

He added that this was no excuse for the Canadian Government, particularly wheat-marketing experts in the Department of Trade and Commerce to sit back and watch Canada's marketing position being undermined by U.S. "selling sprees".

MAY BE LARGEST WHEAT CROP

The large majority of local farmers have completed the harvesting of grain crops for this season. Weather conditions this fall have been almost perfect for the harvest without a single interruption because of rain. This allowed farmers to work long hours each day. Conditions were so dry that most mornings there was no delay because of damp conditions, and the combines were able to get started several hours earlier than in most years.

A survey being conducted indicates that this may well be the largest wheat crop in the history of the Municipal District of Flagstaff with grades also being above average Many reports have been heard of wheat crops running up to and better than forty bushels per acre The main factor accounting for very large crop in the Municipality is that the yield in all parts of the district is much more even than in other years. Most years find very good yields in some areas, while other parts of Flagstaff get extremely low yields, and the average for the whole area is not very high. But this year there are very few spots that are reporting real low yields, and consequently the average for the Municipality is up from normal years and this accounts for the new record crop.

Wheat grades on this year's crop have also been better than normal with quite a few samples of No. 1 and a lot of No. 2 being harvested. The only problem this presents is that most of Canada's foreign customers prefer to purchase the lower priced grades of wheat such as 3 and 4. This could cause the higher grades to be a little slow in selling but with a much greater need Canadian wheat crop this fall it is hoped that the problem will take care of it's self

Since there has been almost no precipitation since the early part of August the moisture content of farm lands is extremely low and in order to have good moisture conditions for next spring, we need a good deal of rain this fall to build up the reserves.

Land which has been summerfallowed this year is extremely dry & powdery while the stubble fields are as dry and hard that farmers are finding it impossible to operate on them and they must be left until after receiving a rain to soften up the ground.

To date it has been an almost ideal fall for harvesting. In fact one old timer who has lived in the district for over sixty years said the prest that he couldn't remember a fall that had been as good during the harvest. He also said that there have been very few September days when it didn't rain for at least a few days.

Rains scored their only major of the game during the third quarter on a perfect pass play from quarter back J. D. Anderson deep into the end-zone to Allan Bowsen.

Rams showed up very poorly in the early stages of the game during which time the opposition scored most of their points. As the game progressed the Rams began coming on much stronger and completed most of the play in the third period. Presumably a "pep talk" from coach Bob Rostechuk during half time helped bring on the new effort.

TROUBLES — No, these are the members of the Alberta Armed Forces Caravan jeep assembly team at the Show in Killam last week. In the space of five minutes the team drove into the arena, disassembled, assembled, and drove away.

Large Crowd Witnesses Caravan Show

KILLAM — A large crowd which filled the Killam Arena to capacity including standing room, was on hand to witness the evening show which was part of the Alberta Armed Forces Caravan.

The show, put on by members of the Canadian Armed Forces, started at 7:30 and ran through a number of displays and acts demonstrating activities past and present of Canada's Armed Forces. Opinions seemed to be that the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry Regimental Band stole the show This famous band entertained through out the show with both martial and popular music, and were dressed in their brilliant scarlet uniforms. At times they performed intricate drill manoeuvers while playing.

The show, which lasted about an hour and a half, included besides the Regimental Band, some ten different acts filled with action and variety, including a mortar gun race, a gymnastic display team, and mastered combat display, the quick dis-assembly and assembly of a jeep, and an act depicting the development of the military drill. At the end of the show all members of the cast joined in the traditional Retreat Ceremony.

During the afternoon the static display consisting of five fifty-foot trailers plus several outdoor equipment exhibits, were on display at the Centennial Sports Grounds. By touring these displays people were able to gain some idea of the roles and functions of several armed forces united, stationed in Alberta. The displays ranged from historic guns to the most modern jets, the CF-104 Star Fighter. Included were exhibits of rifles, swords, uniforms, electronic equipment, parachutes, and many other items used by the Armed Forces. On display outside were jeeps, personnel carriers, a CF-105, an ambulance and a mobile Dentist Clinic.

CHS Rams Drop 1st Home Game

Central High Rams Football Team played their first home game of the new season on Saturday against Camrose Composite High and lost by a score of 38 to 6.

Rams showed a definite lack of conditioning. The result of having started practices only a week earlier while other teams in the league started training sessions back in the middle of August.

Rams showed up very poorly in the early stages of the game during which time the opposition scored most of their points. As the game progressed the Rams began coming on much stronger and completed most of the play in the third period. Mr. Edwards, district agriculturist in Sedgewick., took office in October of 1964. Prior to that he was assistant district agriculturist in Lethbridge. He graduated from the Washington State College with a B. Sc. in Agriculture in 1949.

Garden Oddities

Just recently two people brought in examples of some strange things that can happen in a garden

Mr. Hank Adolph brought us a carrot that had grown through a loop of twisted wire. The carrot was a good size on both sides of the wire but narrowed down in past through the loop without growing over the wire.

Mrs. Jens Christensen brought in three different types of apples which had all grown on the same tree. Nature had a little help from Jens in this case as he had grafted a crab and a regular apple onto an ornamental crab tree and grew all three types on the ornamental tree.

Farm Fire Hazard Serious This Fall

The fire hazard on Alberta farm and pasture land has never been more serious than it is this fall.

Paul Babey, President of the FUA assured the Hon. Henry Hunte', Minister of Lands and Forests, of complete cooperation with any emergency action his department would take in regard to this dangerous situation.

"This may be a good time to plan some type of annual warning", Mr. Babey said. He suggested a small distinctive sticker to be issued with each hunting license, to be worn on the jacket or cap and bearing a short reminder message such as, "I practice fire prevention".

He further suggested an urgent letter to all issuers of hunting licenses, requesting them to draw attention to the present dangers.

Mr. Babey said the Executive would consider the possibility of issuing spot radio announcements from day to day, as a further reminder.

The President also appealed to the Alberta Fish and Game Association for help in drawing the "powder keg" situation to the attention of all hunters.

"A spark in the dry grass on a windy day would spell disaster for farmers in the path of the fire," he said Mr. Babey pointed out there is no compensation provided for losses of this nature under the wildlife damage insurance.

The F.U.A. President called for cooperation from all the interested groups to get the "fire danger" story across to the hunting public

If hunters do not show the necessary caution in this regard, farmers would press for closure of the hunting season, he added.

Brazil, the world's largest coffee grower, also produces large crops of bananas, cotton, oranges, pineapples, rice, corn.

Uruguay has an area one-third that of Manitoba, a population of 2.8 million, and 75 per cent of its area is devoted to stock raising.

PUT SPICE IN YOUR LIFE!

Have you tasted the difference a sprinkling of cracked black pepper can make to a simple egg dish? The wonderful warmth ground cinnamon gives an apple pie?

Then you are in on the secret! Cooking with spices makes your meals "something special" and with a little imagination spices can be used to perk up many of your favorite dishes.

For an unusual flavor treat, add 1/4 teaspoon aniseed to your sugar and bowls of apple sauce, or sprinkle it on sweet rolls before browning.

Why commercialize by sprinkling Basil over lamb chops before cooking, or add it to green beans, peas, carrots or tomatoes? Add it to egg & cheese dishes as well.

Simmer a Bay Leaf with stew, or with tomato sauce like best tenger, canned beef, lamb shanks and kidneys. Don't forget the flavor of Bay Leaves when you are cooking vegetables. They will add a bright touch of flavor to tomato and cabbage also.

Caraway gives an intriguing flavor to cold cheese, especially when mixing up a tasty dip or spread.

In closing, we'll say that Cardamom Seed in green pea soup, sweet potatoes, or sprinkled on pork or beef roasts. It is Cardamom that makes Danish pastry and coffee cake a perfect mate for a steaming cup of coffee.

Mace added to cream sauce for vegetables has a special charm. A sprinkling of mace also gives wiegated cream more flavor.

Try a little Celery Seeds a real boon for vegetable haters. They are delicious sprinkled over green beans or tomatoes and asparagus.

Tarragon is particularly good in green or seafood salad. Try it too on an omelet, potato, taste treat with poultry, meat, sauces, egg and tomato dishes.

Curry is made to order for turning leftovers into inspired second day dishes. It is good with rice, veal chicken, fish, shrimp, eggs and vegetables; seasoned mixes; soups and stews.

Here is a special bonus: Many seasonings are particularly good if you have the problem of cooking tast tempting foods for someone on a salt free diet.

When preparing your next meal, don't forget to "Put Spice In Your Life".

WINNER NUMBER TWO!

This is the other winner in the Smiley-To-Kopa contest. According to Mr Smiley this returns was "one of the first to arrive and just kept bouncing back into the finals."

By Edwin W. Smiley
Kopa Kamellion, Ontario

The subject is pheasants and I live on an island in the Muskokas to which spot I came some five weeks ago, together with a car full of unusual clothing, food, etc. and, perched on top of everything, a carton containing two cock pheasants!

My wife, a rather bland and genial creature with whom I have lived comfortably for nigh on 40 years, had her doubts from the start. I add that, unless you keep level in cartons on a level land, they scratch and fight.

To avert the crisis, I suggested we choose names for the little fowl apiece and we found on Lester and John for privately we felt, the instantaneous nobbier would be nominated for keep.

On the way up, Lester got into a ball of a fight with his loyal opponent and had arrived without his tail — attached, that is. Lester of course, was a bird of peace—his namesake gets medals for it—so the whole thing gave him an inferiority complex and he lies for a week.

John, however, was just like the other lads and, with the field to himself, he strutted, preened and mynarred—gawd, how he squawked all my long!

Being an old farm hand, I made several trails of cracked corn and wheat stuffing at a feeding place in front of my chair and window. John being conscious of the importance of number one Manitoba hard in his pile, caught on first and within a few days was doing his stuff right in front of my wife and I.

But, watching the two cocks, both single wing clipped, I felt there was room in the deep of their opponents then just the small loss of a few feathers. So I ordered three hens from the same source of supply and we had no trouble nesting them, i.e. Gerda, Christine & Madeby.

I watched John carefully through the binoculars and two days after the gals arrived, his tail was high and his eye was bloodshot!

Then disaster struck! First, when there was no sign of Gerda and associates for a week, I decided to institute a search. I fear they were double wing clipped by mistake and after a day or so of Lester and John's company, they just went high on a windy hill and took off over water and, this being their first flight since being clipped and put in their shipping cartes, their feather power plants were insufficient. They promptly came down, got water logged and sank. I add that John and Lester both tried it twice went 'ars over 'eep' and only got about ten feet and paddled back.

Then Lester got dive bombed by a red-tailed hawk, our biggest nest is eagles! He got to cover, but it scared the living bail out of him and Lester is a bird of peace—at any price! So he sat down with John and probably said "come to reason together, this is getting to be to damn dangerous—besides the lady birds are gone—let us take wing on the morrow" or phenomenon of equivalent eloquence.

Lester checked a week ago and we hear that only three hen dogs woods on the mainland. I can't say that he actively followed the route of the gals, because inference might be drawn, and a Royal Commission appointed to investigate. It might topple the government.

Old John, however, excites our admiration. He just stays on and on and on and I think he's convinced in that there is nothing—repeat,nothing—to beat good old western Canada wheat. So, being a bird strain myself, I am entering this plan that you accept my story and send me your cheque for fourteen small so I can go to the trading post and get another of the real stuff for good old John.

In Memoriam

Meadows

In loving memory of our husband and father, Waldie Hawkins, who passed away Oct. 3rd, 1961.

How can I explain to others,
The loss I feel inside.
I only know I miss him,
I still say its sad to walk the road alone.

Instead of side by side.
To everyone there comes a time
When the ways divide.
But I know Waldie would not wish for sorrow,
Nor would he wish for tears.
But just to be remembered through the passing years.
Ever remembered and sadly missed by his wife Miss and family, Harry, Betty, and Rodney. 17-1-c

Former Daysland Residents Pass Away

DAYSLAND — Funeral services were held in Edmonton on September 16th for Mr. Kenneth J. Anderson who passed away suddenly on September 13th at the age of 72.

Mr. Anderson came to Daysland in 1916 and in partnership with his brother Sam owned and operated the A.E. and K.J. Anderson Lumber Yard, and later the Daysland Garage. He left Daysland about 1949 to make his home in Edmonton. Mr. Anderson took a great interest in community affairs, and during the thirty-four years in Daysland made many friends who will mourn his passing.

He leaves to mourn, his wife Kay, one son Kenneth of Vancouver and two daughters, Shirley (Mrs. Allen Watson) of Edmonton and Betty (Mrs. Kenneth Woolley) of Seattle; six grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Inga Sunheim of Minneapolis.

Rev H Olson officiated at Anderw and McLaughlin Chapel, and interment was at Evergreen Memorial Gardens, Edmonton. Among those attending the funeral from Daysland were Mr and Mrs George Boggs, Mr and Mrs Wm. Hanrahan, Mr and Mrs Robert Hanrahan, Mr and Mrs Art Ginter, Mr and Mrs Jim Josephson, John Polesbytzi, Fred Schmidt, Fritz Carlson and Jim Brown.

George Wiltong

Another former Daysland oldtimer to pass away recently was Mr George Wiltong of Kitchener, Ontario. He farmed in the district east and north of town for many years before moving to Ontario in the 1930's. He visited in Daysland three years ago, and many old acquaintances were pleased to see him, his wife and daughter. He was 73 at the time of his passing from a heart attack.

Russell Daley

Mr Russell Daley of Camrose was another oldtimer who passed away recently. He and his family moved to Daysland in 1925 and farmed on his father's ranch north-west from town until 1932 when they moved to Bittern Lake. Mr Dayel leaves to mourn, one daughter in Daysland, Mrs Beatrice Reed, and three sons in Camrose, Ross, Ted and Charlie.

Alexander Gray

Mr. Alexander Gray (Sandy) of Fort Saskatchewan passed away on September 16th. Mr Gray and family lived a mile south of town for many years before moving to the Fort. He leaves to mourn, his wife Beulah, one son George, two daughters Clara and Gloria.

The Gray family came to Daysland in 1926 and left in 1946. Mr. Gray was 76 when he passed away. Funeral service was held in Fort Saskatchewan on September 19th.

ROOKIE PIVOT. When Dick Williams took over the managerial post of the lackluster Boston Red Sox this year, critics looked upon the move with a jaundiced eye. But today their eyes shine brightly as the tough-fisted Williams has the Bosox tiptoeing a serious run at the Americas League pennant.

SEED CLEANING!

The Boards of the 4 Seed Cleaning Plants in the M. D. Flagstaff met on July 18th & discussed rates for the coming year. The following cleaning rates were adopted for the shareholders:

June 16 to Jan. 15 — 5c Per Bushel
Jan. 16 to April 15—6c Per Bushel
April 16 to June 15—7c Per Bushel
Fungicide Treatment—5c a Bushel
Insecticide Treatment, 15c a Bus.

In some cases the plants have not had the full cooperation from the farmers in removing screenings and clean seed. The resulting shortage of bin room has caused delayed cleaning and inconvenience to the plant and other customers. The plants would ask that farmers cooperate by removing seed and the screenings promptly. Heavier penalty rates have been adopted to discourage offenses along this line.

Tough grain should not be a problem this year, but if it were the boards would advise against treating tough grain until just before handling.

Any customers that have complaints about the cleaning job or the operation of the plant are encouraged to contact the Manager or the board members. Customer satisfaction is part of Seed Plant business.

Good seed doesn't cost, it pays. Remember to book your grain for cleaning early to avoid any disappointments this year.

Friday evening saw a number of our young people gather at the suite of Grace and Donna Kvill in Sedgewick. It was time for the election of officers. The results of the election were: Brian Heerbergg as Pres., Tom Erickson, Vice, and Joy Gerdash, Sec-Treas. Grace and Donna Kvill will serve as one of the sponsors and it is hoped that another couple will assist them.

This past Sunday was Christian Education Sunday, and it was promotion Sunday in the Sunday School when a number of the children were promoted from one department to another. The Sunday sermons were "Jesus the Teacher" and "What Christ Thought Of Thyatira".

Large Crowd Helps Open Strome Store

STROME — Some two hundred residents of Strome and district, along with a number from neighboring towns and areas, filled the big new and modern Co-op Store at Strome on September 28th for the official opening of the new premises.

Mr. Vern Kaplar informed the Press that the new store was constructed in the month of the six-and-a-almost six years ago, and that he was most happy to see the project now all but completed.

Fully modern in all departments, the store presents a pleasing and attractive view to the shopper, with all merchandise in open display for fast and efficient service. Well lighted, and equipped with modern cooling and freezing system, the public is assured of a full line of fresh produce and meats.

The new store contains the dry-goods, grocery and meat departments, while the hardware, paint and lumber sections are found in the former "K-M" building which has been renovated and painted, and now adds an attractive addition to Strome's main street.

Following an inspection of the new premises by the large crowd, Mr Robert Little, Vice-Chairman of the Board of Directors, acted as M. C. for the official opening.

Mr Vern Kaplar, President of the Board of Directors, welcomed the large crowd, and expressed his thanks to the people of the Strome district for their assistance in making the new store possible.

Greetings were brought from the Killam Co-op Assn. by Mr. Forster, and Mr Dick Kinzer who is the area Co-op Delegate. C. E. Rendvell, Regional Manager of Federated Co-ops, Mr. Carter of UFA Co-op Oil, Mr. H. Bailey for the Sedgewick Co-op Assn., A telegram was read from Federated Co-ops Limited.

Manager Al Fahlenghorn spoke briefly, thanking the Board for their enterprise and Mr Steve Untrysh, contractor who gave invaluable assistance throughout President Vern Kaplar received the store keys from contractor S. Untrysh, and officially cut the ribbon to declare the store open.

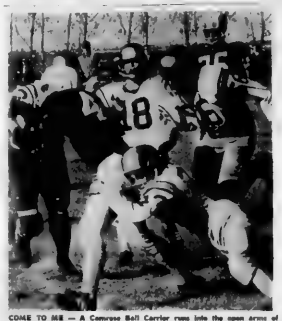
Coffee and doughnuts were served during the afternoon, and several draws made for free prizes.



COME TO ME — A Camrose Ball Carrier runs into the open arms of a Ram Defender as three other Rams move in to assist in stopping the play. Ram's next home game will be on Saturday, October 14th at the Sedgewick Recreation Centre.

ALBERTA HARVESTING COMPLETED IN IDEAL WEATHER CONDITIONS

Harvesting of Alberta's 1967 wheat crop is completed, as ideal harvest weather continued throughout This compares with only 41% completed at the same time last year.

The 1967 crop season started dismally but has ended more favorably than had been anticipated. Excellent moisture conditions were general early in the season. Southern areas of the province experienced heavy late spring snow and rain, causing seeding delays into June Seeding completions were among the latest on record as Alberta, as only 20% of the wheat had been seeded by May 27th. The lateness of the season caused a slight shift in acreage away from wheat, and early season moisture encouraged farmers to seed more stubble.

Crops began to deteriorate quite seriously in early July. Windy weather coupled with hash early season growth placed heavy demands on soil moisture and rainfall was inadequate to sustain the growth. In late July generous rainfall occurred and arrested deterioration Extremely hot and dry weather forced many early sown crops to rapid maturity and harvesting of barley and winter wheat began in July.

Early August saw the first general rainfall of the season, and scattered shower activity continued to about mid-month. This rainfall was timely to aid in the proper filling of heads. But weather then set in. crops ripened quickly Almost ideal harvest weather prevailed in all regions.

Total wheat production in Alberta is currently estimated at 165,000,000 bushels. Although this is well below the record crop of 1955 when 181,000,000 bushels were produced, it is still considerably above the most recent 10 year average production of about 134,000,000 bushels. Average yields, estimated at 22.0 bushels per acre, are slightly above the long time average of 22.0

In Alberta 6,300,000 acres were sown to wheat, with a total production of 145 million bushels for the average of 22.8. In 1966, 6,500,000 acres were sown, with production of 121 million bushels and an average yield of 20.4.

Excellent wheat quality is assured. Over 80 percent of the wheat is grading 3 Northern or better, compared to 80% in the top three milling grades last year. An unusually large amount, 15% is grading 1 Northern About 97% of the oats and 70% barley produced, fall within the feed grades

First Fall Moisture Is That White Stuff

The first moisture since the early part of August started falling on Monday when a light rain fell This and fire dangers were at the highest level since the 1930's and everyone, especially hunters, was being asked to take extra precautions

Rain and snow being received now will lessen the danger of fire and at the same time start building reserves for next year's crops

ture reserves are at a low level

Late last week warnings were being issued that the grass and forest fire danger was at the highest level since the 1930's and everyone, especially hunters, was being asked to take extra precautions

While not the most pleasant kind of weather condition, the moisture has to be welcome in a farming area, especially when sub-soil moisture reserves are at a low level GOING NOWHERE — A Camposite High Ball Carrier (that's him at knee level) is stopped at the line of scrimmage by the Central High Rams during the first home game of the season, last week. Rams were not always able to stop the opposition as they lost the game, but there was plenty of good action to thrill the spectators.

Fire Destroys Storage Shed

A fire at about 5 30 on Monday afternoon severely damaged a storage shed in Sedgewick at the home of Mrs Jean Wallace

The Fire Department responded quickly and the fire was rapidly brought under control The small building itself was badly damaged, and the power line which passes overhead was burnt off by the leaping flames The live power line was dangling near the ground and showering sparks for several feet until it was disconnected by Gordon Peterson of Calgary Power

Broken power lines present a real danger any time there is a fire and spectators who rush to the scene should be very careful

Queen Declares Oct. 8-14 As Fire Prevention Week

Queen Elizabeth has issued a royal proclamation designating the week of October 8th to 14th inclusive as Fire Prevention Week in Canada.

The proclamation takes note of the fact that in the past ten years in Canada, $12,000 fires have claimed the lives of 5,800 persons, injured at least 19,600 others, and caused damage approaching the one and a half billion dollar mark.

In her Proclamation the queen urged that all buildings, whether homes or commercial property, be inspected for possible fire hazards and that proper plans of evacuation be formulated for the event of fire

For the three week period of Oct. 1 to 21, fire chiefs throughout Alberta will make daily reports of all fires to which they responded. These reports will be made public daily.

In the province of Alberta last year, fire claimed the lives of 39 persons and caused fire losses to property of over $13-million. The loss due to forest fires is not included in this figure.

Bernard McMahon Heads Bowlers

Election of officers brought forward the following slate: Pres., Bernard McMahon, Vice, Calvin MacPherson; Sec, Jean Johnson Asst. P. Mayor; Treas., L. Beleman.

The treasurer's report showed a bank balance of $288.46.

Bowling rules and regulations were discussed at length. Members decided to continue affiliation with the Alberta Five Pin Bowling Assn.

Two new bowling balls are being purchased by the club to start off the new season.

Ballot committee elected were: Ray Rawcliffe, Bill Martin & Cecil Gould.

B of T Holds First Fall Meeting

A regular supper meeting of the Sedgewick District Board of Trade was held on September 18th, following the summer recess. There were 17 members and 2 visitors present.

A committee reported that the T V brief had been sent to the Station, but no reply had yet been received.

It was also reported that the new sign board for the Town was nearly completed by the Kinsmen Club, and would soon be erected.

The Board will send a letter of thanks to the Kinette Club for the sponsorship of the street signs now adorning the Town.

Block beautification is to be sought on the Castle Hotel Tourist Assn., and a request for the date of their next meeting, so that a delegation from the Board can attend.

Following the meeting some 40 people gathered at the Anglican Church Hall to see the film "Celebration" and as an added feature "Checkwagon," both of which were very interesting.

Prevent Insect and Mite Damage To Stored Grain

To prevent damage to stored grain and prevent unnecessary insect and mite damage, granaries should be weather proofed, cleaned and sprayed. The farmers' best defence against serious storage losses is an understanding of storage pests and their habits, and a knowledge of the practices that will prevent insect infestation.

It has been reported that over 30 species of insects and mites have been found in stored grain in the prairies but only a few of these are responsible for damage to grain. Besides adult moths are the egg of insects causing the most serious stored grain damage. These insects have a four stage life cycle; the egg which is laid in the kernel, between the kernel and a grain dust on the floors and in wall cracks, the larvae (a growing stage), the pupa (resting stage) and the more familiar adult stage. The adults and larvae of some beetles have strong jaws that enable them to chew holes in grain kernels. Moths can feed only by sucking fluids but their larvae can inflict extensive damage.

The insect only grows during the larva stage and during this time it consumes many times its weight in food. Mites are the smallest pests that attack stored grain. They resemble spiders, having four pairs of legs when mature and are about the size of a pinhead.

Newly harvested grain is not the source of insect and mite infestation but it may become infested if mixed with infested grain residues such as those occuring in combine hoppers, grain trucks or granaries. Insect surveys have indicated that granaries are probably the most important source of new grain infestations.

Serious infestation will not develop in grain harvested dry & stored under conditions allowing uniform cooling during winter. But if grain is harvester and stored when it is damp or tough, storage losses may be caused by insects, mites and moulds. Spread of infestations from one granary to another is unlikely during the winter, but in summer insects may crawl, fly or be carried between granaries. Some beetles may fly at temperatures above 75 degrees F and may be carried by the wind. Mites frequently occur in bird nests and may be carried between granaries by birds in search of food. The exchange of infested animal feed from one farm to another is often a source of new infestations.

Preventing insect and mite infestations in stored grain is much less costly than controlling established infestations. Insect infestation can be prevented by following the practices listed:

Minimize grain dockage by controlling weeds in the growing crop. Stored grain insects thrive in high dockage grains.

Harvest crops as dry as possible since insects thrive in tough and damp grain.

Repair and weather proof granaries to prevent grain from becoming tough during storage.

Prevent the accumulation of any waste grain or food in and around granaries and storage areas.

Remove and destroy grain spilled on the ground near granaries.

Sweep the walls and floors of all empty granaries & burn the sweepings.

After cleaning, spray the inside surfaces of the storage structure with a suitable residual insecticide.

SAVING SECRETS!

Cattlemen should be making plans to treat the cattle for warble grubs and lice during Oct. and November

Systemic insecticides available on the market today will do a good job of controlling both the warble grubs and lice if applied this fall. These insecticides are absorbed into the animal's system after application to the skin, and kill the grub while it is travelling through the animal toward the back.

A few precautions should be followed while using these insecticides. At all times the directions on the containers should be read and followed. General directions are as follows:

Do not use within 35 days of calving or slaughtering.

Do not treat calves under 300 pounds.

Do not treat during December, January and February.

Do not treat animals under stress. Publication No. 681 on the Control of Livestock Insect pestiness the control of most livestock insects, is an easy-to-read form. It is available from your local District Agriculturist's office.

FAREWELL NOW!

by Bill Smiley

THE SWEETHEART OF . . .

Some people take a beating and shuik away to lick their wounds. Not me. Like Dief, I believe that, "When the going gets tough, the tough get going."

Just to digress for a moment, didn't you admire the old leader's courage during that convention? Though he was caught in a web of his own creation, he had enough guts to die fighting, politically, rather than free himself a soft spot to land on his last flight. And the mixed metaphor spotters can go to work on that one.

Back to business. You can't say I've not game. Two years ago, I launched one member of the family into a university career. He went into orbit, tottered around in the stratosphere, ran out of fuel, fizzled, and sank, though not without a trace.

That was son Hugh. He did pretty well in high school. Scraped through first year college. Changed courses in second year. Lasted till late November. One day, after listening to a particularly putrid lecture — and you have no idea how numerous they are — he turned to a classmate and said, "That's it. I can't take any more," walked out, and hasn't been there since.

After wintering in Mexico and other southern climes (during which he lived on grass for a three-day stretch) he came home for a while, with a beard longer. The plaster. Left in mid-summer, to get a job. A month later we had a card from Cape Cod, where he was about to get a job cutting fish, whatever that is.

Silence. This week we had a letter. He had a job at Ben's Delicatessen in Montreal, hoped to nail down something at Expo, and was planning to enroll at University of Mexico. Some time.

Undaunted I'm about to launch another missile at the university. Kim is too young to go, I wouldn't go back to University if they paid me $100 a day, and there's only one other member of the family.

You're right. The Old Battleaxe is going to back and here her way through fourth year honour English this time.

Why? We marked our 21st anniversary the other day. Or, rather, the day after the other day, because we both forgot. And don't think that won't cost me. You'd think that, like most women, she'd be quite content to keep my nose to the grindstone and enjoy life.

The answers are several. First, she's one of those exasperating people who like to finish something they've begun, even if it's two decades later. Ridiculous, but that's the way she is.

So why didn't she finish her course in the first place? Well, to get it in the vernacular, she got a bun in the oven. The bun turned out to be our first-born. She struggled bravely to carry on at lectures, but decided that the bun, (now spelled bum), was more important than the Romantic Poets and the Modern Novel.

Secondly, the idea has been percolating for several years. She has too much intellectual curiosity to sink into the familiar morass of teas and bridge and curling and gold and gossip.

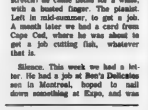
Thirdly, the kids are out of the shell. The son is a young rounder, the daughter is a healthy chick. The days of diapers, bottles, Hallowe'en costumes and helping with homework are over.

And fourth, there's the economic factor. She has listened to me groan and crunch out of bed in the morning. She has taken a long, hard look at the bags under my eyes, the bulge under my belt. She has heard me hacking in the morning, wheezing after one flight of stairs. It's good insurance to have a college degree that will get you a job when Middes kicks the can.

She doesn't know it, but the minute she graduates, I retire.

So, it's Josephine College, off to lectures, full of ideals and worries about the mess she'll come home to every weekend.

There are only a few things that trouble me a trifle. I hope she isn't arrested in one of those student demonstrations. I hope she doesn't fall in love with a freshman. And I hope I can run that blasted washing machine.



Add a little love to your life

By Miss Irene Sky, Your Cityfolk Home Economist
ANALYSIS OF THE CLEANING PROBLEM!
Although the thorough cleaning of all home furnishings is important, studies indicate that 85 percent of all the dirt that accumulates in the room is in the carpet. Cleaning carpets and rugs is, therefore, of prime importance in modern homes. To understand the problem it is helpful to have some basic knowledge of carpet structure.
CARPET STRUCTURE!
Carpet is really a two-part fabric. The tufts—weaving of cotton warp yarns with weft yarns of cotton, jute, or Kraft-cord produces a thick, firm back. Tufts of fibres as wool, cotton, rayon, nylon or blends of fibres are woven or tufted into the back to loops and may be cut or left uncut. The method of attaching the pile yarns to the back determines the type of carpet. In the different types and grades of carpet the number or rows of pile tufts per inch lengthwise varies from 4 to 11, and the pile height 1/8 to 1/3 inch or more.
Between the rows of pile tufts, and between individual tufts, there is much open space where dirt may collect. Owing then, to these structural characteristics carpet has an enormous capacity for storing dirt which other home furnishing fabrics do not have.

Confederation Caravan At Hardisty On Wed.

Canada's Confederation Caravan will be open to the public at Hardisty on Wed., October 18th, when local residents will be given an opportunity to tour the exhibits and experience the development of the nation from primeval times to the present.

Visitors to the show will find the trailers, the biggest ever made in Canada, arranged in a quadrangle, with an entertainment stage near the entrance, and towering tridents displays inside the formation.

The tridentics tell in sound and light and photo, the development of this region of Canada (including the Yukon and NWT). But the main show is inside the seven exhibit trailers where you will experience life as it was lived in Indian Villages, a Trader Shop of Lower Canada, the Gold Rush days, the Roaring Twenties, and the Great Depression, plus much more which will leave you with the feeling that you know a little more about the people who settled and developed our country.

The day will get underway at ten in the morning with a parade led by the Dayaland Pipers and the F-PCMP Band. Official opening is at 10:30, and among the guests will be Mr Cliff Smallwood, M.P., Mr. J. Hillman, M.L.A., Mr. Alex Blain, Reevve of Flagstaff, Mr. Ben Rample, Mayor of Hardisty, Mr. Les Anderson, Chairman of the Centennial Committee and Caravan Manager.

After the official opening the Caravan will be opened to the public at 11:00 a.m. and will remain open until 11:00 p. m.

Several other items of entertainment are being sponsored by the local committee, such as a band concert from 1:00 to 2:00 p m , featuring the PPCLI Band; A Gymkhana in the arena at 2:00; a Team Pulling contest and a Centennial Dance during the evening.

The Confederation Caravan has made stops every through Alberta and has visited Northern B. C , the Territories and the Yukon. In Alberta it has travelled some 5,000 miles and stopped in 51 different communities to put on its show.

DANGER — These sparks are coming from the broken end of a 700-volt power line hanging down the side of a power pole. Everyone, especially children, should be warned of the danger from such situations, and not to go near broken wires lying on or near the ground. The hoses in the foreground belong to firemen fighting a fire on the other side of the alley.

2 Firms Robbed At Sedgewick

Two Sedgewick business establishments were broken into last Friday night by one or more persons of unknown identity.

Cooks Plumbing was the first place entered, where attempts were made to break into the safe, which apparently was too strong for the thieves. The only thing known to be missing from the plumbing premises is a round chisel, which was found in the Sedgewick Co-op Store, the other business bit.

The Co-op Store was entered by way of a window in the warehouse, which was taken out. A total of six dollars is known to be missing from the store, five of which belonged to the store and one dollar belonging to the residents of Flagstaff Lodge, as part of a raffle for a rug.

Police were on the scene early on Saturday morning questioning possible witnesses, and searching for any clues leading to the identity of the thieves.

Double your money with Canada Savings Bonds
One of the great things about Canada is Canada Savings Bonds, and this year's Series is the most exciting yet. Interest starts at 5½% a year—the highest starting rate ever on a Canada Savings Bond—and goes right up to 6%. Over the 13 years to maturity the true average annual yield is 5.68%.
Best of all, Canada Savings Bonds have a wonderful compound interest feature which pays you interest on your interest. Take full advantage of it and you will double your money.
As always, Canada Savings Bonds are instant cash. They may be cashed at any time for their full face value plus accrued interest. They are easy to buy for cash or on instalments. They fit all savings budgets—from $50 up.
Buy yours today—
where you work, bank or invest!
And, for the first time ever, Canada's most popular personal investment may now be bought by businesses, churches, charities, clubs, and other organizations. Another first: the limit per holder for this Series has been increased to $50,000.
Backed by all the resources of Canada, Canada Savings Bonds are a great way to save. Buy yours today and double your money.

Sedgewick U.C.W. To Buy Tables

SEDGEWICK — The October meeting of the Sedgewick UCW was held in the church hall with 12 members and five visitors present. President Mrs A. McCracken opened the meeting with a reading, and Mrs. Gibbs presented the Devotional. Roll call was answered with a gift to be sent to Alberta Hospital.

Correspondence included three letters from our Korean Post Child and a notice from the Auxiliary of Flagstaff Lodge regarding their bazaar and tea on Oct. 21st. It was decided to purchase material to make new tables for use at banquets etc in the church hall. As in the past we will buy smily packets for the CGIT a nominating committee was formed to contact prospective officers on the executive for the new term.

Mrs Lewis reported on the UCW Workshop at Daysland which she and Mrs McCracken had attended.

Meeting was closed with Lord's Prayer, after which Mrs Bruce presented Mrs Edwards with a fare well gift on behalf of the members. Mrs. Lewis showed a series of interesting slides showing the work of a few Christains in Japan. Following this a tasty lunch was served.

Card of Thanks

Most sincere gratitude to all my benefactors & friends who remembered me in their prayers, by personal visits, by written word or any other way, at a time when I suffered so serious a car accident on the 25th of September — the day I was to officially report as Pastor at Hardisty. I was unconscious for 12 hours. I am sincerely convinced that God saved my life only because of so many prayers said by my former parishioners, my new parishioners, the Sisters of St. Anne Hospital, Hardisty, so many of our priests and our brethren non-catholic ministers. A special acknowledgement and gratitude is extended to the whole staff of St. Mary's Hospital, Camrose, and particularly to the fine nurses and the co-ordinal Sister Mary Dolorosa, Superior, and the great Dr. Baker, who, after a well earned month's vacation before resuming parish duties. May God bless you all and be with you, especially when you need Him most.
— Rev. Father Henry Beca, Pastor, St. Joseph's Parish, Hardisty, Alberta. 19 1 p

Have you ever wondered...

. . . how much it costs for complete hospital care in Alberta?

Five dollars the first day, and $2.50 for each day thereafter, for active treatment hospital care—that's all any Alberta resident has to pay to receive all of the services prescribed by his doctor as necessary to his recovery while in a general hospital. The remainder of the costs are paid by the Alberta Hospitalization Benefits Plan, administered by Hospital Services, Alberta Department of Health. The Plan also provides for outpatient services, paying 80 per cent of the charges, and makes auxiliary hospital care available to qualified patients for only $1.50 a day. The patient chooses his own hospital, when feasible, and if his doctor considers that he requires active treatment, there is no limit on the length of stay for which the patient is eligible. Out-of-province coverage is also provided by the Alberta Hospitalization Benefits Plan.

. . . what is the most important subject to Alberta's deaf school children?

Communication is the prime necessity, for, before he can begin his studies, the deaf pupil must learn to communicate with his teacher and with his fellow students. At the Alberta School for the Deaf, a branch of the Alberta Department of Education, students spend the first three years learning vocabulary, speech and written language and some training before they begin regular school subjects. To teach these, a combined method of instruction is used, utilizing speech, speech reading, auditory training and finger spelling. Pupils begin this preparatory course at the age of five and have the opportunity in progress to Grade X if they have the ability and the desire. For the older pupils, pre-vocational courses are offered in Home Economics, Industrial Arts and Business Education. The Alberta School for the Deaf accepts children of residents of Alberta, and Indian or Eskimo children from the North West Territories, wards of the Federal Government. The school has a capacity of 144 pupils.

. . . where Alberta's firemen learn their trade?

Every year, officers and potential officers from fire departments all across the province go to school . . . the Alberta Fire Training School in Vermilion. There, they take a five week course covering all aspects of their responsibilities, from actual fire-fighting to administrative work. Fire Officers Training Courses are available to all volunteer fire departments and to those professional departments which do not have their own training programs. Successful graduates receive a set of lecture notes and materials to enable them to pass along the acquired skills and knowledge to their own local fire fighters. There is no fee charged for the training and free room and board are provided for candidates from within Alberta. The Alberta Fire Training School is conducted by, and equipment, instructors and ex-tools of training are all provided by, the Office of the Fire Commissioner, Alberta Provincial Secretary's Department.

. . . about the beautiful photographs which display Alberta to non-Albertans?

From West Germany to North Carolina, from Burma to Birmingham, people the world over are learning about Alberta from publications illustrated with Alberta color photographs. The projection of this attractive image of our province is the work of the Film and Photographic Branch of the Alberta Department of Industry and Development, whose staff takes and processes those pictures used in government publications. In addition to showing Alberta to non-residents, the Film and Photo Branch also helps to keep Albertans up to date on the doings of the government, as they produce photos and film clips of newsworthy events for reproduction in newspapers and on television. Government photographs produced by the Branch are not available for direct advertising use, or to private individuals or firms for decorative purposes.

. . . what tops the agricultural "best seller" list in Alberta?

Actually, it's a publication called "Chemical Weed Control". Each year, 12,000 of those technical aids to farmers are distributed by the Publications and Visual Aids Branch of the Extension Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture. Next most popular is "The Alberta Farm Guide", closely followed by "The Horticultural Guide", each with a distribution of approximately 7,500 annually. Altogether, about 32,000 publications, covering all agricultural subjects from farm management to pest control, are supplied free to Alberta farmers each month, keeping them advised on new techniques and developments in food production.

M.D. Flagstaff Council Meets

A regular meeting of the Council of the Municipal District of Flagstaff was held in the Council Room on September 13 with all members in attendance.

Mr Whitehead, shop foreman of public works submitted a report of the new 660 Champion Grader purchased during the summer. He said the motor grader did not operate to his satisfaction, and suggested that two changes be made before the warranty expires; the Hydraulic system should be on a different circuit than at present, and the main pump should have a large oil cooler installed. Since then other faults have been found, and the foreman has suggested that the company be asked to take the machine back and replace it with a new one. Council agreed that it should stress having the machine replaced.

The shop foreman reported that the new Holco No. 20 Blades purchased last spring to test their performance record, were not as serviceable as anticipated. The blades were going three to one. The Pecal blades still give the best service & [illegible] that Council stay with the Pecal Blade. This recommendation was accepted.

Dealing with crushing the stockpiling of gravel for sale to gravel truckers, towns and villages, was discussed. Council was of the opinion that the gravel crushed & sold to towns and villages should be stockpiled on their own sites.

Correspondence from the Deputy Minister advising the Council that the Executive Council had approved the formation of a County in the M. D. Flagstaff area as of January 1, 1968, was referred to the meeting. The Deputy Minister also requested Council to forward recommendations to the Minister as to the number of electoral divisions to be established in the County, together with proposed boundaries of each electoral division.

A letter from the Deputy Minister was read in reference to Section 251 of the M. D. Act with respect to construction of a M. D. Administration Building over a period of two years. This section was clarified, advising that a by-law should be passed for the total estimated cost of the building. The cost of the project must be dealt with in its entirety and cannot be apportioned to two separate by-laws. The aggregate of the contract must not exceed the limit of five mills unless the Council is prepared to advertise the by-law for a petition and a vote if required.

Letter from the Solicitor, Mr. A. Brownlee, pertaining to by-law re construction of an office building, was also read. It too dealt with Section 251 of the Act, and Mr Brownlee advised that a by-law must be passed for the total cost of the project, and cannot be apportioned to separate by-laws in order to avoid the limitations of Section 251.

The Reeve reported that he also had a telephone call from the Deputy Minister advising him that the Council should seriously consider re withholding the construction of an Administration building until the Council of the County takes over after the first of the year. In his opinion, the planning of the building should be done jointly. After some discussion the Council reluctantly agreed to leave the matter for the time being. It was moved that the building program for the construction of the new Administration Office be tabled to January 3rd, 1968, when the Council of the County takes office

The discussion as to the number of electoral divisions was interrupted as G. Parker of TPL Industries had an appointment to meet with the Council Mr Parlow stated that his Company is now able to meet the requirements of supplying spiral corrugated steel culverts of standard sizes and any length. He was informed that Council would give further consideration when placing orders next year.

A delegation of M. Niehaus from Strome, E. Fox of Killam, J. White of Strome, E. Engel of Killam, G. Strom of Viking, J. Froehler from Nirome and E. Rusticka of Viking, presented a petition signed by seven ratepayers requesting Council to refrain from any office or administration building construction until such time as a County Council may be elected and assumes office. The Reeve informed the delegation that Council had already decided to table the planning and construction to January 3, 1968.

Time was spent in discussing the number of Electoral Divisions to be established in the County. Councillor Matthews expressed an opinion that perhaps boundaries of some electoral divisions should be altered. Reference was made to previous reviews and studies of the electoral divisions with respect to area, population, mileage of roads, etc.

As time was limited Council agreed to recommend that the number of divisions and boundaries remain the same in the County as in the existing M. D. Flagstaff.

Mr Likeness informed council that gravelling projects for the year are near completion. He further reported that the gravelling outfit was moving into Electoral Division 3. The foreman was asked to gravel a small project in Division 1 and also two miles in Division 2.

The gravel survey committee met with reps of the County of Camrose to discuss progress of the 22E of 36-41-17 for purpose of providing supply of gravel. County of Camrose settled for a purchase price of $22,000 This was agreed upon by the Council on a motion. Carried.

Council was informed that Drs. J and P Myles were leaving & had verbally given notice of vacating the Municipality owned house in Galahad on October 12, 1967. Discussion ensued. The incoming Doctor was planning to arrive around Oct. 7th, and it was suggested that perhaps the house could be vacated before that time or as soon as possible. This would give time to have the inside painted and repairs made to the house The rental fee and inventory of medical equipment in the house was discussed. It was moved and passed that the house in Galahad be rented to the incoming Doctor as of October 12th with the understanding that the Doctor reside in the house.

Secretary read a letter he had drafted to be forwarded to the Doctors who had agreements under th: Municipal Medical Scheme, advising them that since the implementation of the Provincial Alberta Health Plan, the M. D. Medical Scheme would be terminated Dec. 31st, 1967. Carpet Dirt

The properties of the complex substances that accumulate in and on carpet also aid to the carpet cleaning problem. Physically carpet dirt may be separated into three groups according to particle size: surface dirt which includes thread bare lint paper scraps and sewing room litter; the dirt and dust which is small but in weight, collect in the upper part of the pile fabric and sand and grit which because of their weight readily become embedded in the base of the pile fabric in the open spaces between the pile rows and even in the tuft packets formed by the interweaving of the backing yarns.

Surface litter is unsightly but less harmful than the other two types of carpet dirt. It is usually more easily removed. Greasy, sticky or gum substance which combine with the finely divided particles just below the carpet surface, cause that portion of the dirt to cling tenaciously to the pile yarns. This, and the more deeply embedded dirt and grit are the most difficult to remove. If the embedded dirt has sharp cutting edges that press against the soft pile yarns under the friction of use, the result may be a loss of pile tufts and a worn appearance.

Carpet Cleaning Equipment

The primary function of an electric vacuum cleaner is to remove surface dirt and embedded dirt and grit from floor coverings. Most surface litter can be removed readily by surface cleaning methods like sweeping action of a carpet sweeper or the suction and sweeping action of the vacuum cleaner. To remove both light and heavy dirt and grit embedded below the pile surface requires carpet-cleaning action. This loosens the embedded dirt and bounces it to the carpet surface where suction and sweeping action can carry it into the dirt receptable.

Dorothy Backen Married at Bethania Lutheran

Bethania Lutheran Church, Sedgewick, on June 17th, 1967 was the scene of a pretty wedding in which Dorothy Anne, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Backen became the bride of William Glen Miller, son of Mrs. Pearlie Geddes and the late Mr. Harold Miller.

Pastor S. Christopherson performed the double ring ceremony before an alter decorated with bouquets of white gladiola; white satin bows marked the pews. During the ceremony Mr. Leo Anderson sang, "The Wedding Prayer" accompanied by Mrs R Jacobsen, also organist for the wedding.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an empire line floor length gown in pink organza, featuring a rounded neckline and short sleeves with a matching floor length coat. The head piece of white flowers held in place the bouffant veil of nylon net. The bride carried a lovely bouquet of white roses.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Gail Lozneca as matron of honour, and Mrs. Eileen Gascoyne, bridesmaid. They were identical empire line floor length gowns of pale green English flowered rayon with matching head pieces They carried white shasta daisies.

Attending the groom were Nels Jensen of Cold Lake, friend of the groom and Wayne Miller of Edmonton, brother of the groom Ushers were Garry Miller, brother of groom and Lawrence Backen, the brides brother.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Backen wore a tangerine suit with tangerine and black accessories. The grooms mother, Mrs. Geddes wore a pale yellow suit with white accessories Both were white rose corsages.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Church Hall. A three tiered cake topped with bells centered the brides table which was flanked with pink candles & streamers. The cake was made by the brides sister, Mrs. Calvin MacPher and decorated by Mrs. Edith Johnson. Master of Ceremonies, Mr. Calvin MacPherson, proposed the toast to the bride which was ably responded to by the groom. Mrs. Fred Reis, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

Out of town guests were from Edmonton, Cold Lake, Taber, Manneville, Hardisty, Killam, Lloydminster, Stroms, and Alliance.

Baptist Church

Activities of this past week have been limited to the usual Wednesday evening mid-week service, and the Sunday activities. Last Sunday night many expressed their joy of having Mr Ed Hales of Conference office in Camrose with us. His emphasis that stewardship is a total life presentation, was a challenge to each one of us. God owns all and thus man owns all, was the basic idea and thrust.

This Sunday included the sermon "Use Come Back" from the story of the ten Lepers, and the evening sermon "What Christ Thought Of Serdis".

The young people met at the Heartley Heartberg home for their weekly meeting, following the evening service. A time of study was followed by a time of planning for the coming months.

KATHLEEN COSTALL & DOUGLAS FEE MARRIED AT SEDGEWICK UNITED

The Sedgewick United Church was the setting of a double-ring ceremony on August 26th uniting in marriage Kathleen Ethel Costall and Edward Douglas Fee, with The Reverend D. Lewis officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Costall of Sedgewick and the groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Fee of Killam.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked radiant in a floor-length gown of embroidered lace. The gown featured a scoop neckline, elbow-length bell sleeves and an empire waistline complimented by a small bustle. A cluster of rosebuds held in place her chapel length veil. Her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings, gift of the groom, and a locket, gift of her grandmother. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Charlene Heffel, and Miss Corinne Fee, sister of the groom. They were dressed in identical floor-length empire waistline dresses of pink silk raosine. The gowns were set off by lace bodice, elbow-length bell sleeves and a detachable train trimmed with lace. They wore rhinestone tiaras and carried bouquets of pink and white carnations. The bride was also attended by Lionel Homan, cousin of the groom, as flower girl, and Gregory Edge, nephew of the bride as ring bearer. Attending the groom were his brother Richard, and the bride's brother, Stanley. Kenneth Edge and Reginald Fee acted as ushers. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Helen Kinmer, and during the service Mr. Len Anderson sang, "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because".

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Costall chose a two-piece burgundy lace suit. She wore white accessories with a white carnation corsage. The groom's mother chose an aqua crepe sheath dress with matching French lace coat. She wore yellow and gold accessories with corsage of white and yellow carnations.

The reception was held in the church hall with Dr. Alan Fee acting as master of ceremonies. Mr. Ken Geddes proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded. Mr. Richard Fee proposed the toast to the bridesmaids. Mr. Les Anderson accompanied by Miss Helen Kinzer, sang "At Dawning".

Open House and a dance followed at Killam in the evening.

For her going-away outfit the bride chose an aqua wool sheath dress with matching coat. Her accessories were aqua and white with a corsage of pink roses and white carnations. After a honeymoon trip to Banff and Jasper Parks the couple will reside at Innisfail where the groom will be teaching.

Guests for the wedding were from Sedgewick, Killam, Forestsburg, Alliance, Strome, Hardisty, Dayaland, Edmonton Red Deer, Bonnyville, Ryley and Toronto.

Alberta Roads Claim Almost One Per Day

Despite a bad start, when five people died in a four car pile-up just south of Edmonton on August 2nd, the eight centennial month passed with somewhat fewer fatalities reported. Thirty-one fatal accidents accounted for 46 traffic deaths in Alberta — compared with 52 for the same period last year.

The Alberta Safety Council reported this brings the death toll on Alberta roads during the first 303 day of 1967 to 338. That is down one from August 31, 1966.

The lower number of August traffic deaths was due to a better record by the two larger cities. Edmonton had two deaths, compared to five last year. Calgary had only one traffic death, as against four in August the year before.

R.C.M.P. reported 42 deaths in the rest of the province, the same as last year.

Accidents for the month totalled 3,385 — up about 200. R.C.M.P. reported almost one third of these During the first 8 months of 1967, there have been 28,688 traffic accidents in this province. This is up by 7 - Property damage was an estimated 1.77 million dollars in August.

At the same time, total injuries for the year so far were down by 3% to 5,684. However, close to one-fifth of these injuries were reported in August. There were 1,097 injuries reported, 172 more than in the previous August.

The biggest share of this increase took place on busy highways outside of the larger centers. R.C.M.P. reported 689 injuries, compared with 517 reported for the same month last year.

Princess Royal To Canvas For Blind

Princess Royal I.O.D.E. held the first meeting since the holidays, at the home of Mrs. Cecile Manning.

The C.N.I.B. Canvas was discussed and it was decided to ask the Church Groups to help with the canvas and to canvas in October.

The Provincial Letter was read and it was noted that a Social Work Bursary (from I.O.D.E.) had been placed in the name of Sandra Lawrence and she will have lots of good books, well worth reading.

Lien and advised that their specifications stipulate, where a District or Local road has been used for a detour, the contractor shall, at his own expense, maintain and leave such road in as good a condition as previous to its use as a detour. Sec. was directed to forward the letter to Mr. Overchitz asking him to notify Mr Lien when the work of constructing the bridge is completed in the rural fire protection plan, it should be equipped with adequate lights; Lions should go on hand one powerful flashlight or lantern, a shovel, wrecking bar and fire axe, and a small CO2 extinguisher, kept on the truck at all times. Also protective clothing, helmet, etc. That the Mun. Policeman should, if possible be available to direct traffic. A roster of at least 6 full-time municipal employees should be made use of, two to be on a 24 hour call for a week at a time. Mr Lee also thought council should arrange wit hthe Sedgewick Fire Dept. to have a member of the Prov. Fire Com. office attend a series of meetings for the purpose of outlining responsibilities in case of a fire. He also wanted to know if the truck should be insurance in the Town or Village or if the truck is to be called only in an emergency, but

H. & S. Starts New Season

The new season of Our Lady of Fatima Home and School Assn. was successfully opened with an excellent crowd on hand for the annual presentation of awards.

After leading the prayer which opened the business meeting, Rev. Fr. McCarthy installed the new officers as follows: Pres., D. Pfeifer; Vice, A. Schaffer; Sec., Mrs D. Hayes; Treas., A. Schmutzler, Program Con., Mrs V. Niehaus. Mrs. Nobel was elected to assist Mrs Pfeifer as lunch convenor. Sister St. Joseph introduced the new member of the teaching staff, Miss Boon who was welcomed by the parents.

Miss E. Chevraux, Regional Director, spoke briefly on the Home & School conventions to be held Nov. 23-25. She stressed the importance of delegates studying the resolutions to be presented. Mr. Pfeifer was named as convention delegate, & the executive to act as a resolutions committee.

Following a short business meeting Rev. McCarthy presented the awards for the highest standing in Religion to the following; Grade 1, Tracey Gamme; Grade 2, Barbara Jean Hayes; Grade 3, Joseph Kember; Grade 4, Linda Nikoforuk; Gr. 5, Tom Spiller; Grade 6, Norma Jean Moser; Grade 7, Darlene Heal, Grade 8, Mary Ann Kueber; Grade 9, Loretta Slavik; Grade 10, Rita Sandmaier; Grade 11, Dennis Edgeter. Miss Loretta Slavik was the big winner of the evening, receiving four awards. For highest marks in Grade 9 Departmentals Loretta received the CWL $25 award, as well as the Holy Name award $25.

The award for highest marks in Grade 8 Social, presented by the School Board was shared by Loretta Slavik and Kay Monk. Sharleen George and Carol Miller tied for highest marks in Grade 9 Science, and shared the Killam Legion's award for this achievement.

Following the presentation of the awards, the film "The Teacher — Authority of Automation" was displayed for viewing. The buzz session which followed indicated the obvious concern by the parents of the roll of our teachers.

Rams Outscored By Wetaskiwin

Central High Rams were at home on Saturday for a game against Wetaskiwin, which was played in a light rain and cold wind.

Rams were outscored by a wide margin which does not give a true picture of the play, even throughout most of the game. Most of the Wetaskiwin points were scored as the result of bad breaks for the locals. One of these, a fumbled punt by the Rams on the five yard line, rolled into the end zone and was fallen on by a Wetaskiwin player for a TD Several other similar incidents contributed most of the 38 points scored by the visitors.

Rams showed a much improved offensive in this game and were able to move the ball both on the ground and through the air for substantial gains. On their first series of plays early in the first quarter, they moved from their own 10 yard line into Wetaskiwin territory on just three plays, and when stopped, missed the dead ball line for the single point.

There appeared to be very little difference between the two teams in ability, & one of these times old lady luck will switch sides and the locals should not get a good beating to their opponents.

Refereeing in both Ram home games this season has been rather poor, for both sides. These fellows are obviously apprentices. As long-time fan and supporter of the Rams Bob Erickson, put it, "it leaves something to be desired".

Good Deed Club Sponsors Poster Contest

The Hazelwood Good Deed Club met for October at the home of Orma Thorp with seven members and one visitor present. Roll call was answered with "What we have to be thankful for".

Plans were finalized for the poster contest which our club is sponsoring as a Centennial project. This is open to students in Grades 7, 8 & 9 of Hardisty, Lougheed and Sedgewick public schools. An award of $10 will be given for the best poster and the winner will be announced late in November. Arrangements will be made to display the winning poster in all three towns before returning it to the student. Mailing deadline is November 3rd.

A committee was formed to contact Killam and Hardisty hospitals to find out what they need as a Christmas donation that will add comfort to their patients.

It was decided to hold another bake sale, this time in Lougheed. Watch for posters.

The hostess prize was won by Violet Metz. Roll call for November is a gift for either boy or girl, valued from 5 to 15c. to go towards our fish pond at the Christmas Party.

The next meeting will be at the home of Violet Metz on Nov. 8th.

Sedgewick Legion Auxiliary Meets

SEDGEWICK — Ten members answered roll call when the Canadian Legion Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs W. Johnson.

A bake sale will be held at which time the Christmas Parcel will be taken to the hospital.

The annual Cadet Party will be held on Dec. 1st.

In spite of the drop in membership, we plan to carry on as long as possible New members are very welcome, and any donations to the bake sale would be gratefully accepted.

Meeting closed with lunch and a social time.

HE PUMBLED — Two Ram ball players put the clop on a Composite play and the ball squirts loose. The ball carrier is on the ground beneath the two Rams, and the ball can be seen in the air between the two white uniforms. Rams recovered and then went on the offensive. Rams have a pretty fair defensive squad this year that is giving the opposition lots of trouble, and have the offensive team almost to be starting to click. In Saturday's game they were able to gain some good yardage.

M.D. Flagstaff Council Meeting

not as a stand-by. The truck should only be called to assist in rural fire fighting chiefly in the Killam, Lougheed, Sedgewick & Hardisty areas.

The fire account of $175 from the Town of Hardisty for attending fire at Bellshill School site, was questioned. It was felt, after study, that the maximum of two hours should be sufficient to cover this.

Payment of Grant in the amount of $2000 to each Village and Town participating in the Rural Fire Protection Plan as authorized by By-law 307, was tabled to the meeting in October.

Letter from AGT re council's request for dropping out the buried cable system within the M.D., was read The writer explained that the doing of this should be time consuming, but their representative would be personally contacting this office in the very near future to finalize distribution of this information.

Mr. O. Falls who had objected to the closing of road allowance between NE 9 and NW 10-46-13-4, was notified that he may appear at the next council meeting on Oct. 11th.

Conn. Bunney reported that the Power companies are placing poles for wires on Municipal roads without obtaining permission from Municipal authorities. Their authority to do so was questioned by council & the matter tabled for further information.

Cr. Lien reported he was successful in obtaining preliminary agreements pertaining to a road survey from owners of SW 14-43-11 and NW 11-43-11. Mr. Schmidt was further to have the road surveyed, but still claimed he should receive compensation for all those years that the land was used for a road.

A letter was received from the Prov. Planning Director advising that the transfer of 36 acres on NE 9-42-13 south of the CNR, from Paul Martin to the registered owner of SE 9-42-13, was approved providing the said parcel is consolidated under one certificate of title with the SE½-42-13. The proposed subdivision in the NW 17-41-13 was also conditionally approved, on condition it is consolidated under one certificate of title and subject to the registration of a 42-foot highway widening throughout the West boundary of the noted section.

By-law 300 authorizing the Council to purchase Lots 8 and 9, Block 10, Plan 3838P in the Town of Sedgewick for the sum of $200, for the purpose of erecting a Municipal Administration building, or any other building required for the operation of the Municipal District of Flagstaff, was presented for council. This was tabled to the next meeting as third reading motion was not unanimous.

By-law 400, authorizing the council to purchase from the County of Camrose the SE 36-44-17 for $2,000 for the purpose of acquiring gravel deposits, was presented and approved by the council.

Further report on the operation of the new Champion Motor Grader purchased last summer, was tabled to 1:30 when Ferguson Supply Ltd. officials will be present.

Letter pertaining to the vacating of the MD house at Galahad by Dr. Myles of Alliance, was read. The Doctors informed council they will vacate the Galahad house Oct. 12.

Cr. Bunney reported that the committee was unable to inspect the building. However it was agreed that the painting of the house be left until the incoming Doctor had arrived.

The office presented a list of officials for Council's review. The appointment of the election officials was left to the Oct. 11 meeting.

Mr Gus Blumhagen of Galahad & owner of 21-40-14 met with council to discuss the gravel agreement, which expired in August, and terms of a new agreement. Council is to do some more work in levelling the pit, and agreed to pay $50 a year as long as the stockpile remains on his land.

Messrs Graham and Likkenus discussed with council the 1967 road building program. Mr Graham said there would be enough funds to build a grade on project 20 of the 1967 Articles of Agreement, but no funds to gravel the road. It was agreed that the grade be built on the whole project and one mile when most needed, be gravelled.

Mr Likkenus informed the council that there was an written gravel agreement for gravel deposits on the SE 16-45-13 between Mrs E. Jacobs and the M. D. Mrs Jacobs and her son were zanious in obtaining this agreement. Mr Likkens was directed to proceed in finalizing the agreement with Mrs Jacobs.

Mr. Wm. Lewis met with Council which agreed to pay Mr. Lawrence Sunderman for half the yardage sold to private concerns at the rate of 12c per yard. Mr. Lewis was advised that to date Council had no word of Winter Works Program and as a result was unable to arrive at any decision on building a metal house for the crusher for the winter months.

Councillor Matthews informed the Council that the Hardisty Hospital Board is interested in the purchase to operate the Hospital before the Provincial Grants are received. The interest paid on the loans is not reimbursed by the Government. In checking some of the Financial Statements of other M.D.'s and Counties it is noted that most are requisitioning the local authorities for the extra assistance. This posed a question of establishing a municipal hospital district in this area. The Secretary advised the Council that the Hardisty Board approached him about the matter a few days ago & that he had ordered a Hospital Act and Regulations which can then provide more information in this regard.

Subscription to the Consumers' Assn. of Canada was reserved. A Red Cross quilt was drawn by Mrs. Lorraine Sundermann for half the yardage sold to private concerns at the rate of 12c per yard. Mr. Lewis was advised that to date Council had no word of Winter Works Program and as a result was unable to arrive at any decision on building a metal house for the crusher for the winter months.

Carol Christenson Wed At Bethania Lutheran Church

Have you ever wondered...

...If tomorrow will be a good day for haying or harvesting?

For the Alberta farmer, everything depends on the weather and knowing today what it will be like tomorrow is a great asset. Farm-oriented weather forecasts, prepared by an agriculturist working in consultation with the Commission Public Weather Office, are issued daily to radio and TV stations and newspapers in the province by the Information Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture. Each forecast gives a Farm Weather Synopsis, which discusses TODAY'S weather and gives special advice on farming operations, and a Regional Forecast for tomorrow plus an outlook for the day after. The probable effect of the weather on farming operations is emphasized throughout. In addition to the agricultural weather forecasts, the Information Branch also provides information and news on farming and homemaking through "Calls of the Land" farm broadcast, news releases and other methods.

...how many pictures there are in Alberta's photo album?

Twenty-five thousand square miles of Alberta, about ten per cent of the entire area of the province, have their portraits taken each year. Over 100,000 of these aerial photographs are on file at the Maps and Aerial Photographs Branch of the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests. Their purpose is far more than a museum than ornamental because from these pictures, comes detailed information which allows the Branch to produce accurate and up-to-date maps of the province. For the province, each year, maps of the recreational areas in the Rocky Mountain Forest Reserve are updated to provide hunters and fishermen with detailed information as to highways, trails and waterways. In addition, enlargements from the aerial photos are excellent tools for farm planning, oil exploration surveys, and water resource studies.

...about the purpose of those strange-looking instruments you sometimes see set up beside Alberta highways?

Well, it could be to measure your speed but it's just as likely to be to measure the quality of the highway you're travelling on. The Research Council of Alberta, working with the Alberta Department of Highways and the U. of A., is carrying out an extensive search for methods to improve highway construction through improved design techniques and new material specifications. In addition to laboratory studies on the materials being used, field investigations are measuring rolling qualities and structural stress, sub-grade characteristics and moisture temperatures. The purpose is to produce the formula for a highway which will give the greatest travelling comfort and the longest life at the lowest cost. This is just one facet of Research Council activities. Assistance to industry through information services, engineering and research programs and raw material investigations; studies of natural resources, developments of new products and processes using Alberta raw materials, and development of products suited to Alberta markets are all major factors in the operation of the Research Council of Alberta.

...how you can prove you were born?

If you're a native Albertan, the solution is simple. Your birth certificate is on file with the 1,200,000 entered at the Division of Vital Statistics, Alberta Department of Health, where the records date back to the days when Alberta was still a part of the North West Territories. There is provision for recording each birth, death and marriage in the province with this Division. Today, weekly reports from 270 District Registrars and monthly reports from dozens of agencies become keep the records up to date. For a fee, and with proof of your identity, you can obtain a copy of your birth or marriage certificate, or a death certificate when necessary. This service is invaluable for old age pension applicants, social agencies and other areas where proof of age is needed. The Division of Vital Statistics assists in compiling the national records by providing microfilmed copies of all documents to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, and provides an international service by making its records available to all members of the United Nations.

...what procedure is followed in permitting a teacher from a foreign country to become a part of the Alberta school system?

All foreign teachers applying for a position within Alberta's educational system are screened carefully by the Teachers' Certification Branch of the Alberta Department of Education. First, it is determined if they obtained their training in an institute which maintains the standard acceptable to the province. Then, they must submit a University transcript of their study program. If their academic credentials are acceptable, they are asked to provide a type written of an interview with a person fluent in English. This establishes the ability of the applicant to speak the language. References as to teaching ability and personal acceptability are also required. In addition to screening foreign applicants for teaching in Alberta, the Branch also examines foreign students for their place in the school system.

...if those strange-looking insects appearing in your garden are friends or foes?

Often. It takes the eye of an expert to distinguish between a destructive insect and a useful ally. To obtain the services of the experts in such identification, just check with your local parks department or your district agriculturist. If they can't identify the insect in question, they'll call on the Alberta Department of Agriculture Crop Clinic. There the trained staff, working in a fully-equipped laboratory, will decide whether the species should be destroyed or protected. This same service is obtainable for the identification of unusual weeds, birds, animals and plants. In addition, the Crop Clinic plant pathologist advises on the nature and treatment of diseases of plants, be they agricultural crops or ornamental shrubs. Every year, the Crop Clinic identifies the diseases of, and suggests treatment for, over 1,500 submitted samples of field, fruit, vegetable and special crops, as well as household and garden plants.

SIGGELKOW - DAVIS VOWS PLEDGED

Baskets of giant white chrysanthemums and lighted candles decorated the Calgary Full Gospel Church at 3:30 p.m September 2nd when Miss Sharon Elsie Siggelkow, eldest daughter of the Rev. Ernest Siggelkow of Killam became the bride of William Ronald Davis, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Davis of Three Hills, Alberta.

The bride's father, assisted by Rev. E. L. McRae of Calgary, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The soloist, Cst. George Seemann of High River, was accompanied by Miss Ruth Beck at the organ as he sang "The Wedding Prayer" & "O Perfect Love".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a lovely gown of peau de soie, handmade by herself. It featured a lace appliqued border on the A-line skirt and elbow length sleeves. A chapel train fell from a bow at the empire waistline. A bouffant veil billowed from her floral headpiece. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom. A cascade of pink delight roses and stephanotis formed her beautiful bouquet.

Matron of honor, Mrs. W. Lowenberg, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids Miss Carolyn Siggelkow and Miss Donna Davis, were identical floor length dresses of blue peau de elegance, styled to match the brides gown. Cascading bouquets of white spray mums contrasted strikingly with their dresses. Floral headpieces and wisps of net completed their outfits.

Candle lighters Misses Brenda Siggelkow and Dianne Davis wore street length dresses featuring white bodices and turquoise skirts. Pink carnations formed their corsages.

Best man was Darrel Davis of Three Hills. Also attending the groom were Alan Martin and Douglas Siggelkow.

About 120 guests enjoyed a reception at Hillhurst United Church Hall. Miss Janet Klassen presided over the guest book. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table.

CONFEDERATION CARAVAN — Through the door of this Caravan Exhibit is a 1731 Tailor's Shop, and on the stone wall poster from almost a century later advise young men of good character that sharpshooters are wanted by the Glengarry Light Infantry Fencibles for the War of 1812. In the foreground is the entrance to a tavern of the 1838's. These were some of the exhibits seen at Hardisty last week by almost 5000 people.

4785 At Confederation Caravan

HARDISTY — The visit of the Confederation Caravan to Hardisty on October 18th was a high-lighting experience. At 9:30 a.m. the first bus load of enthusiastic school pupils arrived, and in a few minutes was followed by more than 25 other buses, until an enormous crowd of some 1800 children and parents gathered for the parade and other events.

The parade was organized by the Hardisty and District Light Horse Assn., and featured horse-drawn exhibits. The parade was led by two members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Constable Cliff Kroeker and Constable Dale Guest, who wore the brilliant red and blue attire distinctive of that force. They were followed by the well-known PPCLI Band from Edmonton. Next were officials, riding in old-fashioned buggies. Among these were Mr. Jack Hillman, M.L.A., Mr. Ben Rempel, Mayor of Hardisty, Mr. George Matthews, representing the M. D. Flagstaff, Mr. Ted Crossland, Caravan Manager and Mr. Len Anderson, District Caravan Committee Chairman.

Other entries, depicting the old-time theme, were old-time buying machinery, automotive industry & others. Members of the Light Horse Assn. carried banners representing all the local organizations which were involved in the planning and preparation for the Caravan. The Dayland Pipers and Drummers also marched and played several numbers throughout the day.

After several brief speeches by the officials at the opening, Mayor Rempel pressed the button signalling the horn-blowing ,and the Caravan was officially open to the public.

Among those entertaining on the stage, was the Sedgewick Central High School Chorus, the PPCLI Band and the Dayland Pipers.

During the afternoon the Light Horse Assn. entertained with a Gymkhana in the Arena. Events of the day were further high-lighted with a Centennial Dance sponsored by the Elks Lodge. The dance was held in the newly re-modelled ball, a Centennial project of the Elks.

The Caravan closed at 11:00 p.m.

The official count of the persons filing through this exhibit stood at 4785.

The Old-Timers Tea Room, and Handicraft Display was most popular, with old friends meeting to talk over old times. This was run by ladies of the ACW, Strong and Sunshine groups, many of them in Centennial costume. Members of the Eastern Star provided a baby-sitting service, while hot meals were served to the Band and the Caravan workers by the Arena Assn. and the Hardisty Lions provided a late lunch for Caravan workers. The Caravan itself was much enjoyed by young and old, bringing a sense of pride in the Canadian tradition.

Baby-doll pyjama tops, ragged cutoffs and sneakers were part of the boys' costumes. The day was ended with a dance at the Dayland Community Centre with music by Gramer and the Wailers.

Last Tuesday, October 17th, all students of the Daysland School visited the Centennial Caravan showing in Camrose.

On Hallowe'en Night Thousands Of Children Will Collect For UNICEF

Did you ever know that hundreds of thousands of young Canadian youngsters-your children and ours-are working to provide a better future for millions of less fortunate children around the world? Each year at Hallowe'en, more and more Canadian children carry little UNICEF boxes on their "Pennies for UNICEF" rounds. The coins they collect are used by UNICEF, the United Nations Children's fund, to help provide food and health and schooling for other children whose hope lies in our concern.

Last year, Canadian children collected the astonishing sum of $941,000, literally tons of coins, at the Hallowe'en for UNICEF. These coins work wonders around the world, bringing happiness and hope to the worlds children.

But more important, perhaps, than the money is the lesson for all of us in the UNICEF Hallowe'en campaign. Our children respond emotionally to UNICEF's appeal. For them the issues are simple. Other children need help, so our children give it.

That's why Canadian children carry the orange and black UNICEF boxes at Hallowe'en. That is why you should give generously when they ask for "Pennies for UNICEF" And, while you are at it, pause a moment to think about the open boards of children. We can all learn a lesson from them.

On Tuesday afternoon the School Division held the Official Opening of their new office and to members of the Public entering the front door, those two ladies, Mrs. S. Olson and Mrs. L. Olson, are right there in the outer office to greet them. The public was invited to tour the building on Tuesday and Wednesday, and were served coffee and doughnuts.

Farm Fire Causes Extensive Damage

A fire at the farm of Mr Harry Fiallow on Monday afternoon destroyed two stacks of bales, two feed tanks, one small building, the main power pole and transformer, and damaged the fence on one side of the feed lot.

The fire was discovered and the alarm turned in at about 2:00 p. m. by Mr Dick Erickson, and the Sedgewick fire truck responded at once, but the fire was already too advanced to be stopped. All efforts were used to stop it from spreading further. No one was at the farm when the fire started, and cause of the blaze is unknown.

In the two stacks of feed were approximately 2000 bales, over half hay and the rest straw Hauling and stacking of these bales had just been completed earlier in the day.

Two 300-gallon fuel tanks, both full, were only a few feet away, and were completely destroyed Flames also destroyed the main power pole and transformer which was close to the fuel tanks. One small wooden building also burned, but firemen were able to save a self-feeder only a few feet away, as well as the rest of the buildings and feed

A large number of cattle were in the corrals close to the stacked feed and these were released into nearby pastures, and a truck parked nearby was saved even though hay in the box was aflame when it was moved

A stiff breeze made fighting the fire more difficult, and contributed to its raged spread Damage was estimated to be above $5000.

NEW OUTLOOK — Despite almost impossible growing conditions at the White Sands National Monument near Alamogordo, N.M., a few desert plants do survive. These determined specimens, constantly struggling to maintain their crowns above the surface of the shifting gypsum dunes, keep lengthening their stems. Some have been found to have stems as long as 40 feet.

Keep Children Safe From Fire

The night of witches and goblins is a merry time for revelers young and old Keep it fun and don't let dangerous pranks and neglect of simple fire precautions spoil the party Gay McLaren, general manager of the National safety League of Canada warns that vandalism and the setting up of obstructions and other such potential hazards should have no place in Hallowe'en revelry.

Parents are the ones chiefly responsible for their children on this night. It is up to them to accompany their youngest kiddies unless they can be entrusted with a responsible older person It is their duty to protect their children by (a) stopping they are really costumed; (b) enforcing a reasonable code of behavior and (c) initiating or supporting community activities which will provide a safe and wholesome outlet for a youngster's Hallowe'en spirit. With this in mind, the League offers the following tips:

1. Make up the child's face rather than by a mask Textile masks can easily obscure a child's vision. Many have inadequate openings for the eyes and there is always the danger from a slipping down as the child runs. The use of a little rouge, eye brow pencil, eye shadow, lipstick, perhaps corn starch or chalk oxide, can transform a youngster into a ghost, pirate or clown who will be the envy of his friends. More important, he will be comfortable and able to see danger in time to avert it. Cold cream and facial tissue will remove the make-up later

2 Provide the child with a light colored costume so he can be seen more really by the motorist. Light colored shopping bags are also an asset Dress up the outfits with reflectorized tape or bands that glitter in the light. The costume should be short enough so as not to trip the wearer when either walking or running.

3. Costumes should be flame-resistant and loosely-woven fabric to prevent a possible flash-fire from a spark or flame. Clothing can be made flameproof by dipping into a solution of 9 ounces of borax and 4 ounces of boric acid mixed in a gallon of warm water. Wring by hand and hang out to dry. While ironing does not affect the flame resistance, the treatment must be repeated after each washing.

4. Insist that a flashlight, never a candle, be used to light up a jack-o-lantern.

5. Urge your child to use the sidewalks rather than the streets, and caution him not to dash out from between parked cars. Point out the seriousness of highway accidents, and why the swaping of windshields on cars can lead to unnecessary injury and death should the owner have to use the car before he has the time to clean the glass.

Mr. McLaren also recommended that parents set boundaries for trick or treating according to ages of the children. They should travel in groups of at least four or five and go only to homes with which they are familiar.

The hours of celebration are precious and so limited. Protect them with love, understanding and sound judgement.

Have you ever wondered...

...how it is determined who receives how much welfare assistance from the Province of Alberta?

To ensure that Alberta families truly in need receive the financial assistance required to provide them with an adequate living income, their requirements are judged on a the "budget deficit" system. The social balances the cost of such basic requirements as food, shelter, clothing, utilities and medicines against the family assets and income. If the results show a deficit, the Alberta Department of Public Welfare supplements the income to raise it to a pre-determined "adequate" level, based on present living costs. In this way, all Albertans are assured of sufficient income to maintain health and decency for themselves and their families.

...what the recipe is for good growing soil?

As in all recipes, the main concern is the proper amount of the correct ingredients. Alberta farmers can learn if the soil in their field contains the proper proportions of plant nutrients by taking the Soils Branch of the Plant Industry Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture

For a small fee, they can have a sample of soil laboratory-tested for fertility level, fertilizer requirements, acidity, alkalinity, salinity and organic matter. A report is then issued, based on the results of the analysis and on the cropping history of the land, recommending to the farmer the proper fertilizer needs, or the cultural practice adjustments necessary for the most efficient crop production. The same service is offered Alberta citizens who wish advice on the soil of their vegetable or flower gardens or lawns. The Soils Branch also assess regularly, general recommendations for the use of fertilizer with various types of soil.

...what steps are being taken to prevent mental health problems in Alberta?

Trained personnel teams consisting of psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers travel the province from the Guidance Clinic headquarters in major population centres to assess and diagnose mental problems and to recommend treatment. The emphasis is on the management of emotional and behavior problems of children and adults is provided by the Mental Health Division of the Alberta Department of Health, and is available to schools, parents and doctors, without charge. Appointments can be made through school superintendents, doctors or local health units. The Division maintains residential treatment centres for disturbed children where rehabilitation training and recreation are provided by a professional staff, and operates out-patient clinics at the Guidance Clinics. The Mental Health Division also administers the plan under which patients in mental hospitals are provided with hospital and medical care at a cost of $1 to $1.50 per day.

...what it takes, besides "a heap-o-livin'", to make a house a home?

Every homemaker knows that the house she is building, remodelling, or occupying, should be designed to suit her convenience, decorated to please her taste, and managed to the best of her ability. To be sure that all three objectives are achieved, Alberta homemakers, can call on professional assistance from the Home Economics Extension Service of the Alberta Department of Agriculture. For help in drafting house plans, choosing building materials, selecting exterior design and interior decoration, the services of a Home Design Specialist are available through District Home Economist Offices. The D.H.E. herself will advise on color schemes, flooring materials, appliances and approximate housing costs. And, to assist in such areas as the use of credit, the keeping of household records and the establishment of comparative values, the Home Economics Extension Service provides the skill and knowledge of a Home Management Specialist.

...how far ahead you must be able to see to plan Alberta's power requirements?

At least six years into the future, because it takes about five years to progress from "decision-to-build" to "power-producing-plant". Planning several years ahead of time for new power plants and the major transmission lines that connect them with the existing system is vital in providing sufficient power to meet the needs of Alberta's growing industry. This "electrical forecasting" is done by the Alberta Power Commission, a section of the Alberta Department of Industry and Development. Not only must the Commission decide when and where new plants are to be built but it must also coordinate the efforts of the various private industrial corporations which share in installing new power sources. The seven-25 supervisors of the Alberta Power Commission eliminates duplication of effort and equipment and encourages the interchange of power between companies, thus keeping the cost of power as low as possible.

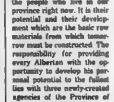
...who bears today's responsibility for Alberta's tomorrow?



Alberta's future depends on the people who live in our province right now. It is their personality and drive, development which are the basic raw materials from which tomorrow must be constructed. The responsibility for providing every Albertan with the opportunity to develop his personal potential to the fullest lies with three service-created agencies of the Province of Alberta. The immission of the Human Resources Research Council is to undertake social, educational and economic research ro that new and improved programs may provide this opportunity to individuals and communities throughout the province. The Alberta Advisory Council, devised of Alberta citizens whose interests include both the economic and social aspects of life in the province, will act as a sounding board for new ideas and will assess the value of proposed programs. The executinating body for the project is the Human Resources Development Authority. Together, these three bodies form an organization whose firm intention is to create the greatest possible opportunity for the personal potential development of every Albertan.

FAIR GAME — Despite the fact that a toy poodle is now malady's pampered pet, it was once an English hunting dog. That animal carefully trained, sniffed along the ground at night and located strange quarries which put up no fight. When it got a shovel, its master bagged them — truffles.

School Division Opens Office

QUIET! SECRETARY AT WORK — Mr. E. Barth, Secretary-Treasurer of the Killam School Division is shown at work in his office in the new building which was opened last week. Our cameraman snapped the secretary as he went over paper work prior to a recent board meeting.

Killam School Division held open house last Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon to give local residents the opportunity to tour the new office building.

All members of the Board were on hand to greet visitors, along with the secretary, E. Barth, and other staff members.

Visitors were given a tour of the reception area, board room, private offices and storage area, and were treated to coffee and doughnuts.

The new office was built this past summer at a cost of $55,000 by Burrows Construction of Camrose. The architectural design of the building was done by Aberdeen, Groves and Hodgson of Edmonton, the same firm which has done most of this work for the Division recently.

A total of some 175 people, including two officials of the Dept. of Education in Edmonton, took the opportunity to view the facilities.

Strome Boy, R. Nixon, Wins Gov.-Gen. Award

Mr. Harris is pleased to report that for the second year in a row all grade nine students from the school at Strome have passed their departmental examinations. Robert Nixon and Gail Johnson deserve congratulations because they were among the top five percent of the students in Alberta, passing with honors.

Robert Nixon will be awarded the Gov.-General's Award for the highest grade nine standing in the Killam Inspectorate. In addition, Bob won the Professional Engineers Of Alberta Achievement Award and prize for the highest marks in mathematics and science in the Central Alberta area. This is a most outstanding achievement.

Rams Stall Strong College Team

Central High Rams who have been showing great improvement with each game, took on the powerful Camrose Lutheran College team on Saturday and almost fought them to a standstill.

The College team had only had six points scored against them all season and had been rolling up large scores against the opposition, but the Rams' defensive squad has been real good this year, and stopped College time after time. In the first half of the game College only managed six points against Central's strong defence, and they have not been that nowhere near the low score in the first half of a game this season. This was mainly due to the steady pressure the Rams kept on the College offensive team, not allowing them to get their plays organized. This also caused them to fumble twice in the first half, both of which the Rams recovered; one by Hampshire and the other by Arntzen.

In the second half the scoring opened up a little with College picking up 15 more points for a total of 18. In the fourth quarter the Rams started to click and scored two majors, one by Bradley and one by Anderson, for a total of 12.

Losing by a score of 19 to 12 can almost be considered a victory for the Rams as no team has ever come close to holding the College to such a low score while scoring 12 against them.

It should be pointed out that College does not field a High School team but a College team, with several players well above the high school age level, which gives them a distinct advantage in size as well as experience.

Scout Committee Meets At Strome

The Strome Scout Committee met on October 30th with the meeting opened by Ed Kreutzer. Minutes and treasurer's report were read and adopted. Bills were presented.

Motion was carried that the local Scouts have a hike on October 28th. An invitation was received for the Scouts to attend a show Adventure in High Arctic at the Lutheran College. Ten dollars will be sent to the Regional Headquarters for [illegible] and etc.

Margaret Mitchell spoke on the need of a meeting place for the Scouts, and Asa Hill voiced the same opinion for the Cubs. Margaret suggested the use of the Bob Inn Cafe as that space was possibly available to both groups. Ray Enbeter and Ed Kroetch are to determine what had to be done to make it suitable. A clean-up bee for the Cafe was planned and Maynard Hill will see about a qualified instructor to teach first aid to the Scouts.

Scout Master Enbeter asked the parents and boys to consider a days camping during the winter, and invited any of the committee to his home to meet Mr. McGonagle from the Scouters Club on Nov. 13th.

GOING NOWHERE! — The Central High Rams had the odds stacked against this attacker as they swarm around him during a recent home game.

These Rams who are industriously are (1 to r); Danny McBride, Bill James (42), Gordon Hardwood, David Moore (33) and Ron Roggenbach (70).

L. Drouin Elected President Of Alta. Newspaper Assn.

At the end of two days of conference, the delegates elected Ashley Cooper of Vermilion as first vice-president. Directors are: Tom Peel (past president); Howard Bowes of Leduc; Charles Maclean, Camrose; Dan Tanner, High River; Monte Keith, Sylvan Lake and Keith Farran, Strathmore.

The second annual Sportsman's Dinner will be held on November 14 at the Memorial Arena in Hardisty.

Several well-known and gifted sports personalities will guest the head table. Among these will be, Mr. Cecil "Tiger" Goldick as the Master of Ceremonies. "Tiger" has long been an umiring sports promoter and is no stranger to the younger generation due to his hockey promotional broadcast over CFRN-TV.

District 8 F.U.A. Hears National Farm Pres.

DAYSLAND — A large crowd of over 225 people, mostly FUA members but including friends and invited guests, attended the fall annual banquet and social night held in District 8. Close to 200 people sat down to the banquet in Daysland Community Centre on Saturday evening of last week. Banquet was served by the Ukrainian Catholic Women of Daysland.

Guest speaker for the meeting which followed the banquet was Mr. Roy Atkinson of Lonely, Sask., who is president of the Canadian Farmers' Union. He discussed the Kennedy Round of Tariff Negotiations and how it is expected to effect the Canadian farmer in the coming years. Mr. Atkinson gave a very interesting talk on this subject which is of concern to all farmers who are wondering how Canadian exports of farm produce are going to be affected. At the conclusion of his address Mr. Atkinson received a standing ovation.

Mr. Hunsing of the County of Camrose introduced the head table guests, and Mr. Ernest Koehli, District 8 Director acted as the M. C. Greeting from the Town of Daysland were brought by Deputy Mayor Les Dolana, who spoke on the many areas of mutual interest to the farm and town populations. The toast to the Queen was proposed by Arthur Falls.

Special guests were Miss Janet Oleson of Daysland and Mr. Charles P. Hayes of Strome. Miss Oleson was the 1966 Alberta Dairy Princess title and went on to win the Canadian Dairy Princess title early in September of this year in judging at the CNE in Toronto Mr. Hayes was inducted into the Alberta Agricultural Hall of Fame, and is now one of ten men who's pictures hang in the Hall of the Legislative Building in Edmonton. He was nominated by the local FUA District, and in his remarks at the banquet he thanked the local pappie proposing him for this great honor.

Mr. Lawrence Henderson, chairman of the FUA's Surface Rights Com., spoke to the gathering on Surface Rights Legislation, etc. in Alberta and how it affects farmers.

Open Fall Stays To November 1st

Up to this point in the year at least, it would appear that the new Indian Chief forecaster is right on the ball. He predicted no snow to amount to anything until January, and an October closes out the area is as black at the ace of spades. Not only that but it rained on the 31st day of October, with the weather mild beyond expectation.

Austerity Makes Sense!

Those who for many months have been advocating a program of austerity are at long last being recognized. They are coming into their own as true prophets of impending danger resulting from the continued reckless course pursued in recent years. Economists have long warned that dire consequences can be the only result of continued over-spending. It is common sense economics that individuals as well as nations cannot spend way beyond their income and continue to remain solvent. The Economic Council has come forth with a bitter pill for the spendthrift, and its timely warning should be heeded without regard to reaction—for reaction there will be.

It will take men of courage to get the job done. For the program to be successful, the axe will have to fall in many areas where attempts will be made to dull the blade before it has done its job. With the full knowledge if impending ridicule we can offer some areas where economies can be affected. First and probably foremost the Federal Government can abandon its proposed blanket Medicare scheme. It can overhaul the entire pension program and the unemployment insurance setup (one most severely abused). It could use the axe in the civil service department, and get out of the business field where free enterprise can do a better and cheaper job. It can stop trying to do for people what they are quite capable of doing for themselves. Basically man does not want welfare, but only the opportunity to pursue his own course without too much government interference. There are other areas where cuts and savings can be made, but some of the above will suffice for a start, and from there we can proceed to get on with the rest of it, and finally get back to a more sensible way of conducting the affairs of our society.

World Starvation!

As difficult as it is to believe, statistical records show that the world population today increases every year, seventy times the yearly increase when Columbus discovered America. That this has caused difficulties is clearly shown by the fact that in spite of billions sent on international aid, very few countries have improved very much in income per capita. Rapid rates of population growth have used up most of the increased production from assistance and development programs, for food and social services. This is understandable when we realize that the world population, in one week, increases as much as the entire population of Alberta.

Just what is to be done about a situation of this kind is somewhat debatable, but it seems certain that if we are to alleviate a situation where two-fifths of the world's people go to bed hungry, some sort of realistic solution must be found. If it is not, then strife will continue to be our lot.

Plenty Amidst Poverty!

It seems a strange paradox that while one section of the world rejoices in the bounteous returns from nature, another should mourn the loss of their year's efforts. Alberta has harvested a crop which was far beyond expectations, under most ideal conditions. Not only were yields higher than hoped for but the quality surpassed that of recent years. While we are rejoicing, Texas mourns the loss of millions of dollars in the citrus fields through the destructive visit of Hurricane Beulah. The careful work of months destroyed in a matter of minutes is one of the disheartening experiences that man has had to contend with since time began, but is one to which he will never become reconciled. While we rejoice in our fortune we yet can feel a twinge of sympathy for those who have lost the potential results of their efforts. The Thanksgiving season is over, but still if ever an area of the world has reason to be thankful it is Alberta in this year 1967. When we take time to have a serious look at the world, the starvation, the disruption, discontent, discrimination and all the other things that plague the world, we come to the certain conclusion that we are indeed a favored people, free to pursue the things so essential to happiness and contentment.

Quote of the Month — The driving force which enables man to grow and develop is a force that nobody really welcomes. It is the force of competition. Some businessmen, some educators, and most union bosses, farmers and professional men would like to forget about it — or else have it regulated out of existence by some supposedly wiser body of men. We do so at our peril — K. H. Rapsey.

by A.C.E.

Hallowe'en is a time of 'Trick or Treat' for the youngsters and is mainly a good time for them and for many adults who enjoy handing out treats and seeing the costumes, etc. Of course the meeting of a treat means that the trick will be tried, but this might sometimes be a hard bargain to keep. After all what is a treat from a childs point of view This Hallowe'en the members of the Dental Assn. in a neighboring province handed out tooth brushes as treats to children calling at their homes. I'm sure them gentlemen had good intentions, but I don't believe many children would consider it a treat. Of course on the other hand it might be a good hint your I could print a few extra copies of the Press and give them away (and I'll bet my windows would get soaped). The farmers don't think they're going to be able to sell their wheat so this would be a way to ease the storage problem. Eccentricities could wire be tried, door and give every one a good shock and school teachers could throw in one tree spelling lesson. Ministers could read each caller a Bible Verse. This list could go on and on but I don't think Hallowe'en would be quite the same.

The Letter Box

Dear Mr. Editor:

I see where the Community Press received three awards in competitions. Congratulations. I have always felt that your paper was unusually good for a small paper, and for the last few years I have enjoyed your pictures so much. They add much to the paper. Too, I have enjoyed your editorials and I hope you will continue them. They help the ordinary person to think, and I hope act. Now your press reporters should strive to win first place in their press reports. So I will be looking at their reports to see whose are the best this year and then and may you be successful next year. — Sincerely, Hanel Hunt, Camrose.

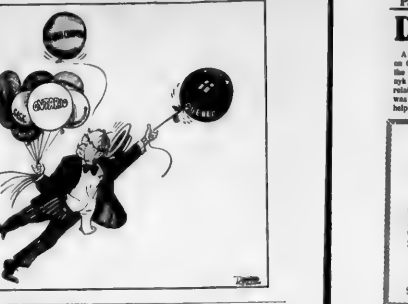
EAST is EAST and WEST is WEST

East is East, and West is West; Rudyard Kipling first said it and he wasn't referring to Canada. There was a time in our history when, because of lack of communication and slow transportation, it was true of Canada, but this shouldn't be the case in this "enlightened era". However, it appears to be in many instances.

Generally Westerners have few surprises waiting for them when they visit the Eastern Provinces. They have a basic knowledge of the people, land and industry of their living counterparts to be similar to what they are used to. But some Easterners do not seem to possess this picture of Western Canada; a fact which we have just had demonstrated to us during the recent trip. Excluding people who have, for one reason or another, travelled to Western Canada, the majority of the average people in the East, do not realize the extent of knowledge of the West is so limited that they have no facts on which to base an honest opinion.

We enjoyed a vigorous argument with a Steward on the train - a man of perhaps 50 years of age — raised in the East who had spent his adult life plying the route from Toronto to Winnipeg, and back. He had never been further west and was not interested as he informed us there were no cities worth mentioning, no cultural centres or entertainment. According to him we had a very low standard of living and in fact, it it wasn't for Ontario subsidizing the whole of Canada, we in the West would starve to death. He appeared to have no knowledge of our gas & oil industry, was amazed and I'm sure didn't believe us, when we attempted to enlighten him. — Consort Enterprise.



* MACDUFF REPORT

Example Of Restraint

OTTAWA — Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp, worried by the inflationary pressures at work in the economy has informed the Commons he will resort to the use of wage and price guidelines.

His is pinning his hopes on such a move to smash the "high-inflation psychology" now gripping the country.

If that move fails the alternative will be imposition of higher levels of taxation to drain off surplus purchasing power.

The Finance Minister made that clear in speeches in the Commons recently. But they were not well received.

His economic guidline concept was rejected out of hand by organized labour, which feels the guidelines had been formulated and put into operation. Strong opposition from organized labor raised doubts that the "voluntary policy", which many critics predict would be ineffectual, now has any chance of success.

Nevertheless the Minister plans to summon leaders of business, industry and labour to Ottawa for talks this Fall. He wants to discuss with them how best to curb the inflationary pressures now sending the cost of living soaring.

The Federal Government is planning an organized campaign to mobilize public opinion in favour of greater stability in costs and prices. Mr. Sharp has invited all those concerned to give consideration to the question.

But first the Federal Government wants to set an example of restraint.

The Minister said that the Cabinet has already slashed $800 million out of the prepared spend ing program for governmental departments in the year 1968-69. The Treasury Board is determinedly going over the estimates again to search out more items that may be deleted. It is the hope of Mr. Sharp that the government can pare its estimates for the ensuing fiscal year by a billion dollars.

Having set that example the Federal Government will then be in a stronger position to appeal to private business, industry, and labour to also exercise restraint in the fight against inflation.

The Finance Minister is considering the appointment of a panel of experts to give him advice on trends in the economy and to alert public opinion to the need for corrective action. The panel would have status similar to that of the Council of Economic Advisers to the President of the United States. It would supplement the work of the Economic Council of Canada which concentrates on long range studies. The Council itself has recommended the formation of a separate group to undertake short-term analysis.

Another suggestion being considered by the Minister is for a new statistical index to be produced showing Canada's competitive position in relation to the United States and others. This would be regarded by some Government economists as a more realistic yearstick of economic performance than figures on wages and prices unrelated to outside developments.

The Finance Department is now at work drafting a program of guidelines for wages and prices. If they are put into effect in Canada they would have to be on a voluntary basis because only in wartime does Canada have the power to "freeze" wages and prices.

Guidelines define what the Government considers to be acceptable increases in wages and prices.

Until about a year ago the United States government had set guidlines of 3.2 per cent as acceptable annual increase in wages and prices. The success of the U.S. guideline program is open to argument.

A similar compulsory program in the United Kingdom, impossible for the labour government in office there, met with strong resistance and much amendment.

For Canada a voluntary system of guidelines on wages and prices was ruled out by the Economic Council of Canada. It was found that they would be of dubious value because of Canada's exposure to international competition. But Mr. Sharp now is acknowledging that fiscal and monetary measures may have been exhausted as restraints on the spiral of wages and prices in this country.

In addition the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development of which Canada is a member, has supported "income policies" or "wage and price guideposts" for all its member nations. Mr. Sharp now appears prepared to give the idea a try in Canada.

But if it is going to work their proposal has to have the support of labour. That it does appear to have. Adverse reactions flocked into Ottawa after the Minister hinted that they would soon be imposed guidelines. One labour spokesman expressed the fear that the wage and price restrictnis, which he was convinced would work, would be used to lay the blame for any unpopular tax increases imposed in the budget next spring.

On another front the government was moving to try and protect the consumer. It has introduced legislation into the Commons to create a new government Department of Corporate and Consumer affairs. Registrar General John Turner will be the minister in charge.

The new Department will achieve a further rationalization of government at the federal level, according to Mr. Turner.

CANADA'S FIRST BANK 150TH ANNIVERSARY 1867 1967

Canada's First Bank celebrates a Centennial and a half

Throughout this Centennial year, Bank of Montreal has joined with communities, large and small, across the nation in celebrating 100 years of Confederation.

On November 3rd, we have our own special day of celebration — the 150th anniversary of the founding of Canada's First Bank and the Canadian banking system.

On this historic occasion we could be looking backward over 150 years of achievement. Instead, we're looking ahead.

We're looking ahead with the enthusiasm of a vibrant institution geared for the future . . . A people's bank pervaded with a genuine urge to maintain the leadership that has always characterized its service to the Canadian people.

The years ahead will be full of new challenges and new opportunities. Fresh ground must be broken and new pathways established in creative services to our customers to meet their ever-changing needs.

Right now we're busy trail-blazing. That's the responsibility that comes with the privilege of being a leader.

When you're 150 years old you have to think young ■ In the past year alone, Bank of Montreal has continued to lead the way by being first with: True Savings Accounts ■ True Chequing Accounts ■ Bancardcheque (the cash card) ■ Customer Convenience Hours ■ As we enter the second half of our second century it is as true today as it was in 1817: The bank of the future is Canada's First Bank.

PROGRESS PARTNERS

The expansion of the domestic market since the end of World War Two — from 11 million to more than 20 million people — has given enormous impetus to the development of Canadian industry and the growth of the economy as a whole.

One little-noticed by-product of this better than 45 percent population gain is the extent to which, year after year, it has made the agricultural and manufacturing industries increasingly important to each other.

Banking System 150 Years Old

Canadian banking - now an integral part of life in Canada as one of the world's "best-banked" nations- marks its 150th birthday on Friday November 3rd.

It was on November 3, 1817, that the first office of any bank was opened by the Bank of Montreal in the area of the old walled city of Montreal; with a staff of seven and capital of $120,000 Canada as we know it did not exist. Confederation was half a century in the future; George III still sat on the English throne, and the Battle of Waterloo was just two years past.

In this district, the B of M's Sedgewick and Killam branches will observe the anniversary, marking the first century and a half of a system which now services every province and territory in Canada and many countries abroad.

First branch of the B of M was established in Quebec City a few weeks after the opening of the original Montreal office. It was the forerunner of the present network of some 4,000 offices of the chartered bank, over 1,000 of them B of M branches.

Equally important to the development of the country as a whole was the B of M's immediate provision of banknotes - Canada's first real money - when it opened its doors in 1817. In the months before, engraving of the printing bank had been one of the most urgent matters arranged for the opening. It also provided the first Canadian cashier when it introduced "bank tokens" in 1836.

Sedgewick branch of the B of M has operated cautiously since September, 1936, when it was established as an office of the Merchants bank of Canada. The two merged in 1956

Original premises were located in what is now part of the Pioneer Hotel. Other temporary quarters were later occupied before the B of M's present building on Main street was erected in 1960.

At Killam, the branch was also opened in 1936 by the Merchants Bank, but closed in 1938. It was reopened in June, 1947, in the original Merchants Bank building, erected in in 1912. The B of M remained there until 1961, when the present building was opened.

The Bank of Montreal's present 464-branch network in Alberta was started in 1886 with the opening of the first Calgary branch. Operations of 43 branches in this province are directed by J. Buckley Jones, senior vice president, Alberta division, resident in Calgary

HOME AND ABROAD

Together, the Alberta division offices are an integral part of the national and international organization, which has 1,030 branches and assets approaching $6 billion.

The bank now maintains its own offices in every part of Canada and in the United States, the United Kingdom, France, Germany, Mexico and Japan.

In addition to creating the branch-banking system and Canada's first native currency, the Bank of Montreal's record of "firsts" - includes financial backing for the countries first transcontinental railway and the first canal (at Lachine, P.Q.); establishment of the first Canadian banking offices abroad; and application of the first fully- integrated data processing system to banking.

Early in 1967 the B of M introduced a new set of "firsts" - - - reduction of its prime lending rate; increase in its savings interest; and division of its capital stock 5-for-1 - in anticipation of Bank Act revisions which became effective May 1.

Regular October meeting of the Council of the Town of Sedgewick was held with the Mayor, all Councillors, and the Sec.-Treas. in attendance. Newly elected Councillor C. R. Beairsto who takes office later in the month was also present at the invitation of the Council.

A dinner was held at the Sedgewick Cafe Banquet Rooms in honor of Councillor Cooper who has resigned from Council and is moving to the coast. Mayor Bailey and the Councillors thanked Mr. Cooper for his work on Council and wished him a happy life in his new home.

After dinner the Council moved to the Town Office where the regular council meeting was held.

Minutes of the last regular meeting, the Gas Company, Flagstaff Lodge, and the Recreation Centre were read and discussed.

Two building permits were submitted and accepted by Council.

A letter from Licensing Branch of the Provincial Government was read asking Councils approval for A. Bradley to sell confectionery in the Pool Hall. Council had no objection and the Secretary was instructed to advise them accordingly.

Sedgewick Kinettes are to be reimbursed in the amount of $76.00 to apply on the expense of the pants for the street marker signs as previously agreed.

A letter was read from Strong, Lamb, and Nelson giving unit cost figures for Street Paving, Curb & Gutter and Sidewalks. This was considered and the Street Commission was asked to study out a program and bring in a recommendation to Councils next meeting.

The Secretary was instructed to write to Enzyme Industries Ltd. for further information and costs of using Enzymes for street dust control.

A letter signed by several ratepayers was read complaining of livestock and poultry running at large and causing them much annoyance. The Secretary was instructed to write a letter requesting the owner to keep his livestock and poultry confined on his own property and abide by the bylaws of the Town.

Bills and Accounts were submitted to Council and after study were approved for payment.

Have you ever wondered...

...if you have a hidden talent just waiting to be discovered.

Everyone has a certain amount of creative ability but, in most cases, expert help is needed to realize and develop this talent. Professional help in all phases of the creative and performing arts is available to everyone in Alberta through the Cultural Development Branch, of the Alberta Provincial Secretary's Department. Experts in all phases of arts and crafts, painting, sculpture and ceramics, music, instrumental and vocal; the theatre arts: acting, directing, stage management and make-up, are available to all age groups in all parts of the province. The only requisite for obtaining this instruction is the formation of a group whose members have a common desire to develop their creative ability. The Cultural Development Branch also provides assistance in the development of libraries; organization, management and administration. Beginning with the exposure of the performing and expressive arts through tours and exhibitions, to financial aid to students in professional art careers, the Cultural Development Branch contributes greatly to the athletic growth of our province.

...where Community Development begins!

Community Development begins with the people of the community. It is the residents who decide that social and economic problems exist and it is the residents who must take action to solve these problems. If they wish professional assistance, they may write a Community Development Officer to help them in finding the solutions. His major task in carrying out such an assignment is to create learning situations which, in time, will provide the people of the community with increased knowledge, added skills and greater self-confidence. These attributes, in turn, will allow residents to take a more active part in making decisions which affect them and their community. The Community Development Branch will assist the people of all Alberta communities, in accordance with the province's program on Human Resources Development.

...about the standard of living enjoyed by Alberta's chickens!

Chickens, turkeys and other poultry destined for Alberta's dinner tables enjoy top level living. Poultry producers and processors are required to maintain high standards of operation, facilities and sanitation in addition to be inspected by the Poultry Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

To see that these qualities are kept up, the Branch makes regular inspections of housing, ventilation, sanitation, feeds and feeding, disease prevention and management techniques. To assist in maintaining the standards set, the Branch provides specialized services and technical and statistical information to producers, hatchery operators, processors, feed manufacturers, and allied industries.

...how medical care is provided for the residents of Alberta's sparsely-populated northland!

In an area of 104,000 square miles, with a population density of considerably less than one person per square mile, six Municipal Nurses of the Alberta Department of Health travel by plane, train, car and foot to provide the Northern Alberta Health Service. This is a program of preventive health and emergency treatment which includes immunizing children, delivering babies and treating accident victims. Where necessary, the nurses' services are supplemented by medical specialists flown in to administer to specific needs. In addition to serving the north country, there are seven other Municipal Nursing stations in the province, providing emergency treatment service, public health services and preventive medicine in areas which have no easy access to hospital or medical care. The nurses and the facilities they operate are financed by the Alberta Department of Health, although a small charge is made for treatment, and medications provided for emergency treatment are supplied at cost.

...if "agriculture" and "conservation" are really totally incompatible?

Not really. They CAN live together in peace and harmony, and that's a fact that's being proven by the Conservation and Utilization Branch of the Program Development Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture. Under the Branch's Land Assembly Program, areas presently being used for agricultural purposes but which have recreational and conservational potential are being purchased from their owners and are being utilized for all these purposes. In addition, financial assistance is available to farmers who wish to develop new land under the condition that they leave designated portions in a natural state to provide a recreational area and cover for wild game. In this way, Alberta's most valuable land areas have a multiple use, contributing to both agriculture and conservation.

...how Alberta's highways are protected against "cracking up"?

Highways are like humans, they can only take so much pressure before going to pieces. To ensure Alberta's highways of a long and useful life, the weight and size of the vehicles using them are carefully controlled. All primary highways in the province carry a load limit established by the Highway Traffic Board of the Alberta Department of Highways. Any load exceeding these limits must have a special permit. When this is applied for, the Board considers the weight, dimension, size and nature of the load, number of bridges en route and traffic conditions. If all factors are agreeable, the permit is issued. If changes are necessary, the Board may require the load to be split between two or more trucks, the use of an alternate route, a controlled speed, or other provisions. Enforcement of these regulations allow Alberta motorists full enjoyment of their highways with a minimum of traffic obstruction and ensure a maximum life span for each highway.

KNOW YOUR ALBERTA BETTER

Dayslandites Tour Homestead Area

(By Allan Pryor)

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Pryor and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schmidt were off on another of their "Know Your Alberta Better" Safaris last Sunday, leaving home at 10:00 a.m. and returning at 8:30 p.m. They travelled 443 miles in the northern part of the province, going north on Highway 36, Viking, Two Hills, St. Paul, Ashmont, and then into unknown where back in 1928 Mr Pryor took up a homestead, and later abandoned it. They also looked up some of the other Homesteaders of that time, not to many of them are left, but some stayed with it and are still there. One person in particular Mr. Pryor wanted to meet again, he was his neighbor just across the trail on the other side, and up the road a piece as he called it, a Mr. Vic Black, who came in there in 1928. It was rather unfortunate that Mr. Schmidt did not have his tape recorder along, that conversation would have been a gem. They had not seen nor heard about each other since 1928. This old colored gentleman was a real conversationalist and entertainer. He frankly married a white girl and has five children and a nice farm. The last of the children to be going to school, a girl of about 13 goes by bus to Gleadon School, a distance of 27 miles.

After you start going north from there a few miles, you run into some pretty rough & rolling country and the homesteaders in that part had a pretty tough time of it. Of course on knowing your "where abouts" you have to enquire about directions. The people there seem an hungry for conversation and company that they hate to see you leave. Anyone that is interested in wildlife and fishing, that's the place to be, and by the looks of the people they could also use some medication.

While up there we tried to locate the Hawes Bros. North of Ashmont. We think we finally found their respective farms and large herds of Charolais cattle, but there was no one at home at either place, so we missed out on that call, but we are going back in that country again some day.

Since we got home we found out that there are some other people living in the vicinity North of Ashmont, that homesteaded there in 19-24 and are still there. They are people that lived just N. E. of Daysland. They went North and stayed there The land varies so shrubby that it is hard to understand why some of those were ever opened up for homesteads We were directed to a quarter that Orville Eaves had purchased and they were just finishing up piling brush on about 60 acres that he had cleared with a D-9 Cat and a Dozer The trees were about 40 to 50 feet high, poplar, spruce and hemlock. So you can see what a chance a man has got who has no extra capital for clearing land. The trees are so dense that it is almost impossible to walk through the forest.

You know, sometimes you hear people complain here about things not going just right, but brother just go out and see how the other half of the people have to live, and I know you'll come home and thank God that you are not in some people's shoes and have to put up with their hardships. The Daysland looks pretty dam good.

BLACKMAN - DYLKE

A lovely summer wedding took place in St. Joseph's church at Killam on August 19th, when marriage vows were exchanged by Maxine Lois, daughter of Mr. Ida Blackman of Killam and Donald Allen, son of Mr and Mrs Val Dylke of Daysland. Miss Mary Dylke, sister of the groom was bridesmaid, and Mrs. Bob Blackman was matron of honor Little Tammy Onnoe, niece of the groom was flower girl. Attending the groom were George Lenner of Calgary and Bob Blackman of Camrose Ushers were Dennis Heynick of Daysland and Carson Carl of Carotation. Mrs. Agnes Blenner played the wedding music, and Miss Martha Blenner was the soloist.

A reception for 130 guests was held in the church basement, where Lanny Hagen of Camrose was master of ceremonies, and Bud Carl proposed the toast to the bride.

SOMETHING IN COMMON. There's one thing about young blood, you never know what luck it will bring you afterwards, especially at a place such as Expo 67. Jan Coe, 22, an Ontario Provincial Police constable, found himself next to a beauteous from the Ontario Pavilion, Elizabeth Marie, Toronto. Jan lost no time in "getting acquainted" as he is currently doing guard duty at the pavilion.

YOU, THE WIFE!

There is much family business information that every wife should know Many wives leave all business to their husbands. This is a mistake. Should their husbands die, they are at a terrific disadvantage at a time when business matters are difficult to cope with.

Life Insurance Policies — A wife should know where life insurance policies are kept, the name of the companies and the policy numbers; the person to call about them; just when the premiums are due; the amount of the premium and where payable. Access to life insurance is sometimes required for reasons other than death. Have a definite & safe place for them.

Safety Deposit Boxes — Remember, in the event of a safety deposit box holder's death, the bank is required by law to seal the box until routine estate proceedings are completed. The survivor is entitled to withdraw only $500.00, the balance of contents is held until the Will is probated or officially proven The procedure is even more complicated if there is no Will.

A wife should know the safety box number, where it is located and where the keys are kept.

Remember, if your husband is the only registrant of your family deposit box, you will be unable to obtain any papers he keeps there until he gives you an endorsed power of attorney or written permission each time you wish to have access to the box.

Wills and Other Policies—A wife should know where other policies such as accident, liability, fire, theft, health, are kept. She should know where her husband's Will is kept and what lawyer, if any, has a copy of it.

Savings Accounts — She should know Savings Account numbers and at what branch they are held It is surprising how many bank accounts are not claimed after death simply because the bank and either do not know of their existence, or do not know their exact location.

Payments Due — Mortgage or lease payments due, their amount, where and when payable, is another piece of invaluable information location for any instalment payment desk may cause repossession, should the family's available

Records of any money owed to your family should be explained to the wife.

Income Tax — Informed homemakers should know where the old Income Tax statements and cancelled cheques are kept. Someday this may save you much time and embarrassment. In addition, you may be asked to produce such papers years after they have been tucked away.

Securities — Have a list of all securities such as stocks, bonds & others as well as a list of the agencies looking after these.

Other Family Papers — Various papers such as birth certificates, marriage certificates, deeds to any property, mortgage papers, car ownership papers, should be collected in a safe place Have at least duplicate copies of this information located in a safe place Have at least

A. Elmquist Explains Weaving Pure Linen

(By Andrew Elmquist)

My wife's dress is made from pure linen, hand made from the flax in the field to the finished product.

The flax in question was grown on my cousin Ed Carlson's home farm in Sweden some 75 to 100 years ago and the cloth was later brought to Canada by him about 40 years ago. I am going to try and explain to you the different stages the flax goes through from the crop in the field to the finished product all done by hand in the olden days.

The Flax plant consists of a hard woody centre covered by many fine silk-like fibres, a crown of fine branches with the seed pods at the ends. Where the tremendous lot of work comes in, is to get the seed pods off and to get the fibres separated from the hard centre, and to get them perfectly clean and ready for the spanning wheel.

When the flax crop is ripe in the fall, we go out and pull it up by the roots so as to save every inch of the fibres as the longer they are the better the grade will be when finished. We start with pulling a few strands of flax and making wheat we call a band. This is put on the ground then we go ahead and pull enough until we get a large full. This we put on the band and then pull another handfull and put the pile across over the first band, and keep on until we have enough for a bundle. This we tie with the band.

Now for the next bundle, and so we keep on until all the flax is harvested. Bundles make the flax easier to separate later on. When the flax is harvested, the next step is to get it dry. We do this by picking out some straight and slender very smooth spruce poles ,sharpen both ends, stick the heavy end in the ground and hang the bundles one on top of the other until the pole is full, and so on until all the bundles are hung. This is a very effective way to get a crop dry in a country with lots of sun and moisture.

After the flax is dry we have to get all the seed pods off. This is done with a rig we call a reaper or rake consisting of a wide board with a number of steel spikes 7 or 8 inches long and close together. Now we take a band of flax and pull the tops through the spikes until the seed pods are all off. Now comes the rotting process, to get the inside stem to rot and loosened from the fibres. To do this we locate a smooth piece of ground and spread the flax as thin as possible, leaving it there for 2 or 3 weeks depending on weather. The more rain the quicker the stem will rot. After the stem is rotted we pick up the flax and tie it back in bundles.

After this comes the drying and smoking process to loosen the fibres from the stem. We do this by putting the flax in what we call a badster, a small building built of logs with an open fireplace and no chimney and a tight door. Into this building we put the flax, hang it under the roof on a long pole. Until we get all the flax in. Then we build a good fire of juniper brush (good for smoke) and shut the door. Every so often we build a new fire to keep up the heat and smoke. All this is done to get the stem perfectly dry and brittle.

Now comes the job of breaking up the stems into small pieces and separating the stems from the fibres. This is done with a machine we call a breaker, consisting of a bench with three slots spaced on top & placed some distance apart, and a handle, with 2 slats fitting in the openings of the three bottom slats.

Now we take a hand of flax, put it over the three bottom slats and press the handle down through the openings of the bottom slats. This breaks up the stems in small pieces and separates them from the fibre.

To do this job we generally arranged for what we called a breaking party, with some 12 to 15 neighbors gathered together, both men and women, as the women's job was to get every particle of stems out of the fibres, after the men had broken them up.

There used to be some jolly parties, with lots of good food & lots to drink. I attended my first and only breaking party when I was about 15 years old, and will never forget.

Now th men's job is done, and the women take over. In the breaking process most of the stems fall to the ground, but the women's job is to get every particle of stems out of the fibres. To do this they used a bench with a wide board sticking up about twenty inches and sharp on top. Now they take a hand of fibres, put them over the board and use a tool made of a 9-foot by 6 inch board planed to a sharp edge and partly rounded to a point and with a solid handle. With this they keep slashing down on the fibres, turning it end for end until the fibres are perfectly clean. The leaves you with a hand full of fibres, clean and shiney almost like silk. This is tied into a certain kind of knot and put into a basket or sack, ready for the spinning wheel.

The spinning of the fibres was quite an art, which some of the old timers were really experts at. I remember when I was a small lad, I used to sit and watch my mother spin those fibres into threads as smooth and fine as if it had been spun in a factory. Quite a fascinating occupation for a little lad.

Now the linen thread is ready for the loom, but as this is too complicated an operation for one to explain, I will leave this to someone who knows more about the way this is done.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Mr. Elmquist showed us Models he had made of all the machines and implements mentioned in the above article. The dress Mrs. Elmquist is wearing in the accompanying picture was made by the long process outlined. A lost art?

All Seven Divisions Will Vote Dec. 2nd

CAPTAIN KIDD — The worried look on the face of this tough looking pirate (Miss Diane Rae Peterson) is from the tough job of guarding her treasure from witches, goblins, etc., and when a camera sneaking up from behind didn't help either. Good weather like this year made Hallowe'en real enjoyable for hundreds like these.

Nominations for the office of Councillor in the County of Flagstaff No. 29 closed at 4:00 p. m. on Saturday, November 4th, and two or more candidates were nominated in each of the seven divisions. As a result there will be an election in every division.

Election Day is Saturday, December 2nd, four weeks after the Nomination Day, between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., at various polling places in each division. Official results of the election will be released at 12 noon on Monday, Dec. 4 by the R. O., Mr. G. A. Cheram.

Formation of the County of Flagstaff No. 29 takes effect on January 1st, 1968, and the Press understands that the Statutory meeting will be held on January 3rd, as required by the Elections Act.

The list of Divisions, their locations and the names of candidates is as follows:

Division No. 1 — Located East of Alliance: G. A. Johnson of Hardisty, E. F. Sandman, of Hardisty.

Division No. 2 — Located in the Forestburg, Galahad, Alliance area: A. C. Bussey of Forestburg and G. Etty of Galahad.

Division No. 3 — Located in the Lougheed and Hardisty areas: Leo Colks of Hardisty and Geo. Matthews of Hardisty.

Division No. 4 — Located South of Killam; R. Grant of Killam, W.L. Oberg of Forestburg, L. V. Schultz of Strome.

Division No. 5 — Located in the Heisler area: N. J. Marts of Heisler, A. E. Morgan of Heisler, Wm. Roth of Heisler.

Division No. 6 — Located in the Lougheed, Sedgewick, Killam area: H. C. Lien of Lougheed. N. F. Moe of Killam; R. G. White, Killam.

U.C. Presbytery Dedicates Manse

The Dedication Service of the new Manse at Coronation was conducted by Rev. Marston, president of Alberta Conference in the presence of 40 delegates attending the United Church Presbytery on October 28th at Coronation. Assisting was Rev. McPhee of Camrose, chairman of Coronation Presbytery, and Supt. C. D. Powell. Interested parties attending were Mr. Ken Bennett, convenor of Manses, and Mrs. Cae Wilson, president of the Presbyterial United Church Women.

As the proposed Telecast 'Choice, The Imperative Tomorrow' will not be shown on Sunday, October 29th even though requested by many viewers, a resolution was passed urging upon CKHD "a much broader policy in meeting the religious broadcasting desires of its listening public".

An increased attendance of junior boys at Hardisty Lake Camp was noted by Rev. D. Lewis. Big improvements at Bar Harbour Camp marked the summer of 1967, stated Miss Shirley Munro.

Rev Foley Peterson, convenor of Evangelism and Social Service, reported that an instructive Institute at Bar Harbour in September was attended by 100% of ministers.

Because of a deadline of 10% in givings to the Missionary & Maintenance Fund, Mervin Glem of Fernbank, convenor, offered to go to any church to present the claims of this fund.

Rev. J. Evans of Stettler, convenor of Worship, led a panel on 'Blabops' in which Rev. G. Hutchinson, recently appointed Executive Officer of Alberta Conference took part.

Pastors who took over care of their Congregations since July were welcomed in the persons of Rev. W. Morgan at Daysland, Rev. J. Runtas at Forestburg and Mr. J. Wood at Consort.

Thanks was expressed to the Coronation Congregation and Pastor Mr. G. Rumbold, for their hospitality.

The Lougheed-Sedgewick Pastoral Charge was represented by Stuart Galeshy; Strome-Killam by Mr. Reinhold Wegeneat; Bawlf-Daysland by Mrs. D. Courtney and Hardisty by Rev. W. G. Zwicker.

Remembrance Day To Be Observed On Saturday

Remembrance Day, Nov. 11th, falls on Saturday this year, and all local communities will observe the day with special services and laying of wreaths at Cenotaphs in honor of the men and women who laid down their lives in two World Wars.

Veterans will parade to the services which commence, in most cases, at 10:30 in the morning, to allow for the traditional two minutes of silence at 11:00 o'clock, the time when the Armistice was signed.

With fine weather prevailing and predicted for the weekend, large crowds are expected to attend the various services. All are urged to wear a Poppy, the symbol of commemoration in honor of the war dead.

Legion members will get together in the afternoon for the traditional banquet, and in some cases a public dance will be held at night

The Bible Today

The World budget for translating, publishing and distributing Christian Scriptures by the Bible Society in 1968 adds up to $7,561,165.00. This is $477,990 above 1967.

Fourteen of the thirty-five national Bible Societies who are members of the United Bible Societies, will underwrite this total. Among the 14 contributing, the Canadian Bible Society stands third, with a pledge of $80,000. The American Bible Society will be asked for $3,880,000 and the British and Foreign Bible Society for $945,000.

Besides these three, the Bible Society in the following countries will contribute the balance: Germany, Australia, New Zealand, Netherlands, Norway, Scotland, Switzerland, South Africa, Denmark, Finland and Sweden.

The total budget is to be spent on four continents, namely, Africa, Asia, Europe and Latin America. Add this the amount needed for transportation through the world, and the budget is spent. There are no reckoning demands on the resources of the Bible Societies of the entire world with increased literacy, and the population explosion.

Flagstaff Municipality Holds Regular Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Council of the M. D. of Flagstaff was held in the Council Room on Wednesday, October 11th with all Councillors present.

Mr D. P. Kvetach met Council and requested payment for a fire call to Kenneth Zimmer made by the Pine Brandas of Hessler after being called as was Forestburg which has signed an Agreement re Rural Fire Protection & is being paid for its service. In his opinion, the Village of Hessler should also be entitled to some remuneration for its services. Information with respect to the Rural Fire Protection Plan was briefly related to Mr. Kvetach and he was advised that a further review of the Plan will be necessary to deal with such situations.

Mr. Likness, gravel foreman, reported that another good gravel bed been found on SE 4-49-11 W4, however to get this gravel the M.D. Equipment would have to cross a cultivated field which is rather soft. The owner of the land was approachable with the proposed taxrate but requested a clause to be inserted whereby he would be compensated for the damage to the land each time that it is used by the M.D. After discussion, Mr. Likness was directed to approach the owner for an agreement whereby the gravel would be hauled from his land and stockpiled on the road allowance.

Council was advised that the gravel on the Jacobsen land was too fine for the present roads but could be used for cold mix.

The Gravel Stockpile Agreement on NW 21-40-14 W4 and on SE 15-43-13 W4 were presented and approved for signing.

An order was placed with T P L Industries for spiral culverts in 20 foot lengths but the Company replied that it could not supply that length but could fill the order with 14 foot lengths.

Installation and lowering of several culverts in the M.D. was discussed.

The question of the use of sail sterilants and the shoulders of roads was mentioned and Council was definitely of the opinion that that this did not prove to be satisfactory as washouts were created due to the powdery condition of the soil after application.

Correspondence was received from the Killam Board of Trade advising the Council that a letter was sent to the Premier recording the Board's opposition to the Government's recent decision in granting the County status to the M.D. of Flagstaff. A copy of the letter was enclosed and was read to Council.

Correspondence from the Chief Municipal Inspector, Mr. Ramsay, advised that the Board of the Killam School Division made a submission suggesting that the County of Flagstaff be divided into nine electoral divisions instead of seven. Considerable discussion ensued and the majority favoured leaving the boundaries as is. Secretary to advise the Dept. of Municipal Affairs of the Councils decision and if any changes are so contemplated in the number of divisions, this should be left to the Council of the County for its consideration and final decision.

Minutes of the September 27th meeting were read and accepted.

The matter of the construction of power lines by Canadian Utilities Ltd. was discussed. Guy wires were placed on shoulders of the roads & a number of power poles were also erected on private property and the road allowance without authorization. The power line mainly in question was the one from Battle River north to Strome. Representatives of the said Company, when approached by Councillors concerned, informed them that the road had been constructed in the wrong place. A committee of Reeve Bintz, Clrs. Beasley and Sorensen was delegated to take a survey of the power lines and if the opinion that a survey is required to settle the dispute, to engage Stewart, Weir, Stewart & Watson to carry out the survey.

Financial Statements were presented and discussed before being adopted.

Ag. Service Board minutes were adopted.

Roadside spraying was discussed Some ratepayers are complaining that trees along roadsides should not be destroyed while others feel that the program was quite in order

Payment of a $2,000 grant to each Town and Village participating in the Rural Fire Protection Plan regarding 1967-68 Grant was authorized.

A lengthy discussion was held regarding the replaced motor grader which had been losing power and over-heating. Shop foreman, Mr. Whitehead stated that the grader had no new plough controls and that he still was not satisfied with the hydrostatic gear. Also the machine is burning more fuel and there is extra wear of tires. Personnel from Ferguson Supply were due in that afternoon and would see Council then.

The purchases of grader blades this year exceeded the allotment by about $600 and the Shop Foreman recommended that cheaper blades be used for the winter to reduce the cost of operation.

Council was informed that the Foreman was attempting to sell the dozer blade at its cost but instead was able to rent it to Bill Gibbs at $50.00 a month. Council concurred.

The Foreman requested Council to reconsider its decision in assessing one of its employees $23.15 with respect to his fire at Bellshill School and was informed that this was a very small portion of the actual cost that would be assumed by the M.D.

Secretary reported he had written to the Chief Construction Engineer asking him to notify Cr. Linn when the construction of the bridge at W SW 16-43-13 W4 is completed.

There was no reply from Town of Hardisty re fire call at Bellshill.

SE-Law No 308 pertaining to purchase of lots in the Town of Sedgewick was given Third Reading and passed.

Secretary was asked to check the Labor Act and provide each Councillor with a list of Statutory Holidays & Proclaimed Holidays.

The question of shortage of 12" steel culverts was again raised and secretary asked to obtain a list of 12" culverts required and order the same as soon as possible.

Grant Cheron, Asst. Sec. was appointed Returning Officer for the 1967 elections in the Municipality to be held, if necessary, on Dec. 2nd. Approval was also given for Polls, Enumerators, DRO's & Poll Clerks.

Bill Lewis, gravel crusher foreman, met with Council re location of the gravel program He was directed to crush at the Potter pit & then move Hardisty until freeze-up (crusher from Dept. of Municipal Affairs will be out now advising on the Water Works program.

Ferguson Supply rep met with Council re Caterpillar No 12 motor grader. There are stud problems with this machine to be ironed out. If the company is unable to remedy the best problem, etc. they should be prepared to replace the machine. He will inform the company to this effect.

Some discussion took place regarding Motor Grader Blade, Cost Bins, etc. and all were resolved satisfactorily. Cr. Lien was authorized to construct an access road through SW 31-40-12 for M G Bennett, using a grader, at a cost of $8.00 per hour to Mr. Bennett.

Meeting adjourned at 5:05 to reconvene on October 17th.

MY COLLEGE CO-ED

If you think it's tough trying to get a son or daughter ready for college, combed out, and settled in, you should try it with a wife, who hasn't been there for 20 years.

It's an exhausting experience, emotionally and financially. All the kids want is that you should take all their stuff down, help unload it, press a large sum upon them, and disappear back to Hicksville, as you'll stop embarrassing them in front of their new class-mates.

With Momma it's not that simple. First comes the tremendous decision itself, comparable to Moses making up his mind to lead the "Children" back to the Promised Land. There are surges of confidence, but they are outweighed by sudden despairs.

"My brain is rusty. I'll never make it. They've probably lost my files. There'll be a rule refusing people over 30. The course is most likely a lot harder now. I'll feel like a fool with all those kinds in mimeskirted and eye-shadow." And on.

You patiently point out that: rust can be removed; any half-wit can pass fourth year; universities never have anything, except the best you wrote them last week; she's more mature and the course will be a snap; she's better-looking than she was in third year, sawy back.

Thus bolstered, she sends off the application. Nothing happens. Fear and frustration mount. So father has to write a letter in his lawyer-like style, with force and firmness. Straight back comes the reply that she's in the real crisis. She can't believe it! She's accepted. It's no longer castles in Spain. And the real panic begins.

"It's ridiculous I can't leave you and Kim alone. You'll have you house down. You'll forget to put out the garbage. You'll die of malnutrition. We can't afford it. You can't get along without me." And so on.

This, of course, is rank cowardice. She simply is afraid to get her feet wet in the big, cold world from which, like all housewives, she has been sheltered all these years by you.

So she goes to visit her mother for three days, as a sort of trial run. Then comes home and is a bit dashed to find the house still standing, garbage out on schedule, lawn cut, kitchen tidy and Kim and I living like Oriental potentates.

She had to save face and go through with it, but not before trying one more gambit. It was impossible financially. There was no way we could manage it.

Father points out that, with judicious borrowing, we can keep one of the family going to college. Since Hugh is no longer there, and in fact has a splendid job laying carpets, it might as well be she. This persuades half a day's tears of mingled rage and grief over Hugh's quitting.

It also produces a guilt complex. She vows that nobody has ever lived as cheaply at college as she will. She's going to pig it in a grubby little room. All she will do is sleeping-bag, card table, hot-plate and electric kettle. She'll walk miles to save carfare, bitch-hike home on week-ends.

Wahl Have you tried to rent a cheap little room lately? Father took another to the city, and while she registered at the college, pursued an ale and gazed over the classified ads. Best he could find was a room, bath, heat and kitchen, at $25.00 a week.

It wasn't bad. But there was a stumbling-block, as usual. The other inmates were college girls, and she hardly had an iron rule that no men, except her own husband were allowed inside the front door. She was inflexible. So was I. I'd planned to pad down with the old lady the odd weekend, saving the price of a hotel room.

To cut a long story to ribbons, the shabby little room first suggested has grown into an apartment, furnished. And I wouldn't tell my closest friend. I alone my bomber, what the rest is.

EXPO TO LIVE. Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau has announced Expo will remain as a five or six month annual attraction in order to "continue to show what Man and His World means." Some 40 pavilions have been turned over and Habitat and La Ronde will also be in operation. Mayor Drapeau says he expects 20-million people to visit the site next year. Expo drew to an official close last weekend breaking all previous World's Fair records.

Modern Farming Methods Pay Off In The End

A comparison of the 1910 and 1967 growing seasons shows the impact that modern farming methods have had on Alberta crop yields.

Despite the fact that growing conditions were similar in both years, the average wheat yield in 1910 was only 10.3 compared with 29.8 in 1967. Similarly, oats averaged 21.4 compared with 39.3 in 1967 and barley, 20.4 compared with 39.4 this year.

According to the final crop report of the year, published by the Statistics Branch of the Alberta Economics Division, the main differences between the 1910 and 1967 growing seasons were an abundance of moist ure last spring, improved farming methods, the use of commercial fertilizers, and the use of chemicals for weed and insect control in both years the springs were very late; the summers, hot and dry; and record crop yields exceeded midsummer expectations.

It is also interesting to note that in spite of the late spring and summer frosts, Alberta had the earliest harvest on record this year, and the quality and weight of cereals have never been better.

R. E. English, Head of the Statistics Branch reports that the quality of Alberta spring wheats eligible for inclusion in "northern" grades varies from region to region. He says the wheat crop is about equally divided between grades 1 and 2 northern in the southeast of the province. Grading percentages in the irrigated and foothills areas are approximately 30 per cent no. 1 northern, 60 per cent no. 2 northern, and 10 per cent lower grades. In central regions (Olds, Hanna, Edmonton & Vermilion) there is little no. 1 northern. About 70 per cent of the wheat crop is no. 2 northern and 25 per cent no. 3 northern. Thirty per cent of the wheat in the region lying between St. Paul and Edson is no. 2 northern, 50 per cent no. 3 northern and 10 per cent no. 4 northern. About half the wheat in the Peace River region is no. 2 northern and a third no. 3 northern.

Have you ever wondered...

...where Alberta students can learn the "art" of hospitality?

During the summers, hundreds of Alberta students obtain employment as city stores, resort hotels, gas stations, golf courses, areas where they are bound to meet and serve the province's visitors. To prepare these young people for their responsibilities as representatives of the province in the tourist, a training in tourism course is sponsored each year by the Alberta Department of Youth The Alberta School of Tourism provides a short course to help students improve their employability, increase their knowledge of the tourist industry and Alberta, and to aid them in promoting Alberta in a tourist area. Courses are offered in hospitality, professional [illegible] and public relations. Many graduates from another province or another country has returned home highly impressed by the young Albertans who wear the pin which identifies graduates of the [illegible].

...how the Alberta farmer keeps up-to-date on modern agricultural techniques?

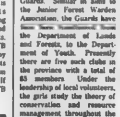
There are many links in the communication chain extending from the agricultural research laboratory, where new ideas are developed, to the working farmer, who puts them to practical use. One of the most important is the District Agriculturist. A respected member of the community he serves, the D.A. is a professional consultant whose years of training and experience are backed by the facilities of the University, the Canada Department of Agriculture and the Extension Services of the Alberta Department of Agriculture. He is an extension not only on the techniques of more efficient farm production but also on the management of the farm as a family business. The D.A.'s office is a distribution center for information on newly-developed farming methods which are passed along to the farmer by means of personal contact, demonstration, short courses and clubs. Alberta farmers know that, if they need professional advice or assistance, it is no farther away than the office of the nearest D.A.

...what are the most important weapons in Alberta's war against tuberculosis?

The incidence of TB in our province is being controlled through early detection, adequate treatment and continuing contact. the three main factors in the Chest Conservation Division of the Alberta Department of Health. Early discovery of the disease is obtained through reports from family doctors, nurses in schools and hospitals, and from two mobile X-ray units. Purchased by the Alberta TB Association and operated by the TB Division, these units provide a screening program throughout the province If the X-rays show signs of TB or related diseases, further tests are made. Adequate treatment is given without charge to those suffering from the disease at the two provincial sanatoria. Patients are kept only as long as isolation is required, an average of five and a half months. Here, are removed tissue and cautious their treatment as out-patients at the sanatoria or one of the 16 clinics at various locations in Alberta. A Central TB Registry fulfills the final function by keeping the Tuberculosis Division in contact with former patients to ensure they are continuing treatment if required.

...what steps are being taken to assure a proper education for Alberta's blind children?

Although Alberta itself has no school for the blind, the province's blind children are assured of a complete education by the Special Educational Services of the Alberta Department of Education. Arrangements are made for these children applying to attend the Jarvis Hall School for the Blind and Deaf, in Vancouver, or the Ontario School for the Blind in Brantford. Room, board, and tuition are all paid, and the children receive escorted transportation to school and home at the beginning and end of the term, and for the Christmas holidays. Where academic ability and personality make it possible, blind students are being removed from the special classes and enrolled in their own local schools, making it possible for them to live at home. Special teaching materials such as tape recordings and textbooks transcribed into Braille are provided by the Branch, which also assists teachers to learn the capabilities of their sightless students. In addition to aiding the blind gain an education, the Special Educational Services Branch also supervises and finances classes for the hard of hearing, those who have suffered partial loss of sight, and for all handicapped children in the province.



...how the girls of Alberta are being taught to appreciate the great outdoors?

Any Alberta girl between the ages of 10 and 16 is eligible to learn forest conservation and wilderness survival as a member of the Girl Forest Guards. Similar in aims to the Junior Forest Warden Association, the Guards forest [illegible] the Department of Lands and Forests, to the Department of Youth. Presently there are five such clubs in the province with a total of 85 members Under the leadership of local volunteers, the girls study the theory of conservation and resource management throughout the winter; undertake local beautification projects in the spring with tree, shrub and flower planting; and swing into even more practical instruction at a five-day camp during the summer. Attendance at the camp is an award for high achievement in the club. All expenses, with the exception of a $5 registration fee, are paid for by the Department of Youth, and resource people from the government act as lecturers and instructors. Forest biology, bush survival, use of map and compass, and fire fighting are a few of the [illegible] taught.

...what is the most important step in the development of Alberta's natural resources?

The most important at that long, long step that joins the ocean location of the resources with the areas in which they can be put to the best use A natural resource is not an asset until it is developed and transportation is a vital aspect of this development. Formerly inaccessible areas of Alberta, such in such resources as coking coal, gypsum, pulpwood, petroleum, natural gas and sulphur, are now being opened up by the construction of the Alberta Resources Railway Being built by the Canadian National Railway and financed by the Alberta Resources Railway Corporation, a crown corporation of the province, the A.R.R joins Edmonton on the south with Grande Prairie in the Peace River. The southern link with the C.N.R. junction provides access not only to inland markets of Canada and the United States, but also to overseas markets through the export ports of Prince Rupert and Vancouver. The northern terminus at Grande Prairie will bring the rich agricultural area of the Peace River District 400 miles closer to vast coast ports. Once complete, the A.R.R. will be leased and operated by the C.N.R. who may purchase the line at their option.

Plows For India

A number of Alberta farmers are providing money to purchase high-quality used as part of a program aimed at increasing food production in India.

The Farmers' Union of Alberta has loaned $800 of the $2,770 collected in the Plows for India campaign to J. R. Ward, Canadian University Service Overseas, New Delhi. The money is to be used primarily to purchase Mexican Wheat seed for use in a heavily populated area one hundred miles south of New Delhi. D. B. Marson, Director of CUSO-India, describes the area as "backward, but having a high potential."

Mr. Marson says the key to Indian Agricultural development over the next five years is the speed with which the new seeds and new techniques can be put into use.

The Plows for India campaign was launched by FUA President Paul Babey following his return from the Far East in 1966.

FUA groups and individuals, with other interested parties donated sums of $35 to purchase a plow and harness for an Indian farmer. The FUA ran into difficulty in trying to implement the plan and has chosen Mr. Word's proposal as a satisfactory alternative.

About 60 young people gathered at the Killam school gym on Friday evening for a Gym Night with the youth of Camrose and Provost. Included in the program were inter-volleyball, basketball and badminton games. A time of lunch and fellowship followed, during which the young people from Camrose and Provost shared through testimony and song.

The services on Sunday included the sermon "Sola Scriptura" in the morning in recognition of the 450th anniversary of the Reformation and "The Church's First Missionary," in the evening.

YOU DIDN'T MAKE IT — The yard sticks are called out for a close measure in a recent high school football game and two Central players watch closely to see that everything is done correctly. It was short by inches but close enough for the opposition to gamble on and they made it. Football is now over for this fall and attention is turning to winter sports.

THE UPS AND DOWNS OF SKATING — There's an old saying which says that you have to learn to crawl before you can walk, or, shoto. These youngsters apparently don't believe in the old sayings, and consequently, spent more time on their fannies than on their feet. Who knows, these may be Canada's future champions.

War Dead Honored Remembance Day

Services of Remembrance were held in the towns and villages along Highway 13 on November 11th in memory of those men and women who gave their lives in two world wars.

Services of worship were held in town halls and churches at the hour of 10:30 in the morning, with the traditional two minutes silence at 11:00 o'clock. Names of the war dead were read and tribute paid to their sacrifice while Last Post was sounded. Special anthems carried messages appropriate to the occasion.

Following the services wreaths were laid at Cenotaphs by various organizations and relatives of the war heroes, while flags flew at half mast.

Attendances were down somewhat due no doubt to the heavy fall of snow the preceding night, which left a blanket of white over the entire countryside

Following the services, socials were held, with special banquets for Veterans and invited guests, and at some points a dance concluded the day's activities.

WINTER COMES!

Winter came suddenly last Saturday as local residents awoke Nov. 11th to find the ground covered with snow The fall varied in depth over the district, with up to four inches being received.

Roads were slippery, and got worse the further West you travelled. The sudden arrival of winter cut attendance at Remembrance Day services.

The snow shows no sign of leaving and temperatures have been as low at 3 degrees below zero.

KILLAM INDIANS START EARLY

Killam Indians of the Battle River Hockey League are off to an early start this winter. The players have been holding workouts for some time in an attempt to reach a good level of conditioning by opening time for the league

The press knows the type of hockey players these fellows are, but no one will give us an opinion on their skill as basketball players. The only comment from one player was that he figured the coaches way of killing him off

Coaches are hard fellows at the best of times and always think that athletes should be in top condition year round.

Lodge Aux. Bazaar A Success

The Flagstaff Lodge Auxiliary met in the Lodge on November 6th at 8 p.m. with seven members present. The treasurer reported that the gross proceeds from the bazaar, tea and rag raffle were $239.25. The Auxiliary is very grateful for the splendid co-operation of the various organizations throughout the municipality, which made this possible.

Several sums are accomplished by the bazaar. It provides funds to purchase handicraft materials for the Lodge guests; also funds for the purchase of Christmas presents for them and additional comforts, such as the T.V. recently purchased. The bazaar and tea is a means of promoting the Lodge, providing all interested people with an opportunity to become acquainted with the Matron and the Lodge The bazaar also provides senior citizens with an opportunity to do their Christmas shopping right in the Lodge

The various projects of the Auxiliary were discussed. It was noted that the organizations, who take turns to provide a monthly service on entertainment in the Lodge, had held up well throughout the year. In October the Kinettes, accompanied by the Kinsmen, entertained with a Centennial dance, in costume, which was greatly enjoyed by the senior citizens. Bethania Lutheran Ladies will entertain in November and the U.C.W. will hold the usual Christmas party in December

Ministers from the district take turns providing a Tuesday evening service, and the Ladies Assembly provides a service on Sunday afternoons.

Mrs Knutson said that the guests would enjoy someone coming in to play bingo with them occasionally.

All these efforts combine to make life more pleasant for the guests. The Auxiliary looks forward to another successful year of service.

Another Alberta Junior Citizen of the Centennial Year!

PATRICIA ANNE ZEMANEK, Viking

While Patricia's parents were away at a funeral she suddenly smelled smoke. The lawn grass was ablaze! She fought the fire with wet rags but soon realized this to be futile. Hustling her small brother and sister into the farm truck, this brave 14-year-old girl drove it to a neighbours'. There, the truck stalled, so she took the neighbours' truck and drove to yet another farm. Upon arrival she phoned the fire department. A tractor, a shed and some farm items were lost in the fire, but Patricia had saved the farm!

We congratulate Patricia Zemanek and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active participation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

This is one of a series of Junior Citizen Award announcements. Our special thanks to Robert Thunnell, Editor of the Viking News and to Patricia's nominator, Mr. H. A. Willens.

All units functioned according to plan at the "Triad" Exercise was conducted at Sedgewick on November 4th, according to Brian Lee, Flagstaff Unit Co-ordinator.

The Exercise, a continuing part of the Emergency Measures Organization program, was aimed to test and further develop the operational capabilities of the Emergency Government Headquarters. During the day the various department of the Unit dealt with survival under fallout, remedial evacuation and reception.

The Province is divided into three Zones, Peace River, Northern and Southern. Flagstaff Unit, in the Northern Zone, is part of an area which covers from Red Deer to the Yukon Border and from Banff Park to the Sask border, and the task of the Exercise personel was to coordinate operations within the Zone, and operations of the Radiological Defence Service, along with the main task the safety of the population and passing along information to various levels of government and the public.

For the purpose of the Exercise a control centre was established in the vicinity of Drayton Valley, and with a south-easterly wind prevailing the progress of fallout was charted by the hour and necessary precautions taken for the welfare of the citizens in the fallout areas.

A Communications Centre was established with connections with headquarters in Camrose, and as demands came in for accomodation, foods, clothing, transportation, etc., the various departments responsible went into action to take care of the needs. The simulated exercises alerts the personnel to immediate action in the areas stricken, in case of a real emergency as that each unit knows the need and the whereabouts of the necessary facilities.

No Canadian market proves as confusing to the consumer as that of the yardgoods or textile department.

At the turn of the century we knew wool, cotton, linen and silk as our primary sources of clothing materials. We didn't need labels to tell us which was which — you could tell by feeling the goods with the hand. Now, in the era of manmade, rayon is no longer a sad yet adequate labelling is still a thing of the future

What triggered the research for man-made fibres? The cost of silk. Consequently, man attempted to find an inexpensive silk substitute. The first fibres to appear on the markets were derived from a cellulose, the so-call-synthetics: Rayon, the Acetates.

RAYON!

A silk substitute was a reality as early as 1885. In 1924 the nomenclature changed, from artificial silk to Rayon. Though many processes for production evolved most of today's Rayon is produced by the viscose process. It is chemically known as regenerated cellulose.

All Rayon is made from cellulose derived by purifying cotton linters or wood pulp. Rayon is second only to cotton in the textile consumption. Its low cost of production is perhaps its most important asset, making it widely available for all its many lovely Though its first use was in the clothing field, by 1957, Rayon was also found in over 1,000 industrial purposes, mainly tire cord or home furnishings.

The trademarks of Rayonal, Topel, Fortisan, Duraflo, Dynaknee, Elsa, Fibro and Tyrex all denote the same generic name or family-Rayon.

In yard goods, rayon is used all alone or in blends with other natural or man-made fibres. Before "linen" in 100% Rayon. Rayon is absorbant, therefore it is a comfortable fibre to wear in summer. It dyes readily, thus is available in a wide range of colors. Special finishes make it give it properties of crease resistance and water repellency.

Dry clean fabrics (unless labelled washable). When laundered, Rayon can be ironed damp and on the wrong side. Avoid chlorine bleaches.

Rayon has made its own place, not replaced silk as was originally conceived.

... how an English-speaking Alberta producer communicates with a French-speaking Quebec customer?

It's easy. He merely asks the bilingual staff of the Government of Alberta office in Montreal to interpret for him. In addition to broaching the language barrier, the Montreal representative of the Industrial Development Branch, Alberta Department of Industry and Development, assists in seeking out markets for Alberta products all over eastern Canada, from Ontario to the Maritimes. They also help visitors from home spend their stay in "la belle province" and provide premises where industrial communicators and representatives from Alberta rotes and home can conduct business. These same services are available in the southern Calforna area from the Government of Alberta office in Los Angeles.

... what is meant by the phrase "living history"?

Living history is the story of the past as told by the men who lived it. Alberta's history is brought to life by the writings of the men who actually explored and developed our province. Their first-hand accounts tell of the establishment of law and order in the wilderness, of the beginnings of agriculture, industry and government

You can read the stories these men have to tell, in their own words, in the Alberta Provincial Library in the Legislature Building. This collection of Western Canadiana describing Alberta's formative years is supplemented by documents which trace the province's history since inauguration The lives of the pioneers are recorded in the file of Alberta newspapers which have existed since 1906 and which is virtually complete The story of government in Canada and in Alberta is traced through the complete file of federal and provincial documents, including all issues of the Alberta Gazette and the debates and journals of the Canadian House of Commons and the Senate. The Alberta Provincial Library is a comprehensive, up-to-date reference and research centre and all books, documents and other materials are available for public use on the premises.

Mix it with icing sugar and feed it to the bees. Actually, bees' habit of passing food from one to the other will ensure that each bee gets its share of the treatment. That's the advice given to Alberta apiarists by the Agriculture Branch of the Plant Industry Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture. The recommendation of methods of disease control is just one of the personal services the Branch provides to the province's bee keepers It also assists in solving management problems. It keeps apiarists aware of new developments and trends in techniques through regular news letters and personal visits. Agricultural personnel make regular inspections of all bee colonies in Alberta and offer expert advice on specific problems

... how the efficiency of a community's water supply is assured before the pipes are laid?

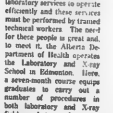
Discovering that a water supply system isn't adequate before the public needs, AFTER the system is installed, is an expensive mistake To assist municipalities in avoiding this error, design plans for all water and extended water systems must be submitted, for review and assessment, to the Environmental Health Division of the Alberta Department of Health.

This method assures that the finished system will deliver a continuous supply of wholesome water at an adequate rate . . . and does it while the plans are still in the design stage. Water supply is just one of the areas in which this division contributes to the health of Albertans. It also formulates regulations and makes and a preventive maintenance program in the fields of air and water pollution, swimming pools, sewage systems, food processing plants, plumbing inspectors and industrial radiation hazards In addition, the Environmental Health Division provides an inspection and survey service in those areas of the province not served by local health agencies, and a consultative service to Health Units and City Boards of Health.

... if there is a challenge left for modern youth to face?

In Alberta there is, and it lies in one of the most rewarding of all areas of service, in working with people who want to improve their own lot in life. That is the challenge offered to members of the Alberta Service Corps, a Division of the Alberta Department of Youth, formed of University and College students who want to share in the development of the human resources of our province. Volunteers are trained and assigned to areas in which they are interested, in which they are needed, and where their particular abilities can best be used. This may be with the mentally ill, on Indian reservations, in blighted urban areas, with migrant or seasonal laborers, or with a medical corps, providing a health program in remote communities. The pay is not great. Each member of the Alberta Service Corps receives a living allowance during his term of service, as well as a bursary on returning to school. The greatest reward lies in the satisfaction of knowing they have served their fellow man

... what is the source of trained technical staff for Alberta's smaller hospitals?



Whatever its size or location, a hospital requires X-ray and laboratory services to operate efficiently and these services must be performed by trained technical workers The need for these people is great and, to meet it, the Department of Health operates the Laboratory and X-ray School in Edmonton. Here, a seven-month course equips graduates to carry out a number of procedures in both laboratory and X-ray fields and to perform the technical work necessary in a rural hospital laboratory There is no charge for instruction and students receive a monthly allowance of $75, but entrance qualifications are high and each graduate is required to spend at least one year in the Alberta rural hospital field working as a hospital technician This ensures a constant supply of trained technical workers to render a reliable and efficient service to rural hospitals in the laboratory and X-ray fields.

Baptist Church

Monday evening the church board gathered at the pastor's residence for a time of discussion in preparation for the Quarterly Business Meeting which was held on Wednesday evening. One of the items discussed was an invitation to the Alberta Conference to hold its Annual Meeting at Killam next June. This invitation has now been accepted and plans are underway for this time. Dr. Bob Smith of Bethel College, St. Paul, Minnesota will be the speaker.

The Semi-Annual Meeting of the Baptist General Conference in Alberta was held this past Friday and Saturday at Wetaskiwin. Those attending included the Heartley Heartbergs, the Ted Potts and the pastor and his wife. All reported a wonderful time of fellowship and a sense that much was accomplished. A number of significant decisions were made that will have long lasting effects on our Alberta work. One of these was the hiring of a full time Executive Secretary to oversee the work.

Friday evening the youth of the church sponsored the showing of the film "Goal to Go". A number expressed appreciation in the film.

The Sunday activities included the Sunday morning sermon "A Need for Today" and the Sunday evening sermon "The Call to Missions". Sunday afternoon a group conducted the service at the Auxiliary Hospital in Killam.

Thought for the Week: "Cheer up! God often waits until tomorrow to explain the experiences of today".

Lone Guides Have Fun Too!

Almost everyone knows all about Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, but when Lone Guiding is mentioned, no one is too sure what they are. Visions of a man singlehandedly leading a group of hunters in the far north, or directing Trail Riders over mountain trails comes to mind.

In reality, Lone Guides are a branch of Girl Guides of Canada, and consist of girls age 10 to 14 doing good deeds, hiking, swimming, camping and becoming good citizens, the same as Girl Guides anywhere in the world.

Each province has a Lones branch in Girl Guides with a Commissioner and several Captains. The girls in the Lone Companies are girls who live where there are no active companies of Guides, or who live too far from an active company to attend meetings regularly. They do their Guiding by mail; the Captain sends out a Company Letter which is like an illustrated magazine containing various phases of Guiding. She also sends assignments each month for the girls to do.

There are also Lone Rangers who are girls of Ranger age, who live too far from Ranger Companies.

In Alberta we have four Lone Lone Guide Companies and one Lone Ranger Company. This year we had a Lone Camp for all the Lone Guides and Rangers in the province. This gave the girls an opportunity to meet and have fun, and learn more of the spirit of Guiding.

Anyone interested in obtaining more in formation on Lone Guides or Lone Rangers in Alberta, may write to: Alberta Council, Girl Guides of Canada, 10215 - 97 Ave., Edmonton, Alberta.

The Bible Today

Around two thousand people attended concerts in Aberystwyth, Wales, in connection with Welsh Bible Week here there this past summer. Organized to mark the 450th anniversary of the first printing of the New Testament in Welsh, around 750 people came to stay in Aberystwyth for the week. Hundreds of others came for daily visits by bus and car from neighboring communities throughout Wales. A very high proportion of the visitors, it is reported, were young people.

The theme of the Bible Week was "Translating the Word Today." In daily Bible studies, public addresses and many discussion groups, Welsh Christians discussed how to translate God's Word into their daily living and communicate it to their neighbor.

During the week many messages of greeting were received among which was one from the Roman Catholic Cardinal Ben, of the Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity in Rome Written in both English and Welsh, the Cardinal declared that the occasion of the 450th anniversary of the Welsh New Testament is a proper time for "praise and thanks."

The Welsh Bible has a special significance for the Bible Society. It was in search of a Welsh Bible that Mary Jones walked from her home near Aberystwyth to there over 100 years ago. It was the scarcity of Welsh Bibles which led to the formation of The British and Foreign Bible Society 163 years ago.

Second Sportsmen Dinner Features Antique Gun Display

HARDISTY — With almost a full house, the second annual Sportsmans Dinner held at the Hardisty Arena on November 14th has to be classed as a successful venture. Visitors were in attendance from as far away as Wetaskiwin. Coronation and Wainwright

Following a social period in the upstairs waiting room, Mr Dick Gillespie took over as M.C. for the opening portion of the program, which was preceded by a tasty beef supper served by the ladies

Mr Gillespie introduced the head table guests, and called on the Rev. Zwicker to pronounce Grace. Welcome from the Town of Hardisty was given by Mayor Rempel.

Seated at the head table were: Rev. Zwicker, Mayor Rempel, A. W. Eastly, Clare Drake, "Tiger" Goldstick, Brian Hall, Gordon Mills, Lon Anderson and Jack Wilker. Short speeches were made by Art Eastly, and Gordie Mills of Wainwright. Lon Anderson, Arena Press, welcomed the visitors, extended his thanks to the visiting dignitaries, and said that due to the generous engagements J. Greenard and E. A. Sims of the Eskimo football club were unable to be present.

Mr Jack Walker, who had on display some twenty guns of various vintage, gave a rundown on the origin of the models, their age and in many cases was able to indentify by the people who had used them at one time. Jack has been collecting guns since 1951 and in his possession owed 100 models, some of which are over 200 years old. Among the display was a telescope owned by the great, great grandfather of Morley Brown. The display was an interesting addition to the evening.

For the second half of the program, Cecil "Tiger" Goldstick took over as M.C., and expressed his pleasure at being present for the second time. He introduced Clare Drake, Coach of the University Footbal and Hockey teams. Mr Drake stressed the importance of providing sport recreational facilities for the boys of a community, reminding each one who does something in this cause, that somebody also did it for them at some time or other. "If the boy is alright, the world will be alright," said Mr Drake, who spends a big part of his time with young athletes.

Brian Hall, sportscaster for CJCA dwelt on hockey and football, and through the course of his address, stressed the need for people to feel proud of being a Canadian He said that we have a tendency to undersell ourselves We have no need to do this. Mr Hall said, because "We've got it" whether we believe it or not. He predicted that due to inevitable casualties in the expanded hockey league, Vancouver will get a big league franchise in the not distant future His rundown on the lives led by professional sports and broadcasters was interesting and belabored the popular concept that such a life is an easy one.

A social was held following the banquet program to wind up an enjoyable and interesting evening.

Killam Separate Hits the "Jackpot"

The staff and students of Killam Separate School were agreeably surprised last week when they received cheques to the value of $184.00. The cheques represented prizes won by the students as a result of taking part in the contests by the Educational ABC's of Industry.

The purpose of the programme, open to students throughout Canada, is to afford an opportunity to gain an insight into the way in which different industries operate. Some of the industry stories included are: silver, banking, grain, motor car, dairy farming, oil and gasoline. One representative only from any one particular product classification, sponsors the story of their product or service. Career stories are also carried. The programme fits principally into the social studies areas although handwriting plays an important part. The best work is sent in as possible prize winners.

The Educational ABC's of Industry is designed completely for use in school and is available only to teachers. A teacher orders a free book for each pupil in the class. Those industries sponsoring pages make the programme possible.

A great deal of enjoyment and a real opportunity "to learn by doing" is possible for those students who participate. Thousands of entries are sent in from every province.

In many instances this programme provides the only opportunity for a great many young students to become acquainted with our leading industries and their operations from raw materials on through to finished products and marketing.

Junior Projects — Laureen Kueber, Norma Jean Moser, Bonnie Lensch, Margaret Ann Hayes, Dancy Schaffler.

Essays — Rosemary Bergeson, Wayne Lewis, Kay Monk, Sharon Kinzer, Rita Sandmaier, Patrick Miller.

Handwriting — Sharleen George, Rosemary Bergeson

Prizes ranged from $1.00 to $5.00 per student. Kathy Schaffler and Louise Steil won sterling silver for their projects.

Killam Separate students have been winning prizes every year in these contests, but this year's awards have outclassed all previous efforts.

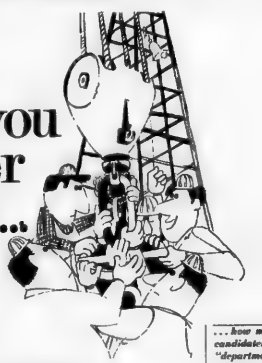
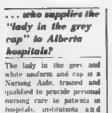
Have you ever wondered...



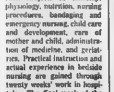
... what has proved the most effective weapon in the war against disease-carrying insects?

It's research. Research to identify those insects which transmit disease from animal carriers to man, to discover methods of control and to develop preventive measures. Field work on such research as our province is carried out by the Entomology and Vector Control Branch of the Alberta Department of Health. When a disease is reported, these teams trace the source of the infection, determine the area involved, then institute a control program. While this research is being carried out, warnings are posted throughout the area and residents are advised on preventive measures to be taken. Another service provided by the branch is the identification of household insects. Any Albertan can learn the nature of and control methods for an insect infestation in his home by sending a specimen of the invaders to his city Health Department or local Health Unit. These agencies are equipped with insect control sheets issued by the Branch but, if they are not able to [illegible] town this information, they will forward the specimen directly to the Entomology and Vector Control Branch for positive identification and control recommendations.



... who supplies the "lady in the grey cap" to Alberta hospitals?

The lady in the grey and white uniform and cap is a Nursing Aide, trained and qualified to provide personal nursing care to patients in hospitals, institutions and homes. Her vocation is service and her duties include many of those which were formerly assumed by the "trained nurse." To meet the demand for this valuable member of the nursing team, the Alberta Department of Health maintains two Schools for Nursing Aides, one in Calgary, one in Edmonton. To gain admittance to the school, an applicant must meet certain scholastic requirements, be in good health and of good character, with a pleasing personality. She must be well-groomed, be interested in people and have a strong sense of duty. Her training consists of a 40-week course, of which the first 19 weeks include lectures on such subjects as anatomy, physiology, nutrition, nursing procedures, bandaging and emergency nursing, child care and development, care of mother and child, administration of medicine, and principles of infection and practical instruction and actual experience in bedside nursing are gained through twenty weeks' work in hospitals. The final week of the course is devoted to examinations. The lady in the grey cap is a quality product, fully qualified to assist in protecting the health of Albertans through her training at the School for Nursing Aides.



... what happens to Alberta government wards who are unable to adjust to foster home care?

Some children under government care find it impossible to fit into the regular system of foster homes. This once meant they were moved from home to home in an attempt to find the right-environment with the result that the children suffered personally, academically and socially from such moves. The Homes and Institutions Branch of the Alberta Department of Public Welfare today maintains a variety of outlets for these youngsters, the latest of which is the Dalgrove and Treatment Centre in Edmonton. The first complete unit of its kind in Canada, the Centre houses twenty boys and twenty girls in two dormitories which provide complete living accommodation; plus thirty more children in three cottages, each with room for ten. The administration building contains special educational facilities, staffed by selected teachers, and the Centre will be completely self-contained with the addition of recreational facilities to provide an outlet for the children's energy. Group Homes are another recently-developed method of housing government wards. In these, a housemother and a housefather provide a home environment for six to eight children, living in a regular home in a regular neighborhood. Children who cannot be fitted into any of these areas are often assigned to special foster homes specifically chosen by the Homes and Institutions Branch to suit the child's personality.

Each year, a group of young men and women from all over Alberta gather on Drumheller for the specific purpose of learning how to teach people to have fun. These are candidates who have been nominated by their local recreation authorities or other responsible community organizations, to attend the Recreation Leadership School held annually by the Recreation Branch of the Alberta Department of Youth. The purpose of the School is to provide persons interested in leading recreation activities with the opportunity to develop their leadership skills. Required subjects during the first year course are recreation leadership, anatomy and first aid, group games, square and round dancing and community singing, with such options as gymnastics, drama, sports and crafts. Second year students take recreation and arts workshops and social dancing, with such options as tennis, archery, swimming and outdoor recreation. On graduation from the Recreation Leadership School, the candidates are qualified to return to their communities to act as activity leaders in local recreational programs.

... how many candidates write "departmentals" each year in Alberta?

Last spring, approximately 58 000 hopefuls attempted Grade 9 and Grade 12 exams, which meant over a quarter of a million examination papers had to be finished, distributed and marked by the Examinations Branch of the Special Services Branch, Alberta Department of Education. All examinations were prepared one year in advance by Alberta teachers. These were reviewed and, where necessary, revised by the Department with the assistance of teachers and people of the University of Alberta, then distributed to the schools where they were administered. The completed papers were returned to the Examinations Branch for scoring. The massive task of marking the exams required over 600 people, 250 of whom were [illegible] and the remainder clerks. With the assistance of the provincial data computer centre, result cards were mailed to the candidates for Grade 12 by the end of July, for Grade 9 by mid-August. In addition to handling departmental exams, the Examinations Branch also graduates documents from other provinces to assess new pupils' positions in the Alberta School system.

Killam School Division Holds Regular Meeting

A regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Killam School Division No. 20 was held at the office, with all board members, the Supt. and A. Sorenson present. Minutes were read and adopted, as well as a report of the board's meeting with members of the Calmar Board on Oct. 2.

Bid of the Killam Sheet Metal to take down unit heaters, replace exchangers and replace controls, to convert to gas on the installation at Daysland, was accepted.

The resignation of John Kvill as Principal of Sedgewick Public, and his resignation from the staff of the Division, was accepted. Martin Lawes was appointed acting Principal, and Mrs Shirley Swanson appointed to the staff as acting vice-principal at Sedgewick.

Mr L. Nielsen will represent the Board to nominate candidates for the Canadian Centennial Medal, 1967. This medal will be presented to a succesful candidate for valuable service to Canada on the basis of one medal to the inspectorate. awarded to a candidate from among teachers, superintendents and school administrators within the inspectorate.

Letter from the Dept. of Education indicated that a request had been received from E. Copeland & D. Creasy to have Sec. 13 and 24 in Twp. 34, Rge 10 transferred to the Wainwright School Division & the M. D. of Wainwright. It was moved and passed that the Killam Division is not in favor of granting the request for transfer, but that permission be granted for attendance of any children involved, at a school outside the Division.

Appointments to the staff of the Division with positions at Central High of Mrs B Simpson and Mrs J. Chevrasse, were approved.

A mutual agreement for transportation is to be drawn up with Forestburg Consolidated School District whereby both parties are agreeable to transporting the pupils from the Killam School Division to the Forestburg District and from Forestburg District to the Killam School Division.

It was passed that irrespective of the number of busses operated under contract, the contract bus operators shall be eligible for a policy in the amount of $2000 only for group life insurance which includes accidental death and dismemberment. A visit to the office of the insurance companies reps indicated that bus operators do not qualify for disability insurance.

The Supt will visit Hardisty to see if more satisfactory schedules could be arranged for the arrival of rural busses at Hardisty and the subsequent departure to the high school.

Approval was given for purchase of three tape recorders, teachers' desks, tables and primary chairs.

The application of Wayne Walker for sabbatical leave from his teaching duties during the 1968-69 school year, was tabled until the expiration of the time for receipt of these applications, March 1st, 1968.

Arrangements will be made to provide for the establishment of the Semester System in high schools of the Division, effective September 1st, 1968.

Rent on the teacherage at Daysland, purchased from J. Josephidon be set at $85 per month.

Mr. Groves, Architect, met with the Board for the purpose of discussing the omission of controls in the mechanical tenders originally submitted and under the bid depository system. Mr Groves said the lowest bid in this type of bidding is the one that would be used by all general contractors submitting bids on the Daysland School. It appears but air sub-trade "Auto Sheet Metal" had not received a bid from anyone for the controls required in this mechanical trade. Auto Sheet Metal did not follow this omission any further because they felt another trade connected with the mechanical trades might be looking after this The Architect said the bid should be checked thoroughly by his firm and it would appear at this time it is definitely an commission by the sub-trade. The sub-trade has indicated that if the omission & subsequent additional cost is not agreed as an additional cost of the building to the Board they would take it in the arbitration. A clause in the agreement says arbitration is an action that may be taken if no mutual agreement can be made. A course of this kind could result in considerable expense in legal fees to the Board. Such action could be taken until completion of the whole contract.

On the question of the Architect's liability in this omission, Mr. Groves pointed out that Architects are hired as advisers only and his firm could not be held liable due to the fact that the specifications contained everything necessary for the building's completion.

After some discussion the Board decided to defer the matter and what action will be taken later by the parties involved when the building is completed.

KILLAM BAPTIST CHURCH

Last Monday evening some of the young couples of the church join ed with a number of other couples from other churches at the Jim Bulloc home for the monthly Couple's Club meeting. A good time of fellowship was enjoyed by all.

The ladies of the church presented a Thank Offering service on Friday evening as another reminder of the blessing that we enjoy in this land. A number of special numbers were given and then Mrs Arnold Erickson, the wife of the pastor at First Baptist Church, Camrose, shared thoughts on importance of the Holy Spirit in the ministry of the church and in each person's individual life.

The evening included the Sunday morning sermon "God's Vehicle to Heaven" with the emphasis on the Christian's view of death. Sunday evening the sermon "The Challenges of Missions" concluded the emphasis on foreign missions.

We therefore appeal to you the Voters to consider the following in your own best interests.

The Reasons!
The reasons were many necessitating the formation of the County Examples:

2. A County form of government eliminates duplication in administration and operations.
3. The elected body responsible for the collection of revenue should have control of spending same.

Our Need!
1. Capable, honest, representative who will co-operate in their actions for the ultimate best results for all concerned.
2. The co-operation of all tax payers and electors with our elected representatives in the governing of our affairs.

Your Obligation!
1. To vote on Dec. 2nd for the man who is interested in promoting the County System as being the best possible form of local government.
2. To Vote for the man who realizes he has an obligation to serve the best interests of the County as a whole.
3. TO VOTE!

The County System is an honest form of representation encompassing both the farm and town populations in regards to their mutual interests in education.
The towns and villages are now appointing their representatives to the Education Committee. It is now up to you, the rural elector, to select your representative.
If you are still in doubt, do not accept misinformation — INVESTIGATE THE FACTS.

Anne Harris Married on Dominion Day

St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Edmonton was the setting for a beautiful Dominion Day nuptial mass when Catherine Anne, eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs Robert W. Harris of New Sarepta became the bride of Mr Peter Lorne Pinkoski, youngest son of Mr and Mrs Peter A. Pinkoski of Calmar. Rev. Father M. McCaffrey officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride, carrying a white missal covered with a cascading bouquet of yellow roses, entered on the arm of her father. From the shoulder of her full length, short sleeved gown, fell a long square train bordered by lovely French lace. This lace was repeated in the pearl sequined yolk neckline and five inch border on the hemline. The dress was beautifully styled in an opaque silk organza cage, which was draped dramatically over a fitted taffeta gown. The lovely three tier viel fell from the bride's headpiece, which encircled her upswept hair. Her jewelry consisted of a single strand of pearls and earrings, a gift of the groom.

The mother of the bride wore a pink outfit consisting of a lace three-quarter length duster over a solid pink dress. Her corsage of pink roses on white carnations, and white accessories completed her ensemble. A corsage of yellow roses on white carnations complimented the mother of the groom's lovely yellow knit three-piece suit. She wore white accessories.

The three bridesmaids; a sister of the bride, Gloria Harris; a friend of the bride, Anita McGowns; and the bride's cousin, Marilyn Harris, wore identical full length gowns of flowing yellow chiffon over fitted, A-line dresses of bonded lace. The yellow dresses were complimented by Shasta daisy bouquets, and headpiece fastened by tiaras and matching shoes.

The groom in a dark suit, vest and white tie had as his best men Mr Dave Phillips, friend of the groom; Edward Murphy, eldest nephew of the groom, and Ray Harris, brother of the bride. They wore dark suits and matching ties.

For her going away ensemble, the bride chose a yellow print import dress and solid yellow coat, yellow straw hat, with black kid gloves and patent shoes and purse.

After a honeymoon spent in the northern States and Victoria, B.C., the happy couple took up residence in the British Columbia capital, where the groom had accepted a teaching position.

Crop Insurance Program Expands

There will be a major expansion in the crop insurance program in Alberta in 1968

J. M. McKay, chairman of the Board of Directors of this crown corporation, said while addressing the annual meeting of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties in Edmonton, that present plans call for nearly doubling the area in which insurance is now offered to farmers. Next season, insurance will be available to about 75 percent of the commercial grain farmers in Alberta. He anticipated that by 1969 nearly all of the province would be covered.

Mr McKay also said that insured farmers would have the opportunity in 1968 to insure to 80 percent of the long-time average yields for their area. So far, coverage has been limited to the 60 percent level.

New areas to be included under the crop insurance program next year include the Counties of Warner, Lethbridge and the Municipal Districts of Cardston and Foothills in Southern Alberta; the Counties of Red Deer, Stettler and Paintearth in the center of the province; the County of St Paul and the Municipal District of Bonnyville in the northeast; and Improvement Districts 134 and 139 in the Peace River area.Smaller extensions will take place in the Counties of Ponoka, Wheatland and Municipal District of Rocky View.

In reviewing crop insurance this year, Mr McKay said that claims were now being processed and settlements would be completed as quickly as possible. It is too soon to accurately predict totals, but he said in all likelihood about 1,200 out of the nearly 10,000 insured farmers would receive payment for crop losses despite the fact that figures indicate 1967 was an average year for crop production in Alberta.

Heaviest losses have occurred in the Peace River area. Barley was hardest hit by this year's drouth

DARLENE KOPORES, Ponoka

Several years ago, when her mother passed away, Darlene began helping her father to look after the family. Darlene has four younger brothers and sisters. Then, when she was thirteen, her father went to hospital, and this enterprising girl took complete charge! She kept house and looked after the family even through difficult periods. Yet she has attained an excellent scholastic standing. Today, she attends Grade Ten at Ponoka High School. Now that her father is home again, the family is working together to build a happy, contented home.

We congratulate Darlene Kopores and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active participation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

ACETATE

Acetate, like rayon, is derived from cellulose. The key to their difference lies in their chemical nature Though both start as cotton linters or wood pulp, their production into fibres renders them quite different in both chemical and physical properties.

Acetate was the first of our thermoplastic fibres, i.e., it softens when exposed to heat. In this respect, acetate resembles our true synthetics

Acetate fibres are relatively strong. Fabrics made from acetate yarns drape well and are varied — soft to crisp in hand, and dull to lustrous in appearance. They are only moderately absorbent with little or no shrinkage or stretch. They are moth and mildew resistant.

The greatest obstacle found with acetates was in relation to dyeing them They are difficult to dye due to their chemical structure. Though relatively fast to washing and sunlight, they have been found to be highly subject to fume fading. Exposure to acid substances or acid vapors in industrial cities destroy the blue component of dyes and fabrics tend to redden. Perspiration can also effect a color change.

Though used primarily for apparel, acetate is also found in linings, upholstery fabrics, draperies, carpets and bedspreads. Dry clean acetate fabrics unless labelled as washable. Even if washable, wash by hand and do not wring. Remember that acetate is thermoplastic and melts under a hot iron. Iron damp, on the wrong side of the fabric. Avoid bleaches.

When purchasing yard goods for home sewing remember to pre-shrink goods before cutting. Use silk or synthetic thread if working with lustrous fabrics, mercerized cotton or dull or rough textures. Fabrics will grow as leave adequate seam allowances and finish your seams.

For many years a fabric of mixed [illegible] has been used as a stiffening inner liner in men's semi-soft shirt collars to keep them more firm and shapely. Then this collar is fused with a hot iron, the acetate fibres soften and adhere to the cotton on both sides. This is the TRUBENIZED collar.

Bethania Lutheran Dedication Service

Bethania Lutheran Congregation north of Sedgewick enjoyed a special day of worship and thanksgiving Sunday, November 19th as they dedicated the newly completed additions to their church structure The morning worship service started at 11:00 o'clock, conducted by Pastor Christopherson, opening the festivities. Rev. Arthur W. Holmes, Edmonton, president of the Edmonton-Camrose Conference of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada, preached the sermon at this service and also conducted the rite of dedication.

In his message, based on the theme of the outreach of God's love through His Church, Pastor Holmes emphasized that building ...d dedicating churches, cathedrals and institutions will accomplish nothing unless God's people also dedicate themselves to the "task of loving."

Following the morning worship service a fellowship dinner was served in all present by members of the Trinity (Loughead) LCW and their husbands. The afternoon program of greetings, well wishes and music included special greetings from Trinity Lutheran of Lougheed and Sharon Lutheran of Irma, sister congregations of the Sedgewick Lutheran Parish. Pastor Christopherson spoke briefly on the theme, "The Light That Shines in a Darkened World" emphasizing the fact that God established His Church on earth as a channel for His love to all men and that is the primary purpose of any Christian congregation.

Additions to the church structure included in the remodeling program are a new and more adequate heating plant and a new furnace room, enlarged kitchen and dining facilities and rear entrance to the church a new large Sunday School and Council room and a roomy sacristy to which also doubles as a Sunday School class room. A crystal chandelier for the chancel ceiling and other light fixtures were given by members as memorial gifts and were included in the dedication. The church parlors also received a new coat of paint. More than 90% of the labor on this addition was volunteer labor by members of the congregation, both men and ladies.

Dr. K. Hofield, Saskatoon, President of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada, sent a congratulatory telegram to the congregation. The E.L.C.C. will complete its first year of "life" on December 31st as the first autonomous Lutheran Church in Canada.

Miss Sylvia Koford of Daysland received her engagement diamond. She also received an award for proficiency in obstetrical nursing. She was 18th highest in standing in a class of 110 girls.

The second annual Fur Fashion Show was held in the Elks Hall on Monday evening, November 6th with a large number of ladies in attendance

The fine selection of fur coats brought by Mr Baker of Baker's Fine Furriers, were graciously modelled by a number of our local ladies.

Mrs Barbara Gibb of the Killam Fabric Centre, commented on each coat as it was modelled.

Hardisty C. G. I. T. Conducts Course

The Hardisty United Church C.G. I.T have recently conducted a four week study on "Education", which was open to all girls. We are happy to say about 30 girls in all attended.

The girls found it very educational and would like to say thanks to Velma Mader, Capt., Janet McKay, Wainwright, Pam Hager, Helen Rommings, Nora Twinkler, Sister Margaret Francis, Sister Anne Stevens and Sister Mary Clarence, who all helped.

Films and pamphlets were sent from the Board of Health. A very nice feature of the study was seeing all denominations working together to educate these girls.

B of T To Hold Ladies Night

The regular monthly supper meeting of the Sedgewick District Board of Trade was held on November 21st with a good turnout of members and one visitor.

It was reported that nothing as yet had been heard concerning the T.V. Brief which had been forwarded by the Board.

Some discussion took place regarding waste receptacles for the main street, and a committee was formed to look into the matter and report to the next meeting.

Mr E. Koehli reported on a letter sent regarding Flagstaff Lodge, and more information should be forthcoming.

Messrs Beairsto, Bailey and Taylor were appointed a committee in charge of the annual Christmas Party for the kiddies.

The Board decided to hold the annual Ladies' and Newcomers' Night at the January meeting, when special entertainment and other features will be held.

The holding of a banquet was discussed, and it was decided that we would have it on December 2nd, in Strome, with invited guests only. Also the date of the regular meeting was changed to the first Monday of each month, instead of the second Wednesday.

Kinsmen Hold Buddy Night

Sedgewick Kinsmen Club instituted a new practice at their dinner meeting last Wednesday evening, when they held a Buddy Night.

Buddy Night was a new idea where each Kinsmen member brought someone to the meeting as a guest. This could be anyone they wished and not just those who would be eligible for membership in the club

The guests were welcomed by club president, G. Neville, and each one was introduced by the member who had invited him After the dinner the guests were present for the business meeting where they could observe the operation of the Kinsmen Club in the many different areas where it is involved in community work.

Psychic Dependence!

It seems almost a certainty that in spite of warnings by knowledgeable people of the dangers of certain practices, there is a section of our society that feels compelled to experiment in spite of it all. Take the case of Marijuana for instance. Many of those who practise the habit of smoking this narcotic have convinced themselves that it is a totally innocuous stimulant without habit forming effects. We sometimes wonder how they can be so naive and ill-informed, and the only conclusion we can arrive at is that they are "Hooked" and excuse their psychic dependence that may be stronger than physical addiction resulting in the most intensive craving and perpetuation of compulsive abuse. Marijuana does not cause physical dependence and this very fact has given rise to the misconception that it is not addictive. It is used, primarily, to diminish tension and help the individual to function in society; or it may be used in such a way that the individual totally escapes from reality and withdraws from society. While prescribed sedatives, tranquilizers, and antidepressants, used in moderation (to allay excessive anxiety) may permit individuals to function more affectively in society, the uncontrolled use of such psychedelic drugs such as Marijuana, LSD, Mescaline, and Cocaine, allows the individual to escape from reality to such an extent that he need not function at all. The first group is often useful to society, while the second would only destroy it.

In view of these medical and scientific findings, why do people insist on giving the drug a try as an experiment? The only answers seem to be an escape from responsibilities or the asinine desire for "kicks" in either case they are paving the way to the grave, and we can ill afford to lose them in this manner.

We are in the process of reading a thick volume on the evolution of man and it has been interesting to follow his progress down through the thousands of years. It would almost seem as though the plan for man's progress, while charted beforehand, has been a slow and tiresome, if not exasperating ordeal. Man is an obstinate animal and in spite of all signs to the contrary, is reluctant to accept the inevitable even to his own welfare.

How man has changed, or is changing, is an interesting study, while his growth rate has been evolving. A one-year-old infant today, for instance, is seven percent taller and fifteen percent heavier than he was in the 19th century. The reasons for this are obvious as man makes his technilogical and scientific advancement. Today's boys aged nine to forteen years are 6 to 9 percent taller and 15 percent heavier than 100 years ago. He attains maximum height at 21 compared to 25 years of age back in the mid-1800's. While we won't be around to see the result in another 100 years, we can easily visualize a world of giants, and a front line for the Edmonton Eskimos that is insurmountable. At the least the future has interesting possibilities for mankind, unless he also adds equal amounts of fat, then we see complications. For how do you elimate fat? Makers of Vibrators think they have the answer for fat women at least, but now medical science tells us that it is not true. The average women, they say, would have to be shaken for 500 hours to lose one pound if fat. There just is no mechanical way that fat people can be pounded, slapped or shaken to redistribute fat or even lose it. So we come right back to the basic problem. If the body takes in food that is not used in the function of the body, it is stored as fat, and if it is not used from these fat storage depots it remains inactive and man becomes a fat slob. Advances in food methods make us taller; also make us fatter and therein lies our problem.

Age Finally Recognized!

It has taken a long time, but finally industry has realized that the man from 40 to 60 years of age should not be written off as a loss. It is never too late to learn, runs an old adage, and you cannot teach an old dog new tricks, says another. Recent developments in the industrial world seem to indicate the former is now more applicable to human conditions. Technilogical change has convinced management that it is more and more having to face the need to retrain workers who fall within the 40 to 65 range. It is finding this group infinately more adaptable to change than they would have believed. Many people are inclined to overestimate the effects of the disabilities associated with age and the extent to which these are impediments to retraining. Industry, however has found that this is simply not true, and their studies have served to underscore that ability to learn & capacity to adapt are not the monopoly of youth. This is certainly a conclusion calculated to hearten the over 40's who still make up forty percent of our labor force.

There is little doubt that these conclusions have been arrived at through studies which show an incredible lack of basic knowledge of our economic system evident today in large numbers of college graduates as they enter the labor force each year. This of course is a left-handed assist to the over 40 group who have been some years now trying to convince the world that frost on the roof does not necessarily mean there is no fire in the furnace.

by A.C.E.

This summer, as most of you probably noticed, there were more than the usual numbers of caterpillars. One of these fell out of a tree and landed on the step in front of me. I did something I hadn't done in a long time. I sat down and watched him for a few minutes. The tree trunk from which he had fallen, was some 15 feet away, and from his low view of things about him was obscured from sight. But after only a few seconds he turned around and headed directly towards the tree trunk. no doubt anxious to get back to the job of consuming those delicious leaves. The question is, how the caterpillar had the know where that tree trunk was? He had several obstacles in his path but his course was straight and true, and the last I saw of him he was headed up the tree. If that little fellow can see that far, he has real fine eyes for his size. Besides that, I couldn't even see anything that looked like eyes on him, so I am sure he must have some other way to use his navigation was first-class. This was one of those hairy little black and yellow guys that look like they would make a good brush if you could attach some kind of handle to them. With all these sets of legs he moved with a flowing motion much like a wave travelling through water. First the back legs would move throwing that part of his back up and as each successive set of legs moved the hump travelled forward. And those legs wouldn't win any beauty contest. They looked like a motion cop on the end of a stick. Like the maiden boys like to shout at the calling of their horses to see how long they will stick up there.

The Letter Box

Mr. Editor:

While we continue to read of the "glorious" achievements of the USSR in connection with the 50th Anniversary of the Revolution, who do we not hear of the plight of some 27 captive nations through two thirds of the world Why have we not read of the 3.75 million people who fled from East Germany; the 200,000 from Poland; 530,000 from Hungary and countless millions from the Baltic States, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia?

While our Press, Radio and University campuses speak of achievement and progress, can we point to any country on this planet which has accepted a communist government by free election? Are the captive people of any communist dominated nation free to leave their "workers paradise" and exercise freedom of speech, freedom of worship & freedom of Choice?

As we co-operate with domestic "peace" marchers protesting U. S. involvement in Vietnam, have we ever seen a parade march demanding "self determination" for the captive people of the world? While we rightly protest Hitler's murder of six million Jews during World War 2, do we hear any protest about the 74 million who have been murdered, starved and otherwise eliminated as part of communist "achievement and progress?" — Yours truly, Don Hoe

★ MACDUFF REPORT

War Of Nerves!

OTTAWA — There was an air of well controlled drama in the House of Commons when Tory leader Stanfield rose in his place last week to hurl his first formal challenge to the Liberal Government. "Hurt" is perhaps the wrong word for Mr. Stanfield, whose debating style is about as different from John Diefenbaker's as it is possible to get.

But the new Conservative chief had been saying some hard things about the Grovers must he is committed to overthrow at the first opportunity. And everybody was waiting to see whether he would make good on his first time at bat.

Mr. Stanfield disappointed nobody, except possibly the Liberals, in a carefully prepared and documented indictment of the Government's sins over the past four years.

But when the time came for the Opposition to stand and vote in support of the Stanfield challenge, absenteeism won the day for the Government.

And incredibly, the Tory leader didn't even vote for his own motion of no-confidence.

The reason was that Prime Minister Pearson had left the country the night before on a week's visit to Britain to receive the freedom of the City of London, and Mr. Stanfield obligingly concluded that it would be inappropriate to vote against him in his absence.

Even if he had, however, the Government would have been safe. There was enough blank spaces in the New Democratic party's ranks to guarantee that.

Which means, of course that the NDP would prefer to keep the devil it knows in government than to substitute a devil it doesn't.

The NDP, in fact, probably holds the key to whether Stanfield can ever deliver the Government to the wolves before it goes to the people at a time of its own choosing, perhaps as far off as 1970.

Consider the House of Commons breakdown: Liberals, 131; Tories, 95; NDP, 22; Creditistes 9; Social Credit 4; Independents 3 and Vacant 1.

Short of a substantial shift in party standings through by-elections, Mr. Stanfield will have to sweet-talk three other party groups and the independents as well into following his line before he can hope to outvote the Government's backbenchers.

And that is not likely to happen, particularly since the big splinter groups know they might have difficulty getting re-elected in any early test on the runnings. Until politics gathers to a greater degree around new leaders, or possibly fragments to the benefit of the small parties, it is hard to see the House of Commons doing anything other than a series of bluffing matches — much sound and fury, signifying little.

But Mr. Stanfield's efforts will not be wasted.

Government-wise, it has long been contended in Ottawa, are never elected on their own; they get back into office because the voters like the opposition less, or else they defeat themselves and let in the opposition by default.

The job of the Tories over the next year or more, unless something startling happens to upset the political balance, will be to help the Liberals destroy themselves. Tom Government as it has been doing a pretty good job of it without help in recent weeks. One Cabinet Minister after another has mishandled matters to the delight of the opposition and the misery of Liberal backbenchers.

A looming like sense of suicidal despair has gripped the Party in the confusion over the succession to Prime Minister Pearson. You can find Liberals on Parliament Hill, including Ministers, who are willing to consider defeat at the polls ,and even suggest it may be good for the Party to have another term in opposition. This attitude is curious when it is considered that the chances of Mr. Stanfield's troops storming the barricades remain remote.

What seems to be bothering the Liberals most, however, is a missing sense of direction.

Everybody on the Government side knows that Prime Minister Pearson does not wish to lead another election. He has spoken frequently of the joys of retirement that it would surprise few MP's if he were to announce his departure any day.

And yet the PM hangs on, apparently because he can't satisfy himself on which likelied (all the candidates for his job are in the Cabinet) should receive his blessing.

Nobody on the Liberal side wants to see Mr. Pearson go. And yet it is recognized that for the Party's sake, sooner or later and preferably sooner, he must.

The very least he can, and should do, Liberals are saying, is to make his position clear so that the Party, and the government it controls, can do some forward planning.

Until he shows his hand, and until Mr. Stanfield can rally the support of the splinters in the House Parliament seems destined to remain in a stalemate.

It may be good for the legislative program, but it makes dull politics.

WRONG EMPHASIS ON EDUCATION

One of Canada's leading industrialists and educationalists had some plain talk concerning university degrees when he spoke to delegates of the Canadian Gas Association.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, Chancellor of Simon Fraser University in British B.C., suggested that industry should stop demanding the university degree as a qualification for jobs that do not require it.

He said in-service training is the cheapest and most effective way to train people in industry and industry could do it more quickly and effectively than the schools.

Dr. Shrum, who is chairman of the British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority, emphasized that he favored university educational opportunity for every student who wanted it and could benefit from it, but he ridiculed the concept of a degree as a badge of social success.

"Most-go-to-college has become a middle-class status symbol," he said. This attitude has overcrowded universities with persons who should not be there.

He thought the most encouraging part of education programs today is the emphasis being placed on technical institutes and vocational training schools, and said this is where the greatest need lies. — Brooks Bulletin

G. Candlish's Silver Wedding

Relations, friends and neighbors gathered at the Community Center at Daysland on November 21st to help celebrate the silver wedding anniversary of Mr and Mrs George Candlish. Approximately 125 guests signed the guest book.

The head table was centered by a lovely cake decorated by their eldest daughter, Sharon Rawson, and also Mrs Paul Rawson. Seated with the "bride" and "groom" were Sarah Candlish, who took the place of Julie Hembest, bridesmaid, and Robert Candlish, the best man. Also seated were their four daughters, Faye, Judy, Patsy Sharon (Mrs Carrie Rawson) and Carrie Rawson, son-in-law.

The 1968 Ford. Quiet. Strong. Beautiful.
A great road car.

The 1968 Ford: the newest expression of the Fords that showed themselves astoundingly strong, wonderfully quiet—test after test, drive after drive. Back in 1965, Ford Galaxie 500 XL's rated even quieter than a Rolls Royce . . . in 1966, Ford showed its quiet strength against the finest European luxury cars . . . in 1967, Ford showed its rugged durability conquering the steep steps of the Los Angeles Coliseum. Now in 1968, the new generation Ford is, more than ever, a great road car.

Every one's a beauty too: the formal, elegant 2-and 4-door LTD'S. The racy convertibles. Luxurious wagons. A spirited new fastback that seats six. And behind the good looks, better ideas: power disc brakes, rear window defogger, 7 position tilt steering wheel, "no headlight" headlights (neatest disappearing trick of the year), AM Radio-StereoSonic tape system and lots more. So many features, in fact that your '68 Ford is almost custom outfitted for you.

Ford's new improved SelectShift transmission (works both manually and automatically) puts three speeds into action, for greater flexibility and livelier performance with Ford's new V-8 engines. V-E's from a brand new 302 CID powerplant . . . all the way up to the rugged 428. For snappy performance plus six-cylinder thrift, there's the 240 cu. in. Big Six.

The invitation was accepted by the Council with appreciation and thanks.

Mr Orville Likeness, gravel foreman, met with the Council and discussed matters pertaining to installation of culverts and erection of snow fences.

Mr Likeness reported that he had talked with the representative of Calgary Power Ltd. with respect to graveling the road to its Radio Tower and was informed that the Company would like this portion of road graveled this fall. However, if this was not possible, then it could wait until spring.

The gravel foreman raised the matter of erecting snow fences. He reported that the snow fence was erected in Division 6 and the crew were now working in Division 5. If snow were fencing is to be done this year than in the previous years, extra snow fencing will be required.

Pedlar, advised by letter that his Council has agreed to cooperate with the Council of the Municipal District and reduced both the balances of Mrs Jacques at Bashaw Island and the R. The Returning Officer reported that Messrs James Hallum, Charles Wiseman and George Heck appointed as Enumerators for the General Election had indicated that they were unwilling to act.

Thus the Reeve had appointed the following Enumerators to replace the above: Electoral Division No. 2 — Berb Buchholz replaced Chas. Wiseman; Electoral Division No. 3 — James Davison replaced James Hallum; Electoral Division No. 7 — The number of Enumerators in this Division was reduced from four to three and the territory was then subdivided among the three remaining Enumerators. However, these plans did not indicate these acreages. Application for photostatic copies of duplicate certificate of titles are now being made to further expedite the description of the acreages by meets and bounds.

Cllr. Lien advised the Council that the Bridge W/SW 16-46-13 W4 on Highway No. 36 was completed several weeks ago, but the detour signs were not removed. He contacted the Foreman and asked him to remove the detour signs. This was done. They also checked the road used for detour. Clay and gravel were hauled to repair the portion of the roads that were damaged. The road was left in a fair condition. However, there was some damage done to the bridge on the detour. Since the crew had left, the Foreman and he settled for damage in the amount of $88.00. This was paid.

Moved that the Council concur with the action taken by Cllr. H. C. Lien with respect to settlement of repairs and damages to the road used as a detour during the construction of the bridge on Highway as at W/SW 16-46-13 W4.

The Secretary informed the Council that he had contacted Mr Alan Hunter, the CPR representative in Sedgewick, with respect to his price charged for the area taken for widening of road along the west side of Sec. 13-43-11 W4. Mr Alexander advised the Secretary that he must pay for the land according to his sale value at the present time. However, in the case of this nature, he also advises the Company that the land purchased is not for business purposes and the widening of the road is to the advantage to the adjoining land. A letter was submitted to Maritime Supply Company requesting their consideration of the price charged per acre.

Cllr. George Matthews advised the Council that Reeve Hintz and he had the opportunity to discuss the sale of SE 25-45-10 W4 with Mr C. Whitehead. Mr Whitehead was quite interested in the purchase of this land and stated that he will check with the Veterans Land Act representative to make the necessary arrangements re the purchase of this land. The matter of testing for gravel deposits was referred to the gravel foreman, Orville Likeness.

Mr Robert Hilton, Street, Robbins, Marrow Ltd., sales representative, met with the Council with respect to the sale of the No. 12 P motor grader. He was informed by the Deputy Reeve of the Council's earlier decision. That is in lieu of the change of the Municipal District to a County at the first of year, Council decided against the purchase of the said motor grader.

Cllr A. C. Bussey informed the Council that the second motor grader Model 650 was brought back several days ago and at present is operating quite satisfactorily

Cllr G Matthews advised the Council that the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce at Hardisty had been charging exchange on all cheques issued by the Municipal District on the Bank of Montreal at Sedgewick. Have you ever wondered...

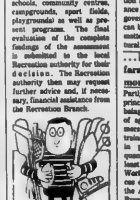
...where medical aid would come from if your community should suffer a disaster?

Disasters can range from a nuclear attack to a multi-car highway accident, from a flood to an industrial explosion, but all have one thing in common: the immediate and vital need for medical supplies and equipment. To make sure that the required equipment and personnel are on hand when needed is the responsibility of the Emergency Health Services of the Alberta Department of Health. Twenty two-hospital bed emergency hospitals, packaged and ready to be transported and erected wherever needed, are being strategically stored in the province by this agency. These units are designed to replace lost and destroyed facilities which might be destroyed in a nuclear attack, and to supplement inadequate local facilities in the event of major civil disaster. Advanced Treatment Centres are also maintained by the Emergency Health Services to provide first life-saving techniques and patient-sorting following a major attack. Each large city hospital has disaster teams which would assist local medical personnel if required during a large disaster outside Calgary and Edmonton. To further supplement emergency equipment available locally, twenty Casualty Collecting Units have been divided into thirds, providing 60 municipalities throughout the province with stretchers, blankets, first aid supplies, burn dressings and water bottles. The distribution and use of all this equipment, which is supplied by the federal government, is controlled by the Emergency Health Services, working with the Alberta Emergency Measures Organization.

...what type of recreation program would be best for your community?

There's no need to wonder about it; many specific answers are available through a Recreation Interests Inventory. The Recreation Branch of the Alberta Department of Youth, through the area consultants can provide guidance and assistance in this inventory. Any interested municipality can request that an inventory be carried out in their area and the Branch may assist in developing the questionnaires and in supplying the personnel to co-ordinate the project and to evaluate the answers, at the cost to the community of materials only. To further aid in setting up a comprehensive recreation service, the Branch assists in surveying the physical facilities available, (i.e. schools, community centres, campgrounds, sport fields, playgrounds) as well as present programs. The final evaluation of the complete findings of the assessment is submitted to the local Recreation authority for their decision. The Recreation authority then may request further advice and, if necessary, financial assistance from the Recreation Branch.



...where an Alberta manufacturer can obtain the financial assistance required to buy the materials he needs at the most advantageous time and in the most economical quantity?

Qualified Alberta manufacturing firms, unable to obtain sufficient financial assistance from other sources, can apply to the Alberta Commercial Corporation for the funds they need to build up inventories of raw materials or standard component parts. The Corporation will purchase the material in quantity, arrange for storage and release it for cash payment as it is required. Funds are also made available to qualified manufacturers who require production equipment or land and buildings to enlarge their facilities. Firms applying for assistance from the Alberta Commercial Corporation also receive expert guidance and direction to these government agencies which can best advise them on such matters as markets and natural resources.

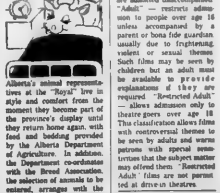
Partly because, today, the principles of engineering are being applied to the practice of agriculture. Alberta farmers now have the assistance of trained agricultural engineers in producing the largest quantity of food with the least number of man hours. Working through the offices of District Agriculturists the Agricultural Engineering Branch of the Extension and Colleges Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture, offers help in such forms as plans for livestock buildings, advice on installation of private water systems and water treatment plants, sewage disposal and electrical installations, drainage of farm lands, gully filling and conservation. They aid in planning new farmsteads for maximum mechanization to reduce time and work at operations like feed handling, manure disposal and bulk storage of fertilizer. Tractor mastermanes schools and field days held by the Branch are also help teach those engineering ideas which have played a major role in making agriculture one of Alberta's most efficient industries.

...who provides "bed and board" for Alberta's entries at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair in Toronto?



Alberta's animal representatives at the "Royal" live in style and comfort from the moment they become part of the province's display until they return home again, with food and bedding provided by the Alberta Department of Agriculture. In addition, the Department co-ordinates with the Bread Association, the selection of animals to be entered, arranges with the railway for rolling stock, outfits the cars, carnivales loading times and locations and pays freight costs, 75 per cent of which are reimbursed by the federal government. The province supplies assistance to exhibitors for this occasion because this is the only agricultural fair in Canada considered to be national in scope.

...why all Alberta movies are classified?

Classification of motion pictures shown in Alberta is a method of advising moviegoers throughout the province as to what kind of entertainment they can expect when they go to the show. Advertising for any movie must bear the classification which has been assigned to it by the provincial Board of Censors, so that everyone will be aware of the type of picture it is. There are three classifications — "Family" — movies to which even the youngest children are admitted unaccompanied — "Adult" — restricts admission to people over age 16 unless accompanied by a parent or bona fide guardian — usually due to frightening, violent or sexual themes. Such films may be seen by children but an adult must be available to provide explanation if they are required. "Restricted Adult" — allows admission only to theatre goers over age 18. The classification allows films with controversial themes to be seen by adults and warns patrons with special sensitivities that the subject matter may offend them. "Restricted Adult" films are not permitted at drive-in theatres.

deteriorating for some time and that there are no indication of any improvement. Some of the cause may be due to the unsettled fiscal situations in the United States and Canada. Inflationary trend which lessens the objectiveness of fixed income investments such as bonds and debentures and a tremendous demand from both public and private borrowing which prevents the market from levelling out.

A letter was received from the Director of Prairie Farm Assistance Act advising that the cut-off date for acceptance of amendments to applications for P.F.A.A. inspections in 1967 is November 15th.

The Council reported that the average yield in the Municipal District was above that acceptable for P.F.A.A. Thus the letter was ordered to be filed.

A summary of fire losses for the 21 ncipal District of Flagstaff was submitted by the Fire Commissioner, Dept. of Provincial Secretary Fire losses for the period ending August 31, 1967 amounted to $88,401.00, which included twelve rural fire losses to the amount of $23,943.00 and $9,343.00 in vehicle and trailer fire losses.

The shop foreman, Mr A. E. Whitehead and the Fieldman, Mr Brian Law, met with the Council and discussed the use of the Municipal District's spray truck as a fire truck. They stated that the truck is not equipped with fire fighting apparatus and therefore should not be used for fire control. If it is to be used for this purpose then it should be fully equipped and not used for any other purpose. Some time was spent in discussing the disadvantage of using the sprayer truck as a fire fighting unit. The main discussion centered around the question as to what role is the Municipal sprayer to play under the rural fire protection plan. The Council agreed that some definite arrangements must be made with the Village of Heisler and the Town of Sedgewick in this respect and further amendments to the Rural Fire Protection Plan may be necessary.

A question was then raised as to where would the M. D truck be stored if it is not used as a fire truck. The Fieldman and the Shop Foreman had discussed this matter and suggested that the building back of the Flagstaff Foundation could serve this purpose. Very little work would have to be done to this building to make it suitable for storage of the truck. The doors would require some fixing and the gas heating system should be installed. This should not be too expensive as the gas line runs close to the building. The floor is well gravelled and a cement pad would be sufficient to make a good floor. The Fieldman and the Shop Foreman were again assured that some steps would be taken by the Fire Committee to improve the situation.

An Official Notice was received from Director of Apprenticeship that A H Marlow will be attending the Welder's Course for the second term commencing January 7, 1968.

The Public Utilities Board in its letter dated October 17th, 1967, advised that the Board has approved the revised boundaries of the North Killam R E A in its Order No. 39243 dated October 16, 1967. A copy of the order was attached to the letter.

The Alberta Government Telephones forwarded copies of the as-built plans showing the location of buried cable and wire in the Hardisty area for the Municipal District's record.

The request in the amount of $30.00 submitted by Arnold Bendfeld of Heisler for crop damage on SE 13-43-16 W4 resulting from construction of a new road was approved for payment.

The Secretary advised the Council that Mr Alfred G. Russell of Lougheed had requested that his Preliminary Agreement dated April 10, 1967 be amended by deleting payment of $50 per half mile for mowing of fence and by substituting that the Municipal District mowe and erect the fence with owner supplying wire, posts and staples. The above amendment was approved.

The Department of Agriculture advised by letter that Blanket Bond No. BPB 408 is due for renewal and had requested the completion and return of the forms that had been furnished.

Moved that the forms for renewal of the Blanket Bond No. BPB 408 be completed and the Reeve be authorized to sign same before they are returned to the Dept. of Agriculture.

The Secretary reported that Mr Art Falls had completed a brief history of the Municipal District of Flagstaff, a copy of which had been forwarded to the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts for incorporation in the Diamond Jubilee Book. Photostatic copies of the submission were distributed among the members of the Council for their information.

Deputy Reeve H. C. Lien advised the Council that the material for the bridge at W'NW 17-46-13 W4 had been delivered and the bridge is now complete. However, the blackade for traffic had not been erected.

By-law No. 405 authorizing the purchase of lands sufficient to widen the road allowance between Secs 20 and 21, W Sec. 20, E of Sec. 20 and between Secs. 19 and 20, all in Twp. 45, Range 10, W4 and between Secs. 24 and 25, in Twp. 45, Rge. 11, W4 and that the rate of payment be made at the rate of four times the average assessment of the land per acre or as per agreement reached with the owner, was presented and approved.

The Secretary-Treasurer advised the Council that a Tax Sale will be held on December 5th, 1967 under the provisions of the Tax Recovery Act.

UFO's At Lougheed ???

Last Thursday night several of Lougheed's citizens spotted queer lights northeast of town. There seemed to be three orange lights, often merging into one big light with several red spots which seemed to float around it. We called it U.F.Os., and when a disappointment for this reporter and her associates when a well read citizen told us it was Wainwright's artillery practice which was causing the phenomenon.

Killam Presbyterians Hear Missionary Report

Sunday evening, November 19th, the Killam Presbyterian Church, Killam, was afforded the privilege of hearing a missionary report from Miss Margaret Kennedy, Missionary from the Bhil Mission Field in India.

The Bhil country is 300 miles north-east of Bombay in the hills of central India where the primitive Bhil tribal peoples live, numbering at least a million.

The first message of the Church of Jesus Christ was heard in this area in 1896 when a mission was established by Canadian Presbyterian missionary, Dr. Buchanan. The church in this area is known now as the Church Council of Northern India. At present the Presbyterian Church in Canada has 18 missionaries serving on the field among side seven Bhil ministers. Foremost in the Church's mission is preparation of the young people in their faith to be effective witnesses for Christ as they leave the Bhil country after their education to find employment in the cities.

From the beginning the Church has been active in the area of education. Previously these people were both neglected and segregated by the mainstream of society. Boarding and village schools with Christian teachers, native to the Bhil region, have been established. In the past 15 years small government school have been established. This advancement in education by the government has placed greater responsibility on the Christian bosses for the Christian education of the youth.

Miss Kennedy referred to the Jubbel Christian Hospital which has a great and far-flung reputation because of its modern facilities. This hundred bed hospital was established through the support of the Presbyterian Church in Canada and now for the first time in its history the doctor in charge is a young man of the Bhil tribal people, first Bhil to receive a degree from the Lodhiana Medical College. The entire nursing staff consist of Bhil Christians. Only 50 years ago the Bhils were one hundred per cent illiterate.

During the past ten years the Church has established a nonconsumer development work in co-operation with the government introducing new and improved agricultural methods, such as fertilizers, irrigation, contour cultivation, better seeds, new kinds of fruit trees, and up-grading of poultry production. During the famine crisis funds from Canada were used for cleaning old wells and digging new ones.

Miss Kennedy has served since 1939 as a missionary in the Bhil Field. During that time she has worked on all the stations. She has seen the development of women's work, to which she has given considerable guidance. An important part of her work has been the training of leaders among women.

Some of these Bhil women have become Bhil Christian ministries, others serve as lay leaders.

Miss Kennedy was born and received her early education in England. When she came to Canada she worked in a business office. She is a graduate of Ewart College, Toronto, and has attended the Kennedy School of Missions, Hartford, U.S.A.; Scarritt College, Nashville, U.S.A.; and Carey Hall, England. Miss Kennedy has made her Canadian home in Montreal.

School Division Honors Students

The Board of Trustees of the Killam School Division No. 23 each year awards scholarships to students in grades 9 and 11, who pass with honors. These are in the form of cash and amount to $15.00 for each Grade XI honors student and $30.00 for Grade XII students.

The following achieved honors passes in Grade IX: Morris Stewart Heffel, attended Alliance School; Gary Ernest Steadman, attended Alliance School; Sheila Anne Fordice, attended Galahad School; Joyce Patricia Wetmore, attended Galahad School; Maureen Vera Hart, attended Killam School; Theodore Medisky, attended Edgerton Public School; Sharon Jean Probst, attended Lougheed School; Patricia Gail Johnson, attended Strome School; Robert Brian Nixon, attended Strome School.

The Governor-General's Medal, awarded for the highest marks in the Killam Inspectorate, was won by Robert Brian Nixon. This award was made at the official opening of the new Dayland School on November 29, 1967, by the Superintendent of Schools for the Killam Inspectorate, Mr John Rendjen.

There were no honors award in Grade XII this year, but a number of students were only a point or two from this achievement. The Board however, was highly pleased with the Grade XII results. All records for high achievement as a class were broken and congratulations are in order.

The Carter Commission!

While the Carter Doyal Commission report has aspects that are desirable and acceptable to the Canadian public, it contains many proposals which are a threat to Canadians, to Canada and to the future growth of the country. We leave the undesirable aspects of the Report in so far as they relate to Corporations, Institutions and Organizations for those concerned here to combat, but there is one feature of the Report which hits directly at the common level of society where all of us are concerned.

The report ignores to a great degree the human foundations of both society and the economy. It pushes aside completely the facts of how people actually behave and what they want out of life. For example: The Commission states that a married couple should pay higher taxes than two individuals, and in such a belief would implement a concept of the "Family Unit" for taxing individuals and families. Under this plan, the income earned by the man, his wife and their children (under 21) would be lumped together and taxed as though all earned by the father at his tax rate. Thereby automatically placing the family in a higher income bracket.

Further to this, income would include not only wages and salaries, but also such things as gifts and winnings of all kinds. In fact any kind of gain would be labelled as income and taxed accordingly. Even non-monetary items between people such as the lending and borrowing of assets which goes on every day between friends and more especially relatives, would have a price tag placed on it, classified as income and be taxed at full tax rates.

We can imagine the kind of society we would be living in under such regulations. Record keeping alone would frighten the average person to an early demise. The bureaucratic structure that would be required to keep track of all the relations between people who are a part and parcel of our daily lives, would be overburdensome. These things are disturbing to their concern to their elected representatives. If you are disturbed you better do something too.

Are Police Brutal?

Is it true that our police are brutal? Or is all this yelling going on today just much ado about nothing? We believe the phrase "Police brutality" is one of the most overeworked in our society today. In fact we have almost reached a state of impasse in a situation that should not be with us at all.

Nearly every person arrested today on any kind of a serious offense immediately sets up the cry that he was brutally treated by the police. Hogwash is our only answer to such a charge. During our tenure on life we have been associated with many police officers. True, some not under the best of circumstances, but never in our life have we even been spoken to roughly by any law enforcement officer. Of course our situation is somewhat different, for in most respects we are law-abiding.

When a person carries out a crime necessitating arrest and perhaps incarceration in gaol, and he resists to the point of violence, it is our belief that any officer has the right to reply in like method. We have gone too far in protecting the law-breaker and condemning law enforcement. Freedom has an obligation. It is time we understood this fact and stopped pussyfooting with the enemies of society. We suggest that in many cases, if not all, where police brutality is claimed is false. More likely the truth is that restraint had to be used to avoid an escape, to prevent further violence, or to make an effective arrest. Think it over.

Anniversaries!

We have now entered upon the last month of 1967, and by the way, the last month of another earning year. In a very few short weeks we will be calculating our income and trying to balance it off somewhat with expenditures. The one and only purpose being to reduce the payments under our income tax system. For the past eleven months the people of Canada have been celebrating the 100th anniversary of Confederation, and in the midst of all the excitement of making this important occasion, most of us have porbably forgotten this year of 1967 marks another anniversary in Canada. One that has a great effect on most of us.

This year marks the golden anniversary of the federal income tax system. It was in 1917 that Sir Thomas White, Minister of Finance, introduced his Income Tax Bill in the House of Commons. History tells us that he was reluctant to do so, but was faced with a wartime emergency and so felt that the emergency measure was nessecary. It was accepted reluctantly, if not grimly, by the people on that basis; on emergency measure. They were assured that it was a temporary tax that would be abolished at the war's end.

Fifty years have passed, and not only is income tax still with us, but at great expense a Royal Commission has completed a massive report on the subject and has recommended new ways to use the income tax structure more effectively. All this only goes to show that nothing is as permanent as temporary tax.

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

— by A. W. E. —

You will notice first off that the fifty-line at the top of this column has been changed from "ACE" to "AWE". Since Ace has left the employ of the Community Press to resume his chosen vocation as an Engineer, and we rather liked the column, it was decided to continue it. We were sorry to see Ace leave but such are the ways of life, and we wish him success in his new work.

The camera work of the Press will probably suffer, but in time it will likely pick up again as we become re-acquainted with the workings of the modern press camera.

One of the rules of good communication is, "Don't tell me any bad news unless I can do something about it". Well, traffic accidents continue to be bad news, and it is possible for most of us to do something about it. We can become defensive drivers This kind of driving is smart

The Safety Council has a program which includes a course in defensive driving They will sponsor the course with the assistance of any local organization, designed to teach this subject. The course will accomodate up to thirty drivers and will only occupy eight hours of time, split into four two-hour sessions. Plans are underway to get such a course underway locally, and this column will have more to say on the subject as plans are developed.

Notice the Postal Department is going to provide mail carriers with animal repellent spray to protect them against menacing dogs Well and good, but what is going to happen when dog loving people move to protect their canine friends from an attack of repellent? They could provide them with gas masks, but then the poor creatures would be unable to bite their human enemies and we could end up with a pack of frustrated dogs. The simpler answer would be to enforce a dog control law Result unhappy dogs and happy mailmen. After all, people are more important than dogs Or are they

THE STARS IN THEIR COURSES

Mars was the Roman god of war. It is a blood-red planet half the size of Earth. At times it swings within 37 million miles of the planet on which we live, then wheels away into ethereal space.

Earth's journey in the natural heavens runs half way between that of Mars and Venus, the latter named after the Roman goddess of love. Earthians appear to look more to Mars than to Venus.

Greatest of all in the planetary group is Jupiter, plainly visible low on the western horizon in another month. In its orbit Jupiter has come as close to Earth as 367 million miles.

To the old Romans, Jupiter was Lord of the Universe. The great planet is 300 times larger than Earth, and the second brightest of all planets. Of all star-like objects in the heavens, Venus is the most brilliant.

The ancient astronomers sought to foretell the future by grouping of the stars in their courses. They did not possess the magnificent far-reaching telescopes in common use, but were evidently able with primitive equipment, or perhaps only with the naked eye, to follow the courses taken by the stars.

Modern equipment can pour into an infinity of space and scientists can expertly chart the courses of the stars, detect their composition and temperature, and calculate their distances from the Earth with amazing accuracy.

But with all their knowledge they cannot foretell the future

Consumer Affairs Afire!

OTTAWA — John Turner, the dynamic 38-year-old Montreal lawyer who will soon be Canada's first Minister of Consumer Affairs and could easily end up as Liberal leader and Prime Minister is a man of ideas. He breeds them so fast that it may prove difficult for his young Department to keep pace but no one is going to refuse him full marks for effort.

At the moment he is looking around for two or three Canadian communities which will be suitable for launching a pilot on behalf of the low income consumer. What he is seeking is not a too affluent small city of from 10,000 to 20,000. It's population must number a fair proportion families living on incomes which are regarded today as below the poverty line. Those are the people Mr Turner describes as the "troubled consumers" and it is to them that the experiment will be directed.

Canadians are well ahead of most countries in redistributing incomes There are few Canadian families who actually go hungry but perhaps a quarter of the population come within the definition of poverty given by R. A. J. Philips, Director of the Special Secretariat of the Privy Council office charged with conducting the war on poverty.

"If", he says, "a family cannot afford the kind of housing, clothing, food, medical care and pleasure that the rest of us take for granted then by our Canadian standards that family is poor".

Economists and social workers have spent a lot of time and study to set the line where poverty ends and comfort begins. In some low income areas of Canada it might be around $3,000 a year which puts 25 per cent of the Canadian population below this line. In Ontario it would probably be higher, perhaps $3,1 600. In urban areas of the province today home ownership is pretty well denied today to those with incomes of less than $6,000

In any event when suitable communities have been picked the Department will recruit volunteer workers among retired business men, bankers, school teachers and others who are ready to act as consumer counsellors. They will contribute their years of experience and knowledge of the market place. Where other agencies training law income groups to earn more leave off the Consumer Department hopes to begin with lessons on how to spend

It is a fact that the lower the income, the more likelihood there is that it is being mis-spent. Low income groups are an easy prey for the high pressure credit salesmen. Mr Philips, describing a trip through an ARDA redevelopment area in Eastern Canada tells of seeing a string of outdoor Christmas lights around a shack with one bulb burning inside, of new aluminium windows in houses where the wind blows through the siding.

These enlisted in Mr Turner's pilot pr ojects will have their own experience enhanced by information distributed by the Department on consumer buying, consumer credit, real estate purchasing and budget management -Their services will be available, not only to those who are likely to remain in the low income group but to young couples starting their married life with ambitious ideas and immigrants unfamiliar with the language of their adopted land.

They will be ready to look into cases referred to them by service organizations, churches, credit unions and other agencies likely to run into instances of imprcvidence or people who want advice. The worst bug in the scheme, of course will probably arise from the fact that so many people don't want advice. It is one thing to dispense welfare benefits or to instruct wage earners in ways that they can earn more It is quite another thing to suggest to them that they don't know how to spend it. Yet it is less expensive, less wasteful and often far more beneficial to help a family save a given amount through proper consumer behaviour than to help them achieve an equal increase in income which may, in the end, be dissipated through poor spending habits.

One political scientist has defined poverty as being "trapped in a situation without choice, an environment without options". This carries it beyond the realm of money incomes. It may be lack of mobility, lack of accessible credit, lact of educational facilities. It also includes inability to excercise the choice or option. As Mr Turner puts it:

"Efforts to develop employable skills, create jobs and increase income will be negated if the increased income leads only to more extensive exploitation of the poor through ignorance, deception and fraud."

The Bible Today

Islands which are believed to have been untouched by the Gospel message were reached recently by a Bible Society colporteur in Thailand. Miss Mae Rhesw, an enthusiastic Scripture distributor and evangelist in the south of Thailand, visited a group of islands in the Indian Ocean to the south-west of Thailand.

Organizing a group of nine Christian volunteers, she chartered a boat and left Scriptures. Ten days were spent on nine islands, the team sleeping on the boat at night They were well received by the islanders, and found great openness to hear the Gospel preached

During the visit, 10,000 copies of the Bible and portions of the Bible were sold.

The Thai New Testament has recently been published in Bangkok by the Bible Societies. Thailand Bible Island has in the past printed locally only Portions and Selections from the Bible, having Bibles and New Testaments printed abroad. This is the first New Testament to be produced in Thailand itself. It is an attractive paperback, with several different cover designs and colours.

The New Testament will be a useful tool for evangelism in Thailand, as well as a welcome new version for the Thai Christians.

SOME OF US REMEMBER!

Editor's Note — This was received too late for last week, but is still worthy of publication.

What will the Flower Children do on Remembrance Day? Will they refuse to buy a poppy because they associate it with past wars? Or will they buy every poppy they can get their hands on and try to infuse a brew of opium, so that they can turn on?

All I know is that they'll have a tough time getting any poppy-juice out of those paper poppies the Legion sells

My daughter and I have a running battle about the Flower Children and hippies in general. She has a slogan, "Love is all you need," which I find crowded on things all over the house.

My contention is that these kids don't love anybody but themselves, that they heartily hate anyone who doesn't subscribe to their half-baked philosophy, if you want to grace it with such a term, and that most of them don't know enough about life to wipe their own noses.

This goes over big, of course, I am immediately relegated to that rapidly-increasing segment of the population that doesn't understand anything, is against everything and can't communicate Even though she does admit they are pretty snobbish about their "love" deal.

I asked her why she didn't have a wheck at the Legion contest. It's open to all students, and they can write an essay or a poem, about the meaning of Remembrance Day Good cash prizes, and she writes well

"But it doesn't have any meaning for me, Dad I didn't have an uncle or anything killed in the war." Well, what do you do? I apologized for the fact that both her war-time uncles are alive, and that I couldn't get myself killed, even with the utmost application of incompetence, just so that she could really enjoy Remembrance Day

Eighteen seconds later, she's beefing because I haven't given her a driving lesson in a whole week, and she's just got to get her license before the snow flies

I'm afraid we're going to have to face the fact that Remembrance Day does not mean much to the average kid today. It's not nearly as important as the latest "soul" record And it's a mild bore, a solemn moment at school, that has no connection with the Saturday night date, or the really important things of life

It's just one of those silly things that middle-aged people get "all hung up" about, like hard work and honesty and chastity and all those other drags

And it's not just the kids who ignore it Most young adults sneer at it as a relic of "Britannia Rules the Waves" and "Over the Top" and beery old veterans

It's much more fashionable to join a "protest group" and march on something or other. City Hall. The American Consulate. It doesn't matter. Break some windows. Splash some paint. And go home soapgoving that, "We really showed those fascists."

There's a vicarious thrill in the thought that the police might whack a few heads, even draw blood. Not yours, of course

I wonder how many of these protesters would have the guts to clamber out of a muddy stinking trench and hurl themselves into barbed wire, and machine-guns looking for their vitals?

I wonder how many of the people who carry placards, with their little fat jowls bouncing on their white collars, could fly through a thousand acres of red-hot flak, because somebody had to do it?

I wonder how many of the pot-Nom-ingners, with their clean socks and their under-arm deodorant, could take a week of pulling and getting smashed about in a corvette?

Maybe I sound a little bitter. Maybe I am. Maybe they could and would, some of them. But until they try, they shouldn't spit on others.

War is rotten. War is stupid. But to those who died, "Sakar". And to those who live with rotten lungs and arthritis and all the rest of it, know that there are still some of us who think about you on Mememberance Day.

Leave the wife a tip.

A penny tip? Unheard of! But this is no ordinary penny. It's a power penny! The only penny that has doubled its value in the past 20 years. While the cost of living has gone up, the cost of electrical living has come down. Here are a few good "power penny" tips. Tell the wife!

OBITUARY

ART GOLLAN

Sedgewick, Meraa and Alliance districts are deeply saddened to hear of the passing of another of the few remaining old timers of the Flagstaff district.

Arthur Elmer Gollan passed away suddenly on November 22nd in the St. Anne's Hospital in Hardisty at age 76. He was born at Angus, Ontario on February 15, 1891, one of a family of six. He came to Alberta with his parents in 1903, and took a homestead in 1908.

Mr Gollan was married to Martha Baker July 16, 1913 and to this union was born on son, Lewis James.

Martha Gollan passed away on November 20, 1940, after a brief illness. Mr Gollan again entered in marriage with Thea Neufeld on November 13, 1952, and continued to reside on his homestead until his retirement in November, 1960 and in Sedgewick since that time.

Mr Gollan was predeceased by his mother and father and two sisters, Mrs Andrew (Mary) Cameron and Mrs Charlie (Bertha) Cameron, two brothers, William Gollan and Donald Gallan.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his beloved wife, Thea, his son Lewis and wife Edith; two step children, Mrs Margaret Hedley of Victoria, Mrs Robert (Martha) Boechler of Saskatoon; and Mr and Mrs Rudy Neufeld of Edmonton, and grandchildren; Milton (Lillie) Costain of Toronto, and nieces and nephews.

Mr Gollan was an ever ready and willing neighbor and friend. He will be greatly missed by all who knew him. To be sure the hockey teams, senior and junior ones will miss his keen interest in that particular sport.

Funeral service and burial from Meraa United Church on November 25th, with Rev. Christopherson officiating.

Alberta Rat Control Results Amazing

Alberta residents on farms and in villages, towns and cities are asked to report any rats seeking shelter and food in buildings or other suitable places to spend the winter.

Apart from annual spring and fall rat migrations, which are quickly dealt with by government officials and private citizens, Alberta has remained a rat free province for 17 years now. The fact that an area the size of Alberta could be kept free of rats with so little formal organization and at such a low cost amazed American delegates attending the Northwest Mosquito Vector Control Association Convention earlier this fall.

J. B. Gurba, head of Alberta's Pest Protection unit Paul Pival Branch, points out that the success of the provincial rat control program is due to the excellent co-operation of government agencies at all levels, and the tremendous support it has received from private citizens.

He reports that an estimated 34,000 rats were killed last year along our eastern defence line which extends from the Montana border to Cold Lake, a distance of 300 miles. The direct annual provincial cost for holding this line is about $30,000 which includes poisons, salaries and expenses of pest control officers. The province provides free supplies of ready-mixed warfarin bait to this area and any other where an outbreak of rats is suspected. An average of 12 tons of prepared rolled oat bait and 3,000 quarts of water soluble bait is used each year at a cost as high as almost $6,000. The estimated annual rat kill along this border has varied from as high as 80,000 rats to about 20,000 rats in recent years. Since the potential rat damage bill is estimated at 30 million dollars, $1,000 is saved by every $1 spent on rat control.

How has freedom from rats been achieved in this province? According to Mr Gurba the use of warfarin baits along our eastern border has been mainly responsible for our success. Permanent bait stations are recommended and checked as farms, in grain elevators, at garbage dumps and any other place which is likely to harbor rats, up to a distance of 15 miles inside our eastern border. Although the odd rat breaks through, this defence line has held the rats at bay for the last 13 years. Checking for the first sign of rat infestation is the main job of seven full-time pest control officers. They also provide assistance with control measures and make sure that baits are property set by property owners. One provincial fieldman co-ordinates the work of the pest control officers in the seven districts and helps with special problems.

The Alberta Department of Agriculture uses one-pound polythene bags which can be easily placed under barn floors, stacks of bales and garbage piles. These bags ensure that the bait stays dry and fresh until they are opened by rats or mice. The bait contains coumarin related oats with the standard dosage of warfarin plus 5 per cent icing sugar. This formulation, which has proved to be the most acceptable to caged rats, is preferred over the multitude of food found on farms, in homes, warehouses and garbage dumps. Mr Gurba is convinced that to develop a highly acceptable product, baits should be tested locally. The standard finely ground corn-meal formulation does not work in Alberta

The Department also makes full use of water soluble warfarin or Pival during non-freezing weather. Since water is often in short supply excellent results have been obtained with this bait. For example a colony of several hundred rats can be wiped out in four or five days. A fatty substance, such as margarine, tallow or bacon drippings, substituted for water in cold weather is also quite effective.

Mr Gurba says that the joint provincial-municipal control program, launched in 1954, still operates with some modifications today. Under this arrangement the Department of Agriculture pays half the salary and expenses of pest control officers in the seven border municipalities. An additional 220 pest control officers are appointed by rural and urban municipalities who serve as spotters and handle local infestations with other routine

Mr Gurba points out that while the old practices of clean-up, starvation and baited-out rats are still valuable deterrents, by far the greatest returns in a rat control program come from proper use of rodenticides, backed up by good public support over the long term.

SUCCESS Walter Weir, 38, is the fifth premier in Manitoba history to wear the Progressive Conservative colors. He was elected to office by more than 100 votes on the third ballot. Weir succeeds Duff Roblin who gave up the job to enter federal politics.

Possible Effects Of Nuclear Radiation

Radiation has become a factor of life of which we must be aware and with which we must learn to live. It is important that we understand the effects of radiation because our everyday life is becoming more and more associated with nuclear energy. When considering possible sources of excessive radiation, we must include a number of possibilities other than nuclear war and fallout — such as an accident in a nuclear power plant, or a transportation accident involving a vehicle carrying radioactive material. Accidents such as these could take place in your community — so it is necessary that you be informed on the nature and effects of radiation.

I. WHAT IS RADIATION LIKE?

A. Human senses do not detect it. You cannot smell or taste it and you cannot feel radiation.

B. It travels only in straight lines from the source

B Radiation is less intense as it travels further from its source. It also decays (decreases in intensity) as time passes

D Radiation penetrates all objects to some extent

II. RADIATIONS EFFECT ON HUMAN BEINGS

A. Effect on human beings depends on:

1. What kind of body cells receive exposure
2. Intensity of the exposure
3. Length (in time) of the exposure

Personal reaction to radiation doses until the level reaches the "positively fatal" bracket will depend in good measure on the individual's age, build, and current physical condition. Generally, his reaction will be similar to the ability to recover from injury, disease, poison, etc

B. Low exposure has no noticeable effect. The background radiation level — which is radiation from the sun and stars, together with radiation from natural radioactive materials in the earth — varies from place to place.

C. Moderate exposure still does not produce a noticeable effect.

D. Heavy exposure (as might be encountered in a nuclear accident, or with extensive fallout of radioactive particles) could produce radiation sickness due to the destruction of body blood cells.

1: Symptoms of radiation sickness are:

a Nausea
b. Diarrhea.
d Weakness.

2. The organism would recover from radiation sickness as the body was allowed rest and time to repair and replace cells damaged or destroyed by radiation The human body has the ability to slough off some of the damaged cells and to recover from some of the effects. Radiation sickness is not contagious or infectious

E. Massive exposure (as might be encountered with prolonged exposure to a serious nuclear accident or heavy fallout) could produce radiation sickness and — as the body would be unable to recover fast enough from cell damage — eventual death

F. Always remember that people who have been exposed to radiation do not become radioactive This is true even when people are exposed to the most massive doses. Rescuers need not worry about handling them

G. Protection of your body from excessive radiation is as basic as protection of your eyes from excessive light, or your skin from excessive sunburn.

III. RADIATION'S EFFECT ON ANIMALS

A. The radiation level with which we normally live has no noticeable effect on animals.

B "Higher" levels of radiation can kill individual cells. As radiation passes through the live cell, it affects the chemistry of the cell and causes it to stop functioning normally.

C In the case of simple one-celled or few-celled organisms (such as bacteria), exposure to radiation means quick death.

D. In the case of larger animals, exposure to radiation means some damage to the body cells. This can result in the following degrees of effect, depending on the strength and length (time) of the radiation exposure

1. No symptoms — where cell destruction from radiation is so small that animal manufactures new cells to repair the damage and replace loss

2. Sickness — caused by greater cell destruction in the animal, but from which it still can recover as time is allowed for recovery and reconstruction of body and or blood cells

3 Death — caused by cell destruction so extensive that the animal cannot rebuild cells fast enough to recover

IV. RADIATION'S EFFECT ON NON-LIVING MATTER

A. Radiation that passes through non-living matter has no effect on the material.

B. It contaminates only if the radioactive material itself is deposited on or in the non-living matter. Radioactive materials can usually be washed off or brushed off to eliminate contamination.

For example, radiation rays passing through food, feed, or water would not make them radioactive and would not make them dangerous to eat or drink. It is only when radioactive particles get into food supplies that food might become

C Actually, to change the nature of non-living matter, or to make it radioactive, would require radiation levels of such extreme intensities as are encountered only in the nuclear fission processes of nuclear reactors or in weapons testing.

V. PROTECTION FROM EXCESSIVE RADIATION

A. Protection from excessive radiation involves numerous considerations — but try to remember your three best defenses.

1. Distance from the radiating material Distance is a natural protection because the radiation exposure is less the further away a person is from the source.

2. Shielding to provide temporary protection from radiation. Shielding simply means to get a mass of material between you and the radiation source. This is your most important protection, and it may be found in private or public shelters or in a protected corner of your basement. If you don't know whether there is fallout or not, don't take the chances — go to a protection area.

B. Nuclear energy and radiation are here to stay. They will always be with us. Like electricity radiation can be very dangerous and harmful if it is not properly controlled. However, also like electricity, we can learn to protect ourselves from radiation and live with it safely so that its effects, such as cobalt treatments to halt cancer, will be beneficial to us.

Another Alberta Junior Citizen of the Centennial Year!

JONI BREWSTER, Bowden

Joni Brewster was still in Grade One when she was struck with vacuolation encephalitis. Instead of giving up, the courageous youngster relearned the normal skills she had lost — speaking, walking, writing. Today, 10-year-old Joni pushes her wheelchair at school, using it for support instead of sitting in it. Despite her handicap, her happy outlook on life sets a fine example to all those around her.

We congratulate Joni Brewster and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active participation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

THE Homemaker

By Miss Irene Eby, Your District Home Economist

TRIACETATES

The initial steps in the manufacture of triacetates are essentially the same as in preparing regular cellulose acetates. Acetate manufacture incorporates a hydrolysis process, however; triacetate manufacture does not. The resulting fibre makes up into a fabric that is less absorptive and, therefore, less comfortable, and pills more than regular acetate. But it does have its compensations. It will hold a permanent pleat, has a higher melting point and is more resistant to sunlight (an important factor in drapery fabrics). The trademark? Arnel and Trilan.

Arnel is found on the market in various weights and weaves from jerseys to sharkskin. It will not pill, packing wrinkles hang out, but creases make by sitting are difficult to iron out.

Trilan is a textured counterpart of Arnel and widely used in carpeting (remember, it will not pill). Two British trademarks in the triacetate family are Courpleta and Tricel.

Triacetate fabrics are machine washable at any temperature. They are quick to dry and need little ironing. Triacetates drycleam readily. You get a modern iron setting when pressing. If laundering, avoid bleaches, rinse well, and wash whites and dyes with care — triacetates take up dyes readily. Stains using triacetates in home sewing, use synthetic threads and fine sharp pins and needles. Use seams finishes and be sure before pressing because of crease retention.

In the next few weeks we will take a look at the true synthetics, chemical man - made compounds with no counterpart in nature.

An amendment was made in the form of an inclusion on Motion 221 dealing with Mr. Groves' interview and submission regarding the commission of controls in the mechanical tenders for Daysland School, as follows: "The claim of Mr. Groves was disposed on the grounds that the firm of Aberdeen, Groves and Hodgson was hired to supply plans and specifications and supervision."

Trustee Grant reported that he had acted on the committee to nominate candidates for the Canadian Centennial Medal. The candidate the committee nominated was Miss A. Cade, retired principal of "the Lougheed School."

Winzer & his car to help out in the emergency created by travelling two short routes for a daily total of 39 miles, and with slight changes in some of the other routes.

Gas inspection reports were received on the Old School Conversion, which is to be referred to Mr Groves - Daysland High School, and the Garbe residence.

Dept. of Education stated that a request for boundary changes and an increase to 9 county councillors would not be approved at his time, and suggested that it be left to the County Council.

Dept. of Education approved the resolution for borrowing money for a bancherge at Daysland, repayable in five years.

Crop Insurance To Expend

There will be a major expansion in the crop insurance program in Alberta in 1968.

J. M. McKay, chairman of the Board of Directors of this crown corporation, said while addressing the annual meeting of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties in Edmonton, that present plans call for nearly doubling the area in which insurance is now offered to farmers. Next season, insurance will be available to 1,500 townships of municipal grain farmers in Alberta. He anticipated that by 1969 nearly all of the province would be covered.

Mr McKay also said that insured farmers would have the opportunity in 1968 to insure 60 percent of the long-time average yields for their area. So far, coverage has been limited to the 60 percent level.

New areas to be included under the crop insurance program next year include the Counties of Warner, Lethbridge and the Municipal Districts of Cardston and Willow Creek in Southern Alberta; the Counties of Red Deer, Stettler and Paintearth in the center of the province; the Counties of Lac Ste. Anne and Barrhead lying northwest of Edmonton; the County of St. Paul and the Municipal District of Bonnyville in the northeast; and Improvement Districts 134 and 130 in the Peace River area. Smaller extensions will take place in the areas of Ponoka, Wheatland and Municipal District of Rocky View.

In reviewing crop insurance this year, Mr McKay said that claims were now being processed and should be completed as quickly as possible. It is too soon to accurately predict totals, but he said in all likelihood about 1,300 out of the nearly 10,000 insured farmers would receive payment for losses despite the fact that figures indicate 1967 was an average year for crop production in Alberta.

Heaviest losses have occurred in the Peace River area. Barley was hardest hit by this year's drouth conditions.

Musical Treats By Concert Association

The Camrose and District Overture Concert Association has again scheduled an excellent series of special musical treats for this area and invites membership of local people interested in enjoying and promoting good music. Several local families have held membership in the past.

Arrangements have been completed to hold all these musical events in the Camrose Centre of Camrose Lutheran College where the seating facilities are ample and the accoustics are ideal.

Featured in the series this year, and the dates of their appearance, are Robert McFerrin and The Californians, an entertaining and unique male quartette group on Tuesday, December 5th. The program on Wednesday, January 17th will feature the piano virtuosa, Charles Rosen, called "a phenomenon in the world of music". Thursday, February 8th, will feature that famous and delightful group, The Tuscon Boys' Choir with "their cowboy boots and voices like flutes". The final presentation for the season will be The Duo Romeros, guitarists from Spain, acclaimed "indisputably the best guitar ensemble in the world", March 28th.

Both individual and family memberships are available locally from Dewark's store in Sedgewick, Sedgewick, local representative of the Overture Concert Association.

THE PROVINCIAL MUSEUM and Archives of Alberta, located in the Government ground in Edmonton, was officially opened on December 6th, 1967. The $6,500,000 structure, the province's Confederation Memorial project, will house displays and exhibits portraying the natural and human history of Alberta.

Hardisty Receives Album And History Of The Town

The Town Office at Hardisty has a wall adorned with a variety of old-time and more modern pictures and photos depicting the early development of the townsite. Also on display was a album of pictures and a diary serving as a key to unlocking the stories behind the development of the community.

The inclusion and assisting work of compiling and arranging these scores of pictures, and the necessary research, was conducted by Mrs. Alethea Barnecut of Calgary, who was the former Alethea Wood. Her father Mr. H. B Wood was one of the early settlers of the town, where he operated a Real Estate business and also a ferry across the Battle River in the days before bridges were being built along the frontier west.

The reporter had the opportunity to look over the album, and the history at some length, and found it most interesting. Secretary Wes Pedlar stated that many old timers spend a good deal of time recalling the past as they look through the album.

IN THE OLDEN DAYS — Yes, away back in 1720, Roland and Ace Van Beek were presented with awards for the Municipal District of Flagstaff No. 62. The machine was more of a monstrosier than a grader, and took two men to operate, one to run the machine, and one to drive the horses.

POLYAMIDES

Most fibres are categorized in generic name as to the chemicals involved in their composition. Chemically, nylon is a polyamide However, NYLON is both a generic and a trade name.

Nylon was produced with strength in mind. In 1938 when it hit the commercial markets, it was almost immediately consigned for war purposes and used extensively in parachutes. In fact it skyrocketed on the consumer market in the hosiery industry. Carruthers, a research scientist for Du Pont, was responsible of nylon's discovery.

Nylon is the most widely used man-made fibre It is suitable for sheer hosiery or strong rope for fabrics for all kinds of apparel and household use It is ideal for textured yarns in sweaters and for stretch fabrics as its elastic quality and ability to be heat-set impart a "built-in memory" quality to the fabric High strength yarns are noted in fish nets, industrial fabrics and tire cord.

Even the fine filaments used in hosiery are durable. As well as being strong, nylon is extremely abrasion resistant. It is lightweight, dries readily, rinses quickly, and can be permanently pleated. Its quick-drying quality is a result of its low absorbency which also means it is somewhat uncomfortable to wear. Its tendency to pill caused some initial problems in the carpet industry, but this has been largely overcome by the use of static-reducing finishes.

Nylons can be washed by hand or machine washed — don't wring or twist. Never mix colours and whites when washing. Drip dry or use your low dryer setting.

When sewing nylon fabrics, sew sheers over tissue paper. Pull a thread to straighten fabric . . . it is too strong to tear. Use nylon thread as yarns of fabric will sever weaker threads such as cotton or silk.

Nylon will be most familiar to you in pile fabrics, hosiery and sparta togs incorporating stretch fabrics. Because of its inherent elasticity, nylon can be extended 8% with 100% recovery.

As the nylon filament is extruded from a liquid, its shape can be controlled mechanically. Modifications in the shape of the filament impart new qualities to the fibre produced. Antron, Du Pont 501, Cadon, Cumuloft and Castrece are modified nylon filaments. Antron has a scrupe or rustle like silk. Bulky fabrics are possible and interesting high-lighting effects are achieved. Cadon has a silk-like hand and built-in sparkle Fine deniers are used in taffetas, heavier deniers in upholstery and carpets. Cumuloft and Du Pont 501 are strictly carpet fibres.

Watch for more information about the new fibres early in the Hour Year!

The Bible Today

In a letter from a Canadian who is engaged in translating the New Testament into Tayal for the Tribes people in Taiwan or Formosa, the Rev. Clare McGill writes, "We do feel the need of more prayer, regular prayer, and specific prayer."

To point up the concern of one who is active in the process of giving the Scriptures to the people of the area of his missionary activity, Mr McGill lists some specific suggestions for prayer, first, that "we may be in good health."

Secondly, Mr McGill asks for a continuance of harmonious relationships within the family and among his workers. Thirdly, he asks for God's wisdom "as we translate His Word. We aim to be true to the source of language (Greek) and clear in the target language (Tayal)."

The McGills' first attempt at translation was the Gospel of Mark in Tayal, which was issued by the Bible Society in Taiwan in 1956. A rough draft of Acts has been completed and is due to be published in the near future.

Proudly introducing

Another Alberta Junior Citizen of the Centennial Year!

WANDA KREBS, Didsbury

Wanda Krebs, aged 14, helped her father to manage their home and six younger brothers and sisters when her mother was hospitalized. Wanda cooked, washed, kept house and looked after the family while attending school. For much of this time, Mr. Krebs was at the hospital, so the load of work fell to Wanda. She looked after three milking machines and a bulk tank and sometimes milked the cows too. Wanda also continued to sew clothes for herself as a Home Economics project. She is a third place winner in the 4-H Beef Achievement Day.

We congratulate Wanda Krebs and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active participation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

Your Treasury Branch has a better Savings Plan

Now, your Treasury Branch helps you set your money to work in the way that suits you best. Take your pick of these three straightforward plans:

6% 1-to-6-Year Term Saving Certificates Here's the big one! On a minimum investment of $10,000 for any term from 1 to 6 years, your Treasury Branch now pays 6% per annum. Don't miss this opportunity!

IMPORTANT: Investments at this excellent rate — Treasury Branch interest rates fluctuate in accordance with trends in the financial field.

1-to-6-Year Term Saving Certificates Deposit $500 or more for whatever period you wish from one to six years, and your money immediately starts earning 5¾ % per annum.

4½% Regular Savings Accounts Deposit any amount you wish, either at set intervals or when it's convenient. Interest at the rate of 4½% calculated on your minimum monthly balance is added to your account twice a year. Withdraw as much as you need, when you need it. You can make as many as five withdrawals in any one month free.

All of these plans give you complete flexibility. Treasury Branch Term Saving Certificates can be redeemed before maturity at any time after the first ninety days. If you redeem before maturity, you get whatever interest has been earned, but at a slight reduction. Or, you can leave your Term Saving Certificate intact, earning interest for you at the full rate, while you use it as collateral for an economical Treasury Branch Loan. Call in at your nearest Treasury Branch right away and let the friendly Manager help you pick your best savings plan.

Holy Night

And suddenly the shepherds saw, on their peaceful hillside, the angels come to proclaim the birth of a Saviour...their hosannas echoing through the holy night. As we share the wondrous tidings of Christmas, may we also share love and kindness with our fellowmen.

KILLAM AARN RALLY A SUCCESS

The evening rally of Obstetics held by the Killam Chapter AARN on November 30th proved a great success. Sixty one Nursing Sisters and Nurses were present. As well as local Sisters and Nurses, the following areas were represented: Viking, Provost, Daysland, Camrose, Galahad, Hardisty, Vegreville and Vermilion.

The evening commenced at 6 p.m. with a dinner meeting served in bouffant style. A "fall theme" centre piece made by Mrs Beatrice Peterson, head of Arts and Crafts Department of the hospital, added a touch of beauty to the table. The Sisters kindly provided many extras, including a delicious fruit punch.

Mrs Peggy Orr, president of the Killam Chapter, graciously welcomed visiting Chapters and members. The emcee, Mrs Joanne White, conEhe emcee, Mrs Joanne White, conducted the program and introduced and thanked the guest speakers.

Guest speakers were: Dr. D. J. Murray, Mrs Pat MacKinnon, and Miss Caroline Guldemann. They presented their topics with much enthusiasm, stimulating the interest of all those present. The Chapter was indeed grateful to Dr. Murray, who took time off his busy day and talents to speak to us.

The evening closed with coffee and lunch.

A number of the young couples from the church joined in the monthly Church Club gathering; meet this time at the Killam School Gym for a time of volleyball. Following the recreational time the group gathered at the home of Pastor and Mrs Ernest Sigglekow for a singtime and refreshments. A good time was enjoyed by all who attended the Monday night activity.

The Wednesday evening prayer service centered around the Song of Elizabeth in Luke 1:39-45.

Sunday morning service had as its sermon, Why the Virgin Birth? with emphasis placed on the importance of the virgin birth in orthodox theology. It was looked at from the perspectives of history, scripture and redemption.

Sunday evening was the yearly Sunday School Christmas program. Once again it was a joy to see the children perform, giving their recitations and songs and to see the message of Christmas displayed by those involved. Our thanks are expressed to each teacher & leader who worked faithfully to make this program another blessing.

Thought For The Week: "Without Christ in Christmas, the true meaning of this holiday is lost."

HARDISTY CHURCH WOMEN HOLD CHRISTMAS PARTY

The U.C.W. of Hardisty held their annual Christmas party in beautifully decorated church basement on Tuesday of last week.

The president, Mrs Barbara Hayes, opened the program with a few timely remarks, followed by Mrs Maryon Dragor giving the devotionals. Christmas carols were then sung by the guests with Mrs Zwicker very ably presiding at the piano.

Mrs Maryon Dragor had the guests take part in a Biblical contest, which provoked much fun and laughter.

Mrs Aimee Moody asked five of the guests to read, consecutively, a Christmas story, followed by a reading by Mrs F. Cashlee.

The gifts were then handed out by Joyce Harrison and Barbara Hayes, after which the guests sat down to a most sumptuous lunch; Christmas cake predominating.

The pleasant evening closed with the hearty "Merry Christmas to all!"

Community Greets Xmas With Worship, Gladness

By ANNA MANG

"Deck the halls with boughs of holly; 'tis the season to be jolly." Christmas is for joy and laughter; Christmas glows with merriment. Throughout this community, families are putting finishing touches on plans for holiday get-togethers Hideaways begin with mysterious packages; kitchens are fragrant with the scent of special treats; homes are bright with gala decorations. Schools and clubs prepare their annual Christmas programs. Holiday party plans go forward. It is, indeed, the season to be jolly.

"Silent Night, Holy Night, all is calm, all is bright." Christmas is for prayer and peace; Christmas gleams with the light of the Star that shone so brightly, nearly two thousands years ago. And throughout this community, the deep spiritual significance of the holy season spreads comfort and cheer. In churches, the hours of worship reflect the coming joy as, during the weeks before Christmas, the story of Christ's coming is the subject of study, sermon, song and prayer, all building toward the special services of Christmas weekend.

Uniting in Joy and Prayer

Christmas is a joyful season; Christmas is a prayerful season. Since the earliest celebrations of this Christian holiday, it has ever been so.

The twin spirits of Christmas — festive celebration and reverent worship — are woven together in all the lore of the season. History says that when the time now celebrated as Christmas was designed, in the fifth century A.D., early Christian leaders felt that the traditional winter merry-making of pagan festivals such as the Roman Saturnalia might be hallowed by association with the Nativity.

"Thus, pagan peoples who had once looked to mystical sun gods as the source of the rebirth of life began to turn to religious observances of the Saviour's birth. Christmas lights symbolized faith, hope and life eternal.

Today, the glow of the tiniest candle — or the twinkling of the smallest electric bulb — still reflects, however humbly, the Light that Christ brought to the world.

Bringing Gifts

At the heart of the holiday fun and feasting there glows the spirit of giving. The Wise Men sought to honor the Christ Child with rare and precious gifts — gold, frankincense and myrrh. Thus, to give of the best at Christmas is a time-honored tradition.

All may rejoice in the opportunity to give generously, to please family and friends with "just what they wanted," and to share with the less fortunate.

Yet the best Christmas gifts are those that come from the open heart as well as the open hand, and the warmth of a friendly smile, the words of a cordial greeting add priceless meaning to the most elaborate of gifts.

Singing Carols

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, peace, good will toward men."

Across the years since shepherds first harkened to an angelic chorus, Christmas rings with the sound of voices raised in joyful song.

Carol singing at Christmas is both a tradition and a source of tradition. Much of the legend and lore of the season is known today only because it has been preserved in song — in carols passed on from generation to generation.

Stocking Is Just Legend

Did a spinster hang up the first Christmas stocking? Legend says yes, but history says no — or at most, "Maybe."

St. Nicholas, a fourth century bishop, secretly gave gifts of gold for the dowries of poor spinsters. His method was to toss the gold down a chimney by night, at Christmas.

On one occasion, so legend says, the gift landed in a stocking, hung by the fireplace to dry.

History casts a dubious eye on this "origin" of the Christmas stocking custom. The spinster probably didn't have a stocking — not in the fourth century.

Knitted form-fitting hosiery was unknown until the thirteenth century. Earlier, people wrapped cloth or rags around their feet as substitute for modern stockings.

Even after William Lee invented the stocking frame, a mere efficient method of production, in the late 1580's, it was some time before the poor could afford to buy stockings.

History makes one concession to the legend tellers. Paintings from Pompeii show that early Romans did wear some form of stocking, even before the birth of Christ.

METAMORPHOSIS OF SANTA CLAUS, FROM St. Nicholas in a monk's blue robe, to jolly St. Nick in a bright red suit, can be traced in the history of Christmas greeting cards. — witness this 1909 card. The gift giver here, who looks somewhat like the modern Santa Claus, wears a red jacket, but his trousers, like St. Nicholas' robe, are still blue, and he is mounted on a hobby horse rather than a reindeer-drawn sleigh — the historical result of the introduction into American folklore, by early Dutch settlers, of St. Nicholas on a horse. The 1909 Santa carries his gifts in a straw basket, which later became the Christmas sock of toys. The card shown is from the Morrison Historical Collection.

No Christmas

"Hear ye, hear ye! Christmas will not be celebrated. All who observe the abominable day will be severely punished!"

An unlikely message for a town crier? Not in the time of Oliver Cromwell!

Cromwell and his Puritan Party did indeed consider Christmas an "abominable day," and on December 24, 1653, they succeeded in getting the English Parliament to pass a law making Christmas celebrations of any kind illegal.

Imprisonment or exile was the penalty for disobedience.

A few days before Christmas, town criers went through the streets warning against holiday celebrations.

Christmas Message By Lt-Governor of Alberta

As the rich experience of Centennial Year comes to a close, I extend the Season's richest greetings to all the people of Alberta and beyond. My thoughts turn to citizens in our villages, towns and cities and to those who make homes on farms and ranches; to those who are part of our vast Northland; to those who travel; to those who must work to maintain public services on the holidays and to those who may be confined to sick beds or are restricted in any way.

Canadians have great reason for gratitude and they have reason for confidence. Nature has been generous and citizens have the opportunity to enjoy the fruits of resources which surpass those of any other people. These resources have been entrusted to our care and it should be one of our highest purposes to see that they are managed wisely to serve our people through many generations.

And while it is a time for serious thought, it is also a time for good cheer. It is to be hoped that families can be together as they should be, and that family gatherings will be happy events with everybody enjoying good health and big appetites.

The people of Alberta have been particularly fortunate, but as they think beyond their own province they will, at this Season, hope for understanding and unity for the nation and for peace and good will throughout the world.

Grant MacEwan,
Lt.-Gov. of Alberta.

History Proves It - Yule Season Is Always A Memorable Time

For the children, this is the very best Christmas that ever was. The adults agree — but still, they look back a little wistfully at the Christmas of yesteryear, with nostalgic thoughts of "a good old-fashioned Christmas", or of a special Christmas moment.

Memories enhance the seasonal joys, and with good reason, for Christmas is a memorable time. Since the first Holy Night, some of the most important events of both religious and secular history have taken place at the Christmas season.

A look at the past reveals momentous occasions, joyous or poignant, as well as many of the little things that give hygone times living meaning — and all taking place on or about Christmas Day.

December 24, 440 A.D.

In Italy, in the fifth century A.D., Christmas Eve and not Christmas Eve to call Christians to worship. This seemingly simple event had great significance, for it meant that Christians could worship in freedom, instead of in secret, as earlier suppression of Christianity had forced them to do.

December 25, 440 A.D.

Traditionally, the first Christmas feast in England was held at the Round Table of King Arthur. The actual date is unknown, but reference to this legendary king have been traced to 440 A.D.

December 24, 1223

St. Francis of Assisi set up the first creche or crib on Christmas Eve, 1223, in the mountain village of Greccio, Italy.

December 25, 1492

Christopher Columbus and his crew celebrated the first Christmas in the New World in 1492. They were almost shipwrecked on an Indian island, scene of the hymn of Haiti.

December 25, 1535

Beset by cold and hunger, in fear of hostile Indians, the French explorer Pacques Cartier and his band of 110 settlers observed an early Canadian Christmas at a fortress near what is now the city of Quebec, in 1535.

The most precious of the scanty food supplies were set aside for a Christmas "feast" — in the consensus spirit that enabled the tiny band to hold out till spring.

December 24-25, 1620

December 1620 marked the landing of the Mayflower at Plymouth Rock. A site for the first home in the new settlement was selected on Christmas Eve, and on Christmas Day construction began.

December 25, 1776

On December 25-26, 1776, George Washington crossed the Delaware. He surprised and put to route, Hessian soldiers employed by George III.

The surprise attack was greatly assisted by the fact that the Hessians were sleeping off the effects of their Christmas celebration!

December 24, 1814

On Christmas Eve in 1814, the Treaty of Ghent was negotiated between the U.S. and Great Britain. This ended the war of 1812.

December 24, 1871

First performance of Verdi's opera, "Aida," took place on Christmas Eve, 1871, in Egypt.

Looking To 1979!

By the year 1970, so we are told, Canada will have to find jobs for an additional million and a half people. Of course, this figure is being projected on past and present statistics, and with a fair intimation that human social behavior will continue as is. Our problem, however, is not in the above figure, for a few thousand here and there is of little significance in the overall picture. The problem is going to be how these jobs will be found and who will create them. As a boy, we recall our father talking about technology, and knowing nothing about such modern ideas, we couldn't have cared less. But today, Technology, the capacity to see new industrial possibilities and to make old things in brand new ways, may be the answer. Technology is very close to the speed and the success of a country's economic growth upon which the creation of new jobs depend so highly.

The importance of developing an advanced technology was well emphasized not so long ago when Major Keefler remarked that if productivity is to be increased by three per cent each year, existing physical plant must be continually re-designed to do more things, to do them faster and do them better, or a bit of each. There is a real challenge for industry here, in cooperation with governments, universities and other non-profit organizations to develop the kind of technology which will provide the new jobs of the future, which could turn out to be our greatest national resource. If this is done properly we will coast into 1970 with its milion and a half new jobs, right on stride.

Taxes and Revenue!

The number of tax groups at work in Canada today would indicate that a concerted effort is afoot to try and solve the outstanding tax and revenue problems. Everyone realizes that changes and improvements in the tax system are necessary today, but the number of groups in levels of government working on the various aspects of the situation, should they come up with answers at the same time, will only confuse the issue still further. We would suggest that they all hold fire, get together, and come up with an over-all picture after due digestion and assessment. In this way we stand a far better chance to come up with a system that may serve us well.

While these groups are at it, they might well look into the situation in all its aspects, where the business man and the employer is presently compelled by law to spend half his time looking after the governments' revenue problems. It seems to be stacking the bad pretty high to require an employer, not only to be soaked good and proper in the general tax set-up, but also be required to keep books for the government. What with income tax deductions, workmen's compensation, unemployment insurance, sale tax deductions, records for the labor relations board, and all the rest of the red tape, a man's time almost belongs to government and by the time he's through looking after it, he's too exhausted to do his own work. In fact he's too tired to even answer letters he gets from various bureaus bawling him out and threatening him with action because he neglected some of their chores. What we really need is a commission to look after the individual. Wouldn't that louse things up good.

Frost Free Season!

An interesting disclosure from the Alberta Department of Agriculture informs us that there has been an increase in the frost-free season in the province of up to one month during the 1951 to 1964 period. While this is welcome news to inhabitants who are used to donning heavy clothes for a good part of the year, the disclosure has far deeper and more significant possibilities in this day and age when population is increasing and the food problem threatens to become a troublesome part of our economy.

The shorter frost season trend is now making it possible to grow later-maturing and higher yielding crops in the northern portion of the province. It seems quite probable that Jubilee feed barley, one of the latest, yet highest yielders might be grown It is even predicted that it may soon be possible to grow such things as egg plant and peppers in Alberta gardens.

This increase in the frost-free period is likely part of a long-term cycle, for studies show that there has been a rising temperature trend in the northern hemisphere for most of the twen tieth century. According to the report the peak in rising temperature was reached in 1960, and since then there has been a downward trend, so any real predictions for the future would be hazardous, but we can keep our fingers crossed and live in the dream that Alberta, besides being the best province in Canada, may some day be the warmest. Wouldn't that be something.

—Fifty-Eighth Year of Service—

— by A. W. E. —

When people come into the office and tell us about a certain year and the kind of weather that prevailed, we listen with keen interest, because our memory just can't recall it for ourselves Last week Leo Miller was in and told us that he and a friend had their picture taken on Christmas Day in 1932, while the sun was shining and the temperature was 45 above I personally recall the year 1933 when it was raining literally cats and dogs on the 23rd of November and not a sign of snow. I should remember that day for it was the one in which I got married. What we are trying to get at though is that the bets are odds favored that nobody can come up with a better all-round fall, and early winter season than 1967, weatherwise

WHICH ARE YOU? — Some members keep their organizations strong, while others join to belong. Some volunteer and some start, while others lie back and just don't care. On meeting days some always show, while there are others who never go. Some do their best, some build, some make, some never do, just sit and take. Some log behind, some let things go, and never help their group to grow. Some drag, some pull; some don't, some do. Consider, which of these are YOU.

One day as I looked back through some old copies of the Press I came upon an item of interest. It was a statement made by the late Viscount R. B. Bennett, one-time Prime Minister of Canada. After a visit to the old Country he said that he had learned one thing. It was that if only people could learn to love each other, if the people of various sections of a country could learn to love each other, if the inhabitants of one country could only learn to love the people of every other country, there would be no war, no depression and no economic insecurity. I thought that any person who had gained the confidence of the public to such an extent as to be elevated to the position of Prime Minister, should surely be bright enough to learn a thing or two along the way. This lesson of love is one that Christian people the world over pretended to have learned years and years ago, that lesson is preached to millions every Sunday, and very often on week days; it is admitted that loving is the fulfillment of the law and that of all the virtues of human intelligence, love is the outstanding attribute. Now just what can a government do toward making a peachement of realization? It is not very difficult to come forward with a panacea for the ills of society, but it is another thing to put such a panacea into law and then enforce it.

THE TEENAGE SHOW-OFF DRIVER

Dear Editor:

I am a teenager who is worried about the ever-increasing number of show-off drivers that travel around our towns. Every Saturday night you can hear kids roaring and squealing up and down the streets. In my opinion, the only way they can be described are as "show-offs".

The show-off driver is one of the greatest hazards to safe driving today. He wants to create a "super-hero" image among his friends and the general public. If he only knew what people thought of him! As well as wrecking his reputation, his car and tires also suffer. Sometimes he even puts noisy gadgets on the exhaust to further the noise. His driving practices also endanger the lives of other people on the highway and even the pedestrian.

Because of the way he drives, he wrecks other teenagers' reputations who are concerned about the way they drive. Sensible teenage should discourage these people and try to tell them what could happen if they don't drive more cautiously.

Exercise In Futility!

OTTAWA — An excellent example of a Federal-Provincial conference called for no apparent reason or purpose was last week's Ottawa get-together on housing.

It should have been productive. The country faces no genuine problem then housing. After the prime issues of national unity and economic stability. But Ottawa simply wasn't ready to offer anything practical in the way of a solution to the shortage, and the provincial wants and needs were well known before the Premiers met. Prime Minister Pearson in fact had called the meeting several months ago, at a time when the absence of a national Federal program was already a matter of note, but when there was still hope of something useful being forthcoming.

But in the interim between his invitation going out to the 10 provinces and the convening of the Conference, the roof fell in on Ottawa's finances. And where there's no money, there isn't much use in talking, the Premiers found.

Mr Pearson made it clear at the start that while the Federal Government had some ideas for the distant future, there was nothing it could do now to ease the immediate housing shortage in our cities.

He offered to participate actively with the provinces in both housing and urbanization programs once there was some money in the kitty But for the moment, he warned it would be "misleading to leave any impression that we are in a position to offer increased Federal financial assistance at this time."

If there was any wind in the sails of the provincial leaders clustered around the big circular table in the ornate West Block conference chamber, it was quickly spilled, and the meeting became becalmed in a sea of uninspired oratory from Federal leaders with nothing useful to do but kill time.

Mr Pearson's opener offered these items for the future:

Financial help from the Federal Government in the comprehensive planning or urban regions and advance purchase of land for "transportation corridors" and open spaces for recreation and other community purposes.

More money toward land assembly and development of integrated,easily planned new suburban communities within urban regions.

Housing subsidy programs as an integral part of other Federal a n d Provincial anti-poverty measures in special areas, designated by their general poverty level, lack of employment opportunities and retarded economic growth.

An increased program of public support to help growing families in moderate income who require three or four-bedroom accommodation with good community facilities instead of small apartments.

All of this made an attractive blueprint for sometime in the future. But it meant nothing for those Canadians who are searching for housing right now or anything available within their economic reach.

Mr Pearson's major proposal for immediate "action" was the establishment of a Council on Housing and Urban Development which would have its own full-time staff to assess housing and urbas needs on a national scale, and suggest priorities and plans.

But the idea was stillborn. All of the provincial leaders met it aside coldly and brusquely, and went on to detail their need for Federal financial help — which Ottawa is simply not in position to give this Christmas.

This, from a Government which has taxed more, spent more, and borrowed more than any peacetime administration since Confederation, seemed a trifle implausible. But the Pearson team is determined to keep the lid on what it considers inflationary expenditures in the coming year, and housing is one item which is destined for its share of economic restraint.

Only a few days earlier in the Commons, Revenue Minister Edgar Benson had risen to detail "cutbacks" of more than $1 billion in the Government's spending program for the next fiscal year beginning in April.

Most of the items he listed were like those on Santa's list —

Oh, that wonderful fragrance of Christmas! The tantalizing wiffs of fresh baked breads, succulent turkey and homemade cakes tell one and all that Christmas really begins in the kitchen. With the decorations up, the events full and the counters laden, it is time to plan the final feast!

In planning the Christmas meal often the one problem is — what to do with the vegetables? This idea brings these succulent sprouts back to the Christmas meal but instead of in a cocktail, into corn and oyster scallop. Thaw 1 pint fresh oysters coarsely. Combine 1 (10-ounce) can cream style corn, 1/4 cup evaporated milk, fresh parsley, salt, pepper and Tabasco sauce to taste. Drizzle 1/2 cup melted butter over 2 cups coarse cracker crumbs and toss lightly. Arrange the oysters, corn and crumbs in layers in a casserole. Dot with butter and bake in 375 degree F. oven for 20 to 25 minutes.

This little poem caught my eye and I'd like to share it with you:

THE LITTLE THINGS AT CHRISTMAS

Especially at Christmastime
We find great joy in little things . . .
The melody of carols sung,
The memory an angel chorus brings
The tiny candle from the window seen
Burns with a certain holy light;
It brings to mind the one bright star

That shone on that most holy night.
The gifts we wrap for those we love,
No matter whether big or small,
Are tokens of our love for them
As wise men's offerings we recall.

The happiness and love on this one day
Bring thoughts which warm and cheer
May we keep Christmas in our hearts
Through every day of all the year.

Hinkey-Grieve Wedding At St. Andrews United

St. Andrew's United Church Lougheed was the scene of a double ring ceremony on October 7th, 1967, when vows of marriage were spoken before Rev. Don Lewis by Vera Lorraine, only daughter of Mr and Mrs Andrew Grieve and Wyatt Ross, son of Mr and Mrs Ross Hinkey of Hamilton.

The church was decorated with bouquets of bronze fall flowers, with coral carnations on white bows marking the pews.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride looked lovely in a floor-length gown of sheer and net over taffeta with lace appliques. The fitted waist with bustle back extended to a train. A cluster of white roses with seed pearls held the bride's shoulder-length veil. She carried a white Bible mounted with gladiola and roses. Her only jewellery was a drop pearl necklace, gift of the groom.

Attending the bride was her friend Miss Sherryl Grant and cousins Miss Jean Wright and Miss Deborah Gibbs. They were identical sheath style gowns of acqua spray, lace over organza and carried bouquets of coral carnations with beadpiece to match.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr Darrel Hinkey, Mr Merle King and Mr Dale Grieve, brother of the bride.

Mr Ronald Cookson and Mr Ernest Odegard acted as ushers.

Mrs Martin Roggensack played the wedding music and accompanied soloist Mr Russell Grant of Killam.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs Grieve chose a pink sheath of rayon and lurex with a lace coat matching shoes and gloves. Her rolled brim hat and bag were tones of brown. She wore a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs Hinkey chose a white brocade velvet frock with black and white accessories and corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony, an open reception was held in the Lougheed Community Hall. The bride's table was laid with white linen and lace cloth centered by a three tiered wedding cake, complimented by a ruffle of net and lily of the valley and lighted tapers.

Miss Terry Johnson presided at the guest book.

Mr Tom Kenny was master of ceremonies, calling on Mr Steve, who proposed a toast to the bride and was very ably responded to by the groom. Mr Darrel Hinkey proposed a toast to the bridesmaids.

For her wedding trip, the bride chose a wool double knit jade green suit with rust accessories and corsage of roses.

Before departing from the dance the happy couple graciously thanked their many friends and relatives who attended and left on a trip into the United States.

They are now making their home in Edmonton.

May tidings of great joy be yours.

BEWARE TINY KIM

Maybe it was the approach of Christmas that got me thinking o- bout money. Maybe i twas Kim nothing me when "confidence" was. In trying to explain, I got into gold reserves and depreciation of the pound and inflation, and we both wound up refreshingly bewildered.

Only thing of any value that came out of it was the ridiculous nature of modern money.

Money, or some form of it, is no old as man, whether it be wampum, bits of elephant tusk or fancy seashells. Gold early became the favorite, because it was heavy, malleable, decorative and hard to get hold of. Silver and copper made up the unholy trinity, and we were in business.

But from early times, and even into the last century, money was real. You could feel it, bite it, heft it, look at it shine, and listen to it ring. It had weight, substance.

You could put it in a sock and feel like a banker. You could bury it in the ground when you heard the IAX collector coming. Try that with modern currency.

What fun it must have been to go into a tavern with friends, spin a gold guinea on the table and shout: 'Landlord! Three game pies, a haunch of venison and three gallons of your best brandy.'' And get ten jingling shillings in change.

Mean best stirs the fire, cooks beefs happily all-night and walkers sorcery, tugging at their forelock and brimming up the tankards. Compare. Today you go into a tavern with friends. Half an hour later, when your eyes have adjusted to the gloom, a waiter, either surly or insolent, hands you a large piece of paper. This, eventually, produces a very small drink at every large price.

After a suitably lengthy period of anesthetization, in preparation for the coming shock, another waiter (this one morose or bellicose, hands you another large piece of paper. Eventually, this produces a platter of something which you're lucky it's too dark to see.

Later, he brings another very small piece of paper, with a figure on it which you're also lucky it's too dark to see. in turn, you show him a piece of plastic, called a credit card, and sign a paper. Or if you're just a peasant, you hand over a number of pieces of colored paper.

He takes it away and comes back, promptly this time, with a little tray. All your paper is gone and there is a quarter and four pennies on the tray. He stands, glowering, until you put another piece of paper on the tray. He grunts, sneiches it, and departs.

On the way out, you fork over the quarter to reassure your overcost. You are left with four pennies. They don't exactly jingle.

Point is, no real money has changed hands. There is no personal contact, and therefore no satisfaction in it

Every month, I receive a piece of paper with figures on it. The figure at the extreme left is fairly substantial. Then there are a lot of other figures. The figure at the extreme right bears no relation to the first ones. It is one jump ahead of the old-age pension. This is known as a pay sheque.

I take it to a large building, write some figures on another piece of paper, present both to a nice lady, and she gives me back some other paper, green, blue and brown, with figures on them. My wife gives them to another nice lady, in exchange for a big basket of groceries and maybe three pieces of real money, coins.

Once a month we sit down and write things on some different paper, put the paper in envelopes and send them to all sorts of people who have previously sent us pieces of paper with figures and the words "Please!" or "Last warning!" on them.

It's all very logical, of course. And the crowning piece of logic is that the whole thing is based on digging gold out of a hole in the ground in Northern Ontario and burying it in another hole in the ground at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

Proudly introducing

Another Alberta Junior Citizen of the Centennial Year!

GLENNA HORVATH, Drayton Valley

Glenna Horvath, aged 15, saved her five brothers and sisters from death when fire destroyed their home. Glenna was babysitting the younger children when she discovered the fire. The ceiling of the children's room was ablaze. Glenna immediately woke the children and began hustling them outside. Half asleep, they kept trying to go back into the bedroom. Helped by Rex, the family dog, who led some of the children by the arm, Glenna finally got them all to safety.

We congratulate Glenna Horvath and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active participation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

Hardisty News

We are sorry to report that Margaret McKinnell did not go on her trip to Toronto, as she came down with the flu and was ill for a time. Better luck next time.

Christmas parties were the order of the day on the weekend. I.P.L., Gibsons, Home Oil, the teaching staff, and hospital, all had parties for employees and friends on Friday evening. On Saturday, with the co-operation of the Hardisty Elks, Santa Claus paid his annual visit. A large crowd of children enjoyed the show in the Vista Theatre, after which Santa passed out bags of goodies to all.

Among those from out of town attending the funeral of the late George Wilder, were Mr and Mrs Ed Wold, Mr and Mrs Alfred Theon and Mrs and Mrs Oliver Theon of Camrose; Mr and Mrs Clarence Theon and Mr and Mrs Howard Theon of Red Deer.

A fine addition to the town has been built south of the appartment house, the Silver Willow Motel. Owned by Walter Korol and the Dr.Koch brothers, this will be an 8-unit motel, fully modern, and will be a real need in this district.

Mr and Mrs B. Matthews and Bill visited the Hutchinson farm at Dalkeith on Wednesday.

The O.O.R.P. held their annual Christmas party on Sunday evening, entertaining their brother Elks and other guests. Court whist was played: top winners being Mrs Edith Cochane and George Kramer, while consolation went to Mrs Bronnie Lakeas and Barry Matthews. Carols and Christmas songs made for a good sing song, while an amusing ditty presented by Dorothy Kramer, Doris Powell and Pauline Cavanagh told of Santa's plans for various members. The lovely lunch was followed by an exchange of gifts, ending a most enjoyable evening.

Mr and Mrs John Scharger have moved to Wilkie, Sask., where Mr Scharger has been transferred.

St. Mark's A.C.W. met at the home of Mrs B. Matthews on Tuesday evening. Due to the small attendance, election of officers and annual reports were postponed until January.

The Elks Turkey Bingo held in the hall on Wednesday evening drew a good crowd. Mrs R Longman won the door prize, while the huge blackout turkey went to Buddy Dewey.

A wedding of interest took place in All Saints Cathedral, Edmonton, on Saturday, when Faye-Lynn Saville became the bride of Terry Philip Shaw. Faye-Lynn is the daughter of Mr and Mrs Harry Saville, formerly of Hardisty, and the groom is the son of Mr and Mrs John Shaw of Kalispell, Montana.

Mrs Evelyn Edworthy was a weekend visitor with the Len Anderson family.

We hope Santa leaves some room in your stocking for our wish of happy times for you and yours. Merry Christmas!

"... and please, God, make this New Year a happy one for everybody."

New Year Message By Premier E. C. Manning

Another year is before us, the first new year of Canada's second century of nationhood. My colleagues in the government join with me in extending warm and sincere new year's greetings to all Albertans and in expressing the hope that 1968 holds in store for you, health, happiness and satisfaction. We hope that you can look back on Canada's Centennial Year with fond recollections. In the year ahead I sincerely hope that each and every one will become personally involved in the constructive areas of our society for in this way we will develop the free and independent life so much to be desired.

Alberta experienced a generally buoyant year during 1967. On the farm front, grain yields were average, down somewhat from the record crop of 1966 but increases in livestock, poultry and dairy product marketings assured a welcome increase in the 1967 farm cash income. The outlook for 1968, in the marketing of grain, holds some uncertainty, due to stiffer competition for world markets and in negotiations as to price.

The development of oil and gas resources, during the past year, saw production value adjustments amounting to 18%. In the year ahead there may be substantial adjustments in the world oil-flow patterns as a result of the Middle East crisis and these adjustments will, in the long run, benefit Alberta's economy.

Manufacturing and retail trade recorded moderate increases during 1967. There was a slight rise in employment while labour income advanced 10%. The construction industry was very active, with the value of building permits 20% higher than during 1966.

In 1968, Canada will be confronted with greater competition for world margets and the strength of our national position is being depleted by rapid price increases as compared with other countries. This situation requires serious attention, not only by governments but by all sections of our society.

It is vitally important that realistic steps be taken to avert the developing national financial crisis, which cannot be averted merely by further increasing taxation which will lead to further price increases for goods and services. Far greater emphasis must be placed on increased productivity with comparable restraint on both public and private expenditures beyond what our prevailing productive capacity has the ability to sustain.

I would assure the citizens of Alberta that this is the course your provincial government is determined to pursue. This course, combined with constant efforts to encourage the maximum development of our total human and physical resources, will ensure continued social and economic progress. Through positive and principled leadership at all levels of government, we can move forward into the first new year of Canada's second century in the firm belief that it will be a century of new, dynamic achievements.

Again, my sincere best wishes for 1968.

Odd Fellow Funds For Public Service

Because of the generous patronage accorded the recent Independent Order of Oddfellows' Bingo and the fact its success involved public participation, members of this fraternal society have felt that the public would show a receptive interest to say pertinent facts published concerning disposition of the money derived from such a bingo.

Among the varied and commendable projects associated with International Oddfellowship and requiring financial sustenance is a major movement better known as "The Pilgrimage To the United Nations", which in itself absorbs a substantial percentage of the monetary proceeds in order to keep it active. Vigorously supported by both Oddfellow and Rebekah Lodges this elimination oratorical contest carried out in senior high schools of Canada and the United States has, since its inception, boasted a total of four winners among local high school students and resulted in each one being awarded an all-expense trip to the United Nations Headquarters in New York City.

Moreover, a portion of the money is fed into channels for ultimate utilization by the crippled children of Edmonton and other centres, while still more of it flows into kindred theatres of human sufferance and mercy, namely The Eye Bank and Visual Research Foundation.

In addition to the foregoing, the I.O.O.F. lends its support to other well known humanitarian endeavors and in order to make this aid constant the annual I.O.O.F. Bingo has become a fund raising necessity

Lt.-Gov. New Year's Message

One year ago we said there was something special about New Year's because it brought us to our Centennial Birthday. Now there is something special about the forthcoming New Year which brings us to the end of our Centennial Birthday. The special events of the past year brought us much reason for satisfaction and pride, and most have left Canadians with a new realization of their rich history and unparalelled progress.

As Canada moves along in her second century since Confederation, the tasks ahead will seem scarcely less challenging. It is for Canadian people to promote understanding both within and beyond the Nation. Such understanding will be a contribution to unity at home and peace abroad. Working together with understanding, Canadians are in a position to enrich themselves and set an example for the world.

To all the people of Alberta and all Canadians, my wish is for continued progress in 1968 with good health, good will and contentment prevailing.

—Grant MacEwan, Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta.

Alberta Crop Insurance Situation

A total of 9,891 farmers, representing approximately 54 per cent of farmers in areas of the province covered by Alberta's Crop Insurance Program, were insured last year.

A. M. Wilson, Director of the Plant industry Division, reports that $1,835,000 were paid in premiums by farmers in 1966. When the federal government has made its contribution of $626,000, the total premium will be $2,500,000.

Some 2 million acres were insured last year, and 2,678 requests for inspections had been received by the Alberta Crop Insurance Corporation by the middle of October. The 364 claims paid to date amount to $270,000. It is estimated that 1,300 claims will be paid by the end of the year, which works out to nearly one farmer in every seven.

Mr Wilson points out that half the claims received up to now have come from the Peace River Area. Although Father and the County of Grande Prairie both had a large number of claims, Spirit River was the hardest hit. Other districts with a substantial number of claims include Rimby, Daysland, Holden and the M.D. of Starland. Drought was responsible for by far the largest number of claims. Hail and frost counted for only minor losses.

Barley was more seriously affected by drought than either wheat or oats and will account for a large share of the claims paid this year. At the present time it is impossible to predict with any accuracy the total indemnities which will be paid to Alberta farmers. Crop yields and grades turned out much better than had been anticipated earlier in the season, at which time heavy losses under the Crop Insurance Program appeared imminent.

Mr Wilson says that next year's plans call for approximately doubling the area to which the Crop Insurance Program applied in 1966, but details have not yet been finalized.

The Government of Canada and the Government of Alberta share all administration costs of the provincial Crop Insurance Program. All premiums paid by farmers are used to cover losses in insured crops. Each farmer's crop is insured and adjusted on an individual basis, which means if he experiences heavy damage, his indemnity payment will be based on his own losses; not on the average loss for the area.

Defensive Driving Course Coming To Sedgewick Jan. 15

This is an eight-hour course, divided into four two-hour sessions, usually conducted two nights per week for two weeks.

It is principally concerned with the two-car accident and how to avoid situations which produce such accidents.

The course utilizes materials and techniques used in training professional drivers, to give the private driver the benefits of professional training. It is not a driver education course for beginners and is different again from Traffic Court Clinic (also conducted by Alberta Safety Council) which is designed for the counselling of traffic violators.

It is designed specifically for adults holding a valid driver's licence or those whose licences have been suspended, who sincerely want to improve their knowledge of safe driving practices. Learning drivers are to be discouraged from attending D.D.C. until they have qualified for their operator's licence.

Another New Year!

After a week's holiday, at least from publishing, the Community Press is again before its readers, and we are now in a new year. To use the old hackneyed phraseology of extending best wishes to one and all for a "Bright, Happy and Prosperous New Year" seems quite out of place and very commonplace with conditions as they are in some portions of the world. It is hoped that these conditions are improving and will continue to improve. Were it not for that hope in the minds of people the future would be a dark one for most. With our present facilities for producing and distributing the necessities of life and comfort to those who reside even in the remotest corners of the globe, and then to think of the number of people who are suffering for the bare necessities of life right in the midst of world plenty, is the one subject which should give every honest citizen the gravest concern. It is reasonable to contend that these conditions will improve or get worse, for we are certain that nothing in this world remains static. It is the contemplation of problems that has induced many people in the past, as it will in the future, to turn away from the old order of things and look for something new, even untried, more or less fantastic and visionary.

It is a strange and undesirable condition that the rich get richer and the poor get poorer, and when we enhance the condition to include nations, the realization must become evidence that economics sometimes works backwards. Poorer nations will not long tolerate their inferior situation, their starving position, their inferiority complex, and remain law-abiding. These are the conditions that foment civil revolutions and world catastrophe. The affluent West has an obligation, not only to produce the basic foods, but to see that a goodly portion of it gets into mouths of starving millions. Anything short of this means eventual disaster.

Occupations!

Among hazardous occupations should be included that of the rural newspaper editor who publishes each week brief resumes of his town's history. There is dynamite in those little summaries variously entitled, "Ten Years Ago," Twenty-Five Years Ago," and "Fifty Years Ago."

A most careful editor culled his items each week, omitting all that he felt might offend some subscriber. One bit in particular he studied for a long time. It was to run under the head of "Fifty Years Ago," and it told that on this day fifty years ago, Miss Irma Clemens began her studies at the public school. The editor would, of course, not have dared run such a dangerous piece, but he knew for a fact that Irma had been dead for many years. Further, he knew she had no close relatives still living. In his innocence, the man decided that here was one bit of news that could harm no one. So he ran the piece and it appeared in the paper the following Thursday.

Friday morning he had a caller. She was white-faced with rage.

"How do you do, Miss Crane," the editor said engratiatingly, clearing seventeen exchanges and five mats from a chair, "Will you sit down."

"I will not sit down," said Miss Matilda Crane. "And, what's more, I want to cancel my subscription. The gall of you! Printing that piece about Irma Clemens starting school fifty years ago! It's libel, sir."

"But poor Miss Irma Clemens is dead and gone," returned the editor, wringing his hands. "It can't injure the deceased to give out that she was born more than fifty years ago."

"Maybe it can't hurt Irma," said the steely eyed Miss Crane. "But how about the fact that that everyone in this town knows I was always just two years older than Irma."

Changing Divorce Laws

Changing Canada's medieval divorce laws is like trying to untangle a playful kitten from a ball of yarn.

The task is nerve-fraying because of the overlapping of three distinct factors — the federal government which must make the new laws — the provincial governments which must administer them — and a fast-shifting moral and social climate which often creates the pressures leading to divorce.

After sampling a cross-section of Canadian opinion the Special Joint Committee of the Senate and House of Commons on Divorce (set up in 1966) said the federal-provincial mix-up can be sorted out somehow. But it is more intangible social problems that can't be legislated against which keep divorce reformers up nights.

The mere passing of laws speeding the burial of dead marriages through cheap, quickie divorces is not enough. The needs include positive aid from agencies in every community for strengthening or rebuilding marriages, a new type of divorce court with socially conscious judges and lawyers, as well as attached counselling and reconciliation services.

Each province and community should ask itself these questions What programs are in our schools for preparation of marriage and family responsibility? What recreational and other social facilities are there for healthy relationships? Is there adequate housing? What counselling services and court facilities designed to strengthen and rebuild marriages are available?

The public is going to have to agree to lay out money for these services — and to cooperate with provincial and federal agencies in order to get them.

—Fifty-Eighth Year of Service—

by A. W. K.

This post week I received some copies of a daily paper dated 1867, with some interesting little tid-bits concerning Confederation. The paper was bilingual with various sections in English and French. Of course the paper circulated in the East entirely and we suppose there wasn't much difficulty with the two languages.

An interesting item was the fact that the Confederation Bill was read a third time in the House of Commons on the 8th of March, 1867. Some amendments were made in committee so it had to go to the House of Lords. The anti-Calonists were expected to offer some resistance, led by Mr Lowe, but they will not be able to obstruct the bill let alone defeat it.

Another little gem states that the Inauguration of the Dominion of Canada on Monday, July 1st, 1867, will be ushered in by ringing of city bells, firing of cannons and lighting of bonfires. During the course of the day there will be a game of Lacrosse to take place at Sparks' Field back of the English Church.

All this makes for reflections on how we would celebrate such an occasion today, with a protest march, window smashing and probably a free-for-all in front of the Legislative Buildings! Well, it takes all kinds of people to make a world, and we've got 'em Thank goodness.

On April 7th, 1868, a magnificent ball was held in honor of the Queen was being hoisted to a position in the Senate Chamber without sufficient tackle. It appears the rope broke, the Queen tumbled down 15 feet and unfortunately suffered a broken arm. Otherwise, the grand old lady was unharmed. They really made them in the olden days.

The Letter Box

Sirs:—

I believe this would be a good time of the year to clean out some of the magpies. I know we will never exterminate them, but if everyone will co-operate, I believe we could make them pretty scarce in a very short time. I don't know anything good about them but it is a wonder that any game bird is able to hatch a brood of young without being destroyed by the eggs, or the young ducks while the mother is trying to lead them to water. If a duck or an upland game bird is scared off her nest and a magpie happens to see her, it will never give up until it eventually gets the eggs.

I understand that the Municipal District of Flagstaff has had some magpie traps built at considerable expense. I have never used them, but I have built traps of my own and if I remember rightly, we did catch a magpie one time. However, in spite of traps, they seem to be increasing. We have built a calf creep in our north pasture, where there is a lot of brush and the magpies dirty up the grain until the calves won't eat it. I know other people who have had the same problem. We have a lot of bluffs in our pasture for them to nest in and it is a common sight in the fall to see flocks of a hundred or more.

Now we know that magpies don't migrate in the sense that other birds go south, but I believe they scatter out in the fall, where some of them go south and east into the open country, where there aren't bluffs for for them to nest in in the summer. Some of them even locate in the towns and cities, or where ever they can scrounge something to eat. This should give us a chance to get them as I doubt if there is a corral or feed lot in the entire district that isn't visited by every magpie on the place, just at daylight.

A week ago this morning, we had devoured a couple of tame ducks and the red foot and legs, from the knee down, had been thrown out at the back door. I heard some magpies and looked out of the washroom window and there were about a dozen of them trying to get a peck off those legs. It is a rather strange thing, but when a magpie finds something to eat, it let's out a shrill squack or two and every magpie within a quarter or half a mile comes to share in the feast. It looked like a good time to try some poison, as I knew there was a half can of gopher poison up in a closet. I looked around for something to use as bait and happened to notice that I had two hard boiled eggs on the stove. It didn't take long to open the eggs and mash them up with a fork in an old saucer, with a few spoons of gopher poison. I got it a little too juicy, so broke up part of a slice of bread and mixed in with it. I made sure that our two dogs and two cats were in the house and when I opened the back door every magpie took away. I set the saucer down amongst the duck feet and went back where we could peek thru a crack in the curtain. It was only a minute until every magpie was back and taking turns at having a feed. They would take a few pecks and then grab a piece and fly away. It only took a couple of minutes and they were all gone. We didn't see another one that day, but I set it out again the next morning and just as my little girl went out the front door to catch the bus, she said she heard a magpie.

I looked out of the back window just in time to see one flying away with a piece in its beak. The bait was frozen by then, but that didn't seem to effect it any.

That was a week ago and we haven't seen a magpie around the yard or corral since, so I can only assume that they are dead. I hope that the next time that I have an opportunity to poison some that I can able to take the binocuars and follow them up and see if I can pick up a dead one.

I have poisoned gophers ever since I was a boy and have seen crows eating the gophers and I only saw one crow, a good many years ago, that was pretty sick. I have been told that if a crow can get a drink of water, that the poison does not effect them. I have also been told that the difference between a crow and a magpie, is that a crow has a crop and a magpie has no crop and that the poison goes directly into their system. This is something that I intend to investigate by throwing one of each to examine them.

I would suggest that probably the best way to get rid of the bait would be to put out a board on the top of a corral post and set the bait on that, so as to be out of the reach of dogs and cats.

The other two bird pests we have here are the starlings and the English sparrow. The starlings are not the pest here that they are in the east, or at the coast, but I have never heard of a good way to deal with them so no doubt they will become worse as time goes on.

The English sparrow is a dirty little pest that drives out a lot of our more useful song birds. It is too bad that they were ever called a sparrow, as they are actually a Finch and to call them a sparrow, gives a bad name to our many varieties of sparrows that are among our most useful song birds.

The only way that we have been able to keep their numbers down, is by placing a few shallow dishes in the barn and the loft and wherever they congregate. Put an inch of dry cement in the dish and sprinkle a little gopher poison on something similar, in the cement and the sparrows will do the rest, as they have never discovered a laxative that will counteract the cement.

I only hope that everyone in the district will take time to set out some bait and let us see if we can cut down on the number of pests, while we still have some game birds and song birds left.

Henry Hawkins.

Anybody's Guess!

OTTAWA — Prime Minister L. B. Pearson gave his wife the birthday present she longed most to get — the announcement of his decision to retire from the leadership of the Liberal party.

Mrs Pearson made no secret of the fact that she wanted her husband to bow out of the heavy responsibilities of Prime Minister and leader of the Liberal Party. After 40 years of service to the people of Canada she rightly felt that Mr Pearson should resign before he retired his health.

It was the day after her birthday that Mr Pearson broke the news to his Cabinet. He declared that he was resigning as Liberal leader, but would carry on as Prime Minister until the Government party had selected a new leader. Members of his Cabinet were shocked and surprised at the unexpected announcement. They had known that Mr Pearson was considering retiring, but everything he has said and done in recent weeks had indicated that he would carry on well into 1968.

After breaking the news to his Cabinet colleagues Mr Pearson left the Cabinet room to make the same announcement at a hurriedly called press conference. A caucus of the Liberal M.P.'s and senators was summoned immediately after lunch, the same day. Here the members of the party heard from their leaders' own lips the announcement that they had heard broadcast over radio, television and circulated in newspapers.

There has been grumbling among the backbenchers in the Liberal party of late that the Prime Minister was not giving the party the kind of tough, hard-nosed leadership a minority government leader should provide. Several members had openly said they hoped he would soon step down — a sentiment that a year ago would never have been openly expressed.

The collapse of the Federal-Provincial housing conference pointed up the drift and indecision that has appeared to set in Happy New Year to all!

Who thinks up new wrinkles for getting rid of old ones, in slacks and sheets and fabrics of all kinds?

Nothing is perfect. This fact has helped Dominion Textile become a leader in the Canadian textile industry. Because it means there must be ways to improve almost every fabric. Dominion Textile is constantly searching for these ways.

And finding quite a few of them. Slacks that keep the press in and the creases out. Sheets you never have to iron.

New and better techniques, new and better ways of doing things, new and better fabrics. From Tex-Made, the fabric people.

Another Alberta Junior Citizen of the Centennial Year!

DEAN WOLFE, Beiseker

On June 5, quick-thinking Dean Wolfe, aged 10, saved his brother Gary's life. 5 year old Gary fell and was run over by the rear wheel of a tractor. His chest and stomach were crushed. When his mother moved him from under the tractor he appeared unconscious with no sign of breathing. Dean immediately gave Gary mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Soon Gary was breathing and crying. He was alive! His rescuer, Dean, has been a Cub Scout for three years.

We congratulate Dean Wolfe and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active participation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

MacDuff Report

at the top of the Liberal Party. The Government looked bad in the handling of the Conference. A barrage of criticism descended on the heads of the Prime Minister and his Minister in charge of housing, Hon. J. R. Nicholson. That strengthened the Prime Minister's resolve to get out and turn the tough job over to a younger man.

Mr Pearson a year ago had disclosed to close friends that it was his desire to retire in 1967. When the Conservatives set their leadership convention he recognized that when the Official Opposition (the Conservatives) picked a new and younger man the pressures on him to bow out would materially increase. They have. He told friends that he had no intention of fighting another general election. By the stage was set for Mr Pearson to depart.

But when the Quebec problem grew more grave with the passing weeks — after General de Gaulle's visit — Mr Pearson began to worry that perhaps he should stay on until the question of national unity was settled and confederation preserved. Quebec Liberals said loudly and repeatedly that Mr Pearson was the only Federal leader who enjoyed the confidence of the Quebec people. They warned the Prime Minister that to leave the leadership at this time would only aggravate an already serious situation.

Here was the principal ingredient for the age-old cry that all leaders hear from their friends. "You are indispensable". But obviously Mr Pearson did not buy that. He has been a diplomat too long to recognize the speciousness of such an argument. He also recognized that each time he prepared to quit something else could flare up and give rise to the demand he stay and see it through to a finish.

A month ago he made up his mind to resign before the end of 1967. Privately he informed the President of the National Liberal Federation, Senator John Nichol, so that the President could start formulating plans for the Party's leadership convention in the Spring of 1968. When the decision was finally made public Senator Nichol convened a meeting of the national executive of the Liberal party.

The leadership convention dates were selected. The Liberals will gather in Ottawa on April 4 to 6 to pick their new leader. They will meet in the grand new Civic centre now under construction, and nearing completion. A beautiful new convention hall has been created under the huge grandstand at Lansdowne Park, home field of the Ottawa Rough Riders football team. The arena has seating for 9,300 persons and a moveable stage.

The Liberal executive is enthusiastic over the new facilities. The executive has booked all available hotel accommodation in the city. There will be policy discussions at the convention as well as the major task of choosing a new leader.

Candidates for the leadership will have to declare themselves by mid-January to take advantage of campaign forums across the country. There will be a policy meeting in Winnipeg on January 21 and 22 of the four western Canadian provincial Liberal associations. Leadership candidates will likely attend and describe where they stand on major platform planks.

Those who will be in the running for the leadership include: External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp, Transport Minister Paul Hellyer, Health and Welfare Minister Allan MacEachern and Registrar General John Turner. Others who may enter the race include Manpower Minister Jean Marchand and Justice Minister P. J. Rennie.

Front runners as the race started were Mr Martin, Mr Sharp and Mr Hellyer. Who will wind up the winner is anybody's guess. Mr Pearson will take no part and shows no preference.

1968 — FIFTY-NINTH YEAR — 1967 SEDGEWICK, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 11TH, 1968 Volume 58 — Number 31

Jan. 1 Tourney Ends In Draw

Due to the comparatively open fall last year, towns along the line were late in getting ice in the arena, and as a consequence the New Year Day Tournament at Killam was about the first display of hockey for the present season. The four teams in competition were short on practice sessions and found the going pretty rugged.

The first game of the afternoon saw Daysland's North Stars pitted against the Viking Gas Kings, with Daysland emerging as the winner by a score of 6 to 2. The North Stars displayed a combination of youth and vigor in earning a well deserved victory.

Killam and Forestburg tangled in the second afternoon game in what proved to be a fairly fast and clean encounter, with Forestburg coming out on top of a 6 to 2 score.

The final game of night was a good, clean and fast engagement right down to the final period, where the score was tied at 4 to 4. After playing overtime the count remained tied and the two teams decided to split the prize money and call it quits. Final score, Daysland 4, Forestburg 4.

The annual raffle of a Heller Beef Animal, which is staged each year at this event, went to Ralph Johnson of Red Deer.

4-H Homemakers

On Tuesday, December 12th, the Lougheed 4-H Homemakers met at the H. Jrobst home.

For roll call, each girl presented a menu for Christmas dinner.

Several things were discussed, including: 1 dinner work meeting, the upcoming 4-H Curling Bonspiel, and a donation to the Lougheed Skating Rink.

Rosanne Burden presented a short talk on Christmas and Sharon Probst gave a demonstration.

Following the meeting, a Christmas party was held. Games were played, lunch served, and gifts exchanged.

Sedgewick Man Victim of Blizzard

Anders Gustaf Johnson was born in Sweden on May 6th, 1891. He emigrated to Canada in February of 1913, coming to the Sedgewick district, to which he had resided until the time of his death.

Mr. Johnson collapsed on his way home from uptown, in the blizzard on January 6th.

He was united in marriage to Nellie Elizabeth Ess on March 7, 1923. their union was born one son, Carl, who pre-deceased his father in January of 1963. Mr. Johnson is therefore survived solely by his wife Nellie, now residing in the Town of Sedgewick.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. O. Lewis on January 10th. Pallbearers were: Nels Dyn, Jens Peterson, George, Tormod and Johannes Christensen and Melvin Bachen. Interment was in the family plot in the Sedgewick Cemetery.

County School Committee Headed By Ian Harrison

The initial meeting of the new County of Flagstaff School Committee was held on December 28th, with all the nine members in attendance. Present also were County secretary Walter Leskiw and Ed Barth.

As required by the Act, a slate of officers was elected, with Mr. Ian Harrison of Hardisty being the new chairman and Mr Calvin Boairsto of Sedgewick the secretary.

The County was divided into three zones and it was decided to elect a voting delegate from each, to form the permanent school committee at County meetings. Elected for the Hardisty, Lougheed and Sedgewick Zone, was Mr Ian Harrison of Hardisty; for the Killam Zone, Mr Bruce Simmons and Mr Ben Rott of Killam, and for the Alliance, Galahad, Heisler Zone, Mr Willard Washburn of Galahad.

Then each Zone will have a voting delegate at all times, with a system of rotation to function over the years.

The nine members were informed that they were entitled to appear at the initial meeting of the County Council on January 3rd, and were requested by the chairman to do so.

The entire school committee will meet six times during the year in regular meetings. It was also pointed out that the committee is only appointed for one year after which it will be governed by elections in each town and village.

Defensive Driving Course Needed

One would almost wonder why Defensive Driving Courses are needed in an enlightened age such as ours, but statistics prove that vehicle drivers are aware of the tragic situation which is worsening with time, they still feel that it can't happen to them. Training is sorely needed in Defensive Driving to combat the rise in deaths and accidents caused by ignorance and non-practice of defensive driving principles.

Until Alberta's traffic tolls are accounted for by its two-car accident, and the DDC course will teach the average driver how to apply techniques for avoiding these two-car incidents. Another cause of 30 percent of our accidents is driving-running off the road. Whether this is through weariness or other causes is not stated in reports, but the DDC course will alert drivers to this aspect of driving.

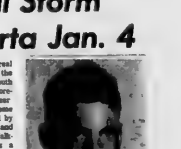
Motor car drivers have an obligation, not only to themselves but to the public at large to become acquainted with all aspects of driving and the course is recommended as a means of doing this.

First Real Storm Hit Alberta Jan. 4

Not much snow and the first real winter storm in January, were the words of wisdom from the mouth of Alberta's Indian weather forecaster early in the fall of last year That his predictions deserve more attention has been fully justified by weather up to the year end, and the storm of January 4th puts Wishing Eagle in the forefront as a prophet.

Storm signals were sent out by the weather office on Thursday and by mid-afternoon most of the province's school students had been sent home. Strong winds and drifting snow prevailed all day and well into the night, with temperatures dropping rapidly to well below the zero mark. Country roads were blocked in many areas by snowing and snow plows were busy clearing, especially on school bus routes.

The Peace River area was hit first and by nightfall the entire Province was covered by the storm and cold trend.



Officer Cadet Douglas H. Bailey of Sedgewick, Alberta, returned home to Sedgewick on December 20th for Christmas holidays. He was last home from the Royal Military College of Canada in Kingston, Ont. This was his first extended leave period since joining the College as a recruit early in September.

Officer Cadet Bailey is the son of Mr and Mrs H. S. Bailey, of Sedgewick, and a graduate of Central High School, Sedgewick, Alberta.

After an extensive four year course in academics, leadership and athletics, Douglas will graduate from RMC with a bachelor degree in his chosen course and a commission as an 1 he Canadian Armed Forces

F.U.A. President's New Year Message

The coming New Year ushers in Canada's second century. Our brief history has witnessed a massive transition from a wilderness to a modern civilization. Canadians proud of this achievement must continue their remarkable progress as we may enjoy continued growth, maturity and respect.

To achieve this, we must strive to assure all citizens that they will share in the benefits of economic development.

Our domestic food production industry is one sector of the Canadian economy which will require special attention in 1968. Our food products are not sharing in Canada's economic progress. Farmers continue to sacrifice the benefits of economic progress by providing food at a lower real price and by releasing resources from farming (including a labor force) for other economic development.

The current, unprecedented, low prices for most farm produce have eliminated virtually all hope of a favorable and fair income for 1968, in spite of increased volume. As a result, farmers, both large and small, will continue to leave the land.

This increasingly large migration will result in further demands upon our manpower-poor cities. The need for housing in population centers will be further aggravated, as will the demands for increased services, manpower retaining programs, etc.

This farm exodus will also create a vacuum in the rural communities leaving the service-out bureaucrats to be borne by fewer people.

Consumers should be concerned with the problems as it affects the maintenance of an adequate supply of food available at moderate prices, provided by efficient producers.

Farmers, themselves, of course, are the key to this nation's agricultural future.

The New Year affords them an opportunity to organize toward a determined effort to share this nation's affluence. Canadian farmers must take the initiative in becoming actively involved in marketing to secure themselves of returns which will enable them to modernize, expand and increase the efficiency of the productive process. The food industry continues to be the backbone of society We must not let it turn into a wimpering We expect government to initiate developmental policies which will increase agricultural planning for the co-ordination of production, marketing and pricing.

Our young nation will continue to face the winds of change. As citizens we must use our collective imagination to guide these changes for the benefit of society. We must not allow any of our people to become victims of change.

The law of 'the survival of the fittest' needs to be tempered in any civilized society.

D D C!

There's another course coming up in this area, which is more or less outlined in this issue by way of an advertisement and a news release. Is it just another course, some entertainment for those who make course taking a kind of semi-pro hobby? Or does a Defensive Driving Course stand for something more important and worthy of consideration by all the people who drive?

Authorities are convinced that the DDC stands for the most comprehensive, relevant and soundly-based driver retraining program that is available today. It is aimed at traffic accident prevention, and offers every licensed motorist a standardized method of improving his driving ability through practice of professional safe driving techniques. The program, like the one being offered at Sedgewick this month is aimed at the local community level and is presented to drivers by Safety Council trained instructors. For a period of eight hours (two hour sessions twice a week) groups of not more than 25 who want to improve their driving skills will learn the techniques of defensive driving. Since the program was instituted three years ago, over 500,000 licensed motorists across North America have been trained. Over 4,500 of these were trained right here in Alberta.

Here in Canada the program is to be extended. Australia and New Zealand are planning similar programs on a massive scale. The evidence of the need for DDC is unmistakable. It is filling a vital need for a brief but effective safe driving education. The people in this area will have the opportunity this month to receive training in DDC. Take advantage of the opportunity.

Safe Driving Weeks seem to fail in reaching any kind of achievement in cutting down traffic fatalities, and the death rate continues to climb. There is little doubt that the main causes of this is inability to drive properly, and the ignoring of traffic regulations. If we ever hope to decrease the number of lives lost on the roads, drivers must first learn the fundamental rudiments of driving, and be taught a desire to adhere to regulations. DDC can do this for you.

Widening Gap!

In the month of Christmas, and the last month of Canada's Centennial year, it was perhaps worth remembering that with all our problems — divisiveness, inflation, taxes, housing, pollution and the rest — Canadians continue to be among the luckiest people alive.

The world of 1967 68, we need constantly remind ourselves, is a world made up of a minority of rich, prosperous and advanced nations on the one hand and a majority of poor, depressed and underdeveloped on the other. And the gap between the two, far from narrowing, is becoming even wider.

The world's population is increasing every year by more than 60 million people, three times as many as there are in the whole of Canada, and most of them are being born in the have-not countries. At the same time, the death rate from epidemic and endemic diseases is being cut even among those people (estimated at at least one-third of the world population) which suffer from malnutrition — Industry.

The point is made with devastating force in a recent Insitute of Actuaries study, quoted in the current Mercer Actuarial Bulletin; The richest part of the world (North America, Europe, Oceania and Russia in Asia), with 30 per cent of world population, is increasing by 1.3 per cent per annum; the remainder, embracing the other 70 per cent of total population, is increasing almost twice as fast, by 2.4 per cent.

More than 90 per cent of the world's output, is produced by the well-off 30 per cent of the world; the same countries do the bulk of the trade in manufactured goods. The effect, notes Mercer, is to virtually isolate 70 per cent of mankind from prosperity, reasonable living standards and human aspirations.

What it all adds up to is that despite the foreign aid program to which Canada and the other affluent nations are subscribing (at a rate approaching one per cent of annual income), the rich minority is getting richer and the poor majority poorer. The imagination boggles at the consequences for the future of mankind if this latter trend is not reversed.

Capital investment, technical know-how and educational development on a vastly more heroic scale than anything yet undertaken are absolutely basic to any real solution of this most awesome of all human problems. Whether they will be forthcoming in time and where they will come from are questions of our age transcending all others.

HARD NUT TO CRACK!

No one who was in Toronto during British Trade Week could doubt that Great Britain is deadly serious about improving its trade. It was salesmanship of a high order. A country that can mount such a promotion should be able to sell its own people on the necessity of hard productive work to improve the economy. But there is not much evidence that the British working man has been convinced.

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

by A. W. E.

As I sit here typing out this column for the operator, school buses are leaving town to take children home. It is 1:30 in the afternoon, and we wondered why. Later we looked out the window (needs cleaning) and saw snow flying all over the place. Storm warnings are out and as a precaution against being stranded in snowdrifts, the kids were sent home.

Of course, as in all cases, this memories of my own school days when we plodded to school in any kind of weather, and when the mercury got way down and the wind howled right through the old chool building, we huddled around the hot air registers in the S. E. corner (Assembly Room) and carried right on with our lessons. When one dared to suggest that we better go home; better to freeze there than in a school, the teacher would remind us that we were pioneers and would just ride out the storm. Of course it was things like that which made our democracy what it is today.

Times change though and today many children come from the farming areas by bus, and a stranded bus at dark could be dangerous. A dose of precaution is better than a surgical incision.

January 3rd, 1868, marked a new era locally. For better or worse, the Flagstaff area is now a County, and elected Council and school administration will be assimilated into an unit. As we understandable, there were protests against the change. In reviewing a copy of the Press for 1877, I noticed a column where school boards were protesting the formation of larger divisions and municipalities were protesting the same thing. All seems to have worked out fairly well during the years, and Alberta has not suffered too much educationally or municipally, unless you want to consider the loss of local autonomy. Now a-days of course the governments are paying a good portion of the cost and I would imagine in so doing they demand a good share in administering policy. We probably won't suffer too much under the County System of government either, and once we get accustomed to it things will proceed much the same as they always have.

CANADA FACES WORRISOME TRENDS

Canada is heading into a period of keen competition on the world scene.

This is a good time to remind some of the passages in the Third Annual Review of the Economic Council of Canada which focused attention on some of the anxious trends.

"Rapid increases in some prices and costs have become a matter of general concern in 1967 . . . General price and cost increases are running somewhat in excess of those in the United States . . . They are therefore tending to erode the international competitive advantage of some Canadian producers."

Finance Minister Sharp referred to some of these worrisome features in his budget speech.

"The chief obstacle I see to our attaining stabilized growth in the next few years, "he said, "is the danger of excessive increases in prices and costs. Our record in the past two years has deteriorated."

He went on to say: "If unchecked, such increases in cost and prices must lead to . . . a worsening of our competitive position in vis-à-vis the United States. This would impose a serious restraint on the growth of Canadian industry."

There was nothing in the budget speech to indicate the trend would be altered toward ever higher government spending.

Rising government spending is bound to lead to higher taxation which can hinder our economic advance and trade position.

Liberalism A La Mode

OTTAWA — Will the next Prime Minister of Canada be a French-Canadian?

This is perhaps the root question Liberals must answer as they prepare for their April leadership convention.

By custom or tradition, or perhaps just by accident, the Liberal Party has alternated between English and French - speaking leaders.

After Alexander Mackenzie came Edward Blake, and Blake Laurier; Laurier begat King, King begat St. Laurent, St. Laurent begat Pearson.

Now Mr Pearson is leaving and the problem of choosing a successor will perhaps be the greatest test of the Liberal Party since wartime.

Every Canadian has an interest and concern in what the 2500 Liberal delegates do at their convention, because the new Liberal leader will auto.natically become Prime Minister of this country.

But Mr Pearson has left no heir apparent. There is no strong leader from either parts of Canada who can count on the full-hearted support of the majority of Quebec delegates.

This is the basic dilemma of Jean Marchand, the Quebec leader and Minister of Manpower. It's a dilemma shared by many members from Quebec

Mr Marchand, who will be a key element in the Party's decision, would like to carry on the tradition of alternation to bring a French-Canadian into the top political post.

But at the moment there just isn't anyone available. All the leading candidates so far are from outside Quebec, and Mr Marchand is not overly enthusiastic about any of them.

There is reason to believe that the tradition of alternation would not stand in the way of support from Quebec for an English-speaking Canadian, especially if he is bilingual and sympathetic to Quebec's aims.

Such a paragon has not yet emerged, however, and that is why Mr Marchand asked the Quebec Liberal caucus to refrain from open campaigning for anyone until the end of January.

Quebec Liberals are holding a convention in Montreal at that time. By then, Mr Marchand hopes to have tested the field and perhaps even to have found a candidate that most of the 700 Quebec delegates to the leadership convention can support.

The Quebec caucus, of course, is not the tool of any one man, even of Jean Marchand. Many members have already committed themselves privately to support Paul Martin or Paul Hellyer, or Mitchell Sharp.

Some of the Quebec members in fact feel that the tradition of alternation should be laughed. "The next Liberal Prime Minister should be English-speaking to deal with English Canada on constitutional reform," one Quebec member of Parliament said.

But another insisted there should be a Quebec candidate "or we'll look just like the Tories."

Quebecers are not likely to rally unanimously behind any candidate, any more than they did at the Conservative leadership convention.

But Mr Marchand and other ministers like Maurice Sauvé hope that at least a consensus can be developed, that a majority of Quebecers can settle on one candidate to whom they will give their full support.

Even if that candidate does not happen to be a French-Canadian, they would like at least that he would be bilingual.

That would narrow the field pretty effectively to Paul Martin, John Turner, Jean Marchand, the Justice Minister Pierre Trudeau, or some outsider whose intentions or availability are still unknown, like former Quebec Revenue Minister Eric Kierans.

Mr Marchand is not particularly interested in the job for himself. He may run however, if no other Quebec candidate appears on the scene.

There is a fairly widespread view here that Mr Trudeau will not run, and that Mr Marchand would be defeated if he runs. This is a danger and a dilemma.

A humiliating defeat for Mr Marchand could have a serious effect on party unity and on his own prestige.

Quebecers don't wish to leap too quickly, and that includes Mr Marchand. They don't want to back a loser, as they have done too many times in the past. What they want is dispersal their power over too wide an area, and they don't want to back someone who will carry Quebec hill lose this rest of Canada.

More and more of them are looking to the 46-yearield Justice Minister, Pierre Trudeau, to cater the race. In spite of his reluctance, his lack of political experience, they imlel a wave of support could be created for him right across the country.

Mr Marchand and Mr Trudeau will no doubt be having several serious conversations before the Montreal convention. They may not be able to solve their dilemma. There may be no one available to rally Quebec opinion.

In that case a compromise may be in the works. Mr Marchand may put his name forward. Then if his chances of winning appear light, he may withdraw and attempt to transfer all his votes to a more likely candidate. What would that be? Well, preferably someone who would not rock the boat too much, someone bilingual, someone who could win the next election, someone known to be in sympathy with French-Canadian aspirations, someone who

In reviewing the cost of crushing, Mr Likness estimated that the average cost was 83.7 cents per cubic yard in 1967. He has suggested that in his opinion the Council had considerable amount of gravel in stockpiles and therefore should perhaps cut down the gravel crushing program in the following year.

A telephone call was received for Reeve Blatz. After the call, Reeve Blatz advised the Council that Mr Gerald Oberg of Forestburg informed him that he had received the Centennial Medal and requested him to extend his thanks and appreciation to the Council in recommending him for this award. He would have liked to express his appreciation in person but due to icy roads was unable to attend the Council meeting.

Mr Roy Mohlmer from Westest-Rascor Ltd. met with the Council for a brief moment. He informed it that Mr Patterson is back with the firm. The photographs of the Council taken by Mr Patterson in the earlier part of the year were distributed among the members of the Council. After extending compliments of the season, Mr Mohlmer withdrew from the Council room.

Members of the Council who had attended the Annual Convention of the Alberta Association of Municipal District and Counties reviewed the highlights of the convention. They stated it was one of the best conventions that has been held for some time and it was very well attended. Another resolution of major importance to all Municipal Districts and Counties was also passed requesting the amendment of the Pipeline Act whereby a pipeline parallel to the road shall not be located nearer than one hundred feet to the boundary of the road without the approval of the local authority concerned.

In regards to Rural Road Study carried out during the past year, the Minister of Highways informed the delegates of the convention that there will be less funds available for expenditure in the provincial coffer for the ensuing year. An attempt will be made to commence the program outlined under the Rural Road Study on a priority basis.

A letter from the Bridge Branch Dept. of Highways, summarizing the inspection carried out on bridge requests for 1968 and its recommendations was read.

Correspondence was received from Marathon Realty Co. Ltd. advising it would accept Council's offer to purchase 2.06 acres for road widening along the west side of Sec. 15-43-11 W4 for the sum of $103.00.

The minutes of the Agricultural Service Board meeting held on November 16, 1967 were read with District Agriculturist, Mr L. G. Williams, Camrose and Agricultural Fieldman, B. M. Lee, present.

Some discussion followed with respect to Bangs testing program and drainage problems in the Heisler-Forestburg area. The Agricultural Field man, Mr Lee advised the Council that since the Service Board meeting he had contacted Clr. George Matthews and with his consent and permission from the private owners of land a trail was brushed along the Battle River in the Harlitzy area for the purpose of providing better access for the control of Leafy Spurge.

District Agriculturist Mr. L. G. Williams of Camrose, outlined the types of drainage services and the services that are available through the Dept. of Agriculture to the farmer at his request free of charge information with respect to wells is also available on request through D. A. Offices.

The representative of Allis-Chalmers Ltd., Mr Webb, met with the Council for a very brief moment and asked them to keep their company in mind when considerations are being given for purchase of new road building equipment. He then withdrew from the Council room extending the compliments of the season.

The secretary reported that the application to crush and stockpile gravel on SE 36-42-10 W4 under the Stockpile Incentive Program was approved by the Provincial and Federal authorities on November 9 and 13, 1967, respectively.

Councillor Lein advised the Council that he was unable to get in touch with Mr Art Falla, who had prepared a brief resume on the operation of the Municipal District of Flagstaff No. 62 from the Beginning of the small municipal districts to this date, which in turn is to be inserted in the Diamond Jubilee Book being prepared by the Association of Municipal Districts and Counties. He agreed to contact Mr Falla before the next meeting, December 20, 1967.

Several inquiries and comments were received with respect to the fees being paid to election officials.

After a review it was moved that the fees for Deputy Returning Officers and Poll Clerks be raised from $10 to $15 per day retroactive to cover the December 2, 1967 municipal election.

The secretary-treasurer of Flagstaff - Beaver Auxiliary Nursing Home and Hospital No. 30 advised by letter that Mr A. Raad's term of office in Ward No. 1 expired on October 31, 1967.

Bible Today

Plans to expand Bible translation and distribution programs were developed during the annual meeting of the Advisory Council of the American Bible Society.

Dr. Eugene Nida, executive for translations, told the council that "in no other place has there been such a growth in the Christian church" as in Africa. The problems in Africa are accentuated by the fact that many sects have splintered off from the main bodies of the church. Consequently there are now some "4,000 African churches which carry the name of Christ."

Many competent African churchmen are eager to serve on translation committees. "Nearly half the membership of the translation committees is made up of African," translations there.

A vacuum cleaner has been purchased for the church and a 13-piece dinner set will be purchased also for the board table at special banquets and weddings.

There will be a free "Ladies Auto Clinic" held in Camrose January 15, 16 and 17.

A letter will be posted in the back of the church.

The meeting adjourned with Mrs G. Lensch assisting the hostess.

Mrs Bohme won the attendance prize. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs W. Hochhausen on Sunday afternoon, February 4th.

said Dr. Nida. The Bible or portions are available in 450 of the 800 languages spoken in Africa, so that the Scriptures are within reach of "about 70% of the population."

Bible translations in 70 different languages throughout the world are going forward with some "measure of co-operation" between Roman Catholics and the predominantly Protestant Bible Societies. Catholics in all the language areas of the globe have proposed co-operative translation efforts. A new Arabic Bible now being planned will involve co-operation of the Orthodox Churches as well as Catholic leadership. Bibles in eight languages in the Philippines have asked to cooperate with the Bible Society in their translations there.

In Memoriam

In memory of Ray Leslie Stark, passed away January 11th, 1967.
One year has passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away;
God took him home, it was His will,
Within our hearts he liveth still.
Thy will be done seems hard to say
When one we loved has passed away.
Some day perhaps we'll understand
When we meet again in that better land.
Sadly missed by: Maurice, Gwen and Family. 31 1 c

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Doris Walker who passed away January 13, 1967.

A wonderful wife and mother, woman and aid;
One who was better, few indeed were made,
A wonderful worker, loyal and fair,
Tenderly helpful, O mother you were.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by all, our pride they share,
Yet we shall love you more than there.

Jo-anne, Darrel, Janice and Jack. 31-1-p

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Louis Johnsgaard, who died January 14, 1963.

Have you ever lost a loved one?
Someone who has gone beyond recall?
Remember there's a heaven
Waiting for us all.
So let's prepare to meet them
On that other shore,
Where all will be joy.
Yes, joy forevermore.
Where we shall meet our loved ones,
Friends and neighbors, too
On that great tomorrow
When our journey is through.
So as we travel onward,
Let us do our best,
For we shall live with Jesus.
If we pass the test.
When the day seems sad and lonely,
And the ache hard to bear,
Just call on Jesus only,
Come in earnest prayer.
He'll make your load seem lighter
And guide your steps each day.
Yes, call and He will answer
And lead you all the way.

—By Helen T. Black.

Ever remembered by loving wife Clara. 31-1-c

Lockhart-Rancier Vows Pledged at Killam Baptist

Killam Baptist Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on November 4th, 1967, when Wilma Maureen Lockhart, only daughter of Mr and Mrs Wm. Lockhart, became the bride of Norman Douglas Rancier, youngest son of Mr and Mrs James Rancier of Killam. Rev. Love performed the double ring ceremony, assisted by Rev. Curran.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin Bridal March, rendered by organist, Mrs Yvonne Lockhart.

A traditional white wedding gown, featuring full-length taffeta skirt with lace overlay and a court train attached at the shoulders, was worn by the charming bride. The dress also consisted of a fitted bodice with sequin trim and lily-point sleeves. She wore a finger-tip bouffant veil with rosette bead-piece and carried an exacting bouquet of deep red roses with rosebuds on white streamers falling at different lengths over the flowers. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

Attending the bride were Mrs Jean Seaman, matron of honor, and Miss Sharon Golden as bridesmaid. They were identical gowns of floor-length Gaille blue fitted taffeta, with chiffon organza overlay, featuring high neckline and full-length sleeves. They wore white headpieces and carried bouquets of pink and white carnations.

The bride's gift to the attendants were cultured pearl pendants.

Groomsmen were Norman Bergeron and Wayne Heap. Ushers were Robert Lockhart, Robert Rancier and Murray Golden.

Soloist Mrs Love rendered "Together Life's Pathway We Tread", during the signing of the register.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs Lockhart chose a two-piece lace suit in dusty rose. She wore a corsage of tan roses. The groom's mother wore a one-piece dress of jade green. She chose black accessories with a pink corsage.

A wedding reception was held in the church basement for 125 guests. The bride's table was centered by a magnificent four-tiered wedding cake, baked and decorated by Mrs A. Nobel of Nobel's Bakery in Killam. This was the gift to the bride from Mr and Mrs Nobel. Tall blue taper flanked the cake on either side. Mr Gordon Rancier acted as M.C. Mr Ralph Sorenson proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom duly responded. Miss Marilyn Golden was in charge of the guest book. Mr S. A. Sorenson spoke a few words of admonition to the happy couple. Duets were rendered by Betty Lewis and Jean Sorensen; also Rev. and Mrs Love.

For a wedding trip to Victoria, the bride donned a two-piece knitted wool suit in burgundy wine with black accessories accented by a rose corsage. Upon their return they will take up residence on the groom's farm north of Killam.

Out of town guests were from Hamilton, Ottawa, Victoria, Saskatoon, Gwynne, Calgary, Two Hills, Pomika, Camrose, Alliance, Ermonton and Lougheed.

POLYNESIC

Man has yet to invent a perfect fiber, and rayon was no exception. In the first place it couldn't be mercerized and secondly, it didn't have good stability in laundering and dry cleaning.

Research and development programs began and resulted in the production of high-we-modulus of POLYNOSICS. In essence, polynosics are viscose rayons that have greater strength when wet than regular viscose. Though more stable than regular viscose, polynosics aren't as absorbent. Their manufacturing process was first developed by Japan in 1938 and later acquired by European and American textile interests. The trademarks Avril, Lirelle, Nonvon, Vincel and Zantrell all belong to the same family or generic name polynosic.

Polynosics are used alone or in blends with natural or man-made fibers for all kinds of woven or knitted fabrics for all manner of apparel and household uses. High strength yarns are used for tire cord and other industrial uses.

Your major confrontation with polynosic fibers will likely be in Under-Current, the 1967's Avril Rayon listing. It is 100% machine washable or dryclleanable — no preshrinking needed. It is available in two finishes, crisp or soft, and over fifty fashion co-ordinated colors in ready-made garments you will most likely find polynosics in blends with other man-made fibers, for example, nylon. Care for them fabrics you use would for rayon (or according to the fiber with which it is blended — CHECK LABELS FOR INSTRUCTIONS).

In blends with cotton, polynosic fibers enhance the fabric's qualities of crease-resistance and ease of care.

Wednesday night emphasis was upon the Lord's Prayer from Matthew 6: 9-13, in line with the fact that this past week was Universal Prayer Week. The Thursday night Women's Missionary Society and the Friday night youth activities were cancelled because of the inclement weather.

Sunday morning attendance was down because of the cold weather. The subject of the morning followed the Prayer Week emphasis with the sermon, "The Prayer Life of Jesus", taken from Luke 22:39-46.

Sunday evening the church cooperated with other churches in Killam in the Inter-church Sex Education program. Dr. C. A. Douglas Ringrose was the speaker. A number of families attended.

Thought for the Week: We forgive, but insist on "reserving an opinion", but when God forgives, He forgets!

Killam Couple Have First Camrose New Year Baby

A nine pound and eleven ounce baby boy was born to Mr.and Mrs. Raul Beairsto of Killam, in the Misericordia Hospital at Camrose on the 2nd of January, to become the "New Year" Baby of Camrose.

Mrs. Beairsto is the former Julie Grant.

Mrs. Beairsto had been transferred to the Camrose Hospital on the same day from the Killam General.

It seems that the honor brings with it a large display of gifts from the merchants of Camrose.

Flagstaff Council Asks For Dist. Youth Director

The regular meeting of the Council Municipal District of Flagstaff No. 62 adjourned on Wednesday, December 13, 1967 reconvened in the Council Room of the Municipal Office, on Wednesday, December 20, 1967, commencing at 10:15 a.m.

The Secretary advised the Council that Mr Arnie Lee's Commissioner for Oaths, expired December 31, 1967 and applications have been received for renewal. He also informed the Council that Mr Grant Cherem, Assistant Secretary-Treasurer, applied for Commissioner for Oaths and, that on numerous occasions Mr Lee is away from the office, it would expedite matters if the Assistant Secretary was also Commissioner for Oaths for the Municipal District.

Moved that Mr Brian Lee's application for Commissioner for Oaths be renewed and that a new application for appointment of Grant Cherem, Assistant Secretary- Treasurer, be submitted to the Attorney-General's Dept.

As there were several inquiries about the tax rental fee on polling places for election, it was moved that the rent of polling places for the municipal election be increased from $10 to $20 for each building that is used for this purpose.

The committee plans to deal with Vendenwoude for the months of October and November were read and approved.

Mr D J Bossard, District Engineer, Vermilion, Alberta was published a detailed report on the Municipal District's 1967 Regular Road Grant Project.

A photostatic copy of the report had been mailed to each Councillor and as a result the report was accepted.

A copy of a letter was received from the Deputy Minister, Dept. of Lands and Forests, advising that consent had been given to Calgary Power Ltd to enter on SE 11-46-13 W4 for the purpose of constructing a power line right-of-way.

The Provincial Planning Director advised that the application of the Town of Killam to provide nuisance ground on NE 18-44-13 W4 consisting of four acres has been approved.

Correspondence was received from the secretary of the Battle River Tourist Association advising that it would like to have one of its directors or Mr Les Strange of the Alberta Tourist Association meet with the Council sometime early in the new year.

The Public Utilities Board advised that an order had been issued approving the rural telephone rates of the South Killam R.E.A. A certified copy of the order was enclosed.

A circular letter was received from the Jubilee Insurance Co. Ltd. informing the municipal districts and counties have the first call on monies arising from a claim under a fire insurance policy when taxes are due on property insured by the policy. The insurance company as soon as possible after notification of the fire loss and proof of same, shall by registered mail notify the municipal secretary of the municipality in which the insured property is situated and the secretary within ten days after receiving such notice shall inform the insurer by registered mail of the full amount of taxes due in respect to the parcel of land and improvements which have been damaged or destroyed by fire. The insurer will then pay to the municipality a sum not exceeding the amount of taxes due.

The Dept. of Public Welfare forwarded a letter advising that its department chose not to provide Christmas bonuses to their social allowance and social assistance recipients, the reason being the decrease in interest through the year provided for both a Comfort Allowance, as well as, household incidentals, and, therefore, the extra allowance was considered unnecessary.

Another letter was received from the Chairman of the Alberta Emergency Measures advising that the annual conference with municipal officials to discuss the Emergency Measures Civil Defence Project in Alberta will be held at the Capri Motor Hotel in Red Deer on the 8th and 9th of February, 1968.

The secretary advised the Council that Plots 9 and 10, Block 10, Plan 3678 P are vacant property of the Municipal District of Flagstaff No. 62.

Football Scores Feature Hardisty Hockey Tournament

If scores mean anything the Hardisty Hockey Tournament last weekend was a big success. The results sounded more like basketball scores in the girls' game of the afternoon the Hardisty Stampeders trimmed the Vermilion club soundly to the tune of 22 to 4. Only a small crowed witnessed this game, which was really a better exhibition than the score indicates.

Wetaskiwin failed to show and to replace this game at the last minute. Dick suffered an injury in the final game, getting hit in the face with a flying puck.

Combines

The final game of the evening pitted Hardisty against the Combines, in a game which produced some good hockey and a fairly close score 7 to 2 for the Stampeders. A nice crowed was on hand for the final game.

Refereeing for the day was Dick Masters of Sedgewick, who consequently was hired as Hardisty's referee for remaining home games.

Next weekend sees Hardisty's team from the Eastern League took on the Provost-Macklin Combines in a game which ended 13 to 5 for the

Teen Showoff Drivers

A show-off driver is one of the greatest problems on today's highways. He seems to be doing his best to give all young drivers a bad reputation as drivers. It's these show-off drivers that raise the insurance rates of the careful, average drivers. He hopes everybody will think of him as a courageous daredevil who is afraid of nothing. By attempting to appear a superior driver, he tries to cover up his ignorance and often an inferiority complex which he suffers.

A show-off driver, no matter what age, has not yet grown up enough to understand his place in society as an adult. He has failed to realize what kind of a picture he presents in the minds of others when his tires squeal while peeling rubber from an excessive rate of acceleration, braking or turning. He ruins an expensive transmission, peels countless miles worth of rubber off his tires and, above all, endangers the lives of every pedestrian on the street.

As long as these show-offs driving cars, thousands of innocent victims will die each year because these show-offs want to be thought of as heroes. Everybody is a potential victim There is no sure way to stop all show-off drivers. After accident "cures" do not help the victim, therefore prevention is the best way. First, we can learn what makes a show-off tick and the kind of driving to expect from him. Then we can show no emotion to his show-off antics unless it is contempt. Tell him he is only showing his ignorance. He doesn't enjoy close calls any more than you do because the nervous system reacts violently against any recognized threat of its own destruction. If he claims that he was aware of the danger and isn't afraid, then he isn't telling the truth. A show-off driver is not feeble-minded or ill. He just doesn't know better, but the time to learn is now before his foolishness kills someone. — Central High Driver Education Student.

Canadian Unity!

At the outset of a new year is a good time to discuss unity in Canada. So-called English Canadians have been asking for years just what it is that Quebec really wants. According to one editorial writer, they now have been handed their answer. He goes on to say in fact that Quebec wants to feel at home from coast to coast in her own country. They want their culture, language, heritage and economic asperations to be respected and recognized throughout the country. That is fine with us. They deserve respect.

But following the years since Confederation, Quebec sat contentedly nursing and nourishing her heritage and her language, spending so much time in these matters, that English speaking Canadians and foreign interests moved in to develop the province of Quebec economically. While this has been going on for many years, it was not until about 1960 that Quebec residents woke up to the sour fact that they were simply workers, not planners, pioneers and managers of their own province. This is the emotional aftermath that is driving Quebec forward today. All interest is lost in the fact that the rest of Canada developed Quebec to a far greater extent than the residents themselves, and played a great part in making that province what she is today. Separatists think now that the only honorable way for Quebec to find her place in the sun is to go it alone, for they feel that English Canadian language, values and economic exploitation will eventually drown them. Rubbish.

How far is the rest of Canada ready to go to accommodate Quebec aims? Are they willing to teach French as the true second language across the country from kindergarten to university? Are they willing to establish French - speaking schools where there is a concentration of French residents? Are they willing to spread a French language radio and television network across Canada to promote understanding of the French fact? The answers to these questions will have a great bearing on unity in Canada in the years immediatly ahead

A Good Project!

From January first and on through the month, resolutions are being made, and broken, good intentions are cast aside in favor of urgency, and old habits continue to control. From the individual realm to national signifance, one of the finest projects for this year would be "No strikes in '68".

There is no denying that a large part of the impairment of economic well-being during 1967 is chargeable to strikes, detrimental not only to those who strike, to employers deprived of workers, but to the general public who suffer from slowdowns. Everyone in Canada who is employed at the present time, is getting a pretty fair living wage, and a year's vacation from strikes would make them better situated and the country more prosperous than it has ever been before in war or in peace.

Our problem is not lack of work, not a shortage of workers, nor a lack of materials or a demand for finished products. The base root of the problem is man's insatiable demand for more for himself, and his disregard for the welfare and rights of others. Eliminate this and prosperity will reign. These are two good projects for 1968.

Special Weeks!

It has been often stated that society is cluttered up with so many special weeks that soon every week in the year will be special something or other. Actually special weeks, generally do not mean a thing to the average influence on his personal behavior

Fire Prevention Week last during the same period in 1968. Safety Week saw just as many accident on the roads and just as many deaths as a result, as occurs during any normal week in the year.

While this is true, it is nonetheless that better work habits, more supervision and proper care could and would prevent most of our tragedies. But this will not be done by establishing special weeks for everything under the sun. It is a personal thing wherein certain rules of health and life must be observed every day in the year. It simply resolves to the individual in self-education and respect, not only for his own life, but for the lives of others. Governments and organizations cannot control many of the enemies of mankind. They cannot be controlled in this way, but the answer is simple, for you cannot control people. They must control themselves.

Receiving and Getting

While we were quite generous with all our plaudits to the weather man during the past summer and fall, we are now just as generous with our condemnation of present conditions. It seems inevitable that the process of receiving and of getting, while sounding like the same thing, have different results. When we have fine and acceptable weather we are receiving something which brings joy to all concerned, but when the situation is reversed and the weather is foul and cold, we are getting something, not acceptable. We receive and we get. But Albertans have learned to roll with the punch and take both in stride.

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

There's an old saying that when conversation lags you can always talk about the weather in Alberta that is especially true for one never knows from one day to the next what it will bring forth. I went to bed one night with the temperature at 16 above and got up next morning to 35 below. The next night I went to bed with a 30 below reading and wakened to 8 degrees above. Just how you reconcile a thing like that is hard to figure. Just the same weather is an interesting subject, and comes in for more discussion than the tax situation.

All you have to do is mention weather to an old timer, and sit back and listen to tales that young people today simply wouldn't believe Like going down to the mines for a supply of coal; a 40 to 50 mile round trip, sleeping in a cold bunk house and eating frozen food, shovelling through snow drifts. You didn't ride the wagon. You walked or you froze No big, fast trucks in those days. It was all done with horses and wagons and usually involved a two or three day trip. It hasn't been many years that things faster and faster until fifty is the bottom as fast it pulled the salt out of the wall. It was then he knew it was going to be cold. The next week it started in snow and when it finally let up he had to chop a hole in the roof to get out.

While on the subject of weather and cold, the old belief that frost bite was best remedied by rubbing the frozen portions with snow has been discredited by medical science. They say this does absolutely no good and that the thing to do is get into a warm place and thaw out as quickly as possible. Another old custom falling by the wayside, a victim of progress.

Other Editors Say

POLITE STEALING

Ottawa and Quebec continue to pocket employers' overpayment in the Canada and Quebec pension plans. Revenue Minister E. J. Benson virtually admits that the first year total runs to several millions.

Ottawa's high-handed withholding of employer overpayments hits hardest at the small firms, precisely those least able to afford what amounts to a discriminatory tax imposed without specific approval of Parliament.

Currently, the two governments don't make refunds to employers because this would reopen the private superannuation of employees. That's fair enough. But the government could easily return employer overpayments on a non-name basis and now that it is known the amounts are sizeable, the duty to do so promptly becomes urgent.

Some firms might question the government's accounting of amounts returned or be upset to discover they were unwittingly sharing with others, the services of some employee. But the harvest majority will take a government's word and be more than satisfied to have their money back.

Softening the Blow — There is more than a trace of 1930s trouble and dust bowl days in current talk about prairie drought, the Financial Post comments. The 400 million bu. crop now predicted will be far below recent averages and less than half of last year's record high, 844 million bu. There are, however, factors which should alleviate the drought's effects on individual wheat farmers and the whole economy Canada should not find it hard to meet its wheat sale commitments and returns from wheat exports should hold up fairly well. Buoyant methods of wheat marketing spread out the payments made to farmers and tend somewhat to average out the effects of exceptionally good or bad years. Under present marketing methods, a drop in your wheat crop is a severe misfortune, not a national disaster. Granted a break next year, there is good likelihood that Canadian wheat farmers will come through in good shape and the economy benefit accordingly. says the Post. Don't, in brief, sell the prairies short.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

A Flag For The Bull!

OTTAWA—The possibility that a degree of anti-Americanism may rear its ugly head as an issue in the otherwise pick-th-besman Liberal leadership campaign is causing concern.

For the first time President Johnson's guidelines to Americas companies hold the possibility of forcing them to impose American policy and regulations on Canadian subsidiary companies in Canada. Until now these guidelines have been voluntary and where they ran counter to Canadian interests parent companies in the United States have ignored or modified them. Now they are largely mandatory.

It is true that Finance Minister Ilsimaf Sharp has stressed the necessity for such measures and has expressed the opinion that they will have little adverse effect on Canada but there are uncertainties and possible misinterpretations.

To add to this the task force of university professors h a s completed its report to the Hon. Walter Gordon's Cabinet committee on foreign control of Canadian industry and preliminary indications of its contents indicate a strong anti-American tone and some drastic recommendations. In another two weeks it will be in the hands of Mr Gordon and his committee. The original plan was that after studying it the committee would report to Cabinet which in turn would make public a White Paper outlining Government Policy.

Now Mr Gordon is belie f ed ready to have the report itself made public and discussed by candidates during the leadership campaign. If it is as strong as early reports indicate Trade Minister Robert Winters who refused to serve on the Gordon committee is likely to oppose such a course. As author of the Canadian guidelines for Canadian subsidiaries of foreign parent companies he and his department have made an independent survey of their behavior and have found nothing lacking in good corporate Canadian citizenship.

Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp is serving on the committee but probably with the idea of acting as a moderator of Mr Gordon's more extreme ideas. He will be no more anxious than Mr Winters to provide fuel for a flame which, in any event, may be kindled by the new U.S. guidelines.

American parent companies will now be required to limit flows of capital to Canada, Britain, Australia, Japan and the investment of undistributed profits in subsidiaries (excluding capital cost allowances) to 65 per cent of the average investment in 1965 and 1966. The American report that investment in these years averaged $1.539 million in Canadian subsidiaries which means that they would be allowed a total investment this year of about $1 billion.

Capital spending on plant and equipment by Canadian business generally in 1967 was no more than in 1966 and this year there will be a decline so that the new allowance may not require any drastic adjustment of plans but it raises the question of what subsidiaries will be expected to do with the undistributed profits which appear to have provided in the neighborhood of $1 billion a year for re-investment. If these funds were all repatriated by the parents in the form of dividend payments — a practice which Washington would like to see followed — it would be a serious blow to Canada's balance of payments position.

The President's statement, however, appears to have left some flexibility here. He says the program will require companies "to bring back their earnings to the United States in line with their own 1964-66 practices". Dividend payments in these years have averaged a-round $700 million a year.

The clash between Ottawa and Washington is more likely to come in the field of exports to competitive markets where American regulations are aimed at increasing U.S. trade by at least $600 million a year If U.S. parents are required. as it seems they will be, to enforce trade policies on their subsidiaries there will be direct conflict.

Mr Winters guidelines to good corporate citizenship in the spring of 1966 called on these subsidiaries to take advantage of every opportunity to sell in export markets. The Trade and Commerce survey shows that to date that U.S. subsidiaries have been making a good case for their claims in the export markets then Canadian controlled companies. If the new American guidelines force parent policy on subsidiaries and destroy this record Ottawa will undoubtedly have something to say to Washington on the subject.

But the task force report goes further than this. It calls for a regulatory body that would supervise these companies to make sure that they exploit opportunities in the Communist market.

Canada has held as firmly that a subsidiary operating in Canada is subject only to Canadian law and has an obligation to follow Canadian policy. Any White Paper which might emerge as a result of the Gordon task force

POLYESTERS

Polyesters were developed primarily for competition. Producers wanted a counterpart to their TERYLENE was the first to appear. When Du Pont obtained the patent, they produced the United States equivalent which is caller DACRON. Besunit Fibres markets their polyesters in Canada under the name VYCRON; Celenese Fibres Company, FORTREL, and Eastman Chemical Products, KODEL. From abroad we find DIOLEN and TRE VIRA, both Landen Germany; and Italy comes TERITAL; from France, TERGAL; and the Netherlands TENELENE.

It all ads up to confusion on the consumer market. Not so, if you remember that all are POLYESTERS. And they are big news this year in the textile field in the form of double knit fabrics.

What do they offer you, the customer? The resistance of this fibre to sunlight and its sheerness and crispness combined with fundamental stability make this one of the most desirable of all fibres for curtains. Of all synthetics, it is the easiest to wash and to dry. It is widely used in blends with natural fibres for all kinds of fabrics, particularly those give durable press finishes (35% cotton, 65% polyester, very popular). Drecron-wool mixtures (particularly 55% wool, 45% Dacron) are especially into the most widely used fabric for men's higher-quality summer suitings. Here the permanence of crease - retention, resistance to wrinkling, the ability of sweat-wrinkles to hang out overnight, and the coolness of the fabric make it very acceptable for suits and slacks. Polyesters are used alone or with rayons and cotton in lightweight fabrics for all sorts of year-round apparel. In 100% form, polyesters can be electrostatic and thus are objectionable as lint magnets. Due to the build up of electricity neopod surfaces pill. KODEL resists pilling.

Polyesters have industrial uses as well. They also have invaded the sports and recreation field Sails and ropes of DACRON are vastly superior to cotton both in durability and ease of handling.

The same polymer used to produce fibres can be cast as transparent film. Marketed under the name MYLAR it is most widely used in the sandwich construction of today's metal yarns. You won't find impossible to tear or break the form in outdoor furniture, and carpage. It is also used in photographic film.

Flexible polyester tubing is used in surgery to replac eneiurat tubular structures such as arteries. Both polyesters are said to be inferce damaged tissues. Those uses emphasize the non-allergenic nature of POLYESTERS.

report would be likely to make this point in words that Washington would quite understand.

But to implement or even officially make public the demands of the Gordon task force in connection with Communist trade would be deliberately to wave a red flag before all the bulls in Ottawa. If the report in its present form were made public and Libs.ral candidates confronted, one of whom will be Prime Minister of Canada for a time at least, were required to take a stand the bull's reaction might be very unpleasant for Canada and result in a serious deterioration of Canada-U.S relations which are largely built on a mutual policy into the most widely used fabric for men's higher-quality summer suitings. Here the permanence of crease - retention, resistance to wrinkling, the ability of sweat-wrinkles to hang out overnight, and the coolness of the fabric make it very acceptable for suits and slacks. If the Sharp-Winters voice carries it seems probable that a good part of the report will be toned down and the whole thing kept under wraps until after April.

Flagstaff Council Asks For District Youth Director

By-law No 410 authorizing the purchase of sufficient land to straighten out the winding road on existing road diversion through NE corner of SE 33 and through NE 33-49-10 W4 and that payment for the land so required be made at the rate of four times the average assessment of the land per acre, was presented and approved.

Secretary advised the Council that about a year ago the Home Oil Ltd. had requested the Council to survey a road along the west boundary of NE 28-49-9 W4 and cancel the existing road registered on Road Plan 1166 E.O. and 768 E.U. and agreement was reached whereby the cancellation of the road running through the said quarter be deferred until such time that the newly proposed road is registered. This has now been done

Moved that the resolution requesting the cancellation of these portions of the 66-1 road shown as registered Road Plan Nos. 1166 E.O. and 768 E.U. contained within the NE quarter of Section 28-49-9 W4 be approved by this Council.

Correspondence was received from Canadian Utilities Ltd., advising that they have checked the side anchoring power lines from NE 3-49-13 W4 north to Strome and agree that some are too close to the road surface. Furthermore they agree that with the improved drainage following the road work, a number of these anchors will not be required.

The company is proposing to make additional guy lines and remove the anchors that might be required, and where the lines are firm they should be used, then they would appreciate the Council's advice as to where they could be located. They suggest about ten feet off the road surface.

The secretary was instructed to advise the Canadian Utilities Ltd. that the Council cannot accept any anchors to be located on the road allowance as it creates a hazard to traffic and is a constant hindrance to maintenance and snowplowing of roads and general upkeep of the road allowance itself.

The secretary advised the Council that after contacting the surveyors, he was informed that the survey of the road through N 1/2 11 and S 1/2 14-43-11 W4 was not completed as they were very busy throughout the summer and fall seasons. The survey involved the complete relocation of the pegs and will cost in the neighborhood of $800.00. Because of the higher costs the surveyors suggested that this survey be carried out under the Winter Works Program.

As a result the application was approved to carry out the surveys under the Winter Works Incentive Program as listed below.

A suggestion had been made by one of the Fire Chiefs that if he Municipal District supplied the necessary forms for the construction of a 1000 gallon water compartment in conjunction with the septic sewage tank, this would induce the farm residents to construct this compartment and thus provide sufficient water to combat any fires which may occur on the farmstead. After a brief discussion, the Council expressed the opinion that this would not be feasible. In most cases the compartment would be too far away from the rest of the buildings and then it would be more costly and it would have to be constructed below the dagger of frost levels.

The secretary advised the Council that some inquiries were made to have a District Youth Director for this area and as the Council is contemplating constructing a new office administration building, it should request the Minister of Youth for a District Youth Director for the County of Flagstaff No. 29 advising him that office space could easily be provided for a District Youth Director.

Moved that the Council submit an application to the Minister of Youth for a District Youth Director for the County of Flagstaff No. 29 and that provision be made in the plans of the construction of a new office administration building for the County to include office space for him.

Time was spent in discussing the snowplowing of driveways for resident rural ratepayers. The policy, as set in previous years was finally adopted with raises to be charged at $6.50 per hour with a minimum charge of $3.00.

Correspondence received from Peter Fischer re moving fence and back-sloping was brought before the Council and the Reeve agreed to contact Mr Gartner in this respect.

A letter was received from the Canadian National Railways advising that it is prepared to accept the sum of $75.00 for .35 of an acre required for roadway in SW 2-43-13 W4 being a subdivision of the Village of Forestburg. In addition the Municipal District would have to assume the cost of relocating any fences, pole lines and other facilities that may require relocation.

In view of the above request the amount seemed to be rather high and Cllr. A. C. Bussey was delegated to interview the owner of the SE 2-43-13 W4 to make arrangements for extra land for a road through his quarter section.

The agreement for gravel stockpiling on SE 34-48-16 W4 between the owner of the said land, L. K. Berry of Halkirk and the Municipal District of Flagstaff was read to the Council and the Reeve and secretary-treasurer were authorized to execute the said agreement to the terms stated therein.

The secretary advised the Council that the sale of land by public auction under the provisions of the Tax Recovery Act was held on Monday, December 18, 1967 at 2 p.m. Only one parcel of land containing 1.5 acres was offered for sale. However there were no bids or offers on this parcel. All other parcels of land advertised for sale by public auction previously have been redeemed by payment of all arrears of taxes and costs, prior to the sale.

It was moved that the Reeve or Deputy Reeve and secretary-treasurer be authorized to pay any outstanding accounts arising after the Council meeting which in their opinion considered urgent before the end of this year.

The secretary advised the Council that he had received a telephone call from the secretary of the Killam School Division No. 22 stating that representation from the said school division had been made to the Dept. of Municipal Affairs with respect as to who should call a meeting of the representatives appointed by the towns and villages under Section 10(a) of the County Act for the purpose of determining the system of representation of the towns and villages on the school committee pursuant to Section 16(b) of the said Act. They were informed that a meeting of these representatives be held before the statutory meeting and the two secretaries got together to call this meeting. This was later verified and after meeting with the school secretary a meeting of the town and village representatives was called for Friday evening, December 29, 1967 at 7:30 p.m. in the school division office.

The Reeve stated that this being the last meeting of the year, and also the year in which the Municipal District of Flagstaff No. 29 ceases to be as such on December 31, and becomes the County of Flagstaff No. 29 after the first of this year, he would like to take this opportunity as a special occasion in expressing his thanks for the cooperation he had received from each member of the Council, office staff and other employees of the Municipal District during his term of office, including the various committees of the season.

Moved that the Council meeting of the Council of the Municipal District of Flagstaff No. 62 adjourn at 5:15 p.m. for a light snack and presentation to the retiring Councillors A. Sorensen, A. E. Morgan and B. F. Gilbert Jr. from members of the Council, office staff and other employees who contributed toward the presentations.

Stolen Cars And Accidents

By mid October this year, 23 stolen cars were involved in 185-6-run accidents in Edmonton.

Of 537 stolen cars recovered in Calgary during the same 8 month period, one in eight was found to be wrecked.

And in the United States, where 800,000 cars are stolen each year, an estimated 17 per cent of those wind up in accidents — often within hours of the time of theft. Sound grim?

According to the Alberta Safety Council, stolen cars have been identified as a significant factor in the traffic accident picture. And members of the three senior police forces in Alberta know most of this need not happen. You can help stop it, they say, simply by always locking your car doors and taking the keys.

In the opinion of Deputy Chief M. J. Dent of the Calgary City Police, auto thieves are a menace to every other driver on the streets. "The car thief is not a responsible person", he says. "Put him behind the wheel of a car belonging to someone else, and it is easy to imagine how it will be driven".

Staff Inspector George Mitchell, Traffic Division of Edmonton City Police agrees. "As a general rule," he says, "Police officers find that drivers of stolen cars disregard completely red lights, stop signs, or respect for other motorists who happen to be on the roadway."

"There is no question that in very many cases, probably in the majority of such cases, the theft is made easy by the vehicle being left unlocked with the keys in the ignition switch," says Supt. H. C. Russell of "K" Division, R.C.M.P. In 1966, 708 car thefts were investigated in areas policed by R.C.M. Police.

"Experience has shown that many motorists leave their cars unlocked with the keys in the ignition," says Staff Inspector Mitchell "This puts temptation in the way of some teenagers."

Ralph Cooper, Vice-President of the Alberta Safety Council and chairman of the Council's traffic safety committee, feels there are two points which motorists should consider about their responsibilities to others. "First, says Mr. Cooper, "Drivers are morally bound to recognize that they are making their of their cars relatively easy by leaving them unlocked. And second, leaving the keys in the ignition can put an irresistable temptation before people who have'nt yet formed responsible, adult habits."

"Remember next time you forget your keys, you might well have created a dangerous weapon into the streets, and you may have provided the means for tempting someone into getting a permanent criminal record," Mr. Couper declares.

"That we are not living up to this responsibility," says Calgary Deputy Chief Kost, "is evident by the fact that two out of every three cars stolen in Calgary were left unlocked, and in almost one of these three, either the keys had been left in them or they did not require a key."

Congratulations to Mr and Mrs Doug Mills of Provost on the birth of a daughter January 8th. Provost's New Year's baby.

A family dinner at the Louis Miller home on Sunday honored Mrs Estelle Miller on her birthday. Those present were Mrs Miller's daughters, Edith (Mrs Ray Marler) with her daughter Vonda (Mrs Blaine Clark) with her daughter; son Louis with his family, the only exception being grandson Dalton, who is working up north. Janice (Mrs Brian Marvious) brought her small son, Brian Jr. Pictures were taken of the four generations. The family presented Mrs Miller with a record player. Congratulations and best wishes to this grand old lady.

The Hardisty fire brigade was called to the Lan Tennis home on Friday evening about 6:30 when when their cook stove exploded. There was considerable damage to the interior of the house from the explosion, but neither Mr and Mrs Tennis were injured. The explosion is somewhat of a mystery as only wood was used in the stove.

FIRE ANTICS!

by A. E. BRIDGES
Alberta Fire Commissioner

"Fire department antics make interesting reading," says Stan Reid, the Central Alberta reporter for the Edmonton Journal. He was referring to the Red Deer Fire Department which responded to a house fire — extinguished it while the man who caused it slept on blissfully. It was a case of fast work by the fire department.

Burning up beds is a common affair. There are hundreds of bed fires in Alberta each year. It's not so much man's desire to keep warm in bed as it is to have those lost few puffs in complete comfort and relaxation. Too often it works out badly and it makes an awful mess of the bed and frequently raises the most unsightly blisters. People who cause fires don't always live to see the mess so there is very little actual experience to pass on to others — nothing left but hearsay evidence which is most times not credited.

Man is fairly ingenious so he should be able to figure out a less painful way to smoke in bed — for instance why not set up the bed in the swimming pool. Just have a rubber billow high enough to keep his head out of water — a floating ash tray and he would be well protected. As he falls asleep his head drops in the water — the cigarette is doused and we could guarantee no firy awakening. Of course, the subject might drown but after all isn't it enough to be sure we can claim this would save a man from death by fire. And remember a person just can't expect all fire departments to be as fast as Red Deer's fire department.

Doris Weeks Married at Killam Pentecostal

Killam Pentecostal Tabernacle was the setting for a pretty candlelight wedding on October 7th, when Miss Doris Audrey Weeks, daughter of Mr and Mrs James Weeks of Killam, Alberta, became the bride of Mr Kenneth Herman Johnson, son of Mr and Mrs Leonard Johnson of Hughenden, Alberta. The Rev. A. A. Lewis, assisted by Rev. E. H. Siggelkow, performed the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a slim sheath gown of metallic brocade dress with lily-point sleeves. The elbow length veil was held in place by a pearl and rhinestone tiara and she carried a white orchid surrounded by white sweetheart roses.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Alene Weeks, in a floor-length gown of teal blue brocade and she carried a bouquet of yellow shasta daisies. The flowergirl, niece of the bride, Miss Frances Wiens, was dressed identically to the bridesmaid and carried a miniature bouquet of shasta daisies.

The soloist, sister of the bride, Miss Margaret Weeks, sang "The Wedding Prayer". During the signing of the register, "I'll Follow God" was sung by Mrs Janet Eagle, cousin of the groom. The pianist was Mrs Elizabeth Taralson.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr Darrel Johnson. Ringbearer was Master Norman Weeks, brother of the bride. Ushers, Bernard Weeks and Roger Johnson, were brothers of the bride and groom respectively.

For the occasion the bride's mother was lovely in a two piece double knit suit of teal blue with bronze accessories and a corsage of bronze carnations. The groom's mother chose a three piece double knit suit in green with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses and white carnations.

An open reception followed in the lower auditorium of the church with Rev. E. Siggelkow as master of ceremonies. The toast to the bride was given by her brother-in-law, Mr Fred Wiens. Miss Lois Weeks, the bride's sister was in charge of the guest book.

For their wedding trip to Vancouver the bride chose a cape and matching suit of black and white houndstooth check with navy accessories. Her corsage was the orchid removed from her bouquet. The happy couple have taken up residence in Wetaskiwin.

HARDISTY SUNSHINE CLUB MEETING

The first Sunshine Club meeting of 1968 was held January 3rd at the home of Mrs Eleanor Lawson with Mrs Ada Lawson co-hostess. Twelve members attended.

It was decided to begin a quilt using nylons. Used stamps and old Christmas cards are also being collected for missionary work.

Thanks were received for Christmas fruit baskets.

Baptist Church

Once again another busy week has past. Monday evening a few of the families of the church joined other couples in the monthly Couple's Club. The place of meeting this month was the United Missionary Church in Galahad.

On Wednesday evening the pastor introduced the new topic for the next few Wednesday evenings: The Doctrine of God. After briefly explaining how we will look at the various doctrines, time was spent discussing various doctrinal positions in the church today.

Some of the men of the church have to do some curling. On Thursday they met at the Sedgewick rink and spent some time playing. A good time was had by all and the feeling was that it must continue.

Friday afternoon the Deacon Board of the church met for their monthly meeting. Following this meeting the Nominating Committee met and drew up the slate of officers for the coming year. On Friday evening the youth spent some time skating and then came to the parsonage for pizza.

The Sunday morning sermon was entitled "The Church Militant", with emphasis on the fact that the church is meant to be a force in the world through the individual believer. Sunday evening the film, "The World Catastrophe" was a shown and all who saw it felt the impact of its message.

Thought of the Week: The Church is a [illegible] place.

VanLoon-Bloomhagen Wedding Held At Forestburg Lutheran Church

Bouquets of mixed flowers formed the decor in the Lutheran Church, Forestburg when doubling vows were exchanged between Edith Ann Blumhagen and Robert Raymond VanLoon. Rev. Arne Jensen, Forestburg, officiated at the afternoon ceremony for the daughter of Mr and Mrs Ferdinand Blumhagen of Killam and the son of Mr Raymond VanLoon of Calgary.

Mrs Vera Olsen, Forestburg was the organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length Elypoint long sleeved gown of white lace over satin with a bonnet of white roses featuring a fitted bodice and round neckline. The gown was called Romance of the Roses. She wore a four tier veil of nylon with a petaled rose headpiece with scalloped edged veil.

A single strand pearl necklace and matching earrings, a gift of the groom, were the bride's only jewelry. She carried a bouquet of red roses interspersed with white mums.

Matron of honor was Mrs Agnes Kostriman, sister of the bride. Miss Linda Wilson and Miss Sandra Wilson, nieces of the bride, served as junior bridesmaids. Mrs Kostriman was attired in a floor-length dress of pink lace over taffeta with short sleeves, while the junior bridesmaids were in identical dresses in blue. Their headpieces were crowns of silver and white pearls. They wore three-quarter length gloves and matching white sleeves. They carried bouquets of mums. All wore a cross necklace, gifts of the bride.

Attending the groom was Ronald VanLoon, brother of the groom, and Douglas and Gerald VanLoon, also brothers of the groom. Guests were ushered to their pew by Gerald Blumhagen, brother of the bride, and Kenneth Eby, friend of the bride and groom.

Guests were from B.C., Alberta and Saskatchewan.

For her going away outfit the bride changed to a double-knit suit of red with navy accessories. She wore a corsage of white orchids.

ARMPITS AND YANKS

Just a few observations on life in general, this week. I have no particular theme in mind, but I will probably have emerged by the time we've finished this chore (me writing, you reading).

It's fashionable to attack the Yanks, as here goes. I think they're giving us a bum deal in marchandise. If I were a politician, my platform would be, "Let's fortify the border!"

Every year, we send them about six thousand of our best young artists of all kinds, university professors, engineers. Raise known as the Brain Drain. And every winter, we send them our rich people, hundreds of thousands, to bolster the sagging economies of Florida and California. And what do they send us? Draft dodgers.

Dear heaving. A lot of people are against it. Not me. In fact, if I weren't a teacher, I'd take a week off every fall and join the great slaughter of the deer.

Slaughter? There are 10 times as many people killed on the highways as there are deer in the bush. If I thought the species would be wiped out (deer, not people), I'd fight it. But the deer population is increasing, chiefly because there are so many lousy hunters.

I admit that no completely sane man goes deer hunting. Why would anybody go into the woods in the worst weather of the year, wind and snow, rain and blow, to wander through miles of swamp and slash, scrub and burn, dragging a dirty great musket and straining his heart to the bursting point, when he could be sitting at home watching a football game on TV?

Why? I'll tell you. Because it's the only place in the world where he can escape from committee meetings, a sagging wife, a shrilling telephone, and rotten kids with personality defects.

It's the only place in the world where he can get back to the primitive pleasures of man; rude jokes around the fire, a sense of companionship that has nothing to do with money or position; the foolof battle against the elements; th. absence of all stress except the physical; the eating of half-burned meals; the belching and breaking of wind; the dreamless sleep of an animal after a day of exhaustion.

The killing of the deer is unimportant. He has proved to himself, and George, that there's a little juice left in the old carcass yet, that he can take it without whining, and that he's liked for himself, not because he can do something for somebody.

This brings us, by a logical association of ideas, to modern thought. It's concerned with the very same thing, a man trying to prove himself. The deer hunter would laugh at the playwright, and the playwright would laugh at the deer hunter. Each would think the other was emotionally crippled.

I saw a play last weekend that would have made my father-in-law and mother's hair stand on end. Even though she wouldn't have understood it. It is called Fortune and Men's Eyes. Some of the language was straight off the walls of a public lavitory.

It's a play that will shock and sicken some people. And perhaps this is not a bad idea. It has guts and a macabre humor. But lavatory walls are a part of life. There's no sand to put under head in. Only the toilet bowl. And, while this is one way of washing your hair, it is not highly recommended.

This, again by a logical association of ideas, brings us to hair. Hair on head is good. We'll agree to that. The balding man suffers. The balding woman does a thousand doodles. Hair on legs is good if you're a man, bad if you're a girl. Some with arms. Chest? No opinions. How about armpits?

Armpits take us back to deer hunters, and deer hunters to draft dodgers, so the circle is almost complete.

And my students, when I give them an essay to write, say, "But sir, what can I write about?" Answer: If you want to be a writer, write.

The reason I'm a bit misanthropic this week is that it's snowing. I hate snow.

Danger in Fuel Burn Heating Equipment

OTTAWA — The Department of National Health and Welfare has issued a warning that homes and other buildings require adequate ventilation, even in cold weather.

Our inclination to keep all openings tightly closed when the temperature drops can lead to suffocation and death from carbon monoxide produced by fuel-burning heating equipment.

"This gas is highly toxic, in concentration, as well as being odourless," states Dr. T. H. Patterson, Chief of the Occupational Health Division. "It is therefore extremely dangerous and if inhaled can cause unconsciousness or death in a short time.

"Fuel-burning heating appliances have caused death by carbon monoxide poisoning in automobiles, trailers, cold weather fishing shacks, tents and other similar locations.

"It is not suggested that all such heaters are unsafe, however, but that the possibility of production of carbon monoxide should always be recognized. Badly adjusted or maintained equipment is always more likely to produce carbon monoxide.

"For this reason, it is always safer to ensure that enclosed spaces are adequately ventilated. The smaller the space, the greater the danger is likely to be.

"It is much better to prevent products of combustion from entering confined space. This also applies to automobile engine which should not be left running in closed garages."

KILLAM O. O. R. P.

The Killam O.O.R.P. held their first meeting of the year on January 8th in the Elks Hall with a good attendance. Mrs Lindseth capably took the chair in the absence of Mrs Rule, and welcomed Mrs Setterman of Heisler Lodge, who is now residing in Killam.

It was decided at a previous meeting to sponsor the Invermere and to present them with scarves.

Work will resume on the quilt, and a special meeting called for January 22nd.

Mrs Morgan and Mrs McTavish served a delicious lunch. The attendance prize was won by Mrs J. Fossen.

Strange Things Happen In Hardisty District

Two events at Hardisty during the past few days ended quite happily. Although either or both could have been serious had they ended in an ons would at first suspect they should.

The first was an explosion at the farm home of Mr and Mrs Lee Tomasin in the Hardisty district. It appears that the hot water tank on the kitchen range built up pressure to the point of exploding, and it did just that at 8:30 a.m. Just what Mr and Mrs Tomasin were doing up at that time of day in the dead of winter is something of a mystery, but we suspect it was the result of years of habit. The couple was sitting at the front room reading. Just as well they weren't at breakfast at that. Considerable damage was done to the kitchen area, and the last word we had Mrs Tomsin has things back in immaculate order.

The second event took place at the Herbert Rombough farm house south of Hardisty. Mr and Mrs Rombough woke up in the middle of the night to find a strange man standing at the foot of their bed. That in itself is enough to give any couple ulcers, but not knowing what his intentions were would cause ulcers to bleed profusely.

Herb followed the man downstairs, and in the meantime his wife phoned the trailer in the yard for help from the hired man. Well anyway the one man developed into two, and they asked the way to the Fred Gibbs' farm, and for some unexplained reason left without slightly bothering anything. They never did get to the Gibbs' farm.

Nobody knows who they were or what they wanted, but the Rombaughs spent an uncomfortable night.

Surely there are strange things done in the midnight cold, in the rural areas of Alberta. That's why we all stay here, just to see what's going to happen next.

Bellshill Social Society Meeting

The Bella Hill Social Society held their annual meeting at Bella Hill on January 13th with 18 members present.

President Don Fraser called the meeting and the secretary-treasurer presented the financial statement for 1967.

It seems likely to be a busy year with whist drives every two weeks during the winter and many other socials during the year, along with the annual community picnic in June.

They have repaired the chimney and installed a stoker unit on the furnace, which makes a great improvement.

Plans are being made for smoker raffle, as the boys are quite keen hockey and are short of funds again.

Gretna Goodwill Club Has Busy Year

The annual meeting of the Gretna Goodwill Club was held at the home of Mrs A. H. Armstrong on Wednesday, January 10th.

Owing to drifted roads and cold weather, there were only six members present, so the "Silent Sisters" were held instead of the "guessing game" or exchange "farewell gifts".

Mrs Mary Rombough, the secretary-treasurer, read the yearly financial report, which showed a favorable balance and a busy year for the members. Two auction sales were catered to and donations were made to Merna Church, Unitarian Services, C.N.I.B., Salvation Army, Provincial Hospital, Ponoka; Flagstaff Lodge, Killam and Hardisty Hospital.

The hostess served a delicious lunch and Mrs Metz was the winner of the lucky tissue prize.

PROSPERITY!

The Hon. Mitchell Sharp, Minister of Finance, said the other night in a panel discussion, that the attitudes of government in financing and spending had to be related to the economic situation at the time. This wasn't the way he put it exactly but it was the sum of what he meant. In making such a statement there is little doubt that the finance minister is also aware that maintaining prosperity can be an expensive enterprise, at least the kind that is being devised by governments today. For too many years now the nation's leaders have been operating under the theory that the sure way to keep the economy rolling along is to pursue fiscal and monetary policies that will keep plenty of dollars in the hands of everyone. It must be, or should be apparent that eventually inflationary policies will produce inflation, which in turn means simply a false prosperity in the land and a decline in confidence in the dollar outside the country.

Now, when results of economic folly are becoming painfully apparent, governments are beginning themselves and predicting a lessening in spending, along with an increase in taxation. Whatever the economic merits of these proposals may be, tax increases amount really to a punishment against the very people who were encouraged in the recent past to join governments in spending the country to record wealth.

The private citizen who may have prospered even without government help now faces the prospect of being taxed for maintaining prosperity. Governments of course will say this is not punishment but a patriotic call to one and all to support government in an effort to ensure continued prosperity. After all prosperity is such a wonderful thing that we all should be willing to pay a high price for it. The bills are now falling due.

A CRAZY POSITION!

With living costs going up and up there is a more widespread public interest than ever before in controlling government taxing and spending. A great deal of this public interest centers on social security, health and welfare measures. This is understandable, since so much government spending occurs in this area — about $6 billion in 1967 at all three levels of government, according to C. J. Harris.

A comment was made recently on the subject by Harvey Perry, a member of the Carter Royal Commission on taxation. Government, said Mr. Perry, had proceeded on the basis that being young, old or in ill health were all equally dreadful disabilities and must be ameliorated by financial help from the state, whether the recipient was poor or a millionaire.

"How did we get into this crazy position and how do we get out of it?" Mr. Harvey asked in a speech to the Canadian Tax Foundation conference. A feeling persists that what really needs to be done through state-supported programs in the welfare field could be lavishly provided with half the money we are now spending. In spending as in taxing, government has just been muddling through, but the time has now arrived when we must have intelligent co-operation between levels of government to bring about rationalization of spending programs. Canada faces a difficult problem with the really tough job of making allocation between the whole range of outlays running gamet of education, health, welfare, transportation and all the rest of government services and it must be carried out from now on by some procedure far more dispassionate than battles within cabinets and feuds in federal-provincial conferences.

In this regard, one important step in reform would be an immediate and complete overhaul of social welfare programs, for if half of that $6 billion annual bill could be saved, that would appear to be the first step.

HELP FOR HEART VICTIMS!

Victimes of heart attacks often regard themselves as semi-invalid and tend to avoid all kinds of exercise. It appears now that a regulated exercise may be the fastest way to recovery, and research underway could lead to effective exercise programs for cardiac people.

A grant of $16,000 to a research team in Ontario, is just one of twenty announced this past week by the Dept. of National Health and Welfare. The research will help to determine the effects of a 24-week graduated exercise program on clinically healthy and post-infarct men as part of the continuing study.

A research team has been involved for some months in the study of the effects of exercise on clinically healthy persons & on cardiac victims and reports are encouraging, especially for males 35 to 50 years of age. Approximately 60 men, half clinically healthy and half post-infarct patients (an infarct is a type of heart attack caused by a blockage of blood to the heart) are subjected to a carefully controlled and graduated exercise program. Comparison is made between condition early in the program and at the end. Tests range from simple medical examination and blood sampling to treadmill exercise, oxygen consumption analysis and heart-rate recordings. It all sounds encouraging for heart victims.

To believe that those who advocate separtism speak for a majority of the people of Quebec, or even a respectable minority, is to believe that Premier Daniel Johnson, opposition leader Jean Lesage and their parties are out of touch and bent on political suicide. This is not a sustainable belief.

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

— by A. W. E. —

When the tax on liquor was raised just prior to the festive season of last yea, a person of my acquaintance made the remark that the country was in bad shape when they started raising the tax on necessities. This of course is just a preamble to what I realy want to say.

It is almost a custom whenever there is a sales tax increase or a boost in excise tax for the politicians to warn that manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers must not hike prices prematurely. "We will not permit unconscionable profits to business; we will not permit the public to be mulcted" the phrases go. But it would appear that when governments are in business things are quite different. On a bottle of Canadian whisky $2.31 goes to the province, $1.85 to Ottawa and 85c to the distiller. And too, when the tax is increased it takes effect right now. Likewise with tobacco and cigarettes. The tax goes up today, the retail price goes up the next day. Wherever the tax goes down (heaven forbid) it takes a month for the new price to catch up to new stocks. So in the end one can only conclude that nobody really cares just so long as the consumer pays the shot.

Was reading the other day where a judge ordered a student to be reinstated, and said in part: that a state cannot force a student to forfeit his constitutional right of free-dom of expression as a condition of his attending a state supported institution.

From where I sit nobody's freedom of expression has been harmed. This seems to be the only right that is absolute. Nobody likes discipline and every body wants to eat his cake and have it too. People want to break their oaths and stay in their positions; student editors want to flout the rules of the school and stay in school, and then the courts say their rights have been violated. Any leader the country is in a heck of a shape. From the highest to the lowest the slogan is: We can do it to you, but you must not do it to us. Or as Shakespeare said: It is all right for my ox to have sharp horns.

FARM FERTILIZERS MAY BE KILLERS

An American biologist at Washington University in St. Louis has raised the question whether nitrogen, used now in prodigious amounts to grow more food, also could be harming health.

He said it is well known that nitrogen products from farms and from city sewage plants (such as in Calgary) — can overfertilize lakes. This can change nature's normal balance in ways that had not been predicted, such as a pressure type of growth that slay plants or suffocation of game fish from lack of oxygen (as in Lake Newell).

Nitrate from nitrogen is usually harmless in the body, he explained. But under certain conditions, bacteria in the intestines can change nitrate to nitrite.

If nitrite reaches the bloodstream it can decrease the ability of haemobinbin to carry oxygen. This could lead to insufficient oxygen, particularly in babies, causing a pale blue appearance, or even death.

The biologist said a study by scientists from the University of Missouri has found that some commercial baby food — beets and spinach particularly — contained as much as .4 per cent nitrate nitrogen. This means that a baby consuming a two-ounce jar would receive more than three times the safe amount of nitrate nitrogen daily.

These studies bear out to some extent the fears of sober-minded citizens in the careless and indulgent use of fertilizers — and pesticides — by farmers in the western world.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Coup De Grace!

OTTAWA — The final death blow was administered early in January to the Carter Royal Commission on taxation by the provincial treasurers meeting with Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp.

The Federal-Provincial Finance Ministers' conference was an extension of their conference held last November. At that time they adjourned to wait Mr Sharp's mini-budget and to hear from the Finance Minister the Federal Government's reaction to the Carter tax reform proposals.

In his budget Nov. 30, Mr Sharp made it clear that the Federal Government was anything but enthusiastic over the Carter proposals. He rejected the two main pillars of the Carter Commission plan for rationalizing the tax structure.

Scrapped by Ottawa have been integration of corporate and personal tax and the comprehensive tax base.

The Provincial Treasurers had been promised an opportunity by the Federal Government to discuss the Carter report and submit their views before Ottawa prepares its White Paper on tax reform. The Treasurers got that chance at the Federal-Provincial meeting this month.

They appealed to the Federal Government to state its conclusion and make its recommendations for reform as soon as possible in order to ease the uncertainty in the business world. They got an answer from Prime Minister L. B. Pearson almost immediately.

He said that proposals for the reform of the tax system would not be presented to Parliament until the new session after the Spring of 1968. The tax reform proposals devised by the Federal Government will be a major item of parliamentary business for the new session under the leadership of the new Liberal Minister.

Mr Pearson pointed out that next summer is the new session there will also have been time for the wide range of policy issues involved by the new Liberal administration. To this end, he said, the Finance Department, National Revenue and Justice Departments will carry forward to a further stage their detailed work on the proposals for tax reform in the light of the various considerations which have been raised in the many submissions to the Government.

Not all the Carter Commission is dead. Its emphasis on equity and neutrality in the tax system may be implemented. There remains room for Ottawa to adopt some of the proposals in the Carter Commission such as taxation of the family unit and generous averaging.

The Federal Government's tax reforms will not necessarily be based on those which the Carter Commission has recommended. Mr Sharp has protested that it is not to state that he has in effect "killed" the Carter report. He argues that while Ottawa will be modifying the tax system Carter will have an important role to play in having some impact on the Government's proposed reforms although the Carter Report will not now provide the basis.

All Provincial Treasurers were not enthusiastic for the Carter proposals. They were agreed that it would have a detrimental effect on the formation and distribution of capital. However they conceded that its impact on the economy as a whole and on the social structure was not known.

There is strenuous opposition in the Western provinces to the Carter recommendations concerning the resource development industries.

Manitoba also made a special study of the effect of the Carter recommendation of small business. The study showed the Carter report would be 'disastrous' for the small family shop and the small business of which there are many on the Prairies.

Saskatchewan undertook to assess the implications of the Carter Report on the agricultural industry. Agriculture is still Saskatchewan's dominant sector and is a significant factor in the health of the nation's economy.

The study carried out by Saskatchewan showed there would be a substantial increase in taxes on Saskatchewan's farmers if the Carter Commission proposals were adopted. Saskatchewan Provincial Treasurer David Stewart said it was evident that the Carter Commission failed to grasp the problems of the farmer and the nature of his farming operations.

"It is obvious that the relevant sections of the report were written by persons familiar with accounting rather than farming," he said the Minister. "While the implementation of the Carter proposals on agriculture might be a windfall for accountants it would be another blow to the farmer in terms of increased taxes and the costs associated with a complicated accounting system to calculate these taxes."

Saskatchewan— backed up by Manitoba — said it considered the Carter proposals on agriculture completely unacceptable at a time when the farmer is already caught in a cost-price squeeze.

Most Provincial Treasurers supported the position of the Ontario Minister that the Federal Government will not proceed with the tax system proposed by the Carter Commission. The Treasurers agreed that the practical and sensible approach should be present tax structure.

This was the coup de grace for the Carter Commission.

Prime Minister Pearson with his subsequent announcement that his measure in the next session of Parliament would be bringing forward tax reform of his own making shelved the Carter Report into the shelf where it will gather dust along with many other Royal Commission: Tubbed and filed — Rais.

ACRYLICS

The development of acrylic fibres was prompted by the shortage of wool. Du Pont started work on acrylic fibres as early as 1940. Their initial discovery, Fiber A, was named ORLON in 1948 and production began in 1950. Originally a continuous filament, ORLON is not available except in staple form today. In this form, it is perhaps the most wool-like staple amongst today's synthetics. Other trade names in the acrylic family are ACRILAN, CRESLAN, ZEFRAN and COURTELLE. Production methods may differ, properties may vary slightly but in essence, they are all ACRYLICS.

For wearing apparel, Orlon is usually used for knitted wear, such as sweaters or scarves. It has been used in blends with wool, rayon and other fibres for coatings and heavy suitings. Knitted jerseys of Orlon have wide acceptance due to their ease of care and the ability of the fabric to hold its shape.

Household applications of Orlon include blankets and rugs, also blends in upholstery fabrics. For draperies, awnings, tents, tarpaulins, tops for convertibles, and similar sun exposure applications, this fibre is superior to almost anything else on the market.

As far a scansumers are concerned, a list of uses of ACILAN closely parallels that of Orlon. Acrilan seems, however, to have played a more significant part in the rug and carpet industry and in blending with wool in men's suitings than has Orlon. It is claimed that Acrilan is somewhat less prone to static electricity than is Orlon. This would possibly account for its wider use in blankets. COURTELLE is Britain's acrylic c ounterpart. Whereas Acrilacn is used in relatively inexpensive garments, Courtelle has worked its way into high quality merchandising; e.g., outerwear industry. EXLAN Japan's counterpart, is used primarily in the sweater industry.

Acrylics have gained importance in the textile world due to their bulking characteristics (who ever heard of bulky knit sweaters before Orlon?), their ease of dyeing (they take brilliant, fast colours) and their softness of hand. They are characterized by easy care washability, except for deep pile fabrics or artificial fur fabrics, which should be cleaned by fur cleaning processes, unless labelled washable.

The Bible Today

The tropical sun had not yet had time to disperse the mist in the early morning darkness around the modest chapel built near the top of a mountain on the outskirts of Dalat, the neighbor-hoods of South Viet Nam.

The simps chapel, bedecked for the occasion with arrangements of coloured paper and a Bible verse (II Timothy 3:15) painted upon a banner stretched across the front, was overflowing as the hour for service came. These people had come in joy for the dedication of the New Testament in their own language.

There is a Christian community of about 10,000 people now among the 90,000 Koho tribes-people with 63 churches and 61 trained pastors.

In 1954 the first translation of a portion of the Bible in the Koho language was completed and the Gospel of Mark was mimeographed for use in teaching and preaching. Translation work continued through the year, hampered at times by the influence of the Second World War and the fighting that followed in Viet Nam. The manuscripts were mimeographed as each case until 1956 and 1957, when the church having grown to several thousands of people, the Gospels and Acts were printed in Toronto by The British and Foreign Bible Society followed by Genesis in 1959 and Romans in 1961.

With the introduction of specific, on-the-spot linguistic help for translators, those involved in the Koho translation program became very eager to apply this new knowledge to their work This morning they held in their hands beautifully bound copies of the Koho New Testament They watched the eager faces and outstretched arms at the close of the service when the Testaments were offered for sale

Johnson-Roggensack Wedding at Sedgewick

St. John's Anglican Church, Sedgewick, was the scene of a pretty wedding on September 30th, 1967, in which Ardice Lynn, second daughter of Mr and Mrs Glen Roggensack of Lougheed, became the bride of Hubert Charles, only son of Mr and Mrs Elmer Johnson, Sedgewick.

Rev. Morton performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs F. Blumhagen of Killam, organist for the wedding, played during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of pink organza over nylon, with a matching pink shoulder length veil, which hung from a pearl droplet crown. She wore a bouquet of pink pendent with matching earrings, gift of the groom. She carried a lovely bouquet of talisman roses.

Attending the bride were Miss Doreen Roggensack, as maid of honor, and Miss Mervin Korth of Edmonton, as bridesmaid. They wore floor length gowns of turquoise peau-de-soie and carried bouquets of roses and white carnations. Their accessories were pearl drop pendants, gift of the bride.

Attending the groom were Mervin Korth, cousin of the groom, and Larry Blumhagen, brother-in-law of the groom. Both came from Edmonton. Usher was Robert Roggensack, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs Roggensack chose an emerald green crepe dress, with black accessories. The groom's mother wore a grape rayon crepe dress, with gold accessories.

Following the ceremony, an open reception was held at the bride's home. Approximately 150 relatives, friends and neighbors attended to wish the happy couple good luck. The bride's table was laid with a hand crocheted tablecloth made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs Helen Roggensack. In the centre of the table was a three-tiered wedding cake, baked by the bride's mother, and decorated by the groom's sister. Pink and white streamers and bells hung from the ceiling, decorating the area where the bride, groom and their attendents were seated. Master of ceremonies, Mr Ian Burden of Lougheed proposed a toast to the bride, to which the groom responded. Miss Carol Parliament, close friend of the bride from Marvel Hairdressing School, Edmonton, was in charge of the guest book.

Also in attendance were Mr and Mrs Ted Erickson, Killam, and Mrs Helen Roggensack, grandparents of the bride. Acting as grandmother and grandfather for the day, for Hubert, were Mr and Mrs Richmond and Mr Fred Sparrow of Sedgewick. Special thanks to both for being so kind.

For her going away outfit, the bride wore a two piece blue figured velvet suit with black accessories. The happy couple are residing in Edmonton, where the groom is attending N.A.I.T.

Baptist Church

On Friday evening a good crowd gathered at the church for a fellowship supper Though it was potluck, a good variety of food was available and everyone enjoyed the fellowship that was present around the tables. To give the ladies a rest the men volunteered to serve and clean up after the meal. A short time of reporting followed in preparation for the annual meeting on Wednesday night. Also Miss Shirley Heartberg was presented with a gift of money, which she will find useful in her year with God's Invasion Army. She left Sunday morning from the Edmonton International Airport for Yucaipa, California, where she will join the rest of the group.

The regular Wednesday evening studies are continuing in the subject. The Doctrine of God, looking last week at The Nature of God.

On Sunday morning the sermon was entitled, "The Greatest Thing in the World", taken from I Corinthias 13, with the emphasis upon love.

Sunday evening the same subject matter was discussed further, with the sermon entitled, "The Love-Life for the Self-Life".

Thought for the Week: "To love abundantly is to live abundantly".

SUGAR AND SPICE
by Bill Smiley

HAVE A GREAT '68

Whatever you want most in 1968, I hope you get. But don't count on it. There's nothing much you can be sure of except those old reliables, death and taxes. And with the government taxing us to death, the twain will soon be one.

When you're young you're going to be most as age, and each new year is filled with promises and hope of new experience, new adventure. As you get older, the years begin flipping past like the pages in a book, and you realize the new is going to be pretty much like the old one.

There'll be wars and rumors of wars. There'll be one child after another. There'll be race riots and protest marches. There'll be a raise in V.W fare. Some will be lichied to the world hockey playoffs. And a lot of the other old inevitables will be there: higher taxes and lower morals; shorter skirts and longer hems; louder music and softer ballins; more people and less housing; great political promises and minuscule political action. And so on. Make your own list.

On the personal level, the picture is about the same. If you're a man, you're probably going to lose more hair and gain some girth, pick up another ache or two, grow a little more grouchy or pompous and wonder loudly what the hell the world is coming to.

If you're a woman, you're probably going to lose some shape and gain a chin, pick up a few furrows in the face, grow a little more bossy, and nudge your husband another degree toward an early grave.

Whatever your sex, if you're over 30 you're going to find that a little more of your get-up-and-go has quietly got-up-and went.

But don't worry about that. Gird up your loins, seize fortune by the forelock, spit in the face of fate, get some horsaan shots and face another year with courage, dignity and bunnits in both shoulders, like me.

For, whether we like it or not, we happen to be living in one of the most exciting times in human history. Many of us often wish we could be living in a simpler age, when black and white, right and wrong, were clearly established, Alas, we ain't.

But perhaps, when we feel a twinge of regret, we should also remember that in them "good old days" it was every man for himself.

The rich were richer and the poor were starving. The strong grabbed from the weak. The white used the black as all animal. The mentally ill were swept under the carpet. And clients were crowded with denizens.

Now, today's technological advances are frightening, but (sacrilege) you wouldn't going to the moon. Personally, I don't want to be on the first scheduled flight, but the very idea is staggering in its reflection of man's eternal curiosity and ingenuity.

But even more exciting, in my opinion, is the social revolution that is sweeping our world. Modern man is examining himself as he never has before. He is literally picking himself up by the heels and shaking out a rumbly, long-held secrets are revealed as soppy-cock, rigid dogmas are shattering like shards.

It's all though an ancient, musty attic, piled with valuable antiques, had had its roof blown off, and a fresh, clean wind had blown away the must and dirt and showed most of the relics for what they were — junk.

Today's society is, perhaps for the first time ever, concerned with being its brother's keeper. We are trying to do something about our weak and our poor and our old. Prejudice and thoughtless are still with us, but they are attached rather than institutional.

Divorce, abortion, homosexuality and mental illness have been dragged out of the shadows and into the light. Capital punishment is almost obsolete.

Mind you, it's painful. The whole process of growing up is always painful. But I don't want to live in ancient Greece or Elizabethan England. I'm A.D. 1. I want to live in 1968 and see what happens. How about you?

LEST WE FORGET. Now that winter has battered Canada from coast to coast, let's sit back and utter a loud "thanks" to the people who made it possible for us to continue with our daily chores. Without their help a great deal of life and property would be lost. Although, we may blast them verbally for late arrivals, what could we do without them?

Municipal Council Has First Meeting As County

The first regular meeting of the Council, County of Flagstaff No 29, was held in the Council Room of the Municipal Office, Sedgewick, Alberta, on Wednesday, January 10, 1968, commencing at 10 a.m.

Councillors present were: Gus Johnson, Division 1; Arthur C. Bonnery, Division 2; George Matthews, Division 3; Russell Grant, Division 4; William Roth, Division 5; Henry C. Lien, Division 6; Reeve Alex P. Blatz; Secretary-Treasurer W. J. Leader.

The minutes of the regular meeting of the Council of the former Municipal District of Flagstaff No 62, held on December 13th and 20th, 1967, were read by the Secretary.

Some time was spent in discussing the minutes and acquainting the newly-elected Councillors on various matters that were recorded in the minutes.

The farmer policy of snowplowing driveways was explained by the Council. A suggestion was made that all duplicate charge-out slips and all payments for snowplowing be turned in to the office at regular intervals. Delinquents could be followed up with statements until the accounts were paid. The services of snowplowing driveways and access roads are to be rendered only after the school bus routes and roads used by traffic regularly are plowed out. After further discussion it was decided to retain the former policy with respect to snowplowing of driveways and access roads to granaries, as had been established by the Council of the former Municipal District of Flagstaff No. 62. The fee charged for this service would remain at $6.00 per hour with a minimum charge of $2.00. Payments to be made to the operator of the motor grader, who in turn is to remit amounts collected to the office and then individual receipts be forwarded to each ratepayer who had received the services and paid for them.

Clarification with respect to recommendations made by the Bridge Engineer on bridge located at S. W. 23-43-10 W4 were received. The Dept of Highways will supply and drive the piles for the construction of a 2—30 ft span bridge at its owncost The Municipality is to construct the bridge by supplying or paying for all material, excepting piles.

The Secretary advised the Council that Mr B Lee was contacted and he confirmed that Mr Weber's damage claim for 70 posts at 75c per post was justified.

The account submitted by Mr A. Weber in the amount of $25.20 for damaged posts was approved for payment.

Correspondence recieved last December from Alberta Tourist Association requesting for an appointment with the Council in the early part of the year had been tabled to the meeting for Council's decision.

The Secretary was instructed to advise the Association that the Council will be holding its next regular meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 14, 1968 and a cordial welcome is extended to one of its Directors or to Mr Lee Strange to this meeting.

The Secretary's report filed by Assistant Sec.-Treas., G. Charman, Fieldman, B. Lee and the Municipal Constable, P. Vanderwoude, had kept a close watch over Mr A Bisgazette with respect to the sale of hay cut on the marginally zoned land As a result a local farmer had made arrangement to purchase some hay from Mr Ringuette and on Mr Ringuette's instructions paid the amount owing ($200) to the County. The account is now settled in full.

The Council was informed that the applications for road survey under the Winter Works Program, listed on Page 192 of the minutes, Dec. 20, 1967, were submitted to the Provincial and Federal authorities for their approval. To date there was no reply

Mr L. I. Schuler, Salesman from Ferguson Supply (Alberta) Ltd. met with the Council and discussed briefly the general principles of the hydro-static transmission in motor graders. He was quite confident that the heating problem will be ironed out and that the model 404 grader will prove itself to be one of the best in the very near future.

The Financial Statement ending Dec. 31, 1967, was read showing a Bank Balance of $98,681.31 in Current Account; $22,675.46 in Savings Account, and $3,348.87 in Tax Sale Trust Account. In addition, the amount of $200,000 was taken out in Deposit Certificates drawing interest at the rate of 5 1/2 to 5 3/4% per annum.

A detailed statement of Revenue and Expenditures for the year ending Dec. 31, 1967, was read and indicated that several sections were overexpended, particularly the Protection to Persons and Property and Public Works sections. The Secretary advised the Council that some of the expenditure would be offset by supplies and stock on hand, but not enough to take care of all the over-expenditure.

Moved that the Financial Statements and Report be accepted by the Council as read.

The account in the amount of $154.60 submitted by Killam Transit Mix to E. Pederson, Proprietor of Killam Auction Mart, for supplying and gravelling the approaches to the said Market was in new estimates to the Council for a refund. The account was delivered for payment and Cr R. Grant was authorized to check with the former Councillor for verification of the work.

On suggestion of the Secretary, the Council agreed, on trial basis only, that the list of accounts presented for approval of payment to the Council be typed out and a copy of the list given to each member of the Council at the meeting for perusal Any doubtful accounts may be questioned, and if necessary, withdrawn from the list for further verification. The procedure would would expedite the passing and approval of accounts.

Full House As Lt.-Gov. Gives Address on Burns

In excess of four hundred people gathered at the Community Hall in Sedgewick on January 25th to hear the Lt.-Gov. of Alberta, Hon. Grant MacEwan give the address to the Immortal Bard.

In an "off the cuff" speech Mr MacEwan quoted frequently from the writings of Robbie Burns, weaving them into an interesting biography of the life and feelings of the writer. The witty and timely injections of the speaker throughout the address kept the large crowd interested and in a jolly mood. Mr MacEwan expressed his pleasure at being out in the rural area and the opportunity to meet people who make up this great province of Alberta.

The program, sponsored by the local Kinsmen Club, was of about two hours duration, and featured for the most part traditional Scottish songs and music. Walter Muir, top Alberta Piper, Jack Wallace and Doug MacIntay of Edmonton entertained throughout the program with bagpipe numbers, guitar and accordion, with the audience to join in with some of the singing.

Dancers from Edmonton performed the traditional Highland Fling and the intricate Sword Dance. The Central High Chorus sang several numbers throughout the show, showing in each a high quality reflected in the training received under the direction of Nadine McClements. Soloist for the evening was Mr Len Anderson of Hardisty whose talent and fine voice is recognized over a large area He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs Zwicher, also of Hardisty

For the first time the program was sponsored by the Sedgewick Kinsmen Club who carried on after sponsorship was dropped by the FUA. The Lt-Gov during his address paid tribute to this purely Canadian based service club and commended their activities across Canada The Club has started the Burns Night as another success, and already plans are being talked over for a bigger and better event next year.

Who Are We Kidding?

The hard-headed, rational, scientific generation — that's what we are. At least so we think. Let's stop kidding ourselves and get the picture clear; almost all of us act on what we feel, rather than what we know.

Consider two problems, constantly recurring, widely publized — the appaling number of fatal highway accidents and the rising incidence of lung cancer. Last year 4879 people died on Canadian roads. Every day, every weekend increase the toll. The major culprits in this slaughter, speed, reckless driving, alcohol, carelessness, mechanical failures, have been pinpointed again and again. But what do we do? NOTHING — except more of the same. We fight every device and restriction that would put a brake on our bad habits even though we know (intellectually) that we killed ourselves.

We are just as stubborn when it comes to lung cancer. It has increased here 10-fold for men and two-and-a-half times for women since 1981. The major cause has been thoroughly established — cigarettes. Sir George Godber, chief medical advisor to the British government estimates their death-rate will continue to rise steadily as long as, in his words, 'cigarettes are sold to a gullible public". Yet they (and we) go right on buying them; even a hefty jump in Canadian prices, and news that the retail markup is more than 100% has done nothing to slow sales. He also reports five times as many lung cancer deaths as anually, as from road accidents.

Every smoker has heard these facts. He knows he should cut the habit, but he has no intention of doing it.

If we don't want to go on killing ourselves in cars or in our own homes we'll have to internalize our information; get from the mind to the emotion and will.

National Disease!

We are a sick people. It would seem so from the contemporary Canadian scene at least. Everywhere is provincialism, division, and dissension.

We cry for statesmanship, and then make it impossible of achievement by constantly attacking the political leaders of both major parties. Whether they might be better is by the way—their successors will face the same hatchet treatment. How can any parliamentary chief bring effective thought to bear on national problems if he has to spend half his time in fighting? How can a government or an opposition function effectively when it is full of prima donnas all aspiring to senior posts? Obviously every decision is colored by, "where will this take me?", rather than by the problems in hand and the soundness of the proposed solution.

In other fields where leadership is crucial — the university president, the priest or ministry, the school principal — the same insidious sniping goes on, with the same disastrous results. The alternative is not blind acquiescence; the caucus of the Board, the staff meeting provide opportunities for vigorous discussion and searching questions. But a leader must be entrusted to lead, and once a policy is hammered out, there should be a closing of the ranks. He should be able to give his best to his primary responsibilities, confident that those with whom he works will loyally support him.

Anyone can criticize, but often those most vocal in eroding, are pathetically thin when it comes to creative planning and responsible action.

Majorities Are Dangerous!

Democracy is not the rule of the majority!

The popular opinion of the crowd can just as easily be stupid and cruel as it can be sensible and just. Mobs, for example, may kill or loot in a riot.

If Christopher Columbus had asked the crowd in his day, they would have told him that the earth was flat. Everyone thought that Galileo was mad to say the earth went round the sun when it was plain to be seen that the sun went round the earth. But Galileo and Columbus were right.

If a vote had been taken at the time of their invention, power looms, railways and aeroplanes would have been banned by law. Many considered it against the laws of God that man should try to travel faster than a horse could gallop, or a ship could sail. It wasn't natural, they said. If we use commonsense we know that counting heads is not the way to discover either truth or wisdom.

In these days when politicians clamour for large parliamentary majorities, we must remember the worst form of dictatorship has often been a so-called democratic government with an absolute majority. Hitler and Mussolini both had majorities behind them.

When a political party insists that all members vote according to party aims rather than personal principles, it is not being democratic but dictatorial. When the party in power is forced to listen to the good commonsense of an informed minority, dictatorial control is prevented.

The Letter Box

Dear Sir:

It was brought to my attention that in your editorial section "The Letter Box" (Jan. 4/68) a person by the name of Henry Hawkins wrote an article on magpie poisoning.

The magpie has its place in nature. Its numbers fluctuate as enough they go through a definite cycle. Their diet does not entirely depend on bird's eggs or young. They act as scavengers, woodland destroyers, and insect destroyers (the consumption in magpie stomachs). So however have some nasty habits. Poisoning is by no means the way to destroy them. It is a rough way to die. The article states that they were costly. This depends on what you use as materials. There are many simple and inexpensive traps which can be made. One type of trap has caught over 30 magpies in a single day. The Great Horned Owl kills large quantities of magpies through the winter.

I notice that Mr Hawkins is a lover of songbirds. I wonder how much so. A poisoned magpie most very costly creeps a chain reaction. Chickadees, woodpeckers, jays, etc. will often break into the magpie and feed off the stomach contents. Poison, no matter what kind it is, will kill all these songbirds. Let nature control the magpie; it is not up to man. If populations need controlling poison is not the answer. There are just too many after-effects.

In many areas throughout Alberta it is not the magpie threatening our songbirds and other birds but the domestic cat. I would advise controlling it.

—Michael J. Hampson.

DEPRESSION CORNER

Is depression just around the proverbial corner? If not, why all the gloomy speculations about 1968? If not, then why all the tightening up of money and all the precautionary measures by governments on further lavish spending? Does some one know something or is someone just trying to throw a scare into us all? Or does all this talk simply mean that for once our leaders have smartened up and and are going to prevent another depression by taking steps early enough to avoid a big crash?

Wheat prices are down. Wheat sales are reduced and harder to make. There is an expected decline in the manufacturing sector of the country. The government is gradually pulling out of the house building business in the hope that more private investment will be made in the area. Will private investors respond and take up the slack? Unions continue to make demands for higher returns for less work. The private and personal spending is down and it appears as though it will continue to decline with the warnings and scares being issued from all sectors of the business world.

There are some factors which will help prevent a depression. The majority of our population today has not gone through the depression of the "dirty thirties" so they aren't afraid of one, not realizing that such is possible. Those who did experience that depression are prepared to do everything they can to avoid another. Many people are better prepared to cope with the evils of a depression now than were the people faced with the market crash of 1929.

On the whole, whether a depression comes or not, we would all be wise to gear ourselves to be content with a slower and steady growth rather than an attempt to build up our capital all in one lump. If a depression is just around the corner, we could help the situation by trying to make it a long slow curve instead of a sharp right-angle corner.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

The Liberal Circus!

OTTAWA — The noisy gathering of Western Liberals in Winnipeg on the weekend of January 21st marked the turning point in the campaign to elect Canada's 19th Prime Minister in 10 years.

From now until the last ballot is counted in Ottawa's new Civic Centre in the late afternoon or evening of April 6th, the country will be caught up in a furious contest for its biggest political prize.

Within a few days, all the candidates for Mr. Pearson's chief office as party leader and Prime Minister will have shrugged off their unbecoming shyness and declared themselves openly.

As matters stand, at least 8 of the possible 10 runners will be in the race served, and indeed still serve in the Pearson cabinet. They will be under a severe strain to carry on their ministerial responsibilities and campaign across the country at the same time.

They will also be subject to the greatest temptation to declare their differences on current government policy as well as the direction in which they would head the party and the country if elected.

Already several ministers have admitted to differing views on the question of Medicare, a matter on which Parliament has long since passed judgement and which it will be difficult to reverse.

Transport Minister Hellyer was the first among the cabinet men to indicate reasons why Medicare should perhaps be deferred once more, although he did not actually call for deferral.

No doubt those reasons, shared by an increasing number of people, are being looked at by the cabinet now as it once again reconsiders Medicare timing in the light of the issues of the next provinces and the Canadian financial and balance of payments position.

His view is shared by Eric Kierans, whose role as an outsider, a former Quebec Provincial Minister, but never a member of the House of Commons, could help him to speak out without inhibition.

A few days after Mr. Hellyer indicated his feelings, Trade Minister Winters announced he would not participate in the leadership race and made noises about fiscal integrity similar to being for going ahead with Medicare on time.

Although he didn't name any names, it was obvious that he was referring to Finance Minister Sharp and his predecessor in that portfolio, Privy Council President Walter Gordon. They were the men, the only men, to be held directly responsible for the mounting budget deficits of the Liberal Government since it took office in 1963.

But Mr. Winters too, like Mr. Hellyer and other cabinet leadership candidates must bear fringe responsibility for the accumulative these unbalanced budgets have created. And if any seriously disapproved of what was going on, their duty was to resign.

But while the public is entitled to assume that by staying in the Government they accepted these policies, this does not necessarily mean those were the policies they themselves would have followed if they had been the Prime Minister or the particular Minister concerned.

The possibility of an open split in the cabinet on key policy must be worrying to Prime Minister Pearson, who has to bear the load of governing the country for another 2 1/2 months while his team players squabble over which one will succeed him.

But Mr. Pearson really has no one to blame for the situation but himself. He chose, after all, his method of departing, and the timing was his own as well.

He complicated matters further by declining to offer any guidance, either privately or publicly, as to his personal choice for a successor.

The only clues that could be drawn from his timing and method of resigning were that they indicated personal disapproval of the one-time rival Paul Martin, who has been actively seeking the top post for more years than Mr. Pearson himself has served in the Commons.

It's a good bet, in fact, that the Prime Minister would prefer to see Justice Minister Trudeau take over. But he may have doubts, as Mr. Trudeau himself may have doubts, that he can win. Consequently he will have it up to the convention itself to decide.

This is perfectly valid reasoning, but it makes it more difficult for the candidates to avoid open scrapping that reflects no credit on the government as it means.

Some observers have suggested that the campaign might be made more lively if the contenders were to resign their portfolios until the issue is decided.

But this idea is rather impractical since it would mean that other inexperienced men would have to take over, and the Monin duty if they already occupy another portfolio in the Pearson administration.

The best answer seems to be that all the Minister-candidates will have to carry on in their jobs, saving their campaigning for evenings and weekends when they can get away from the office.

It's not an ideal arrangement, particularly since Parliament is to be sitting during most of the campaign period. But Mr. Pearson, as a gesture to bolster government efficiency as well as to ease the task of the candidates, might well seek opposition cooperation in calling an early recess.

Conservative leader Robert Stanfield has already indicated he would not oppose such a proposal. The Tories were able to sort out their problems during a similar recess last year, and should have no objection in the Liberals following the same course.

County Council

The minutes of the Workman's Compensation Board Safety Committee held on November 7, 1967 and January 3, 1968 were read and approved.

A summary of Municipal accidents occurring in 1967 were compiled by the said committee and were reported in the above mentioned minutes.

The Secretary informed the Council that last October a request had been made to the Minister of Municipal Affairs and Education to have Sections 13 and 34, Twp. 44, Rge. 18 W transferred from the Municipal District of Flagstaff to the Municipal District of Flagstaff to the Municipality was forwarded that the Council were not in favor of having the said sections transferred from the district giving reasons therefor.

Since then the Chief Municipal Inspector of Dept. of Municipal Affairs has stated that the applications had been referred to the Minister of Education and Municipal Affairs who have recommended that the proposed transfer be not approved at this time.

A circular letter was received from the General Manager, Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation, advising that the interest rate on all debentures purchased by the said Corporation will be 7% per annum, effective January 1, 1968. He further advised that the new interest rate of 7% will apply to all applications which are processed by them on and after January 1, 1968, even though the authorizing by-law may have been passed by local authorities prior to that date.

Another comment made by the writer was that it would be advisable to state in all new by-laws an interest rate not to exceed 8% per annum.

Mr J. D. Edwerthy, Manager of Jubilee Insurance Agencies Ltd., in his letter requested to advise him as to when the Council wishes him to attend a meeting to discuss the recommendations on insurance coverage for the ensuing year. Arrangements have already been made that a committee consisting of the Reeve, Deputy Reeve and Chairman of the School Committee meet the Manager, Mr Edwerthy, and the insurance broker handling insurance on all school properties on Tuesday, January 30th.

The appointment of a Municipal Constable for the County of Flagstaff was discussed and considered by the Council. The revenue and expenditure of the police section was also reviewed.

Moved that Mr Paul Vandewoude be appointed as Chief Municipal Constable for the County of Flagstaff No 28 for the year 1968.

In reference to the Constable's salary, the Council agreed to deal with his salary at the time when salary and wages are considered for all County employees.

The report of Constable Paul Vandewoude for the month of December was read and approved.

Mr V. Olsen of Forestburg was appointed as Assistant Municipal Constable for six months on the same terms as in previous years.

The Council were advised that the Annual Meeting of the Association of Municipal Police will be held on January 22, 1968 in the Centennial Room of the Mountain View Hotel at Rocky Mountain House Constable Paul Vandewoude had indicated that he would like to attend this meeting with Council's permission.

ACTION ON INFLATION URGED

MONTREAL, Quebec — Rigorous government action against inflation and a calm, objective approach to Canadian unity were called for by G. Arnold Hart, chairman and chief executive officer of the Bank of Montreal at the bank's 130th annual meeting.

"Unnecessarily expansive policies" by governments at all levels are adding "fuel to the fire" of inflation — Canada's single "most immediate and pressing problem," Mr Hart said. He noted that while government spending rose by an average of 6 per cent a year in the early 1950's, the rate of increase had risen to 10 per cent by 1966.

This extra demand pressure on an economy already close to its limits of real growth potential "made little economic sense".

"And surely it makes even less economic sense in the circumstances of today to be running deficits on the scale to which our governments have committed themselves as a result of attempting to do too much too fast. In the process, they have further fanned the flames of inflation," Mr Hart stated.

Shareholders also heard J. Leonard Walker, senior executive vice-president and general manager, report a record year's business, with new high levels in assets, loans, deposits and earnings at Oct. 31.

The game ended with a 5 to 4 victory for the Indians, after coming from behind a 2 to 1 score.

Make Love Not War!

The make love not war theme has been highly publicized as slogan of the so-called Hippie generation. From what we have been able to read, learn, hear and observe, it would probably be more accurate to reverse the slogan and be more realistic.

First of all we must respect the opinion of a reporter who spent a week with some of these weirdos, not for kicks, but to observe what they did and why they did it. He found that all is not love and peace; that there is a continual war going on to see who will be the leader in various groups, and strife is a continuing thing having become a way of life. Their so-called plea for love does not go beyond realm of sex, and in fact, their hearts and minds are filled with resentment and hate toward society. They have withdrawn. But the true fact is that they have failed to come up with any answers, and while they blame society for today's problems, they fail utterly in doing anything about the situation. Instead they goof off with LSD, smoke pot, chant weird unmusical songs and waste away their bodies and minds in unseemly and inhuman orgies of sex experiences and drug experiments. The reporter told of one girl, 14 years of age, who slept in a bed beneath an unbelievable mess of garbage, her mind so ruined that she could not speak five intelligible words in a row. What are they trying to prove? Why don't they stop blaming society and do something themselves to better conditions? Why are they this way? This of course leads to another angle.

Father Instinct Gone!

It has been shown that only a small percentage of the Hippies are the true thing; that most of these young people are going along simply for the ride. It is not only that they want kicks, but that they have found dissatisfaction in their homes and resentment of the double standards set by their adult parents and friends. Most of these young drop-outs have come from broken homes with parents who have not "practiced what they preached". In most cases, the father, the traditional "master" of the home has opted out on his responsibilities or let them be usurped by the female partner.

Man was created first and woman followed from him, and until fathers get back into the position of true provider, guider and in fact "master" in their homes, society can expect nothing better from young people than the present feeling of being lost in a world where spiritual values have been relegated to a secondary position. Young people, for the most part, want guidance, wise council whispered in their ears, and if they cannot get this from their fathers they will seek and find wrong advise from those who have already located the road to degradation. Unless this comes about soon the ranks of the Hippies will continue to swell with resentful young people who basically have the potential for much better things.

Is It A Magic Age?

Somehow and in some way we have lost sight of the old tradition that a man to be a man had to be 21 years of age. While we do not argue here the merits of such an attitude and believe that many at 18 are as "sharp" as others at 21, we wonder if 18 is not becoming the magical age, when parents are expected to perform all the requirements of manhood and womanhood. We heard a young fellow say recently that he was qualified in the minds of government to don military equipment and go to war. He questioned the fact that he couldn't vote, couldn't hold certain offices and above all couldn't enter liquor premises. He didn't question the fact that reliable, sound business people rather resent hiring anybody with "way out" ideas, hair hanging all over their faces, and a built-in resentment toward society; people who ask how much the pay is and how little work they are expected to do; who won't do what they are told to do, or do a half job of it; people who watch the clock instead of the job at hand. We have no objection to 18 being the magical age when a boy becomes a man or a girl a woman, but we do insist that if this is to be, the 18 year old must give up boyish and girlish ideas and acts of conduct and really become men and women. If they are not prepared to do this we better leave the magic age at 21. On the other hand when an 18-year-old shows maturity, the adult world should accept them as such and treat them as such. Only thus will the twain ever meet.

Fifty-Eighth Year of Service

by A. W. K.

The editorial columns this week contain something about fathers and the responsibilities they have. Not much was said about women, and so here's a choice piece to brighten the lives of the females.

Perhaps somewhere in the world there may be a woman who is absolutely truthful and thoroughly unselfish, who is full of the tenderest sympathy for the suffering of others, who is logical and reasonable in all things, who would never stoop to deception, who knows nothing of vanity nor envy, who is able to wield counsel and assist her husband in business, who detests extravangance, who knows how to manage her home and bring up her children with discretion and ability, who is not jealous of her husband's lady friends, and who is incapable of saying a mean thing. There may be a woman such as that, somewhere, but if there is she could never hope to find a husband who would be worthy of her.

It may be ludicrous to go from women to weather but in some ways the two have things in common. The weather in January has been varied, going from the one extreme to the other, and when this happens women do the same thing. During the January warm spell female gadding was the order of the day and many a man prepared his own supper When the cold snap hit and everything froze up, so did the visiting and the difference in the home was amazing. Well, guess it's a good North Wind that blows somebody good.

GETTING RID OF THE JUNK

Every house or some time or another has to decide and stand firm on what toys, junk, keepsakes and mementoes it is going to keep, for just so long can the superthoms be allowed to accumulate.

We have seen things at first glance one would term extras, get out needed and yet, within due time be cherished for some thing or another.

The situation often requires a bit of imagination (and a hell of a lot of room).

But on looking back it is kind of a sentimental nostalgia that one gets when he sees the rocker, or the playthings that the home's 21 year old used to use.

Well it does saving junk is kind of a habit, but one that carries with it a certain responsibility to see that what is saved will please someone.

Otherwise, throw it out — and for and for good.

—Rushaw Star.

SHOULD SHOW GRATITUDE

The United States quelled the invasion of Southern Korea through the prevailing of sufficient armed forces which, along with the support of other democratic nations, prevented that small nation from being overran by the "reds".

We would suggest that a similar situation exists in Vietnam. The invasion was from the north, dominated by a communist government, into the south which had decided against communism. The United States guaranteed the freedom of South Vietnam and moved in when the invasion from the north began. That fact is lost sight of in the midst of the storm of worldwide criticism against the United States.

If North Vietnam would stop the invasion of the south the war would be over. But critics of the U.S.A. do not seem to think of that.

We have no use for the slackers who cross into Canada from the south. And the mobs who storm against U.S.A. embassies in Canada and elsewhere should think of what American armed forces did for freedom in two world wars.

But gratitude never was a virtue among human beings.

Centre Stage!

OTTAWA — Pierre Elliot Trudeau drives a fast sports car.

At 46, he's a judo expert, a man of letters.

Occasionally in the House of Commons, where he is Minister of Justice, he has appeared in casual clothes. Ascot tie and sandals. He is often seen in the company of fetching young females.

Trudeau is healthy, wealthy, and a bachlor — qualities that Manpower Minister Marchand says the next Prime Minister should have.

The Justice Minister is not a candidate to succeed Lester Pearson as Liberal leader and Prime Minister — not yet.

But a happy concert of circumstances could propel him into the job.

Bi-lingual, with a superb command of English and French, Trudeau is a free-thinking Liberal with a grasp of contemporary issues and an intellect that spans the modern world.

And what puts him at centre stage just now — constitutional reform in Canada — is the same thing that suddenly makes him a desirable and credible candidate for the leadership.

Trudeau is the Federal Minister closest to the issue of constitutional reform, generally regarded as Canada's number one problem.

He has been totally absorbed in the problem for months and will carry the main burden of the Federal cause at the Federal-Provincial conference on the Constitution beginning February 5th. In this work he has shown himself to be a tough, rational, innovating defender of Canadian federalism.

The constitutional conference will be Prime Minister Pearson's last major performance in office. He has said that the conference "will begin the process of reshaping the Constitution".

Mr Pearson will begin the process. But the man who succeeds him will continue it, continue the negotiations with provincial leaders to create a new kind of Canada.

The grand lines of the task are already fairly apparent.

The Federal position, already approved by the Cabinet under Mr Pearson, begins with a call for implementation of the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism.

From there it proposes a constitutional Bill of Rights, binding all governments to protect the fundamental rights of Canadians as individuals and citizens.

Next come binding negotiations on how specific responsibilities such as social welfare, criminal law, education, international relations, should be divided or shared between the Federal and Provincial Governments.

Quebec will come to the conference with a coherent program for a grand decentralization. It sees implementation of the B and B report as a minimum first step. This would be followed by transfers of tax resources to the provinces, and by full or partial transfers of jurisdiction over social welfare, broadcasting, regional development, manpower, health, immigration and certain aspects of international relations.

Ontario is preparing to adapt the language recommendation of the B and B Commission. But like Quebec, it seeks additional tax sources, new and radical forms of Federal institutions, expanded autonomy in fiscal and economic matters and more freedom to act its own spending and taxing priorities.

The Western provinces, while supporting the cause of provincial autonomy, are sympathetic to the language regime prescribed by the B and B report.

The Atlantic provinces will want assurances that provincial autonomy does not affect the Federal ability to redistribute income and support high standards of social and education services in the poorer provinces.

At the Dictatory conference, the time for windy dissertations about the nature of the nation, about provincial and federal rights, will be past.

It is a time for tough and binding negotiations on specifics. Trudeau says it's time for a showdown.

If the provinces want a new constitution, they have to be prepared to bind themselves to the grand decisions. This is not an open-minded negotiation. Constitutions are not made for a day or a year. They are made to last and they are deliberately made difficult to change.

A new constitution cannot be made on the basis of the attempt to find formulas for smoothing the constitution in Canada. The last such attempt, the Fulton-Favreau formula, was first unanimously accepted by all governments and then suddenly rejected by the former Quebec Premier, Jean Lesage.

"This is the idea of Munich", says Mr Trudeau, grimly suggesting that there will be no future Munichs in negotiations with the provinces. Governments within Confederation will have to be bound by the constitution which is the basis of all law.

No one pretends it is going to be easy to solve the problem of [illegible] in Canada. But it has to be solved.

Mr Pearson has raised the question — What kind of country will this be, and how will it be governed?

More and more people are concluding that Pierre Trudeau has the answer.

THANK YOU MOTHER NATURE

There's one thing that brings people together and makes them forget, for a few hours at least, all their normal rotten little troubles. That is a good smash in the midriff from that gentle old lady, Mother Nature.

Whether it's fire or flood, blizzard or drought, a blunt reminder every so often from Old Mother Nature is a salutary effect on the perpetually whining denizens of the twentieth century.

This time it was that "cold snap" in January. I like that term. It's a typical Canadian understatement.

And we delight in it, as we do at barn fires, heat spells, terrible thunderstorms, beautiful autumns and three-foot snowfalls. It's peculiarly Canadian, and it reminds us all become human again. If only until it's over.

People who normally trudge around with a face like an old rubber boot, people who wouldn't be caught dead in a ditch together, are shouting. "Isn't that a brute of a day?"

And even the domestic problems abate. The other night, it was 32 below zero. My wife is always saying that she might as well leave unless I can "Show some understanding." Kim customarily threatens to run away to Vancouver and become a hippie. I spread the door and said "goodbye chaps." Eighteen second later, they were upstairs, watching TV.

Then there's Mrs. H. Once in a while, she nudges us back to normal, even though the nudge knocks the wind out of us.

Power Toboggans And Coyote Control

Anyone who is planning to hunt coyotes with a power toboggan should be wise to Small Game First Aid an R.M.C.P. official, a wildlife officer or some other authority of the law, advises J. S. Corbe, head of the Crop Protection and Pest Control Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

He points out that there seems to be some confusion on the legal status of power toboggans from the point of view of coyote hunting. Although recent changes in the Vehicle and Highway Traffic Act require power toboggans to be licensed, the licenses are primarily for identification purposes. The power toboggan is not classed as a vehicle for travel on highways, roads, streets, etc.

On the other hand, the Game Act classifies the power toboggan as a vehicle and states that is illegal to have a loaded firearm in, or on, any kind of vehicle, or to discharge a firearm from any kind of vehicle

Rat News Good

Another year of all-out warfare against the Norway rat in Alberta has ended in success!

J. B. Corbi, head of the Crop Protection and Pest Control Branch of the provincial Department of Agriculture, stresses that the tremendous support and co-operation received from the public has been responsible for Alberta having completed its 16th consecutive year as a rat-free province.

Alberta's program is based on extermination, not just control, says Mr Corbi. Measures to rats were found on the 3,140 premises, including farms and grain elevators, that were simultaneously treated last year, they were promptly exterminated. Residents, past control officers and other supervisors automatically revisited rats which managed to burrow through the 19 mile fence separating from Montana in Cold Lake. The cooperative rat control program then exists between Saskatchewan and Alberta has, undoubtedly, played an important part in reducing the number of rat infested premises in Alberta from 215 in 1956 to only 138 last year.

Mr Corbi says many rats were eradicated in 1967 by a band of bait stations located along our eastern border. Almost 17,500 pounds of Warfarin were bait were used in the province last year to kill an estimated 35,000 rats.

Of the 137 cases of rats suspected of having penetrated Alberta through transport facilities and cargo, further investigation showed that only two were live rats. Such local problems, says Mr Corbe, are capably handled by the local pest control officers, appointed by rural and urban municipalities.

Old Age Security

Since its introduction in 1952, the Old Age Security pension has been of inestimable value to thousands of elderly Canadians. When first instituted the program provided a flat-rate payment for persons 70 years of age and over, but later payments are made to those who have reached their sixty-seventh birthdays. In addition to age, length of residence in Canada is the only other qualification necessary to receive the pension. Each month more than $322 million is paid to Old Age Security pensioners numbering more than one and a quarter million.

If you have any questions concerning Old Age Security contact the Regional Director for Old Age Security in the capital city of your province or write the Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa.

Economist

Spandex is a family name which designates pure synthetic elastomeric fibers. They evolved for two main reasons: first as a master of economics, and secondly as a property possessed qualities that natural rubber did not. By economics I am referring to the transport of raw materials and all of you are familiar with rubber's undesirable qualities for use in transport apparel, namely with regard to perspiration and, thus, comfort.

By definition, spandex yarns are elastic, that is they are elastomers and retract or recover after stretching, thus giving a positive support to the body of the wearer when used in girdles, elastic belts, elasticized hose and other articles of wearing apparel. LYCRA and VYRENE are the two most familiar trade names on the consumer [illegible]

In many of their uses, the spandex yarns will overlap the so-called stretch yarns which give with the body, but which do not exert any positive support. Examples of this, of course, are BAN-LON, MELANCA, CANTRECE and other stretch-yarns, most of which are nylon.

The highly elastic spandex fibres are polyurethane in filament form. Polyurethane also enters the textile world in the form of a solid foam. This material is used in weaving apparel in the form of "foam laminates". When attached or laminated to a fibre surface, the polyurethane foam acts as an insulating layer and is commonly used in outerwear fabrics for winter. Permanent press is presently applied to textiles are: NOPLOFOAM, SCOTT-FOAM and CURON.

Spandex fibres are not available for home sewing. Few ready-made articles are made of 100% spandex yarn. Any percentage figure refers to the percentage of spandex in the portion of the garment in which it [illegible]

Wash in warm water by hand and drip dry. Articles can be dried by machine, but only with low temperature settings. Avoid chlorine bleaches.

About 60% of the body is water. All the processes on which life depends, take place in fluid—digestion of food, carrying food and oxygen to the cells, building and excretion of protoplasm and removal of waste.

Baptist Church

Last Wednesday evening the regular Bible Study and Prayime featured Miss Annete Bjerkseth, a missionary from Columbia. She show ed slides and spoke about her experiences in Columbia, where she has been for the last 20 years. It was interesting to hear of her experiences and the work that she is doing under the Evangelical Church of South America.

The young people of the church appreciated the invitation of the First Baptist in Camrose last Friday night; as they journeyed to Camrose for a time of fellowship and skating, followed by lunch and fellowship. A good time was had by all who attended.

Sunday morning the sermon was entitled "The Greatest Sermon Ever Preached" which was an introduction to a series on the Beatitudes. Sunday evening the young people of the church shared in the service. Following this the pastor spoke on youth today in the sermon entitled "Dear People I Live With".

Thought for the Week: "God sees tomorrow more clearly than we see yesterday; let Him lead!"

C.P.R. Officials Discuss Closing Stations Along Local Rail Line

monton Division, spent most of last week meeting with officials of the towns and villages along the local railway line to familiarize them with the application made by the C.P.R. to close out all stations and remove the agents in this section of the Division. Mr McBeth was accompanied by three other officials who explained how express and freight would be handled under the proposed new set-up.

Under the proposed application, which is expected to be heard and a decision of C.P.R. officials, led by Mr H. C. McBeth, Supt. of the Edmonton Division, will be closed. In this area the only point not being included is Hardisty, which is in the Saskatoon Division.

As outlined by Mr McBeth, an agent or representative would be hired in each point to handle incoming and outgoing express. He would be expected to establish and maintain a building suitable to care for perishable and freezable goods, make deliveries and handle all express as is now being done. Carlot shipments would be handled by local elevator agents as far as grain is concerned, while other shipments will be arranged by phone to Divisional Headquarters in Edmonton

All questions, handling of telegrams and other matters will be arranged by Agent Zenith in Edmonton without charge. Mr McBeth claimed that the service will be improved, speeded up and the public better served under the new system, because computerized machines will sort out matters and get action started much sooner than under the present conventional system

An inquiry will be held, probably sometime in March, at which time any and all questions will be heard, protests dealt with and the public given an opportunity to express its feelings as the matter

In all probability, according to Mr McBeth, the present stations will be sold, torn down or otherwise removed from the C.P.R. premises, and the land made available for lease to interested people or firms

The Community Press

"Independent, But Not Necessarily Neutral, In The Public Service"
Established on July 16th, Nineteen Hundred and Eight

One Out Of Eight!

In the past 100 years the proportion - of civil servants employed in Canada has risen from one out of every 100 working people to one out of every eight. In the same period government spending has risen from five per cent of the country's total annual output of wealth to 32 per cent.

These are startling figures, but they may be taken as accurate. They were included in a speech made by John J. Deutsch, former chairman of the Economic Council of Canada and now principal of Queen's University, to the Institute of Public Administration.

The civil service is now so big, Dr. Deutsch went on, that it requires more and more of its activities simply to hold itself together. Private business, when it is free and competitive, has "features which promote efficiency and reduce waste," but government operations often achieve quite the opposite. Because there is no profit motive involved in the operation of governments, they often lose sight of efficient practices.

"Today's needs call for new structures, new administrative methods, new social forms and new types of decentralization," Dr. Deutsch said, "The fact of the matter is that neither our governments nor our public services generally are well organized for the careful co-ordination of policies or programs."

The Toronto Star put Dr. Deutsch's warning in this nutshell: "Canada's booming bureaucracy is in danger of becoming so big—and so rudderless—it could bankrupt the country. The civil service is becoming a mammoth stumbledrum with an outlook so narrow it could produce economic havoc. —C.J.H.

Case For Breathalyzer Tests!

During 1965, there were 4,879 persons slaughtered on Canada's highways, according to THE CUP THAT KILLS, an article in The Canadian Motorist.

Canadian authorities estimate that close to half of our traffic fatalities are a direct result of drinking and driving. In two other highly mobilized countries Britain and United States, figures show that from 56 to an astounding 68 per cent of traffic accidents can be blamed on the drinking driver.

Why are we so complacent about drinking and driving? Of twenty-five countries reporting to the World Health Organization, Canada leads the way with traffic deaths 25.3 per 100,000 people.

Something is necessary to stir us from such dangerous lethargy. One way would be to make the breathalyzer test compulsory everywhere in Canada. So far, only Canadians living in British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan are compelled by law to submit to the breathalyzer test. Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and Quebec are considering similar legislation. Ontario with her great concentration of traffic is lagging behind in putting an approval theory into action.

It had been suggested that such a test is an invasion of personal rights, but is it really? Is it a violation of rights when a policeman searches a suspect for theft or interrogates a murder suspect? We would regard such action as protecting the rights of all others. What about the rights of other drivers on the highway?

Safety campaigns have no effect on the drunk driver . . . he is invariably hostile and self-destructive.

We won't make any progress until we view the intoxicated driver for what he is . . . a potential murderer.

Are We Changing?

Very often the picture that some carry of Protestants is one of Bible thumping anti-catholics who mount attacks with great regularity on the Church of Rome. How true is it? No one could honestly say it has never been true, nor, for that matter, could you say that there has never been any anti-protestantism in the Church of Rome. Of course there has. But times are changing.

The fact is that a new age has dawned. We are all finding that for Christians to be against each other is foolish. The Parish of St. Louis-de France, a new French Catholic congregation being formed in Toronto, discovered that many of the old ideas about Protestants must be revised. They have been worshipping regularly in a United Church, Parkwoods United Church in Don Mills, until they are able to build a church of their own.

Catholics saying Mass in a Protestant Church? Father John, the Priest in charge of the parish says, "We are very happy with the arrangement, we feel that we are welcome, and it is working out very well."

Of course both the United Church people and the members of the Parish of St. Louis-de France have to make sure that they get to church at the right time. There are three Masses and two United Church services each Sunday. Some have come at the wrong time! Rev. Campbell, the United Church Minister, is even getting used to being called Father! Well, he does have two boys.

ABOUT MOST ANYTHING

by A. W. E.

A recent study by the National Industrial Conference Board reveals some very interesting statistics about the standard of living of workers in the United States compared to those in Russia. The figures for Canada would be roughly comparable to those of the U.S.A. If we take as a measure of living standards what a man can buy with what he earns or, conversely, how much earning time it takes to purchase certain things, we find that:

1 — An American worker must work for 17 minutes to purchase a pound of butter — a Russian worker must work for 2 1/4 hours

2 — A Russian worker, to purchase a pair of nylon stockings, must work for 5 hours — an American worker, only half an hour.

3 — For a pound of sugar, an American works only 3 minutes, but a Russian has to work for three quarters of an hour.

4 — To obtain a pair of men's shoes, a Russian works for 41 hours, compared to an American who works for something over six hours.

5 — A pound of bread requires a Russian to work for 25 minutes while an American puts in only six minutes labour for it.

These are eloquent comparisons rather than statistics of living under two different ideologies, and the figures cited are for comparison with Russia. Although the Russians have made significant gains in living standards since 1960, life there is obviously still hard and unrewarding — a far cry from the Utopia of the proletariat which the revolution was supposed to create 50 years ago. Chambers of Commerce across Canada are dedicated to support of the competitive enterprise system which has created our high living standards

The Letter Box

The Editor,
The Sedgewick Community Press
Sedgewick, Alberta.

It has recently come to the attention of our Branch that rebanns by the town mails in this province have, on occasion, mentioned the ethnic or racial identity of individuals involved with the law in certain cases in which those individuals happened to be members of native minority groups.

In view of the fine co-operation extended by the news media to our Branch in its work of forwarding the principle that every person is equal in dignity and rights without regard to race, religious beliefs, color, ancestry, or place of origin, we are satisfied that this practice is more than merely a matter of oversight rather than deliberate policy. It is with this in mind that you are encouraged to bring this matter to your attention.

For even though the intent in citing a person's racial origin may not be discriminatory, the fact is that other than for an Indian or Metis, the individual's racial origin is not usually mentioned except where essential to the news story. And we know you will understand how such an approach, inadvertently adopted by the news media on occasion, may tend to reinforce the negative stereotypes of the Indian or Metis already entertained by certain segments of the public, and, at the same time, discourage the coop-operation of responsible white people in assisting members of our Indian and Metis population to take their full and rightful place in society.

We thank you, then, for your attention to this matter; and look forward to your continued support of our program in days to come. —H. C. French, Administrator.

★ MACDUFF REPORT

Through the Ceiling!

OTTAWA — A ceiling interest rate on N.H.A. insured mortgages has become so much an integral part of the Government Housing Program that it is taking a good deal of courage on the part of the new Minister in charge of housing to move towards its abolition.

In its early stages at least the National Housing Act was a small man's law if not a poor man's law. It was social legislation designed to put home ownership within the grasp of the man earning $5,000 a year or even less.

With the payment of a nominal premium he was put in the position of being able to borrow a hitherto unheard of proportion of the cost of his house and land and over a term which made his monthly payments little more than he would pay in rent. And, to assist, the Government controlled interest rate was an important part of this low borrowing cost.

The 44-year-old President of the Treasury Board, the Ho... E. J. Benson, has a streak of toughness in his nature and certainly is not lacking in courage. He will almost certainly carry the day but not without some persuasive effort in the direction of politically more timid Cabinet colleagues.

He will have some strong arguments. The Government has been fighting a losing battle against rising costs and against rising interest rates. N.H.A. mortgage terms have been made successively more generous and in an effort to maintain a flow of mortgage money there have been massive injections of public funds.

But it has learned that even for governments the well can run dry. It can neither beg, borrow nor tax. By raising the N. H.A. interest rate ceiling last October to the legal maximum it succeeded in smoking out more private funds. But by the same token it has made an interest rate ceiling on N.H.A. loans meaningless. The interest rate ceiling rate on insured mortgages at 8 1/2 per cent conventional mortgages are obtainable at 8 1/2 to 9 per cent.

Only a November 1959 the going rate for conventional mortgages was about 7 1/4 per cent and the N.H.A. ceiling was 6 1/4 per cent.

These two widest gaps in recent history between the N.H.A. ceiling and the going rate on conventional loans diverted too large a proportion of individual funds into the latter, making it very difficult for the prospective home owner to borrow. In both cases the N.H.A. ceiling was meaningless.

At the end of 1966 it was decided to adjust the N.H.A. ceiling at the beginning of each quarter at least 1 1/2 per cent above the average yield on long term government bonds. In October of last year this would have meant a ceiling rate of 7 1/2 per cent but borrowers were ready to bid as high as nine and 10 per cent for mortgage money and the Government, with no money available for direct lending, had two choices. It could let housing activity slump back to the level of 1966 in face of growing shortages or it could close the gap between the N. H. A. and conventional mortgage interest rates.

The hike to 8 1/4 per cent in October had spectacular results in spite of gloomy predictions by some institutions that there was no money to lend at any price. In the second quarter of 1967 private lending had been running at an annual rate, adjusted to eliminate seasonal variation, of 6,000 units. In the third quarter this had risen to 11,000. Between October and December it rose to an annual rate of 71,200. In December always a poor month for mortgage lending, private lenders made applications for N.H.A. loans covering 3,779 units or three times the number for December 1966.

But, of course, the increase in the N.H.A. interest ceiling also eliminated an important benefit to the borrower in the form of the N.H.A. mortgage. Conventional mortgage loans vary but are usually for 25 years or less. The N.H.A. mortgage is usually for 25 years but Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation has the authority to lend and frequently does lend for terms up to 35 years.

An extension from 30 years to 35 years means a reduction in monthly payments of 8.4 per cent. Between 30 years and 40 years the monthly reduction drops to 2.6 per cent and for anything more than 40 years the advantage is less than one per cent.

For the lender the N.H.A mortgage has some advantages over the conventional. Administration costs tend to be lower. Today he has the added advantage of a market for buying and selling N.H.A. mortgages created and

Funeral Services Held in Killam on January 22nd for Magdelena Dammann

The Killam district was deeply saddened to hear of the passing of a very dear and wonderful person, when Mrs Magdelena Dammann passed away in the Royal Alexandra Hospital, Edmonton, after a long and lengthy illness. God called her home at the age of 68 years and one month, on January 18, 1968, when the family circle of 13 was broken.

Mrs Dammann was born in Eureka, South Dakota on the 19th of December, 1899. At the age of two years she moved with her parents to North Dakota, where they farmed until 1911. Later she stayed with her sister at Estuary, Sask., where she was united in marriage to Peter Frederick Dammann on the 9th of June, 1915. They lived with her sister for one year and then moved to Rudelda, Sask., where they farmed for 30 years. On Oct. 5th, 1945, they moved to the Killam district and farmed south of town until they built a home in Killam and retired.

She is survived by her husband Frederick; six sons and seven daughters George, Edward, Ernest, Gordon, Lawrence and Ann of Killam; Helen of Altario, Alberta; Irene of Lyden, Washington; Marie of Mission City, B.C.; Bill of Baytown, Texas; Ruby of Winnipeg, Man.; Dorothy and Shirley of Camrose; 37 grand children; a brother and sister; and many wonderful friends.

Mrs Dammann was a faithful church member and was very helpful in several ladies groups.

Her many friends and loved ones will always remember her endless smile and willing and helping hand.

Pallbearers were the five sons: George, Edward, Ernest, Gordon, Laurence and Peter Dammann, a grandson.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Foley Peterson in the United Church in Killam on January 24, 1968 at 2 p.m.

Parents' Guide On Sex Education

Parents and teachers who are disturbed by the so-called "new morality" may not find much comfort within these covers, as the author exposes the insincerity of at least four current attitudes towards morality with a considerable degree of objectivity. As Robertson Davies wisely observes in A Voice for the Attic, "We are in revolt against so many false and cruel moralities that great numbers of people rashly assume that there is no true morality". Laycock leaves us in no doubt.

He believes that pre-adolescence is the appropriate time to teach children the physiological facts of sex and this information is given in some detail. He views responsible sexual behaviour as a result of: (1) child-rearing practices which give the child feelings of security and adequacy; (2) an understanding not only of the physiological facts of reproduction but also of the part played by the physiological needs in determining sexual behaviour; and (3) the development in the child and adolescent of the principle of non-exploitation of others, respect for other individuals, and continuing concern for the welfare of others and society.

According to one of the reviewers, Dr. F. R. Wake, of the Department of Psychology at Carleton University, the most important thing about the book is that "sex education does not stand alone; it is treated as a part of family living and thus is seen in relation to other aspects of life. The writing is in low key, easy to read, almost conversational, and the content is based firmly on research in developmental and family life fields.

The book should prove valuable to many parents. Perhaps the greatest value might accure from offering it directly to teenagers — with family or other discussion to follow.

Reviewed by several health educators and medical people across Canada, the book is fast becoming one of the most important references for parents and teachers interested in the education and upbringing of children in matters of family life and sex education.

Information about the book, which sells for $2.00, is available from the Canadian Health Education Specialists Society, P.O. Box 2330, Station D, Ottawa, Ontario.

The Canadian Health Education Specialists Society announces the publication of a book entitled Family Living and Sex Education — A Guide for Parents and Youth Leaders.

Written by Dr. S. R. Laycock, formerly Dean of Education at the University of Saskatchewan, and one of Canada's leading educational philosophers, this book makes its appearance at a time when parental concern about family living and sex education is at its peak.

Boy Scout Week-Feb. 16-25

UNIQUE TESTAMENT OF BOY SCOUT FOUNDER

This week, February 18—25, the Boy Scouts dedicate themselves to the observance of National Boy Scout Week and more particularly to the memory of the man responsible for the birth of this great fraternal brotherhood — Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell.

On this occasion, as they celebrate the anniversary of his birthday (February 22), we record here the Chief Scout of the World's last message, found among his papers after his death.

"Dear Scouts:

"If you have ever seen the play 'Peter Pan' you will remember how the pirate chief was always haunted by the fear of the crocodile that had once had a piece of him, and the sound of the ticking clock inside it warned him that the crocodile was coming to get the rest of him.

"I have had a most happy life and I want each one of you to have as happy a life too.

"I believe that God put us in this jolly world to be happy and enjoy life. Happiness doesn't come from being rich, nor merely from being successful in your career, nor by self indulgence. One step towards happiness is to make yourself healthy and strong while you are a boy, so that you can be useful and can enjoy life when you are a man.

"Nature study will show you how full of beautiful and wonderful things God has made the world for you to enjoy. Be contented with what you have and make the best of it. Look on the bright side of things instead of the gloomy one.

GIVE HAPPINESS

"But the real way to get happiness is by giving out happiness to other people. Try to leave this world a little better than when you found it and when your turn comes to die, you can die happy in the feeling that at any rate you have not wasted your time, but have done your best. 'Be Prepared' in this way, to live happy and to die happy. Stick to your Scout Promise always — even after you have ceased to be a boy — and God help you do it.

Your friend, Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell."

MacDuff Report

encouraged by C.M.H.C. He need no longer keep his N.H.A. mortgage funds tied up for 25 years.

How much of these advantages the lender will be ready to pass on to the borrower in lower interest rates will depend of course on how much he wants his business. Re-entry of the chartered banks into the mortgage field, particularly with the N.H.A. ceiling now above 8 per cent, has increased competition.

In October, the first month of higher ceiling rate, 70 per cent of N.H.A. loans made by private lenders were at interest rates below the ceiling. In November this applied to 60 per cent of the loans. The borrower may be gaining a corner of the driver's seat.
